MERCED, Calif., Dec. 8 (AP).—Samuel J. Lopez, 26, a professional boxer who fought as Johnny Lopez, died Thursday night after being knocked out in a charity show.

Lopez, of Richmond, Calif., was knocked out in a preliminary bout. He died in hospital from a brain hemorrhage.

Lopez, at 128 pounds, was matched against Joe Madrid, 127, of Stockton, Calif., he was floored in the second round for a count of eight with a left to the midsection. Getting up, he threw one wild punch, which missed, then was knocked out with a short right to the chin.

Don Shields, chief inspector for the California Athletic Commission said Lopez' death was the first ring fatality in California since April, 1949. Then Billy Cornwall died following a bout in San Jose.

Belleville Whips Kingston Nylons

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 8—Sparked by their pepper line of Jack Wardhough, Johnny Green and Brian Mulvihill, who accounted for five goals, the Belleville Redmen defeated the Kingston Nylons, 6-3, in an OHA senior fixture in the Belleville Memorial Arena Wednesday night. The win marked the Redmen's third in their last four outings, and puts them within two points of the third-place Nylons in the loop standing.

After a fairly close first period, in which each team tallied once, the homesters took a 3-2 margin in the middle stanza, and then went on to outscore the visitors 3-1 in the final 20 minutes. The Redmen's third-period outbreak saw three goals scored in 47 seconds.

Referee was Herb Payns, of Peterborough.

Official Duties May Cause Duke To Quit British Navy

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON — (AP) — The Duke of Edinburgh, a born sailor who married into the Royal Family three years ago, is hearing that for a man in his position it's about time to quit the sea and settle down.

The sea-going Duke resumed his duties in the Royal Navy soon after his marriage to Princess Elizabeth in Westminster Abbey on Nov. 20, 1947. This year, promoted to lieutenant-commander, he took command of the frigate Magpie.

Prince Philip has been in Mediterranean waters most of the time since his marriage, returning to England only on leaves.

In the meantime Royal responsibilities in London have been increasing and there is a feeling that as the prospective consort of a Queen he should be drawn more closely into court affairs.

This feeling was expressed most frankly by the Times, which observed: "It would seem that the Duke cannot much longer be spared, even to the Royal Navy, for whole-time Royal duties. The House of Edinburgh is becoming more and more indispensable as an indivisible social unit—mother, father and children."

If he does return to take up the "whole-time Royal duties" the Times wants him to assume, the navy certainly will continue to be one of the 29-year-old Duke's major interests. It is taken for granted that in his privileged position the promotions will come regularly and that some day he will be an admiral, real or honorary.

Real Sailor

But Prince Philip and his friends find satisfaction in that as far as he has come up to now, he has earned his own way. The Duke served through the grades all the allotted years and his attainments in naval schools have been creditable.

The frigate Magpie is a trim ship, operated with high efficiency. On board the Duke delegates none of his work or responsibility.

However, even as a destroyer lieutenant, the Duke carried out functions which fall into the category of being "Royal" rather than naval. As the Chequers and the Magpie steamed about the Mediterranean on various assignments it was arranged to have the Duke step ashore for courtesy visits where Britain wished to keep relations warm.

Such calls were unofficial but, made by the husband of Princess Elizabeth, they nevertheless had results which pleased the foreign and colonial offices.

On this round of visits the Duke went to Cyprus, where he attended a cricket match and got a lot of cheers.

In Turkey he visited President Bayar, and at Amman he called on King Abdullah of the Hashemite kingdom of Jordan. He paid his respects in Egypt and went to Athens aboard his own Magpie to see his cousin, King Paul of Greece.

A lieutenant-commander in a British frigate doesn't rate a cook, and his cabin is small, but he entertained King Paul and Queen Fredrika at dinner in his own quarters. It was an intimate occasion.

He visited Algiers and, on his wedding anniversary, he was preparing to fly to Gibraltar to open the colony's legislative council.

Next month he and Princess Elizabeth plan to make a visit to the King and Queen of Greece, travelling in separate ships. The Princess' ship, the dispatch vessel Surprise, will be escorted by the Duke's frigate.

All these journeys are squeezed in between stretches of routine naval duty and a few swift dashes to England and Scotland. Highlight of the Duke's year, undoubtedly, was the birth of his first daughter, Princess Anne, Aug. 15. He came to London on a regular leave between the time he was relieved as lieutenant on th Chequers and the day he took over the Magpie.

The Duke has retained his interest in sports and he is extremely active, often at long distance, as president of the National Playing Fields Association.

DEFEAT AND RETREAT — Korean refugees watch as long columns of trucks move through clogged roads to bear UN troops southward in retreat from the mass Chinese Communist drive. As Red hordes rolled on to within 18 miles of Pyongyang, the former North Korean capital, UN forces pulled out in a "scorched earth" evacuation in which they blew up ammunition dumps and power installations in the city.

Funeral Held For Millionaire

NEW LISKEARD, Dec. 8 (CP) —Funeral services were held here Thursday for Leonard Hill, millionaire pioneer of this Northern Ontario community, who died in Montreal Monday night.

Factories and stores in this community of 5,000 closed for two hours during the afternoon in respect to Mr. Hill.

His death of a heart attack had spelled the end of a fabulous business career which is said to have started with a cement mixer.

Legend has it that Mr. Hill was made senior partner of the Hill, Clark, Francis Building Company in 1907 because he happened to own a cement mixer. He parlayed this into the presidency of a multi-million dollar construction, lumbering and manufacturing concern.

Born in Muskoka in 1879, he started work as a carpenter. He studied electrical and mechanical engineering and came north to seek his fortune in 1906. The following year he joined with John Clark and entered the contracting business. They were joined by R. F. Francis.

The construction company played its part in the growth of the North. Scarcely a village in Northern Ontario and Northwestern Quebec today does not have at least one building put up by the firm.

The plant in New Liskeard manufactures 100,000,000 board feet of lumber a year and has branch offices in all large northern communities.

Korean Vets To Get Jobless Benefits

OTTAWA, Dec. 8 — (CP) — The government announced Thursday that men who serve in special forces of the Canadian services will get unemployment insurance benefits to tide them over while they seek work after discharge.

All servicemen — army, navy and air force—now serving Canada in Korean or because of Korea are considered in a special force. Only the army's so-called special force, however, enlisted men specifically for the job.

The unemployment insurance announcement was made by Veterans Minister Gregg. He said the amount of payments will depend on the period of service.

The government will pay contributions on behalf of a person serving in the special forces for the whole period of his service up to a maximum of five years' contributions. Those contributions will include both the usual employer's and employee's contributions at a standard weekly rate of 48 cents each, entitling the veteran to a weekly benefit of $14.40, or $18.30 if he has a dependent.

Make It Up

If the contributions made on behalf of a veteran who has served three months or more, together with any contributions he made before he enlisted, are not sufficient to entitle him to 90 days benefit, the government will make up the necessary extra contributions. Thus, every veteran will be entitled to protection against unemployment for a least 90 days, providing he has served the minimum of three months in one of the special forces.

This is basically the same unemployment benefit protection as that provided for Second World War veterans.

Mrs. H. Graham WMS President

OMEMEE, Dec. 8 (ENS)—The December meeting of the United Church WMS had several significant features. The program was essentially Christmas, but also included election of officers and news from mission fields.

There was a Christmas message by Mrs. L. Casey in which she deplored the tendency to commercialize Christmas and urged the necessity of keeping the "Christ" in "Christmas." In the candle-lighting service Mrs. A. N. Weir, Mrs. H. Graham, Mrs. Wm. Fisher, Mrs. C. R. Vaughan and Mrs. G. Smith presented acknowledgements of Christ's gifts of Joy, Love, Light, Peace and Hope, while Mrs. A. Rutherford lit a candle to each of these attributes of Christ each candle lighting being followed by the singing of a carol on that special theme. Mrs. W. D. Weir and Mrs. L. Casey sang a duet and the Christmas offering was dedicated by Miss C. Connell.

Mrs. R. Williamson read letters from the two WMS missionaries who are the objects of special prayer by the Omemee auxiliary. They are, Miss Mary Haig of Japan and Miss Ruth Tillman of Newfoundland.

The slate of officers for 1951 are: President, Mrs. H. Graham; first vice-president, Mrs. A. Rutherford; second vice-president, Mrs. V. E. R. Zufelt; recording secretary, Miss O. Wilton; assistant sec'y, Mrs. W. D. Weir; cor. sec'y, Mrs. R. Williamson; treasurer, Mrs. R. E. Brooks; sec'y of Christian Stewardship, Mrs. S. D. Vaughan; sec'y of reserve fund, Mrs. G. Oveholt; sec'y of Christian citizenship Mrs. S. Moyer; literature sec'y, Mrs. G. Overholt; Supply sec'y, Mrs. S. Moyer, assistant Mrs. R. Williamson; Missionary Monthly sec'y, Mrs. R. E. Brooks; press sec'y, Mrs. S. D. Vaughan; pianist, Mrs. I. Connell; associate members' sec'y, Mrs. V. Lang; friendship committee, Mrs. Overholt, Mrs. S. Northey, Mrs. J. B. Hough and Miss O. Wilton; group leaders, Mrs. T. J. Pogue, Mrs. H. Lang, Mrs. J. Bradley Miss C. Connell and Mrs. H. McKee; Baby Band superintendent, Mrs. H. Devell; Mission Band superintendent, Mrs. T. J. Pogue, assistants, Mrs. W. D. Weir and Miss Marion Zufelt.

Lunch was served by group five, who were also in charge of the program.

Four Cubs Invested Into Bridgenorth Pack

BRIDGENORTH, Dec. 8 (ENS) —Four boys became members of the Bridgenorth Cub Pack at a special investiture Thursday night. They are Raymond Connors, George Whitehill, Brian Donnelly, Frank Howard.

District Scouting Commissioner George Groombridge and District Cub Commissioner Peter Dominik, both of Peterborough, invested the four boys. Cubmaster Bruce Patterson heard the scout promise from the boys. After the investiture, the visiting commissioners led the 16 cubs present in a sing song.

Tom Gard's Note Book

The Gards rely almost entirely on native material for Christmas decorations, other than lights and fancy tree ornaments.

Every year the whole family has a cone-hunting spree in the country. Occasionally we draw the ire of some "country cousin" but we usually try to secure them in well-wooded areas that are little frequented. We journey forth again when it comes time to gather evergreen boughs for our wreaths and other decorative purposes.

Christmas Table Centre

Nothing could be more typically Canadian than the Christmas table centre we used last year, with its pressed oak and maple leaves and collection of cones. Some of the cones can be dipped in bright red and bright green paint to add color to the arrangement. This year we plan to include evergreens to replace the leaves. In case you are interested in making the candle stick holders, a couple of designs are illustrated.

Cone Place Markers

To complete the slogan "let's make it an evergreen Christmas", place markers are made from cones. Gather cones from the Austrian pine, larch and Jack pine when they are dry. Leave them in a sunny window or on top of the furnace overnight. The warmth will open them. Three types of cone place markers that have been used are illustrated. The whole family has a share in making them. This adds to the interest and the anticipation for that day of days so quickly approaching. It is fun drawing on one's imagination to help make the cones look as realistic as possible. It is surprising how closely some do resemble different types of birds when they are carefully selected, placed and finished. All I hope is that you have as much fun in your house as we have in our preparing for Christmas.

Dockers Go On Binge Eat 37,000 Bananas

LIVERPOOL, England, Dec. 8—(AP)—Bananas are rationed only to children in this county—but more than 3,000 dock-hands gorged themselves on bananas Wednesday.

About one-fourth of a shipload of bananas was found to be too ripe for distribution. The dockers were turned loose on them, ate 37,000 of them—about a dozen apiece. About 40,000 more the dockers couldn't stuff down were taken away to be burned.

Death Sentences For 5 Pirates

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Dec. 8—(CP)—Death sentences were read here today to five "pirates" for the murder of Philbert Peyson, whose decomposed body was found last April offshore lashed to a six-foot iron bar.

One of the defendants, John (Bad Boy) Durant, fainted as Justice S. E. Gnomes pronounced sentence.

Following the discovery of Peysons' body last spring reports of modern piraces in the Caribbean began. Shortly afterwards another body—still unidentified—was found. At one time 17 fishermen and coastal traders were missing.

Rumors spread that desperate men in fast launches were roaming the Caribbean, waylaying small vessels, looting them an murdering their crews. They wer said to weight the bodies wit metal and throw them overboard. The situation was said to be a return to the days of the Spanish Main.

After the panic, it was found that most of those missing either turned up safely or died in storms. Others still are missing without explanation.

Family Wiped Out

HARLAN, Ky., Dec. 8—(AP)—The bodies of a Harlan county coal miner and three members of his family, each the victim of a shotgun blast, were found in a house at the nearby mining community of Pansy Thursday. Police said Filmore Johnson, about 40, killed his wife, his mother-in-law, his sister-in-law and then committed suicide. The officers blamed the tragedy to a "family fuss".

Special Grants For Pensioners

VICTORIA, Dec. 8 (CP). — Special grants are being paid some British armed services' pensioners in Canada and the United States suffering "severe hardship" through devaluation of the pound, Rt. Hon. Hilary A. Marquand, Britain's Minister of Pensions, said in an interview here Thursday.

He added that no general increase in pensions from Britain is possible, however.

The minister is starting a Canada-wide tour to study pension problems and to visit veterans' hospitals and inspect administration of his Canadian offices at Ottawa.

He is accompanied by George Bowler, head of the U.K. pensions branch at Ottawa, where a staff of 88 pay pensions, arrange medical and hospital treatment and look after general welfare of 15,000 Imperial pensioners living in North America. Eleven thousand live in Canada.

Marquand told reporters special compensation had never been paid Imperial pensioners before he obtained approval to augment pensions in "special cases" following devaluation in September last year.

It was impossible, however, to make a change in the over-all pension rate for any one country if pensions were increased for recipients in Canada, they would have to be changed for all pensioners.

Breach Of Contract

TORONTO, Dec. 8—(CP)—The American Federation of Labor said Thursday that a strike planned by the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union against eight companies would be a breach of contract with the employers. A.F.L. officials said they notified the union that strike pay will be withheld if the men walk out. Union members voted Thursday to strike Dec. 14 if demands for a 10-cent hourly increase are not met.

Scots Aid Fund For Bobby Clark

The Bobby Clark fund continues to swell as Thursday the Scottish Centennial Committee presented the Examiner with $87.30, the proceeds of its concert and festival in November. The concert filled the objects of the Scottish committee, to celebrate Peterborough's Centennial year and to raise money for the fund.

Last week the Women's Institute of Warsaw, reported that the fund totalled to $1,058.23. The fund was started shortly after Bobby Clark fell out of a tree and finally had to have his arm amputated.

Pipers, the highland fling, ballads, skits and comedy acts were performed by the city's Scottish citizens before 350 people in the collegiate. Some of the people who took part in the production were Jack Smith, Bob King, Peter McCombe, Louis Jarvis, Ada Huffman, Ed Potter, Joe Lancashire, Elsie Hill, Mrs. Jessie Spencley, Mrs. Marian Williams, Mrs. Pearl Read and Bob Hendry. The Rev. C. G. Boyd, of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, was the master of ceremonies. Music with a Scottish lift was provided by the CGE Pipe Band under the direction of Major Alex Milne.

Good Old Days Nightmare To Comedian Pat Harrigan

By FRED KERNER

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 —(CP)— "The good old days? You can have them!"

Pat Harrington, Montreal-born comedian currently featured in "Call Me Madam," the new Ethel Merman musical, was relaxing in his modest Manhattan apartment. His wife of 25 years agreed with him.

"Anybody who thought the '20s were good just has a warped outlook on the present—or a bad memory," he added for emphasis.

For Harrington, the "Golden '20s" meant lots of hard work, travelling from hick-town to hick-town and trying to make ends meet playing drums in orchestras, singing on radio and doing comedy bits.

Today, the father of two college-student sons, Pat is part owner of a New York night club, a comedy star in his own right and a first-class actor who has done creditable work on the stage, television and radio. His conversation was filled with names, places and dates dug out of his amazing memory as he recounted his 43 years in show business.

Joined Dumbbells

In 1925, Pat joined the famous Dumbbells company and toured the dominion. But show business meant New York and in 1927, with his bride of two years, he headed for Broadway.

For nine years — through a major part of the prohibition era, "something I never want to experience again"—he played the drums, sang on radio, and crossed the Atlantic countless times with Ben Bernie's orchestra playing aboard the Leviathan.

Harrington finally broke into night club work in 1936 and made his first appearance on Broadway three years later in the Helen Hayes-Herbert Marshall play "Ladies and Gentlemen." From there it became a repetitive story —success. Show after show followed including "Panama Hattie," "Star and Garter," "Front Page," "Up in Central Park," "Best Foot Forward," "The Rat Race," and "The Live Wire."

TRIAL, TRIAL AGAIN — Judith Coplon, government girl convicted of plotting to pass US secrets to Russia, drives away in New York with her husband, Albert Socolov, after the announcement that the US Court of Appeals had reversed her conviction. The court said her arrest was illegal, because it was accomplished without a warrant. It ordered the case tried again.

Three Million Contract Awarded By Ottawa

OTTAWA, Dec. 8 (CP).—The government awarded $3,500,000 worth of defence and other contracts in the Nov. 27-30 period, the Canadian Commercial Corporation announced Thursday.

Together with the $3,000,000 worth of contracts awarded Nov. 20-25 it brought to $6,500,000 the value of contracts placed by the government purchasing agency in 10 days.

Calling for the supply of a variety of goods from corn brooms to aircraft parts, the new batch of contracts went to 86 firms, most of them in the central provinces, with others scattered from Vancouver to Halifax. The contracts are those valued at more than $5,000.

Biggest of them, for $619,000 worth of construction, went to the Marwell Construction Company of Vancouver. Another major contract for $400,000 worth of automotive spare parts went to George W. Crothers Limited, Toronto.

Samuel Alcorn Dies In Lindsay

LINDSAY, Dec. 8—A former mayor of Lindsay died Thursday after a brief illness. He was Samuel Alcorn and his death came in his 88th year. Mr. Alcorn had been in failing health for some months but he refused to give in to his physical impairments until a few days ago when he was stricken with a severe heart attack.

Born in County Antrim, Northern Ireland, Mr. Alcorn came to Canada about 42 years ago and entered the banking business. He was in Canada about seven years before his career led him to Lindsay where he managed the Standard and later the Canadian Bank of Commerce until his retirement.

In 1921 and 1922 Mr. Alcorn had a successful venture in municipal politics. He was elected mayor of Lindsay in 1931 and held the office for the two years. He never sought any other office in council. His interest in municipal matters remained keen throughout the remainder of his life.

In religion Mr. Alcorn was a member of the Church ond England. He was active in the work of the Upper Canada Bible Society and held office in the local organization.

Before coming to Canada Mr. Alcorn held various interests in Ireland. He was a Justice of the Peace and took part in a successful promotional drive to sell Irish butter to England at a time when Danish butter had a stranglehold on the market. He took great pride in relating this eploit. It was his belief that the market he established in those days was still in existence.

Surviving is his son James.

Lava From 40 Craters Threatens Villages

CATANIA, Sicily, Dec. 8—(AP)—A deafening whistle shrilled from the depths of seething Mount Etna early today as a column of trucks bore the last frightened residents from tiny Milo village, menaced by the oncoming lava tide.

Volcano experts said the piercing whistle came from a lava-blocked crater, as pent-up gases forced their way into the open.

An aerial survey disclosed that molton lava was pouring out of some 40 small craters scattered over a wide sector 6,500 feet above sea level.

Removal of the population and their belongings from Milo continued throughout the night under the glare of searchlights.

More than 2,000 persons already have fled from Milo and neighboring Renazzo.

Says Executives Need Check-up

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 — (AP) — Business executives should undergo periodic health examinations and psychiatric counselling to combat fatigue and premature death.

Drs. Sidney A. Portis, Irving H. Zitman and Charles H. Lawrence advocate this in an article in the current American Medical Association Journal.

The article was based on a study of 50 business executives among their regular patients and 55 executives referred to them by corporations. All subjects were under age 50.

The doctors said executives usually do not have good eating habits" and many fail to eat an adequate breakfast. This, they said, leads to lowered blood sugar levels and in turn sets off this chain of events:

"The brain does not function properly, the patient becomes easily fatigued." There is "loss of zest, boredom, antipathy for their jobs, superiors and associates."

Fined $10 and Costs

Pleading not guilty in police court today to a charge of having beer in an illegal place, but offering no defence, Robert Dormer, Parkhill Rd., was fined $10 and costs.

Constable Dennis Traynor said the night of Dec. 2, while at a dance hall, he looked in a washroom. There he saw Dormer and another youth. Dormer had a part bottle of beer in his hand. He said Dormer admitted having taken a drink.

"Did you see me take a drink from the bottle?" Dormer asked.

"No," the constable replied.

Man Fished Out Ganaraska River

PORT HOPE, Dec. 8—Thomas Hillditch, 61, of Kendall, was snatched from the Ganaraska River on Wednesday by Johnny Keeler at the mill dam south of the Ontario Street railroad bridge.

Police said that Hillditch had spent all afternoon in a beverage room and at dusk started for home in a "somewhat" intoxicated condition. He made heavy way over the railroad bridge and either toppled or deliberately jumped into the river. Mr. Keeler saw the man fall from the structure and pulled him from the water to safety. The victim was removed to the General Hospital.

Campbellford, Brighton Makers Win Special At Cheese Show

Sam Hobbs of Brighton and J. A. Reid of Campbellford, won special prizes in the Northumberland and Durham county sections of the Empire Cheese Show at Belleville this week.

For the open Stilton class, Reid placed second with a score of 97.6.

The British Empire special was won by T. S. Aicken of Belton.

"Of the 129 cheese entered in the show all but 11 from Quebec were made in Ontario, with 82 of them from our own district," said Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative in Northumberland.

"Dr. A. L. Gibson, superintendent of the Dairy School at Kemptville, one of the speakers at the cheesemakers' convention, said the cheese industry had brought well over 11 billion dollars to Canada at an average price of 14c a pound.

Present decline was partly due to a feeling in Britain that cheese was a poor man's food. Subsidies still make our cheese sell over there for less than the Ontario farmer receives for it.

Once we exported 270 million pounds a year; now we are down to an all-time low of something over 40 million pounds, much of which could have been eaten at home."

Mr. Banbury was one of the speakers at the Belleville convention which was held in conjunction with the cheese show.

Mothball Fleet Brought Out Key Point In U.S. Program

America's "mothball fleet" program—a much questioned postwar experiment—has passed its first test with full credit, if not with flying colors, John J. Norris writes in The Washington Post.

In the past five months of mobilization, more than 200 ships have been hauled out of "cold storage." Another 300 are being readied for sea. On the basis of performance to date, it is clear that the warships and merchantmen still are in good shape after their five-year lay-up.

Few Delays Met

And, in cases where speed of mobilization was vital—a key point in the program—the ships were ready sooner than most everyone, including the Communist high command, expected.

When we went into Korea, logistics chiefs said they needed 250 additional merchant vessels in the Pacific. The American merchant marine and foreign fleets could provide less than 100 of them. The other 152 were hauled out of mothballs.

Fighter planes had to be rushed to the Far East. Divisions at home were alerted for Korea. Pacific Fleet commanders called for more fighting ships. So aircraft carriers, troops transports and other warships were hurriedly pulled out of the reserve fleet.

The record was not 100 percent perfect. No major combatant ships in mothballs were readied in time for the major operations around Korea. But the big turning point of the war—the Inchon invasion—was made possible by planes, men and supplies hauled across the Pacific in de-mothballed ships. It caught the Red leaders flat-footed, confident that our counter-offensive could not be mounted so soon. It is safe to say that the program paid off.

Large Investment

The United States has a lot of money invested in laid-up ships—a cool 28 billion dollars at today's replacement costs. We spent about 500 million dollars on the vessels during the last five years.

Just to draw in the background, after VJ-Day the United States found itself with the greatest naval and merchant armada the world has ever seen—some 14,000 sea-going ships. Obviously only a fraction of them could be operated in peacetime and there was much scratching of official heads about what to do with the rest.

Some were ordered scrapped and others were earmarked for foreign sale. There remained more than 5,000 vessels — too valuable to get rid of, too costly to keep in service. The decision was made to lay the rest of them "away in mothballs," as somebody then put it, ready for a future emergency.

The lay-up process was complicated and expensive. Airtight cocoons—nicknamed "igloos" — were built over gun turrets. Similar shrouding was placed over topside vitals. Hull, decks and superstructure were scraped and painted.

Below decks, a novel experiment was tried. Machines containing a dessicant and blowers were installed and dry air approximately the humidity of the Arizona desert was piped through the ships' fire mains. Almost everything below—spare parts, bedding, instruments, complicated fire-control, radio and radar equipment, electric wiring, even such things as pianos—was left in place. A special preservative was used on the engines and boilers.

Then the interior of the ship, plus gun turrets, was sealed up. Officers and men of the Reserve Fleet made regular inspections of the vessels to assure that the dehumidification machines were operating, seals were intact and moisture conditions were right. Maintenance of the decks, hulls and superstructure went on.

When the Korean war started, the Navy had 2,125 ships in the mothball fleet—more than three times those in the active fleet. The laid-up vessels included 83 aircraft carriers, 15 battleships, 58 cruisers, 198 destroyers and 98 submarines. It would cost 22 billion dollars to replace them today.

Sixty-two of the vessels have been activated, according to an announcement six weeks ago, and 296 others will be demothballed by next summer to strengthen the active fleet. About 375 million dollars is expected to be spent in readying them for service, including modernization of electronics, anti-submarine gear, etc.

Late in June, there were 2,277 freighters, tanks, old passenger ships and miscellaneous types in the Maritime reserve fleet, worth about six billion dollars at today's building costs. Twenty million dollars was spent in fitting out 152 of the best of them.

Thus, for an outlay of about 900 million dollars—the total spending on the mothball fleet to date, plus reactivation costs— the United States is getting 510 ships it would have to pay $3,600,000,000 for now. And the great bulk of the reserve fleet is still untouched.

Western Parson Pioneers London Dockers

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON— (CP).— Rev. Colin Cuttell, a former bush parson, whose parish once covered 2,000 square miles, has traded the wide-open spaces of the Canadian West for London's smoky dock district.

After 14 years in Canada, much of it spent travelling by canoe and horse in the foothills of the Rockies, the British-born Church of England parson is "pioneering" again—this time in an experimental effort to bridge the gap between church and industry.

His job—officially he is industrial missioner for the Diocese of Southwark—is to convince dockers and other workers that the church is not just a one-day-a-week institution, but an active body as much at home beside the work bench as behind the pulpit.

Mr. Cuttell, 42, and a graduate of the University of Bishop's College, Lennoxville, Que., has become one of the best-known men in dockland. In six years he has built up contacts with more than 300 industries, ranging from one-man businesses to large factories employing as many as 8,000.

Working in co-operation with the welfare departments of large firms, he gives advice and help on all kinds of problems—religious, domestic, business and moral.

Versatile Chaplain

He is chaplain of the Dockers' British Legion, he goes aboard British ships lying in dock to talk with the men and is accepted Padre to Southwark and Lambeth Fire Brigades and to London Bridge station personnel. His mission takes him to every type of industry in a large, thickly-populated industrial diocese.

Contact with Canada is maintained by a membership in the London Council of the Diocese of Qu'Appelle, which meets twice a year. He is friend, helpmate and religious adviser to members of the Canadian Forces in Britain and to any resident or visiting Canadian who cares to consult him.

Asked whether he intends returning to Canada, the padre told the Canadian Press: "That is something I am still fighting out with myself.

"My job here is far from finished and I hate leaving a job undone. Stuffy London days, however, make me think of London, sunny fall days in Alberta, and I long for Canada's wide open spaces."

Mr. Cuttell expects to be in Canada early next year visiting the Bishop of Qu'Appelle. He said it still gives him a thrill on these occasions to have his passport stamped "Returning Canadian."

Light Crosses In Quebec For Holy Year

MONTREAL, Dec. 8 —(CP)— As this Holy Year draws to a close Christmas Eve, thousands of huge crosses will be lighted for the first time throughout Quebec and other parts of Eastern Canada to commemorate the year and as a reminder of the futility of blasphemy.

Ranging in height from three-quarters of an inch to nearly 100 feet and made of steel, wood or plastic, the crosses are painted a bright red to represent the blood shed by Christ on Calvary.

During the last six months, lapel and six-inch models were sold by the thousands in Quebec province while bigger crosses were erected in most parishes. The tall ones, usually of metal, will be illuminated for the first time following midnight mass on Christmas Eve.

Launched in June

Erection of the crosses in Quebec, requested by the Pope after he inaugurated the Holy Year, was launched June 5 by Msgr. Paul Emile Leger, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Montreal, during a ceremony atop Mount Royal at the foot of Montreal's famed lighted cross. At the time Msgr. Leger blessed 75 crosses of various sizes and later they were placed in prominent spots throughout the city.

The campaign was directed by order of Holy Sacrament Fathers in Montreal who gave it a three-fold purpose: Commemoration of the Holy Year, the fight against blasphemy and against the profanation of blessed hosts by secret societies.

Chairman Father Auguste Grondin of the committee of the Holy Year Cross, French-speaking section, said the committee was striving to put to the fore the anti-blasphemy aim.

Main Job

The committee's main job was to spread the idea of erecting the crosses and to help those who launched fund campaigns for that purpose. After the drive was launched, ceremonies were held across Quebec and Eastern Ontario. In Ottawa, crosses were being blessed by the dozens, as was the case in Quebec centres.

In Sherbrooke, Que., Paul Leclerc set out to collect $10,000 from individuals and firms to erect the biggest cross in North America. He has made a 70-foot cross which was erected on Mont Bellevue and when lighted, will be visible for 25 miles.

Award Damages In Apple Case

COBOURG, Dec. 8 — (ENS)— December sittings of Supreme Court was brief, most of the cases being laid over to later dates. The only case to go on was a damage action brought by Paul Zomolynski of Darlington township against Harry Rubenstein and Joseph Rubenstein of Hamilton. Plaintiff asserted that the agreement covered 199 barrels of apples at $2.50 plus a truckload of juice apples. Judgment in the amount of $375.50 and costs plus return of the barrels or reasonable replacements, was registered against the defendants.

Laid over to later dates were Mitchener vs. CNR, Raney vs. Persofsky, Hill vs. Persofsky, Dixon vs. Henderson, Tacheray vs. Adams, Henderson vs. Town of Cobourg, Inglis vs. Mills.

Eleven applicants for naturalization were heard: Ing Joe of Cobourg; Wong Hong, Port Hope; Chew Man Fair, Bowmanville; Lemm Bark Doo, Brighton; Basilin Loukides, Port Hope; Johanna Lamberta Kasper, Port Hope; Edward Schneck, RR 5, Colborne; Fred Ferguson, Cobourg; Wytske Thompson, Millbrook; James E. Revision Court Lowers 11 Assessments

HASTINGS, Dec. 8 (ENS)— Eleven assessments were lowered, one contested assessment was maintained and several other adjustments were made by the Hastings Court of Revision this week.

The court allowed an appeal against assessment on government property until the Ontario Municipal Board reached a blanket decision.

The revision court, conducted by Reeve C. S. Howse and members of the council, lowered the assessment $200 on a building owned by L. E. Kelly. The business assessment of Parker's Florists was lowered by $100, the same put on it last year.

Assessment on a building owned by F. S. Crate was lowered $100 as well as an assessment of F. Parker. Guy Wellman's assessment was also lowered to $100 on land and $500 on buildings. Lot 126 on Front St., formerly assessed against Wilson and E. Smullin, was lowered and assessed against W. E. Edwards to $200.

Because he tore down his old garage, the assessment against E. Hess was lowered $100. A duplication in assessing a cottage owned by Harry Chennell resulted in his assessment being lowered $300.

Assessment on the building on the east half of Fred Reeve's lot was reduced $50. The amount of the assessment against the north half of F. Barry's property was reduced $100. E. J. Petticrew's business assessment was lowered to $150.

The assessment against City Service Ltd. was maintained after its appeal.

The revision court assessed James and Gladys White for Lot 166. It decided to assess William Graham and include his cottage adjacent. A business assessment against John Condon was cancelled.

The court passed a motion that J. R. Boyle be assessed in C. P. Doughty's business. It also decided that the west half of the Smith property be assessed and added to the original assessment.

The court assessed A. Warrington a business tax of $100 and confirmed a business assessment against J. S. Stevenson.

The assessment on the Kerr property was charged to be against F. S. Barrett.

Canadian Magazine Suspends Publication

TORONTO, Dec. 8 (CP). — Suspension of publication of the National Home Monthly, one of Canada's oldest magazines, was announced Thursday by D. A. Thompson, president of the Home Publishing Co., Ltd., of Winnipeg and Toronto.

The current December issue of the magazine, which had its beginning in Winnipeg before the turn of the century as the Western Home Monthly, will be its last. Name of the publication was changed to the National Home Monthly in 1936. Its circulation is listed as 350,000.

Mr. Thompson said in a statement the decision to suspend publication followed failure to obtain the additional advertising revenue necessary to meet increasing costs of production — chiefly paper and wages.

Cattle Prices Lose Advance On Dull Market

TORONTO, Dec. 8 — (CP). — Cattle prices gained 25 to 50 cents at the opening of the Ontario Stockyards this week, but lost some of the advance on dull closing markets, the Dominion Marketing Service reported today.

Calves were steady and hogs 25 cents higher with lambs strong to 50 cents higher and sheep steady.

Fresh receipts of 6,117 cattle were added to 100 carried from last week. A few hundred common cattle were unsold at the close. Western cattle in the fresh run were 550 head.

Monday prices were higher on picked lots of cattle with choice weighty steers $28.75, good light steers $27.50 and good heiters were $20-$22 and good bulls at $23-$24.25. For the balance of the week good quality was absent from the supply and trade became draggy with prices a shade lower. Common to medium steers and heifers brought $20-$26 and medium to good fed yearlings were $25-$30. A few lots of plain stockers were sold at $20-$26.

Calf receipts totalled 1,274 head. Good to choice vealers sold at $30-$33, with common to medium lights and heavies from $20-$29. Grassers for slaughter brought $18.50-$20.

Hogs totalled 3,502 head. Grade A hogs settled at $30 with sows $25 dressed.

BRANTFORD, Dec. 8—(CP)—The village of Burford and a large neighboring area were cut off from electric Hydro power for several hours today when an automobile, driven by Cashmir Kowalozyk, went out of control and crashed into a pole carrying both high and low voltage lines, and transformers.

Something to remember

This is one of a series of words and expressions whose origins and meanings are published in the interest of a better understanding, use and knowledge of the English language.

"CEREAL"

"Cereal" is a Latin word derived from the name of an ancient Italian goddess, Ceres, who, as the story has it, was pressed into service in order to rid the countryside of a lengthy drought, which was depriving the land of its grain. In this manner, Ceres became the guardian of agriculture and gave us cerealis, which meant "of Ceres" or "of the crops."

Thus, when you have your cereal for breakfast you are unknowingly paying time-honored tribute to an almost forgotten mythical goddess.

Disputes Charge Cassino Shelling Tragic Error

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) —New Zealand's chief war historian has replied strongly to the claim by Gen. Mark Clark, U.S., in his book "Calculated Risk" that the bombing of Monte Cassino Monastery in Italy was a tragic mistake. The United States general said it was the responsibility of Lt.-Gen. Sir Bernard Freyburg, V.C., commander of the New Zealand troops in the action.

Sir Bernard Freyburg, who led the New Zealanders throughout the Second World War and has become a legend in his lifetime, now is Governor-General of New Zealand and in view of his official position has not made any comment.

But Maj.-Gen. Sir Howard Kippenberger, the New Zealand divisional commander at Cassino and now Chief New Zealand war historian, has strongly defended the bombing of the monastery. Sir Howard took over the New Zealand division when Sir Bernard became commander of the corps specially formed for the assault on Cassino, comprising the New Zealand division, the 78th British division and the 4th Indian division.

Military "Necessity"

Sir Howard said the bombing of the monastery was a military necessity and the only right course in the circumstances. He quoted General Eisenhower's instruction issued less than two months previously: "If we have to choose between destroying a famous building and sacrificing our own men, then our men's lives count infinitely more and the building must go."

Disputes Charge

Sir Howard added: "It is immaterial whether the building was actually being occupied or not. There was a strong probability that it was being occupied and here was a certainty that when the storming troops reached the top of Monte Cassino they would find the Abbey occupied and impregnable. The bombing reduced it to a condition where it had no military value. Building which are demolished are often more defensible as a result, but this was not the case at Cassino."

In January, 1944, the American 5th Army, under General Clark's command, attempted to cross the Rapido River without neutralizing Monte Cassino. They sustained a costly repulse. On Feb. 6, 1944, the American 24th division reported that its troops were pinned down by machine-guns on the Abbey walls.

Had Two Reasons

After General Freyberg took over, he received a request from the Indian division for the bombing of the monastery. It was decided that it must be bombed for two reasons—it made an ideal observation post, and even if not manned by Germans before the attack, the remnants of the German troops defending the hill would certainly use it for a final stand.

"I agreed with those views and I am certain that every soldier in the corps would have done the same thing," Sir Howard added. It was suggested to General Clark that a light warning bomb should be dropped, giving a hint of what was in store and an opportunity for any civilians to leave. General Clark ridiculed the idea.

"I would like to say that it is very uncommon for a commander who has to admit that he acquiesced in a course of action of which he did not approve to attempt afterward to throw the responsibility on a subordinate."

Court Reserves Judgment In Bradley Appeal

TORONTO, Dec. 8—Judgment was reserved Thursday on an Ontario Court of Appeal action in which two Roman Catholic youths sought to collect $5,000 willed to each of them on condition that they became "adherents and members in good standing and faith of a Protestant church."

John David Bradley, 23, and Brian Michael Bradley, 21, brothers, refused to renounce the Roman Catholic faith to collect the money bequeathed them in 1936 by an aunt, the late Ambia Lila Going, Peterborough art teacher. In the will she stipulated that should they not do so, the money was to go to the pension fund of the United Church of Canada.

At the hearing, Chief Justice McRuer decided in favor of the United Church.

J. J. Robinette for the nephews contended the clause stipulating the change of faith was uncertain, and hence void. The law of uncertainty must therefore be applied despite the fact that it might frustrate the intention of the testatrix, he argued.

Appearing for the pension fund, A. T. Whithead contended that when the nephews said they did not comply with the condition of the will, they removed any question of uncertainty. He said they had deliberately chosen to forego the bequest.

The appeal was heard before Mr. Justice Roach, Mr. Justice Laidlaw and Mr. Justice Gibson.

Canadian Embassy In Paris Investigated Wamback Case, Now Said Closed Issue

OTTAWA, Dec. 8—(CP)—An External Affairs spokesman Thursday night described as a closed issue the case of Serephin Van Wamback, Belgian farmer who aided a Canadian airman during the war and has since been imprisoned, allegedly for a crime against the flier.

The spokesman said the case was investigated by the Canadian embassy in Paris in 1947 as a result of inquiries made by J. B. Armstrong, the R.C.A.F. flier involved who now is a Toronto grocer. But after a report from the French police it was dropped.

The case recently came into the news with a report from Villeneuve - Sur - Lot, France, that Wamback was appealing a 20-year sentence for the "murder" of Armstrong whom he aided after a crash in France during the war.

The 1947 report from the Canadian embassy in Paris did not mention "murder" but indicated Wamback was claiming he was imprisoned for the robbery of Armstrong, a former Peterborough man which he claimed he did not commit.

The embassy letter quoted French police as saying that "his (Wamback's) imprisonment at Fort Duhouse Section (Nord) is not connected with what he claims as regards the Canadian officer, J. B. Armstrong."

The letter did not make clear the charges against Wamback, but concluded that in view of the report from the French police, there was nothing the embassy could do and dropped the matter.

County Council Planning Regulate Wrecking Yards

F. D. Kerr, KC, Peterborough county solicitor, has been instructed to draw up a by-law regulating wrecking yards throughout the county. "We discovered that villages have no power to regulate the location of junk yards and we must do it through the county," Reeve Wm. Grant of Lakefield said. He described the situation in Lakefield as "a pretty sorry mess." And the whole thing was unreasonable because village councils had control over even more important municipal matters such as finances, he said.

Mr. Grant said he understood that townships can make their own regulations but not villages. The whole matter should be gone into by the county solicitor, he said.

Warden Norman Wilson of Burleigh-Anstruther said: "A junk yard or wrecking yard is OK when in the right place, but that place is not right in the middle of the village."

"We have a similar situation in the village of Havelock," said Reeve Ernest J. Leeson, "we were taking steps to pass a by-law and found we hadn't the authority to do so."

The motion was by Reeves Grant and Leeson and passed without further discussion.

Library Board Shows Surplus

Due to an increase in the provincial grant to the Peterborough Public Library a surplus of approximately $1,100 may be shown by the library board this year, William Graff, librarian, reported Thursday night.

In a prepared financial statement Mr. Graff indicated that the surplus may be $1,210.85, but unforseen items may bring this figure down to $1,100. This year the board estimated its receipts at $45,250. including $37,950. from the city, $1,000 in fines and subscriptions, $300 in interest on bonds and $6,000 from the provincial government.

The city's portion was cut $450 less than estimated, the fines and subscriptions will be over by $150.95, the interest on bonds unchanged, the government grant will be up by $1,112.75 and there will be an additional $41.72 from an insurance claim and bank interest.

Mr. Graff's statement shows that the expenditures to the end of December will be $44,894.57 against the board's estimated expenditures of $45,250.

Truck Traffic Damages Roads

Because of the unusually heavy motor traffic on the centre line of Smith the county council has asked the Department of Highways to take it over as a development road.

Reeve Ross Harrison, of Smith, told council that there are no less than eight gravel pits on the four-and-a-half mile stretch that runs north and south between the 3rd and 8th concessions. Large gravel trucks pound along the narrow road making it both dangerous to drive on and difficult to repair.

Under the development road scheme the department takes over a road from a municipality—in this case the county—and improves it, then hands it back to the municipality to be maintained. The county also asked the department to improve the road on a 66-foot right-of-way, not increase it to 86 feet.

Under such a plan the municipality has to pay for any additional right of way, the department improves the road surface only.

Jack Kean, county engineer, said the centre line of Smith and the Nepheline Mine road both had to bear the wear and tear of unusually heavy truck traffic.

The county's small budget is not sufficient to meet the costs of keeping roads as heavily travelled as these in good repair, he said.

Judge Admits Statement In Ham Crash

A statement made by Glen Allen Anderson, charged with dangerous driving following the auto accident death on October 25 of Gordon Ham of Peterborough, was admitted as evidence Thursday afternoon by Judge J. A. McGibbon.

In the statement, Anderson said that he was passing a car "when suddenly I saw the lights of an oncoming car. I tried to get over to the right side of the road, but I couldn't make it."

Today, Anderson, testifying in his defence, told court that at no time did his truck cross the solid white lines in the centre of the road. He said he stayed on the east half of Highway 28 at all times.

"I was near the brow of the hill when the lights came suddenly toward me. I tried to get to the east edge of the road."

"Did you get there?" asked defence counsel Carley.

"I don't know."

The question of the statement's admissibility took up much of Thursday, the opening day of the case.

In the statement, Anderson told of the car he was trying to pass. This car has not been located, although police have made efforts to do so.

Defence counsel T. J. Carley, KC, asked Provincial Constable F. M. Rawlings if the police advertised in an effort to find the car. The officer said that that had not been done.

Made Morning After

The statement was made by Anderson to Constable Rawlings and Provincial Constable A. T. Eady the morning after the accident.

Constable Rawlings told court that he first asked Anderson four questions which were necessary for completion of a report on the accident. Then, he said, he gave Anderson "the usual police caution" and asked him if he wished to make a statement.

"Anderson said he didn't want to say anything, or words to that effect."

"Did you tell the accused anything of the condition of the other man in the accident?" asked Crown counsel John A. Bradshaw. — "He asked me about him and I told him the man in the car was dead."

Probably Be Charged

"Then I told him he would probably be charged with one of the following—motor manslaughter, dangerous or reckless driving, careless driving, or a breach of the rules of the road. Then I gave him the usual police caution."

"What did you do then?" asked Mr. Bradshaw. — "I started asking him questions."

The questions asked and the answers to them were taken down in writing by Constables Eady said Constable Rawlings.

"Then I asked him if he wished to sign it. He asked if it made any difference. I told him if it was the truth, it didn't make much difference whether he signed it or not, because the truth wouldn't hurt anyone."

"Did he sign it?" — "Yes."

In the statement, Anderson said he had been to Bowmanville that day, and was returning to Peterborough when the accident happened. He was following a car and turned out to pass it.

"I was accelerating to pass when suddenly I saw the lights of an oncoming car. I tried to get over to the right side of the road, but couldn't make it."

The statement was signed "G. A. Anderson".

Following Dr. Calvert was Provincial Constable Eady. Mr. Carley questioned him on the statement Anderson made.

"Question 9 on this statement asks 'Do you know the licence number of the car you were following?' If neither of you knew he was following a car, how was it that this question was asked?" —"I don't know."

"But you didn't know before you went there that he was following a car:"—"No."

Mr. Carley suggested that there might have been a question about the car Anderson was following that was not written down. The officer said he wrote down all the questions asked by Constable Rawlings.

Medical Evidence

Dr. Leslie J. Calvert, who was at the scene of the accident, told court he stitched up Anderson's cuts—on his lip, elbow and an eight-inch gash on his knee.

Anderson was given four drugs before the operation: morphine, pentothal, curare, and cyclopropane, the latter as a general anaesthetic, the doctor said.

"Anderson was suffering slight shock," he added. The doctor said it was traumatic shock—a shock caused by wounds.

Mr. Carley asked Dr. Calvert if it is not difficult to judge the degree of shock.—"Not traumatic shock."

"How about mental shock?"—"It is very difficult to assess the degree of mental shock."

Motion Refused

At this point—the end of the Crown's case—Mr. Carley moved for dismissal of the charge. "There is no evidence on which a jury properly instructed in law . . . could find the accused guilty on this charge.

"The statement made by the accused shows no admission of dangerous driving. At no point does the accused state that he was any place but on the proper side of the road."

Mr. Bradshaw said "Accused says he was trying to get back to the right hand side. Moreover, there is the 18-inch tire mark leading from the west half of the road to the right front tire of the truck driven by Anderson."

Judge McGibbon said he granted the case could stand or fall on the accused's statement. "But a life has been taken, and I do not believe I could take this case from the jury now. Motion dismissed."

Booted The Meter

Parking meters are cursed by many a motorist, but it was left to a Lindsay policeman to do what they would like to do instead of just talking.

The story, which may be true, is that the constable was checking meters on his rounds this week and found one that was not working well.

Something had happened to the mechanism and it would not register when coins were inserted. As he was taking the works out to look them over, the machine slipped through his hands and crashed on the sidewalk.

In a fit of temper, the constable kicked the meter across the street. He thought better of his action and retrieved it. It was working perfectly.

Gravel Crusher Mangles Farmer's Arm

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 8 — (ENS)—George Airhart of Seymour East, suffered painful injuries Thursday morning, when his right arm caught in the belt and was drawn into the pulley of a gravel crushing machine he was using on his farm near Campbellford.

Quick action on the part of Ray Williams and Jack Thompson, who were working nearby, is credited with averting more serious injuries to Mr. Airhart.

Turned Off Crusher

Realizing he was trapped, Airhart called for help, and the two men quickly turned off the crusher, and assisted the injured man to remove his arm from the machine. He was taken to Campbellford, where he was attended by Dr. John Bell and later X-rays were taken at Campbellford hospital.

The unlucky man will be taken to Peterborough hospital Friday, where an operation on his arm will be performed. He suffered a fractured elbow and a wrenched wrist and shoulder, as well as extensive tissue damage to the arm itself.

Schools Close On December 21

Today's half holiday for Peterborough's school children, requested by Ontario's Prime Minister Leslie Frost a week ago, has been postponed until December 22. This will give the students an additional day on the short Christmas holidays.

P. D. Windrim, public school inspector said that it was felt that since Monday was election day the school week was broken up enough. He added that it would do more good transferred to the Christmas holidays.

"Children are always excited before and after a holiday. This change will not affect their studies as much."

Usually the pupils are dismissed from classes at 2.30 p.m. on the day prior to the Christmas holidays. This year Friday will be a whole day holiday, the children being dismissed on Thursday afternoon.

Today the separate schools are celebrating the Feast of Immaculate Conception. An official of the Separate school board said that the suggestion of K. S. Wightman's that the half holiday should be delayed for another two weeks was looked upon favourably by him. Though it has not been confirmed by the management committee of the separate school board he believed their pupils would have the holiday then also.

Examinations for the PCVS students, a portion of the annual mid-term examinations, have been advanced a day. They will start writing their papers on December 20 instead of December 21 as first scheduled. Friday will be a whole day holiday for them also.

Sudbury Doctors Ask Parking Privileges

SUDBURY, Dec. 8—(CP)—The Sudbury Police Commission is considering parking privileges for doctors, following representations made by a delegation of doctors to the commission meeting Thursday.

Doctors claimed they are getting too many tickets for parking.

The police board will write to other cities using parking meters to see how they handle the problem.

Permit Market To Remain But Use Meters

Intimations this week indicate the likelihood that a petition will be circulated Saturday for signatures of vendors, and that it may reach the council next week.

One of the men who is promoting this approach suggested several days ago that the market could be metered throughout the week, except Saturday mornings when it could be used as at present for sidewalk selling without serious loss to the city. From the standpoint of revenue, vendors might be willing to pay an increase in the city's present Saturday fee. It is believed from that source that the meters would not interfere with the use of the market by farmers.

Apparently the metering project will not be begun before Christmas, and that reprieve to selling may extend into the new year. At any rate, the meters have been ordered by the council.

Possibly before the end of 1951 the council may be considering the eventual vacancy of its present administrative building at the corner of Water and Simcoe Streets. All the departments that are housed in that location will move out to the new city hall, except the Utilities Commission which will build next year office accommodation at the corner of Aylmer and Dalhousie Streets on its own land.

Even if the market square is metered for parking accommodation and revenue, some farmers may ask the council before the year ends to permit them to continue in occupation of their accustomed Saturday morning places of display and vending.

Apparently it is becoming recognized that the city has unrestricted title to the market property, and that there can be no claim to prescriptive right from long use.

Two Trucks Meet Head-On Five Persons Injured, Condition of Man 'Only Fair'

Five people were injured, one seriously, late Thursday afternoon when two stake-body trucks met in a head-on collision on Highway 28, a mile and a half south of Lakefield. Clarence Liscum, 26, of Apsley, is in Civic hospital with severe head injuries. His condition today is described as "only fair." A passenger in Liscum's truck, William Donegan, 56, of 320 McFarlane St., also received head injuries, though less serious. He has a cut bottom lip, chin, nose and right ear. He too is in Civic hospital where his condition is "satisfactory."

The three occupants of the other truck are in St. Joseph's hospital. Mr. and Mrs. George Jessup, both 26, of Lakefield, and Mrs. Ray Dunford, also of Lakefield, are reportedly not seriously injured.

Mr. Jessup, driver and owner of the second truck, has a deep cut over the left eye, skull and knee injuries. Mrs. Jessup has cuts on her right leg and head. And Mrs. Dunford's injuries include a fractured nose and facial cuts.

Surface Wet

The highway surface was wet and slippery but the accident occurred on a straight stretch. Jessup was driving south when he collided with the northbound truck of Liscum's.

Both trucks ended up completely wrecked, in the west ditch and facing west.

Liscum, the most seriously hurt, operates a lumbering and sawmill business some six miles north of Apsley

Drs. Lloyd Bailey and H. E. Gastle gave medical attention to the injured. Provincial Constables Roy Feeley and T. H. Fitzpatrick investigated.

Unable To Take Logs From Bush

TORONTO, Dec. 8 (CP). — Ontario hydro chairman Robert H. Saunders said today millions of logs, cleared for a hydro line from Des Joachims, Que., to Minden, Ont., are "unavoidably" rotting away.

Felled in a 460-foot-wide swath over 90 miles of timberland, they are too poor for lumber, too inaccessible or too heavy to handle economically, he said. They have been offered free for the taking, but nobody wants them.

The swath covers 53 miles of crown land from Des Joachims, on the Ottawa river, to Whitney in Haliburton county. From Whitney to Haliburton—37 miles—right-of-way was secured from private lumber operators.

Mr. Saunders said the commission retrieved 4,500,000 board feet of timber from the crown lands and any left is "of no salvage value." Over the private lands, the operators did the clearing and were given title to all salvage.

Study Farrow For Windsor Chief Of Police

Carl W. Farrow, inspector of provincial police for No. 8 district, Peterborough, was one of three candidates interviewed today by the Windsor police commission for the office of Windsor's chief constable.

The other two were Detective Inspector John B. Nimmo and former Inspector Frank Crowe, both of Toronto. Others will likely be interviewed later.

Since the dismissal October 15 of Chief Constable Claud Renaud and Deputy Chief W. H. Neale, the office has been held temporarily by Provincial Police Inspector E. V. McNeill. Inspector McNeill was inspector at Peterborough until September 1, 1949. At that time he was succeeded here by Inspector Farrow.

The Windsor chief and deputy chief were dismissed after an intensive drive was started by the Attorney General to "clean up" the city. Gambling and other rackets were said to be flourishing in Windsor.

RCAF Completes Tests On Compression

TORONTO, Dec. 8—(CP)—The RCAF has successfully completed new decompression tests at its school of aviation medicine here.

Two decompression chambers were employed. From one chamber air was exhausted to simulate atmospheric conditions existing at 60,000 feet. From the other conditions prevailing at 20,000 feet were created.

The question the RCAF wanted answered was:

"What happens when the metal skin containing a pressurized high altitude cabin is punctured?"

An instructor supplied the answer.

He pierced the partition operating the two chambers, allowing atmosphere from the "low altitude" chamber to rush into the near vacuum of the other.

Strange Effect

Although it was like dropping 30,000 feet in an instant, air force officials said bodily effects from the sudden change were negligible.

Air crews in both chambers wore oxygen masks, since without oxygen to purify the bloodstream the crews would fall unconscious and die when flying at high altitudes.

When the chambers were pierced the Air Force's new device came into play. A simple aneroid barometer was activated by the changing pressure caused by piercing the chambers. It automatically sets in motion the oxygen-pumping apparatus.

The crew remains conscious and is able to get the plane down to a safer level.

Big Canadian Labor Bodies Oust Communists In 1950 Campaign

By JOHN LeBLANC

OTTAWA, Dec. 8 — (CP) — Canadian labor wielded a big club against union Communists in 1950.

Hastening a cleanup in progress for several years, the big central labor bodies set the pace for anti-Red action by stretching down into the union locals.

By the end of the year, one Red-directed union found itself outside labor's main stream; the top Canadian officers of another were on trial before their international board, and the heat was on in several others.

The Canadian Congress of Labor and the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, which have 360,000 and 400,000 members, respectively, directed the housecleaning.

Besides taking further steps to straighten out their own affairs, they put pressure on their affiliates to get rid of Communists and fellow-travellers.

Two Big Steps

The CCL, spearhead of labor's anti-Red drive since the war, took two major steps:

1. It kicked out the Communist-line United Electrical Workers of America, which had 25,000 Canadian members. This was a follow-up to its 1949 expulsion of the 22,000 - member International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

2. It gave its executive council the power, between conventions, to expel any unions following Communistic policies. This put several left-wing bodies in jeopardy, though the executive had not wielded its new power up to late in the year.

Meanwhile, the CCL was giving its active backing to non-Communist unions engaged in fighting the two expelled unions for their members.

TLC Action

Slower in getting into action against Reds, the older Trades and Labor Congress erupted during the year with policies just as tough as those of the CCL.

Its main moves:

1. An "or else" order to all affiliates to keep Reds out of union offices or lose their congress affiliation.

2. Giving power to its executive council to bar suspected Reds from TLC conventions.

Immediate repercussions followed. The Washington international office of the United Textile Workers of America (AFL-TLC), with its leftist-led Canadian division threatened, promptly put several Canadian leaders on trial for suspicion of Communism. No findings had been issued up to late in the year.

The 20,000-member UTWA had become the top party-line body in the congress after the 1949 eviction of the Canadian Seamen's Union, now reduced to a scattering of members with no central affiliation.

Following the new TLC action Red suspects among the Toronto Consumers' Gas local of the International Chemical Workers were fired out of the union, and the TLC itself proceeded with a mopping-up job in the Vancouver Civic Employees' Federal Union, a local chartered directly by the congress. It was being reorganized to eliminate Communist control.

Principal Finds TV Shows AffectHomework

BATAVIA, N.Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—What role does television play in the life of a child in a small city?

Caryl G. Hedden, principal of a grade school in this community of almost 18,000, found in a survey that television was an effective disciplinary force if used properly by parents.

But he also found the children spent an average of four hours a day watching television, that they do less reading, and that some found it so interesting they couldn't get around to their homework.

The survey covered 180 pupils enrolled at Hedden's school. Of these, 98 came from homes that had television and 55 others watched programs regularly at friends' homes, or 153 in all. Only 27 did not see television regularly. Pupils from kindergarten through fifth grade were queried.

The results included the following:

Forty said their parents kept them from seeing television if they had misbehaved, and one fifth-grader added that "I'd rather have a spanking."

Nothing Definite

Forty-two said television helped them in their schoolwork but there were few definite explanations of how it did.

Thirty-six said the programs didn't help their school work and one explained that "it's too interesting—I can't turn it off and do any studying."

Thirty-one said they did less reading, 29 said they read about the same amount, and 14 claimed to be reading more than before they had TV. Hedden said the drop in reading hadn't been as sharp as had been expected.

In reporting the children spent four hours a day watching television, Hedden gave no estimate of how the children normally would have spent these hours without television.

Mr. B. McTaggart was in Toronto for a couple of days this week.

Aggressive Midget

LONDON (CP).—The London Zoo's tarsier, a small monkey-like creature known as "Tom Thumb" is pretty quarrelsome. Officials have put him in a cage of his own with a toy panda bear as his sole companion.

German Troop Plan Given Cold Shoulder

BONN, Germany, Dec. 7 (AP)—West German officials turned a cold shoulder today to the new plan for including German troops in the North Atlantic forces, announced by France Wednesday night.

An official government spokesman declined immediate comment on the grounds that the government has not been officially informed.

The plan envisions that there be no German general staff, no German heavy arms and no German war ministry. Officials high in government circles said privately that West Germany would never accept any plan which discriminates against German contingents.

U.S. Digs Out After Big Storm

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 (AP). — A surge of cold air and snow moved into the eastern region of the United States today after damaging winds and rain whi.. ed across the storm-harassed area.

At the same time, the midwest shoveled out of the season's heaviest snowfall and the south got some relief from a severe cold snap.

Winds of gale force which battered the Middle Atlantic States swept into the New England coastal region today. Shipping was hampered. Power lines were knocked out. The strong winds uprooted trees and blew off rooftops of houses in many parts of the storm belt.

The snowstorm over the midcontinent left a carpet of white measuring as much as 44 inches in northern Michigan. There was much drifting but forecasters said the winds would diminish during the day.

Rising temperatures also were in prospect, with no sub-zero predicted tonight. Snow, however, continued today over most of the north central region.

Chinese Whistles Drive Tommies Crazy

TOKYO, Dec. 8 — ((AP). — Some British Tommies say the bugles and whistles used by the Chinese Communists to signal troop movements are more unnerving than the roar of artillery.

A British public relations statement said 41st Royal Marine independent commandos were nearly driven mad by the bugles and whistles in their first contact with the Chinese south of Hagaru.

Sgt. W. D. James of Portsmouth, England, said:

"I fought against the Jerries during the last war, but those damned Chinese with their whistles and bugles were the worst experience I've ever had."

Herman H. Crary

Funeral service for the late Herman Harrison Cray, 76, of 479 Park Street, was held on Thursday at the Kaye uneral Home. The Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite of All Saints' Anglican Church officiated, and pall-bearers were Kenneth and Jack Nichols, Vernon Simpson, Ronald Loucks, Kenneth Crompton, and William Rudkins. Burial was at Little Lake Cemetery.

THEY SAW WAR—Shivering in their tattered clothes, two North Korean youngsters at Hagaru, near the Chosin reservoir, learned at an early age that war is hell. The town has been the scene of bitter fighting between US Marine and Army troops and the Communists.

Liquor Store Planned For Marmora Soon

MARMORA, Dec. 8 (ENS). — A combined liquor and beer store will be opened here soon by the Liquor Control Board of Ontario. Recently, a member of the board visited the village to decide on the site and outline specifications for the building.

A. J. Maynes is the contractor chosen to build the store.

Marmora, being a "wet" village, did not have to hold a vote on the store, but merely forwarded an application to the board. Late in the fall, a petition was circulated against the store, but it failed, and there has been no strong opposition.

Menzies Optimistic About Korean Drive

CANBERRA, Dec. 8—(AP)—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies said today that latest reports of the campaign in Korea are more encouraging.

"While the difficulties are real, there is no reason for defeatism of any kind," Menzies told the House of Representatives.

Australia's aim would be to try to isolate the Korean campaign and make it clear to the Peiping regime that the United Nations does not want to harm Chinese lives or property. Rather, he said, they are engaged in a military operation in which the Chinese could become involved only by theier own choice.

Bunche Says A-Bomb Used As Last Resort

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 8—(AP) —Dr. Ralph Bunche said today that the atomic bomb should be used "only if the situation becomes so critical that defence makes it necessary."

The United Nations mediator who brought peace in Palestine doubted "that any nation controlling atomic weapons would use them," since "use of the atomic bomb does not settle any political issue."

Here to receive the 1950 Nobel Peace Prize award, Bunche told a press conference that he does not believe the recent military setbacks to U.N. forces in Korea will have any effect on the prestige of the world organization.

CHRISTMAS GREEN is highlighted in this festive setting. The pattern of ivy-wreathed plates is repeated in decorative ashtrays; holiday greens spill from oversized goblets which match water glasses. Candlelight adds air of formality.

Table Settings Create Holiday Air

By ANNE LARSEN

NEW YORK —(NEA)— There's more to giving a party than donning your best hostess apron and putting out the welcome mat.

In order to turn a meal into an occasion, it's necessary to create an air of festivity. Mood-setting table decorations are your best ally.

Guests would find it difficult to be dull amidst the sparkle of your best crystal and china in combination with a centrepiece from which originality shines.

One easily-created table setting is built around oversized goblets, which may be obtained in the glassware departments of stores or pottery shops. The effect is doubly dramatic if your water goblets duplicate the design.

Fill the big goblets with tinsel balls, dried foliage, flowers or whatever your fancy suggests. Hemlock branches or ropes of foliage may be used to spill gracefully over the sides of the goblets, and to tie the two together. Sprinkle the greens with artificial snow, and add a pair of stately candles for elegance.

SILVERY BIRCH Yule logs, ablaze with red carnations, lend holiday gaiety to Christmas buffet which is set with colorful china.

KITCHEN FUNNELS serve as bases for stylized Christmas trees tipped with shiny balls which complement red ball fringe on round green place mats.

This centrepiece is most effective when used in combination with a green tablecloth and dishes which tie in with the general theme. An ivy-wreathed earthenware pattern, offered by one of the country's leading china firms, seems especially appropriate.

Table decorations need not be expensive to call forth admiring comments from your guests. In your own kitchen you'll find the base—literally—for one interesting party centrepiece.

An ordinary funnel serves as the foundation for a stylized Christmas tree, which can be quickly twisted into shape using wire. Tip the end of each wire branch with a sparkling red or green Christmas ball. Make a tree for each end of your table.

The ball motif is repeated in round red table mats, edged with green ball fringe, which you can easily make yourself from Indianhead.

This gay table setting looks best when modern dishes of plain design are used. For this purpose, try a coupe-shaped porcelain white plate to offset the vivid Christmas colors.

If your're planning a buffet supper or a dessert-and-coffee treat to climax an evening of canasta or conversation, try a casual table setting.

Silvery birch logs, aglow with dramatic red carnations, are effective against a green cloth. White-edged holly, with bright red berries, wreathes squat candles to complete the Christmas scene.

With this are used china plates decorated with a floral pattern that repeats the red spotted about the table in carnations and berries. Jade-colored cups, saucers and serving pieces are high-lighted against the darker green of the tablecloth.

THE EXPERTS SAY

Present List Dos and Dont's For Christmas Gift Parcels

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, Dec. 8 — (CP) — Make those Christmas packages as pretty as you please if they're going directly under the Christmas tree.

But if they're being mailed first, save the glamorous touch for the inside wrappings. Once again hard-pressed postal officials urge Christmas-givers to wrap their parcels in heavy paper and to fasten them securely. And be sure to write legibly.

Finally, don't send matches in the mail.

These are a few precautions to make certain all gifts reach their destination intact and in time.

Parcels destined for faraway spots such as Britain and the continent should have been mailed several days ago. Deadline dates for the nearby places are approaching. Cards and parcels for local delivery should be mailed not later than Dec. 16.

Food Parcels Welcome

It may not arrive in time for Christmas, but a gift food parcel is always welcome in the United Kingdom despite the fact conditions have improved considerably since a year ago.

Tinned meat is one item to include—and sweets. Both are still rationed over there. Pudding and cake mixed also would be appreciated because they can be made without eggs which still are hard to get.

Shredded coconut and dried fruits also are welcome by British housewives.

Forms to Get

To expedite delivery in the UK of the gift parcels containing only food, discarded wearing apparel or soap, a yellow label (No. 61) obtainable at post offices should be attached.

The usual customs declaration for (91B) fully completed, must be affixed to all parcels addressed abroad. The latter should bear an alternative address if possible or indicate what should be done with the parcel in case of non-delivery. Otherwise such undeliverable parcels containing food or used clothing will be distributed through charitable organizations in the UK.

The total value of the contents of parcels sent to the UK or other countries without an export permit must not exceed $25.

Kay Rex Says, Buy Christmas Seals

It's Christmas again and time to buy the Christmas seals which are being distributed across Canada to help in the fight against tuberculosis.

Last year in Ottawa area alone 275 cases of tuberculosis were discovered when 84,000 persons were X-rayed. Many of these required immediate treatment while others were placed under observation.

It's early discovery which counts in the anti-tuberculosis drive—and more money is needed to carry on the necessary X-ray work.

Glitter Brightens Headwear For Evening Fashions

EVENING HATS for the holidays are small, dramatic with jewels and feathers. Walter Florell's white marocain pillbox (left) is webbed in black mesh caught with rhinestones. Brilliants sparkle (upper centre) on John-Frederics' black mesh cap with ostrich waterfall. Sally Victor does a heavy ribbed silk cap (lower centre) in white, gives it a halo of tubular trimming. A close-fitting cap (right) of white mesh, a John-Frederics design, is dotted with rhinestones, edged and tied with black velvet.

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK —(NEA)— When evening comes, a woman wants a small hat. She hasn't always been able to get one in the past. But for the holidays, she can take her pick of small hats which have the brilliance of meteors.

This season, a man has a fighting chance of attending the theatre and seeing a whole play without craning. The lady in front of him may be wearing a cap so small as to be scarcely visible.

One such cap, designed by John-Frederics, is in white mesh studded with rhinestones. It's edged in velvet and has a tiny open crown edged, too, in velvet. This airy cap fits the head snugly and is therefore extremely convenient to wear.

Designers like white for these holiday hats. Sally Victor, for example, has a dramatic white evening hat in heavy ribbed silk. The hat is chiefly a halo created from spaghetti-like tubing.

White appears again in a marocain pillbox by Walter Florell. The heavy silk of the hat is covered by black mesh sprinkled with rhinestones. A spray of black ostrich is anchored to the front by a glittering clip.

Black liked almost as well as white for these hats, is used by John-Frederics for a mesh cap lighted with brilliants. The look of height at the back of this shallow hat is achieved by a waterfall of shiny black ostrich feathers. There's a small, sheer veil which shadows the eyes.

What's Right

Your poor memory for names is a constant source of embarrassment to you.

WRONG: Decide it is a handicap that you will have to put up with.

RIGHT: Try to improve your memory for names, by writing down the names of the new persons you meet and memorizing them, thinking of people always by name, instead of as "the butcher" or Mr. Jones' secretary, etc.

Urges Memorial to W.I. Founder

TORONTO—(CP)—The newly-elected president of the Women's Institute of Ontario has suggested a suitable memorial be erected at historic Stoney Creek in the Niagara Peninsula as a permanent memorial to the Canadian founder of the world-wide women's institutes.

The president, Mrs. R. G. Purcell of Fort William, said members of the W.I. cherish the home of founder Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless as a sanctuary and the mainspring of the international movement.

Mrs. Purcell is the first provincial president of the Women's Institutes from Northwestern Ontario. A native of North Bay, she spent some years in Collingwood, then moved to Calgary and taught in Alberta before getting married and settling down on an Alberta farm.

Later, she moved to Fort William.

Last summer she was one of Ontario's official delegates to the triennial conference of the Associated Country Women of the World in Copenhagen and was named Ontario's representative to the British Commonwealth Women's Institutes meeting held at Lady Denham College near Oxford, before the Copenhagen conference.

DOROTHY DIX

Should Wife Stick to Man Who Can't Make a Living?

DEAR MISS DIX: What should a woman do who is married to a man who is kindly and moral, but a man who just can't make a living and support her or can't even support himself? He isn't especially lazy, just has no initiative, no pep, no faculty of getting along. What is a wife to do with a husband like that when she knows he will never be different? Should she divorce him and marry some man who would give her a decent living? Or should she just stick to her bad bargain? What hope is there for her?

ANSWER: There isn't any hope for her in her husband and the sooner she recognizes the fact and adjusts her life to meet it, the better for her. It is a bitter thing for a woman to realize that the man to whom she is married is a weakling who cannot do a man's part in the world and provide for his family, but she only wastes time if he is that type of man, in befooling herself into believing that somehow, someway, he will change into a go-getter.

Dorothy Dix

Not His Nature

He never will. He can't just because it isn't his nature to. Inefficiency is bred into his very bones, and why some people can never do anything just right; why their judgement is always at fault and they always make the wrong decision in every matter; why they always get cheated in every trade they make; why they are always just too late to get the job they applied for; why they will work like beavers as something in which there is no profit and be simply invaluable at a picnic or a church supper and be worthless in a store or office, nobody knows. It is just that they are, and their wives have to accept them on that basis.

What a wife does with this sort of a husband is so manifestly her own affair that no outsider dare interfere. Many a woman loves such a husband well enough to support him and to think herself lucky in having him.

But the one certain think in all this welter of doubt about what to do about the no-account husband is for the wife to face the situation squarely and realize that somebody in the family has to work, somebody has to support the household, and if her husband won't do it, she must do it.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: In the office where I am employed there are about twenty-five men and women. Recently the discussion got around to marriage, the various ages at which people should marry and the difference in years between the sexes at the time of marriage. We would like your opinion upon which makes the happier marriage: People who are virtually the same age or where the man is six to ten years older than the woman.

X. Y. Z. GROUP

ANSWER: It is foolish to deny the importance of the ages of the high contracting parties in marriage and yet it is a matter about which no hard and fast rules can be laid down. So much depends upon the personality of the individual. For instance, it is generally conceded that twenty years' difference in age between a husband and wife is too great, yet if the man is youthful in disposition and gay in temperament, and the girl is settled ahd mature in character there is, in reality, no disparity in age and they may safely marry.

Also it is generally agreed that it is better that the man should be older than his wife and that it is risky for a man to marry a woman who is more than five years older than himself.

Generally speaking, however, men and women have a better chance of happiness in marriage if they choose mates who are near their own ages and who have the same tastes, habits and background that they have. The matter then, of six to ten years doesn't count one way or the other.

DEAR MISS DIX: My wife and I have been married for thirty-three years and have got along very happily until now when a dispute has arisen between us about where we shall be buried. My wife wants to be buried in her family lot. I wish to be buried five miles away in a beautiful mausoleum. Now, should I forfeit my wishes and be buried by her side in her lot, or would it be all right to be buried separately, each in the spot we wish? What would people think and say about it?

LEONARD

ANSWER: After you are dead I don't think what people say about you will be of much interest to you one way or the other. So I entreat you not to spoil a happy married life by arguing over such a silly matter. Why don't you compromise by taking a gambling chance on the matter and leaving it to the one who survives to select the burial spot?

Four Win Labrador Pieces On Draws at Grenfell Tea

Treasurer Mrs. F. M. Somerville reports very satisfactory financial results from the sale and tea held Thursday afternoon by local members of the Grenfell Labrador Mission. No expenses are involved, through the generosity of members in providing refreshments and especially Miss Clara Morris who gave her home at 483 Homewood Ave. as setting for the event.

Attendance was possibly lowered on account of the weather but this group is accustomed to bad treatment from the weatherman who annually sends snow, slippery roads or rain on the day of their tea.

Those who found it impossible to attend may still secure pieces of the distinctive handicraft through Miss Linden Hall, and the stationery and Christmas cards through Mrs. F. C. Anderson, up until the end of this year.

Four lucky persons now have samples of the Grenfell work because their tickets were drawn yesterday by Mrs. Peter Westbye who was asked to do this honor for the organization. Luckiest is Miss Margaret Stevenson who won a handsome white wool embroidered rug. Miss Jane Gillespie is winner of a hooked work bag and Miss A. Robinson of a hooked change purse. A walrus tooth key ring holder was won by Miss May Jory.

Mrs. E. H. Howson was in charge of the sale of raffle tickets.

A table of home cooking was attended by Miss A. Robinson and Mrs. T. LaBranche.

President Mrs. Gordon Rutherford welcomed the tea guests and they were invited to the tea room by Miss Maude Rush.

The lace-covered tea table was centred with a lovely bouquet of 'mums and the lighted candles were in high brass candalabra on the sideboard.

Mrs. S. D. Carver and Mrs. W. Dorrington Sr. were the tea pourers and servers were Mrs. J. Mills, Mrs. Ethel Rutherford, Miss Mary Medd and Mrs. J. L. McKeiver.

Surviving Gaiety Girls of 90's Will Do their Stuff Next Week

By ANN BUCHANAN.

LONDON, Dec. 8 (Reuters). — Ankles that launched a thousand magnums of champagne in grandpa's day will be seen again in London next week, when the last surviving gaiety girls dance the Lambeth walk at a Christmas party.

Leading the dancers, some of whom have reached 70, will be Rosie Boote, one-time toast of stage-door johnnies and now the Marchioness of Headfort.

Many of the white-haired girls have seen their names switched from the bright lights to the pages of Burke's Peerage.

For the stage door of the old Gaiety Theatre, birthplace of British musical comedy in the naughty 90s, was often the gateway to the stately homes of England.

And in the golden era before the First World War, the eager suitors for the lovely gaiety girls had more than coronets to offer. There was money as well as blue blood.

Olive May, an old gaiety girl who married the Earl of Drogheda, left £28,000 when she died two years ago—a paltry sum compared to the £178,000 left by her co-star, Mary Moore, widow of producer Sir Charles Wyndham.

Did All Right

Known as the haughtiest of all the gaiety lovelies, Phyllis Broughton did not marry into the Peerage. But she successfully sued a peer's son for breach of promise and left £220,000 at her death.

Maxine Elliott, daughter of an American sea captain, in addition to having a figure that won her leading roles in musical comedy, had a brilliant financial brain. She left a fortune of £330,000 and her lawyer once said of her: "if she had been a man, J. P. Morgan would have been her secretary."

Both Louise Reynolds, who married Baron Brampton, and Lily Langtry (Lady De Bathe) left nearly £50,000.

Gertie Millar, said to be the essence of all that was meant by "gaiety girl" inherited £400,000 from her husband, the Earl of Dudley.

Only illness has prevented her from joining the dancers at the party next week, for the "girls" like nothing better than a reunion where they can throw dignity to the winds and recall the days when foreign princes drank champagne from their slippers.

The event was well attended, the proceeds amounted to $147.50.

At the Christmas meeting of Confederation Home and School Association Wednesday evening the resignation of Mrs. J. Stuart was accepted and Mrs. C. Thompson was introduced as new president of the organization.

Mrs. Stuart, who has been president for the past two and a half years is shortly moving out of the city. Appreciation of her services was expressed by principal Mr. J. Nicholls and she was presented with a gift from the members by Mrs. L. Monk.

Announcement that Mrs. Thompson will be the president was made by Mrs. D. Wood.

The program was arranged by Major Cyril Everitt who presented a quartette from the Junior Salvation Army band in several selections and they accompanied the audience for carol singing. Major Everitt's Christmas message was delivered in parts between each carol.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. G. Kiff and her committee.

Of Interest to Women

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"George put them up there to remind him of summer, so he can be glad it's winter!"

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Eating Fat to Reduce An Idea of Faddists

Gullible Gussy is at present following the faddists that are eating fat to reduce.

Did you read that article on eating one part fat to every three parts lean meat that you consume if you are trying to lose weight, and that you should have a pound of steak every day? (Pete loved that pound of steak every day part.)

Since I had time while I was away to do a little reading and experimenting and since my eager-beaver Garny was willing, we explored the possibilities of this theory.

She recalled vividly, feeling embarrassed to the point of real tears when she was a school girl and her doting Dad delivered a hot lunch like they were serving at home to her and her brother at the country school. But they did not appreciate it. They wanted "side meat" and biscuits, left-over and cold—like the farm children ate.

"Side meat" was new to me so she fixed us some. Her daughter Dora Jean is a chip off the old block for she begs her Mum to put it in her lunch too.

. . . and by golly, it is good, in fact it's delicious. We Canadians with our large hog population should serve it regularly. It is a money saver, and with its natural accompaniment—milk gravy—the flavor combination is unbeatable.

It looks like sliced smoked side bacon ,but is wider and paler, and the lean meat is redder, because it comes from big sows and is uncured and unsmoked.

Fried Side Meat and Milk Gravy

The slices of side meat are about the thickness of thick sliced bacon. Cut the strips in half crosswise and dip in pale cornmeal and fry in skillet without any additional fat. Have the heat high and keep turning pieces over until crisp and golden. As they are done, lift out onto paper towel and keep very warm. Provide at least 3 pieces for each serving—preferably 4.

To about one-quarter cup fat and the sediment of cornmeal that is in pan add 3 level measuring tablespoons flour, stir until smooth then add 1⅞ cup whole milk and stir until thick. It should not require much salt but a little pepper is good. This makes a gravy slightly thicker than medium white sauce.

To serve with the side meat boil small potatoes with their skins on, and use the milk gravy liberally over them.

Garny says cabbage in some form—preferably slaw—is the traditional accompaniment for this meal.

Please give me credit for leaning very much to the economical side today.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Warble Fly Control To Be Discussed Dec. 12 At 1:30 p.m. — Crop Improvement Association Fears Wild Carrot Invasion — Northumberland Juniors Remain On Farm, Ralph Banbury Finds — Most Farm Forums Favor Pensions.

W. P. Watson, Livestock Commissioner for Ontario, is coming to a meeting Tuesday, Dec. 12 at 1.30 p.m. in the office of the Department of Agriculture to discuss the Warble Fly Control Act.

Notices have been mailed by F. C. Paterson to reeves, clerks and other municipal officers inviting them to this meeting which is intended to encourage local campaigns against the warble fly. It is promoted by the PeterboroughAgricultural Committee and the agricultural committee of the county council.

The announcement quotes Clause 2 of the Act: "Upon receipt of a petition which in the opinion of the clerk of the municipality bears the signatures of more than two-thirds of the cattle owners in the municipality, the council shall pass a by-law requiring all the cattle within the municipality to be treated for warble fly."

Directors of livestock organizations are invited, and farmers generally will be welcomed.

HOLSTEIN DIRECTORS

Directors of Peterborough Holstein Breeders' Association were re-elected by ballot at the annual meeting of the members last Saturday. They are: Vern Campbell, president; Henry Sharpe, Norman McConkey, J. T. Tully, Joseph Coughlin, Stuart Nelson, Ernest Fife, Edward Bulmer, Alan Davis, Walter Thorn, Everett Elmhurst and Earl Doris.

Mr. McConkey was nominated for director of the Canadian Holstein-Friesian Association in a motion by Mr. Tully and Mr. A. Bolton, and it was decided to arrange for a coach to attend the annual convention in Toronto.

Local Black and White shows in the Central Ontario area brought out 18 per cent more exhibitors than in 1949, Roy Ormiston, fieldman reported. Total for ten counties was 1,052.

The members expressed their thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wood and family for the pleasing arrangements they made for the barn meeting held at their home in the spring.

John Stuart, Jr., of Old Orchard Farm, a full fledged Holstein Club member, was the winner of the electric clock which was decided by a draw at the close of the meeting. Hector Crowley won the rug.

Amendment Discussed

Registration of bulls should require ROP dams, thereby emphasizing production in the maternal line of sires, as proposed in an association amendment that is coming before the Toronto convention, was discussed by Mr. Ormiston.

The amendment is: "No male animal born after March 1, 1951, shall be accepted for registration unless its dam has (a) been classified at least the equivalent of 'Good Plus' in selective registration and (b) completed a qualifying record in Canadian Record of Performance or its equivalent in another recognized testing system recognized by resolution of the board of directors.

The amendment admits this exception: "The above requirement (b) shall be dispensed with if the dam is a first calf heifer, whose own dam has a recognized production record 20 per cent in excess of the qualifying requirements of the Canadian ROP."

The meeting supported this proposal, and another "If the dam has a record exceeding ROP qualifying amounts to 50 per cent"; but was opposed to another possible exception: "If the bull is out of a dam graded Excellent or Very Good, but without an ROP record."

Mr. Ormiston said that any one who could not afford a bull from an ROP dam should use an artificial unit.

"There are enough bulls available with records of ROP dams. We've raised the butter fat by 1-5 of a point, but we haven't increased production, and we must remember that the US market is based on production," Mr. Ormiston advised.

John Tamblyn, Orono, salesman, reported $19,952 total sales in the year of which 51 were registered animals averaging $375.

DISCOLORED SEED

Because of adverse weather conditions in 1950, officials of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, point out that much of the registered and certified seed will likely be graded "Registered No. 3" and "Certified No. 2", mainly owing to discoloration. Prospective buyers of seed should bear in mind that even the lowest grades of registered and certified seed are of selected seed stocks which have been well processed and which offer more reliability than the top grades of general commercial seed.

Registered and certified seed are selected seeds of recorded pedigree, which have been tested for purity as to variety, freedom from weed seeds and other kinds of seed, and have been inspected, graded and sealed in closed containers by an inspector of the Department of Agriculture.

JUNIORS STAY ON FARM

If Northumberland juniors judging teams are not producing a conspicuous number of provincial and national champions, they are evidently inspiring their members with desire and decision to remain active farmers. They are not being lost to agriculture.

That was a comforting observation of Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative in Northumberland, since the Royal Winter Fair.

Judging teams are chosen from youths under 26 who have shown more than average interest in field flock and farm.

Mr. Banbury remarked as follows: "On our first team were Ambrose Atkinson of Roseneath who with his father is farming with special interest in Holsteins and Yorkshires; Lloyd Merrill of Campbellford and Bruce Eagleson, Cobourg, are both farming their own places and have established homes and families.

In 1947 it was Earle Nelson, county junior farmer director, Campbellford, in agriculture with his father; Bruce Elmhirst, Campbellford in partnership with his father, and Delmore Merrill, one of the members of Alex Merrill and Sons, Campbellford.

The next year it was Will Curle who farms with father Garnet at Campbellford; Alfred Gooding, Hilton, now with father, Percy Gooding, and Rosswell Mann, who is also with his dad at Baltimore.

This year the team was composed of Jack Dorland and Ross McMaster Hilton, who are sons with father on the same side of the same road, and Carman Atkinson who makes up one of the sons on the home farm at Roseneath."

"The future farmers are not in any hopeless conditions when we can say that 100 per cent of the County Judging Team boys are engaged in agriculture and promise to be the best farmers and logical leaders of their community. Into them has gone the training of their day but its value can be measured best by their desire to learn the things that make them more useful citizens and to demonstrate that the future of the farm is in sound hands. This is important for all of us as agriculture gives everything with the lone exception of salt that everyone has to eat today".

FARMERS FAVOR PENSIONS

Consensus of Forums reporting on the broadcast subject "Pensions for Everybody?" favored old age pension of $50 a month beginning at 65, with no means test at 70. In the event of war farmers felt that pensions should be paid only to those in need.

That was the essence of the Toronto digest. Westwood Forum added this: "We believe the government should proceed with its pension program whether an international crisis develops or not. Family allowances went into effect in time of crisis, and there were no serious repercussions. Old age pensioners need relief now, and the government should go ahead with necessary revisions."

Lily Lake Forum approved $50 a month beginning at 65, but in a national emergency of defence "the older men are gainfully employed and earn enough to support themselves." Another comment was: "We found that everyone contributed toward pensions and was therefore entitled to a pension in his old age, and without a means test, but operated under a scheme similar to family allowances."

Fairview Forum reflected divided opinion, some advocating pension at 65 without a means test and $50 minimum. The other group contended that people should be industrious "so that we wouldn't need a pension."

Central Smith Forum agreed that pensions should begin at 65 to those who needed it, with a means test, and at 70 to everybody, the pension being $50 in both cases.

SECURITY FOR FARM LABOR

The Forum subject for Monday, Dec. 11, is, "Would more security for workers solve the farm labor question?"

Farm Forum Guide says Canada lags far behind most other agricultural countries in social security legislation for farm workers. In many countries farm workers are unionized. Minimum wages are set in Britain, France, Argentina, New Zealand, Finland. Hours of labor are regulated in Great Britain, Denmark, The Netherlands, Sweden and some other countries.

Other security and indemnity are afforded here and there. "It will be noted," says the Guide, "that all the above measures (holidays with pay, workmen's compensation, unemployment insurance, minimum wages, etc.) apply in the United Kingdom but only one or two in Canada and the U.S.A."

It is possible that some Forum speakers may argue that the farm labor problem is closely related to the farmer's fundamental problem of income.

COMING DATES

Some of the meetings, booked for next week, are: Concentrated Milk Producers, Wednesday, Dec. 13, at 8 p.m.; Kawartha Medical Tuesday, Dec. 12, at 8 p.m.

ALBERTA VISITORS

L. C. Hiatt, of Indus, Alta., and Russell Coonfer, of Dalemade, Alta., both in the Calgary district, were present with Ernie McWilliam of Dewart Milling Co. at the Federation luncheon. Mr. Coonfer and Mr. McWilliams were companions of agricultural college days. The western visitors are members of the Dairy Farmers of Alberta.

AN OCEAN OF MILK

Despite feed shortage last winter and spring, Dr. H. A. Derby, of the Canada Department of Agriculture, estimated to the Ontario Creamery Association that the overall milk production this year will be about 16.7 billion pounds, the same as last year.

Evaporated milk and dry whole milk are the only two concentrates showing an increase in production for the first ten months this year, as compared with a year ago.

Decrease in butter consumption evident in 1948, has been halted, and to the end of October the disappearance has been 16 million pounds greater than a year ago.

The increase in butter consumption coupled with the decrease in production this year, has resulted in reducing storage holdings of butter from the large stocks of Jan. 1, 1950. Supply from now to May 1 will be barely sufficient to meet requirements, if the trend of consumption is maintained throughout the winter.

"Total milk production in Canada," Dr. Derby said, "is not keeping pace wtih the increase in population and increase in per capita consumption of milk and its various products. In 1925 with a population of some nine million people, Canada produced 12.5 billion pounds of milk, 74 per cent of this being used domestically and 26 per cent exported either as fluid milk or manufactured products. With a population of more than 13 million in 1949, Canadian farmers produced 16.7 billion pounds of milk, more than 94 per cent of this going into domestic consumption and about six per cent exported. Had there been no dairy products exported in 1949, this six per cent total milk production would have made approximately 45 million pounds of butter."

CROP IMPROVEMENT MEETING

Experiments with birdsfoot trefoil by Earl Petrie, Stuart Nelson and Bruce Graham this year have not produced a definite rating as substitute legume locally for the purpose of the Peterborough Crop Improvement Association. Advance information that it was a slow starter was generally confirmed.

The annual meeting of the Association Thursday re-elected Robert Armstrong of Cavan as president, Bert Armstrong of Otonabee and Lyle McMillan of Asphodel, vice-president, and F. C. Paterson, secretary-treasurer. Directors are unchanged for 1951.

Bert Armstrong was appointed voting delegate to the provincial convention, and Robert Armstrong as county representative.

Mr. Petrie's observation that birdsfoot trefoil planting did not make " a big showing" this season was endorsed by Mr. Nelson and Mr. Graham

"I couldn't see much of it this fall," Mr. Nelson said, "but it should make more growth next year."

Two of the lots were sowed with oats as a nurse crop, and Mr. Graham used timothy and red clover.

"I think it was about six inches high the last time I looked at it," Mr. Graham said.

Recommends Hybrid Corn

Bert Armstrong reported his hybrid corn "about as good a crop as last year." It was machine picked "when well matured," is stored on a convenient barn floor, and shows only little moisture going through a hammermill.

"It makes real good feed when mixed with other grain, but I think anyone who is starting should sow only a small acreage at first. It makes a good job, and I feel that more should try it."

Mr. Armstrong said there were few cobs left on the ground after Stewart Dawson's picker did the harvesting.

"Over 100 bus. to the acre in the cob is a lot of grain," Mr. Armstrong remarked.

Side-dressing with nitrogen is a general recommendation born out in local practice. Sowing an early variety was emphasized.

"Leave the cobs on as long as you can," was the advice of Stuart Bowman. And Ken Fallis reported a field of corn sown with rape which he said proved a combination of abundant feed, with no weeds.

Wild Carrot Threat

The meeting appointed Bert Armstrong and Wellington Sutton to interview the county council in January about a more active campaign of weed control.

Queen Ann's Lace, the wild carrot is propagating itself in this part of the province, and is a threat to the land.

"Once your roadsides become polluted with it, you'll not sell another bushel of registered clover seed," said Mr. Fallis of the crops, seeds and weeds branch of the Ontario Department.

Not so long ago "all the wild carrot you could see in Hastings wouldn't cover half an acre; now you see it on many of the roads, and it is working into the fields."

"If there is no wild carrot on the roads, I venture to say you won't find it in the fields," Mr. Fallis said.

Opinion of the meeting was that Alex Huston had done "a fine job" as weed inspector, but he didn't get enough support.".

"Too many people just don't give a darn," was one of the comments.

Thanks of the association were expressed to Robert Armstrong for the demonstration of grain in test plots last summer.

It was decided to visit the Harry Blewett farm next season, and there will probably be a winter meeting.

BUILT-UP LITTER

Built-up litter in the poultry house should begin with four to six inches of any of the common litter materials, as recommended by D. C. Kennard of Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station. More should be added as the first becomes worked over, broken up and dirty. At about twelve inches of depth, bacterial action (something like the compost heap) begins to break it down into a humus-like material which is warm and absorbent. Adding an inch or two of additional litter from time to time helps to keep it from getting too dirty.

Poultry-raising practice keeps an eye on ventilation especially in zero weather when there may be an idea of closing everything tight. Dampened litter resulted with caking over the surface with consequence time spent with a rake and hydrated lime, trying to get it broken up and dried out.

FEDERATION "STALWARTS"

The attendance of about 50 men and women at the Federation of Agriculture luncheon Tuesday was "a little disappointing" to the president, W. W. Dawson.

"I want to express my appreciation to the stalwarts of our Federation. They turned out on each occasion of this series of luncheons. Through your co-operation these luncheons have become talked about across the province I wish to thank the members of our committees and also Peterborough county council for their support."

Mr. Dawson said that, without the Federation, the cause of Canadian agriculture would be set back 50 years.

The luncheon this week was the last of the 1950 series, and the first of the new winter season. "I sincerely hope we will be able to carry on."

The address Tuesday by Dr. E. A. Corbett, director of the Canadian Association for Adult Education, carried a pathetic overtone in its appeal for time, not of the moment, but as least another generation for the leaven of adult education to continue its influence among free people of the world. It was a form of helpless protest against the Communistic threat to the momentum and influence of adult education in Canada, the United States, Great Britain, Scandinavia and other countries, after recovering from the years of arrested development during the war.

School of Farm Forums

Dr. Corbett cited impressive evidences of accomplishment in the educational phase of the co-operative movement beyond its economic enterprises and progress. It is something which Canadian farmers themselves do not fully realize especially in its personal effects, because they are too close to it. The Federation of Agriculture, with its many laterals, including Farm Radio Forum, which Dr. Corbett extolled as the great school of its kind in the world, is an impressive example of new interests and vitality of life that are spreading among the rural people of this country.

And the brotherhood and goodwill and unity of effort that is cultivated in the constituent groups spreads throughout all of them into their national organization, and beyond it into the world of its associates.

Canada's substantial participation in the International Federation of Agricultural Producers is evidence of the actuality of tremendous achievement based on all the little component groups of farmers in this nation that have come into being in the fifteen years since the Canadian Federation of Agriculture was conceived.

Its shining ideal is to help men to become masters of themselves and directors of their common affairs. And the threat to its objective is the Communism under which, Dr. Corbett said, free co-operatives have been stamped out.

HYBRID SEED CORN PRODUCTION

Hybrid corn has practically replaced the old open-pollinated varieties of corn in all the corn growing areas of Ontario. In the chief husking corn areas of the extreme southwestern portion of Ontario, over ninety-five per cent of the corn acreage is planted with hybrid seed. In the central and eastern sections, where corn is grown mainly for ensilage purposes, the replacement of open-pollinated varieties has not been as rapid; yet today approximately seventy per cent of the ensilage acreage is planted to hybrids.

Because of the great care which must be given to the maintenance of inbred lines and the making of the single and double cross, and the special equipment needed for processing the seed, the production of hybrid seed done by relatively few people. Several of the commercial hybrid seed companies of the United States have agents or branches in Ontario and are producing seed of their particular hybrids in Canada. Even so, about fifty per cent of the hybrid seed produced in Ontario is of Wisconsin origin or of hybrids developed at the Dominion Experimental Station at Harrow and the Division of Forage Plants, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Seed of this group of hybrids is produced under a co-operative scheme between the Dominion and Ontario Departments of Agriculture. The Dominion Department of Agriculture is responsible for the maintenance and multiplication of the inbred lines. The Western Ontario Experimental Farm, Ridgetown, makes the single cross parental stocks and distributes these to the hybrid seed producers.

No Holds Barred In Pacific As Navy Men Try To Steal Esther Trophy For Wardrooms

ABOARD HMCS CAYUGA, OFF KOREA COAST, Dec. 8 — (CP)— In the battle for the Esther Trophy, "brute force" (firearms, knives excluded) is recommended but "exceedingly low cunning and vile stealth" are also permitted.

Esther is a plexiglass-covered photo of a movie star and it has been spirited from wardroom to wardroom aboard allied ships in Japan since the end of the war.

At this writing, Esther reposes in the wardroom of HMCS Cayuga. The last night in port before the present patrol, Cayuga's officers employed "vile stealth" to get it out of Sioux's wardroom.

Did Dirty Work

While one officer engaged Sioux's duty officer in earnest conversation—the two ships were alongside—two others crept over Sioux's forecastle at 3 a.m. and down into the wardroom and did their dirty work.

Sioux had had Esther for only two weeks.

Sioux's officers used a Canadian football play—the lateral pass off an end run—to swipe the photo from the Australian destroyer Bataan.

Sioux had heard about the trophy only a short time before the attack against Bataan.

During a party on Bataan, an officer stuffed Esther under his shirt. Things went well until he was walking over the brow—down the gangplank. The photo fell out. The Aussies rallied their ranks and charged. Sioux's quarterback retrieved the photo and lateralled to another officer just before he was pounced on. The second man tore down the jetty. He was tackled from behind but managed another lateral to a third man, who made Sioux with a nice sprint.

Most Dashing Episode

Probably the most dashing episode in Esther's history was the attack made by two officers of the US destroyer Orleck on the Bataan in July, 1948. They paddled to Bataan's anchor chain in a punt, shinnied up, walked by the watch, snared the photo and departed the same way. Bataan has held the trophy five times.

The original photo was presented to an officer in the Bataan in 1942. At the end of the war, the Bataan put it in circulation for ships working in occupied Japan.

The trophy cannot be taken out of this theatre. If a ship moves to another theatre or home, she must give up the trophy.

The photo must be displayed in a prominent place in the wardroom so invading officers can get at it. There have ben relatively few gory battles. "Exceedingly low cunning and vile stealth" are apparently preferred to "brute force."

Increase For Growers

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 8 (CP). — An increase in the price paid to Ontario's 4,300 sugar beet growers was predicted Thursday night by Eugene King of Paincourt, chairman of the Ontario Sugar Beet Market Board. Mr. King spoke to about 100 Middlesex and Elgin sugar beet growers at the annual meeting held in Medway high school. Mr. King did not indicate the amount of the increase.

Careless Driver Had Poor Brakes

Found guilty of a charge of careless driving, James F. Carmichael, 211½ Hunter St., was Thursday in police court fined $15 and $6.75 costs.

The charge was laid in connection with an accident at George and Romaine St. in which Carmichael's car, a taxi, met in collision with a car driven by Lawrence Kennedy.

Kennedy testified that the night of Oct. 27 he was driving north on George St. He said it was raining hard when he suddenly saw Carmichael's car coming through the intersection.

Carmichael testified as he approached George St. he put his foot on the brake pedal about four or five car lengths back from the intersection. But nothing happened. He pumped the pedal five or six times before they partially caught. He said he cramped his wheels to the left to try to avoid the collision.

Murray Hill, who was working in a service station on the corner at the time of accident, testified he heard the crash. He tried the brakes of Carmichael's car after the collision and the pedal pushed to within about an inch of the floor on the first pump before exerting pressure.

The next morning he examined the fluid in the brake system and found it down "to a certain extent."

Britain Would Trade Dollars to Get Scarce Materials

LONDON, Dec. 9—(AP)—Britain is rapidly reaching the point where it would willing swap its United States dollar aid for supplies of such scarce raw materials as zinc, copper and cotton. Informed sources predicted today that: The United States will soon suspend Marshall Aid to Britain and will allocate some of its scarce commodities to Britain and other American Allies in western Europe to aid their rearmament programs.

With its new defence program just getting under way, Britain already is running low on zinc, copper, aluminum, cotton, wood pulp and sulphur.

In addition, the Korean war has sent prices of rubber, tin and wool rocketing, forcing Britain to produce more and more in order to pay its still-austere way.

Many British officials blame stockpiling of critical materials as the great single factor in sending prices booming. The United States' clamp-down on exports of some commodities also has hurt.

More Important Now

"Getting our hands on scarce commodities is more important to us than dollar aid," said one official.

British and American officials here have been discussing the future of Marshall Aid for some time.

A joint announcement is expected in about a week. Informed sources believe the flow of dollar aid to Britain will be suspended. Some few Marshall Aid projects, such as technical aid to British colonies, may be continued, but the bulk of the dollar aid will be cut off.

Britain's recovery strides in recent months have been great. Its gold and dollar reserves reached $2,756,000,000, highest since the end of the war. Another increase is expected in the final quarter of this year.

Plan To Boost Pay Rate In Armed Forces

OTTAWA, Dec. 9 — (CP). — Pay increases for Canada's armed forces, reported to range up to as high as $60 a month, likely will be announced next week, authoritative quarters said Friday.

These sources said the government is in the last stages of consideration of the pay increases, with final approval and public announcement expected next week.

It was considered likely that the service pay boost would be accompanied by a hike in civil service salaries, which have been under Cabinet consideration for several months.

There was no official indication of the extent of the service pay increases. One report said they would run from $14 to $60 a month, depending on rank, for both officers and men.

8 Per Cent Cost Increase

Increase of that magnitude would add about 8 per cent to the current service pay bill of around $117,000,000 a year. There are about 63,000 men in the forces. Nor was it known whether the increases would be confined to basic pay rates or whether subsistence and marriage allowances would be boosted as well.

It is known that Defence Minister Claxton has been pressing for increases for some months. He has argued that they would help recruiting and quiet some of the complaints of servicemen that they are finding the financial going tough.

Pay problems were blamed for some of the absenteeism in the army's special force. Some of the men contended they could not support their families on current pay rates.

Find Sabotage On Troop Ship

SEATTLE, Dec. 9—(AP)—A 12,000-ton vessel used in transporting troops and military cargo from the United States to Korea has been sabotaged in the port of Seattle with extensive damage, naval authorities reported last night.

The vessel is the A. W. Greely. The sabotage was revealed by Capt. M. E. Eaton, deputy commander of the U.S. military sea transportation service of the North Pacific.

The Greely was damaged in five places, Capt. Easton said. He said damage was extensive.

The Greely now is undergoing repairs at Bremerton, Wash.

The date when the damage was done was not revealed.

Military Chiefs Meet In London

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—(AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the United States joint chiefs of staff, announced today that military chiefs of the 12 North Atlantic Treaty countries will meet in London next Tuesday.

The meeting is expected to speed up western defence preparations by:

1. Seeking an agreement on the manner in which Germany can share in the program.

2. Setting the stage for early appointment of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower as supreme commander of the Western Defence Force.

Bradley said the military committee will consider military and political problems with particular emphasis upon the problem of German participation in setting up anti-Communist defences.

The North Atlantic Council of Deputies agreed earlier this week on a plan to recruit 100,000 Germans under a civilian administrator.

Shocked Fathers Learn Still Bachelors On List

NORWICH, Dec. 9 (CP)—What this Oxford county village needs most, its newly-elected council has decided, is an up-to-date voters list that will eliminate its bachelor-fathers.

Councillor Howard Butler, who led the election poll, said he was shocked to find that although he is married with two children in public school, he's still listed as a bachelor.

No less shocked was Glenwood Rishes, public school trustee, who is still described as a bachelor although he's been a benedict 10 years.

The mistakes got worse as the council delved further into the list. They found villagers who have been dead for years listed as eligible voters.

Communists Expand Activities In Congo

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Dec. 9—(Reuters)—Communists are reported to be expanding their activities in the uranium-producing Belgian Congo, feeding seditious anti-European propaganda to the natives through secret native sects.

Colonial circles here say that at Elisabethville, in the south Congo, selected native Communists have already been designated to sabotage the large uranium mines at Shinkolobwe, at a time considered opportune by the Kremlin.

The same circles say that 27 Belgian Congo natives were shipped to Russia to take propaganda courses at Lenin University in 1949. A number of these "students" were later sent to Malaya and Indo-China to take an active part in the organization of armed revolts.

More than 60 natives from the Congo are expected to be sent to the Soviet Union this year as "student agents," the reports state.

No Travel Time Given For Special Force

OTTAWA, Dec. 9—(CP)—The army's special force soldiers at Fort Lewis, Wash., will get the same Christmas or New Year's leave as other members of the armed forces, officials said Friday. For many of them it won't give enough time to get back home.

There will be no special travelling time allowed. So if they can get home and back in the time allowed, that's up to them. If they can't, they won't spend Christmas at home.

Conciliation Attempted For Sudbury

Speedy Settlement To Keep Teachers Association Hope

KINGSTON, Dec. 9—(CP)—F. B. Pense, president of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees Association, said today his association has started attempts at conciliation of a wage dispute between Sudbury secondary school teachers and the Sudbury high school board. He said he hopes for a speedy settlement.

Mr. Pense said T. W. Mayor of the Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute staff, president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Association, left Friday night for Toronto with a view to arranging for a conference between members of the Teachers' Association and the Sudbury board.

Mr. Mayor planned to telephone J. G. Lowe, Sudbury board secretary, from Toronto.

The teachers seek a general increase of $800 a year to bring their salary minimum to $3,000 and the maximum to $5,400. The board offered a minimum of $2,500 and a maximum of $4,300, with a $300 increase now and a yearly increase of $200, subject to the maximum.

Won't Let Cargo Go To Hong Kong

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 9 (CP)—The collector of customs today refused to grant clearance to an American cargo vessel until the ship's owners posted a $50,000 bond guaranteeing no cargo would be unloaded at Hong Kong.

Howard MacGowan, the collector, said it made no difference that the objectionable cargo was loaded at a Canadian port.

The vessel, the Charles E. Dant, arrived here Thursday after stopping in Vancouver where it loaded 9,000 sacks of Canadian flour, 1,000 sacks of dry wheat gluten and a small quantity of engine parts for Hong Kong.

"If shippers could get around our rule that way," he said, "they would just ship their goods to Canada for transhipment to the Orient."

The bond was posted. The ruling means the ship, after calling at Oriental ports, must return the Canadian cargo to an American port.

Strict controls on shipments of all goods destined for Red China, Hong Kong and Macao were announced last Saturday by the U. S.

MARCH TO THE SEA—Marines walk down a snow-covered road near the Chosin reservoir where they scored their first break-through in their march to the Sea. Today, in an even tougher retreat from Koto, they linked up with rescue troops, strengthening them for their dash through the death canyon held by the Chinese.

Trapped Marines Confident They'll Make It

By JACK MACBETH

KOTO, Korea, Dec. 9 (AP) — American Marine patrols have pushed three miles south out of Koto on the road leading to Hamhung port and are in command of important hill positions.

(This dispatch was telephoned from Koto at 10 a.m. Saturday. MacBeth, a native of Toronto and a former sports editor of the North Bay Nugget, is the only war correspondent with the more than 20,000 Marines and doughboys trying to break through encircling Chinese Red forces and reach the sea of Japan coast at Hamhung, 45 miles from Koto.)

The patrols on both sides of the road have set up flank protection for the main body of troops trying to get down the road.

In the first stages of their withdrawal from the Changjin reservoir to Koto, the leathernecks and doughboys had no flank protection but many got through. Now their chances of driving through the Chinese wall south of here are good.

Planes Arrive

C-47 transport planes began landing here Saturday morning. The Koto airstrip had been attacked by Chinese Friday.

We got no air support Friday because of bad weather. There are a lot of wounded to get out of here.

The skies now are blue and clear. A wave of planes came overhead soon after sunrise. They are working over Chinese troops on both sides of the road.

There was a small attack during the night on the northeast perimeter of Koto. For a while the airstrip was closed by gunfire but it was soon opened.

Roads leading out of Koto are narrow and slippery. They wind down off the plateau into the valley.

We will make it all right (to Hamhung). The losses will be very costly but we will make it.

RCN Destroyers Evacuate 7,000 Wounded, Civilians

LONDON, Dec. 9—(Reuters)—The Admiralty said today the Canadian spearheaded withdrawal by sea of 7,000 wounded and civilian refugees from the Pyongyang area was one of the "most hazardous naval operations of the Korean war." Six destroyers, under Capt. J. V. Brock of Vancouver and Winnipeg, took part. They were the Canadian Navy's Cayuga, Athabaskan, and Sioux, the Australian Wallamunga and Bataan and the Forest Royal of the United States fleet.

The Admiralty told the story in typical dry phrases which said:

"Through darkness and through the swept channel of a minefield, the destroyers navigated 30 unlit miles of the shallow waters of the Daido Ko estuary to cover the withdrawal of civilian, non-essential military personnel and wounded from the Pyongyang area to more advantageous positions.

"Led by Cayuga (ship of the senior officer, Capt. Brock), the Athabaskan, Sioux and Warramunga, Bataan and the Forest Royal ploughed through heavy seas and thick snow storms to the mouth of the Taedong River which serves the principle west coast port of North Korea, Chinnampo.

Orders to Fire

"Their orders were to provide if necessary gunfire support and anti-aircraft fire during loading of other casualties and port personnel in the dock area which is some 30 miles on the Daidoko Estuary.

"Capt. Brock intended to wait till daylight rather than face a night navigation of the unlit estuary with its treacherous shoals and minefields but a signal that the withdrawal program at Chinnampo was ahead of schedule made him decide to take the risk of a night voyage up the river.

"Slowly the six ships began up the tortuous swept channel through the minefield, in many places only 500 yards wide, with visibility almost nil.

Attlee Leaves For Ottawa

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 — (CP)—Prime Minister Attlee of Britain took off from Idlewild Airport at 10:19 a.m. EST today in an RCAF plane bound for Ottawa. Three Canadian Cabinet ministers accompanied him.

In the group accompanying Attlee were L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs Minister, Defence Minister Brooke Claxton and Hugues Lapointe, Veterans Affairs Minister. Sir Alexander Clutterbuck, Britain's High Commissioner in Ottawa, was a member of the party.

The luxurious RCAF four-engined C5 transport plane carrying the group was heading for Rockcliffe Airport.

Mr. Attlee is to be given a state dinner by the Canadian Cabinet tonight. Besides meeting with Canadian government leaders Sunday, he will make a country-wide broadcast on the international situation and at noon will hold a press conference.

Terrific Explosion Levels 2-Storey Plant

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 9 (AP)—At least a dozen persons were reported injured today in a terrific explosion at the plant of the American Waterproofing Company.

First reports were the two-storey plant virtually was levelled. The blast was felt in the downtown area, 3½ miles from the plant.

Chinese Trap Closing Fast As Allies Racing Time, Navy Ships Standing By

Every Inch of Advance Costly For U.N. As Soldiers Struggle Forward; Fight Part of Way Through Raging Blizzard

TOKYO, Dec. 9—(AP)—Greatly-outnumbered Allied 10th Corps troops battled 100,000 Chinese Communists and blizzard blasts today with new hope of rescue and evacuation by sea from northeast Korea. Reuters News Agency quoted front-line reports as saying the trapped U.S. Marines and Infantrymen along with British Commandos today linked up with the rescue troops. Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy, United Nations Naval Commander, told war correspondents on the northeast front that his ships are standing off Hungnam port in the Sea of Japan in readiness to meet "any eventuality."

This apparently meant a "little Dunkerque" withdrawal for Allied ground fighters able to battle their way to Hungnam to board the ships.

Three American divisions and two of the Republic of Korea are either trapped or menaced gravely by the Chinese Red hordes spread over the rugged, frigid northeast Korea sector.

Admiral Joy made his any eventuality remark when asked by correspondents whether the sea escape was planned.

Urgent Conference

It came after an urgent conference Joy had with Maj.-Gen. Edward M. Almond, 10th Corps commander, and top navy marine officers aboard ship at Hungnam.

The more than 20,000 1st Division Marines and 7th Division Infantry men were the largest intact unit of the forces trying to reach Hungnam.

They were inching southward from the Changjin Reservoir area toward the coast.

Almond at 1:30 p.m. Saturday (11:30 p.m., EST, Friday) announced they were nearing a link-up with a northbound rescue column from the coast.

The Changjin force started breaking out of encircled Koto

Big 4 Will Try To Ease Tension

PARIS, Dec. 9 (AP).—Diplomats of the big three western powers agreed "in principle" today to meet Russia in four-power talks in an effort to reduce world tension.

The British and American ambassadors concluded a conference with French foreign office officials by agreeing on the general content of three separate notes the three governments will send to the Soviet Union.

The notes will answer the Russian suggestion of Nov. 3 that four-power talks be held on Germany.

It was learned authoritatively that the western diplomats rejected the proposal of meeting solely to discuss Germany, but will agree to a big four meeting on all the world's problems.

These probably would include the Austrian treaty of independence, which is being blocked by Russia after more than three years of four-power negotiations, and the far eastern situation, including Korea and the Japanese peace treaty.

Sponge Kills Patient Wife Sues Dentist

OTTAWA, Dec. 9—(CP)—The death last February of Lee Robert Holt, 20, has resulted in a $15,000 action against Dr. Percy Nesbitt, Ottawa dentist.

At the hearing in Ontario Supreme Court this week, Dr. Max Klotz, who performed the autopsy, testified he found a rubber dental sponge which had blocked Holt's windpipe. Dr. Klotz said death was caused by strangulation.

Vote Delayed On Korea As Russia Stalls

LAKE SUCESS, N.Y., Dec. 9—(AP)—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky is expected to issue a Communist blast against alleged American aggression in Korea today.

Col. Ben Limb, foreign minister of the Republic of Korea, is scheduled to answer him with the charge that the war in Korea is part of a world-wide Communist conspiracy.

The word battle takes place (10:45 a.m. EST) in the United Nations 60-member political committee which is debating a resolution ordering the Chinese Communists out of Korea and guaranteeing to respect their frontiers.

Vote Delayed

Vishinsky already has claimed that there is no Chinese intervention in Korea and that soldiers of the Communist Peiping regime rushed voluntarily to the embattled peninsular out of spontaneous enthusiam to help their Communist comrades.

Cuba's Gustavo Gutierrez denounced this version of the facts Friday as nothing but the old shell game by which Vishinsky was trying to cheat the free world as a mountebank does the peasants at a village fair.

American delegate Ernest A. Gross said Friday night that the United States had given up hope of reaching a vote today and did not expect the issue to come to a head until some time next week.

8 Die In Flats 100 Flee Fire

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (AP)—Fire swept a crowded four-storey flat building on the south side today, killing at least eight unidentified persons.

Firemen searched the ruins for other victims and said the death toll may be higher.

One woman reported her husband and five children missing. Of the bodies recovered, one was that of a baby.

Several of the more than 100 persons living in the stone and frame structure fled from their rooms before firemen arrived

Couldn't Find Job Father Of 4 Killed

OAKVILLE, Dec. 9—(CP) — Ben Matthews, 28, jobless father of four young children, was found dead today at a railway crossing east of here. His mother said he had been out looking for a job Friday and was despondent because he could not find one.

His widow, expecting a fifth child in February, was overcome by shock when told of his death.

Matthews' body was found by the crew of a small freight train at the Canadian National Railways crossing at the eighth line just east of this town 20 miles west of Toronto. However, it was thought that another train that passed earlier had struck him.

Truman In Hot Water Again, Would Use Fists To Keep Family Honor

Music Critic Dares To Say Daughter's Voice Flat

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (AP)—President Truman has threatened in a blistering letter to beat up, from top to bottom a music critic who said daughter Margaret's voice was flat.

The letter — on White House stationery, in the President's own handwriting — went out on Wednesday to Paul Hume, critic for The Washington Post, who had turned thumbs down on Miss Truman's concert in Constitution Hall the night before.

This unofficial version of the President's letter was published Friday in The Washington Daily News:

"I have just read your lousy review buried in the back pages. You sound like a frustrated old man who never made a success, an eight-ulcer man on a four-ulcer job, and all four ulcers working.

"I never met you, but if I do you'll need a new nose and plenty of beefsteak and perhaps a supporter below.

"Westbrook Pegler, a gutter-snipe, is a gentleman compared to you.

"You can take that as more of an insult than as a reflection on your ancestry."

Confirm Truman Writer

The letter was signed "H.S.T."

At first, White House officials denied knowing whether Truman himself had written it.

Later they confirmed that he had written to Hume, and one source said the published version sounded like what he wrote.

Hume himself said the published version was almost word-for-word with the letter he received, except that it left out a couple of paragraphs. There were hints that the full version contained language at least equally strong.

Can't Sing Well

Hume said in his review of the concert that Miss Truman "can not sing very well" and "is flat a good deal of the time."

"There are few moments during her recital," the review continued, "when one can relax and feel confident that she will make her goal, which is the end of the song.

"It is an extremely unpleasant duty to record such unhappy facts about so honestly appealing a personality. But as long as Miss Truman sings as she has for three years, and does today, we seem to have no recourse unless it is to omit comment on her programs altogether."

Truman has shown resentment before—mostly in private—when the critics panned his daughter's singing. And more critics have panned it than have praised it—although the criticism doesn't seem to have affected her concert hall, radio and television audiences.

Hume is 32 years younger than the 66-year-old president, and weighs 165 pounds to Truman's 180 or more. Friends said he had no intention of engaging in any controversy, fistic or otherwise, with the president.

The 34-year-old Hume declined to make the full text public. He said in a statement:

"I can only say that a man suffering the loss of a close friend and carrying the terrible burden of the present world crisis ought to be indulged in an occasional outburst of temper."

Refers to Ross

The reference was to Charles G. Ross, Truman's secretary and long-time friend, who died a few hours before Miss Truman's concert.

Pegler, mentioned in Truman's letter, is a syndicated columnist who frequently has lambasted the Truman administration and the New Deal.

In a statement Friday night in New York, Pegler said:

"It is a great tragedy that in this awful hour the people of the United States must accept in lieu of leadership the nasty malice of a President whom Bernard Baruch in a similar incident called a rude, uncouth, ignorant man. Let us pray."

Pegler said Baruch spoke of Truman in such a way to him, Pegler, after Truman wrote the financier an angry letter about the time of the 1948 Presidential election.

U.S., Britain Will Push Rearmament

If Reds Will Accept Just Peace Will Halt Arms Race

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 — (AP)—President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee held open to Russia and Communist China today an offer to negotiate—but with "no thought of appeasement"—the settlement of the Korean conflict and other crucial world issues.

The offer was coupled with a grimly - determined agreement that until the Communist powers "modify their conduct" in the interests of peace, the United States and Britain must push with maximum speed their military preparation for the defence of the free world.

Essentially, the President and Prime Minister in their joint summary Friday of their historic talks put the blame squarely on Russia and Communist China for the dangerous state of world affairs. And they called on those countries to change their ways so "the defence preparation" would become unnecessary.

This proposal to end the east-west arms race, qualified as it was with rejection of any "appeasement" or any Korean settlement which would have the effect of "rewarding aggression," apparently has little prospect of Communist acceptance.

Well informed diplomats said the proposal was designed to make clear to the world that the British and American interest in defence is paralleled by constant readiness to seek a peaceful way out of the world's troubles.

Need Strong Forces

The communique emphasized the need for a military buildup in western Europe and for a peaceful settlement in the Far East, it that is possible without appeasement. It deliberately avoided referring to Chinese "aggression" in Korea and mentioned only "intervention."

It also reported that Truman agreed to keep Attlee informed of any circumstances which might appear to make the use of the atomic bomb necessary. That was generally assessed as an implied promise of the opportunity for consultation.

Both British and American officials said no secret agreements had been made during the talks.

The joint American-British statement disclosed both agreements and disagreements covering these main problems:

Korea—The United States and Britain, are ready to seek an end to the hostilities by negotiation." If the Chinese Reds are not willing to join an arrangement to end their intervention and restore Korean independence, the U. N. will have to decide what to do about the situation.

Purely Defensive

Rearmament — The military power of the United States and Britain "should be increased as rapidly as possible because "adequate defence forces are essential if war is to be prevented."

Peace—The defence buildup of th western powers is a purely defensive measure. They agreed thy would do everything possible to "impress this view" on the Communist leaders and "to seek a peaceful solution of existing issues."

Communist China—The President and the Prime Minister frankly recognized the split in British and American policies due to Britain's recognition of the Red Chinese regime and America's refusal to do so. Britain also favors Communist China's membership in the U. N. which the U. S. "opposed and continues to oppose." However, the two leaders expressed determination to keep these differences from interfering with their co-operation in other fields.

Rule Against Jews

TORINTO, Dec. 9 — (CP). — The Ontario Court of Appeal on Friday ruled against five members of a Jewish congregation who tried to halt the sale of Goel Tzedec Synagogue on grounds they own eight pews. Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven said seatholders have no interest in the building or land.

MRS. CAROLINE MARY WESTMACOTT, of Millbrook, who died on Friday at her home; she was in her 96th year and was the widow of the late Rev. A. G. Westmacott. Funeral service will be held on Monday. Mrs. Westmacott was one of the leaders in St. Thomas Anglican Church for more than 40 years.

LACK READING

The General Sessions Grand Jury reported Friday that there is insufficient reading material at the County Jail. Sheriff John Harstone said that few magazines and old books have been received lately, and sent out a request to city organizations to contribute old magazines and books to the prisoners.

AGRICULTURAL ADVICE

"Three practical farmers"—Deputy Reeve Dick Stewart and Reeves Ross Harrison and James Gifford — have been appointed, along with Agricultural Representative Frank Paterson, to bring in a report to the 1951 county council on agriculture at the County Home, Lakefield. They will pass judgment on present production, what crops would be most suitable, and what new farm implements are needed to work the land. This special committee will work with the County Home committee under the chairmanship of Reeve William C. Grant.

MORE ON MARKET SITE

County council has appointed Reeve Melville Johnston and Deputy Reeve Dick Stewart to sit in with the Producers Committee and the Property Committee of the city council to arrange for a market site in the city. And the council went on record as being solidly behind this group's efforts to try and find an alternate site.

HOUNDS AFTER DEER

Several hounds thought they were back in the deer hunting season Friday. They caught the scent of the deer at the filtration plant zoo and then tried to break through the wire fence to get at them. The Humane Society truck drew up; one of the hounds was captured and the others vanished. The deer were not harmed.

"It was three o'clock that morning before the lookouts could make out dock buildings dimly in the darkness. Captain Brock took up position, and his ships were at action stations waiting for the dawn and the possibility of enemy attack.

"That day the transports were loaded with wounded, Republic of Korea civilian refugees and nearly 2,000 port personnel, and altogether about 7,000 personnel were withdrawn.

"There was no interruption from the enemy.

Wrecks Port

"When the last ship had left the port, Capt. Brock decided to remain at anchor for another night in the dock area, and next day, after ordering remaining civilians and others out of the military area, his ships shelled oil storage tanks, dock and harbor installations, and supply dumps.

"Commercial and civilian parts of the town were untouched."

The statement did not give the date of the operation. There was some resistance, but no Canadian casualties.

Jury Reports On County, City Buildings

On Friday afternoon the grand jury for the general sessions brought in their report and recommendations. After finding true bills Wednesday in two criminal cases, they were sent out to inspect city and county buildings.

Of Civic Hospital, they said "the appearance and housekeeping of this wonderful new hospital are excellent." At St. Joseph's Hospital, facilities were found to be "adequate and in excellent condition."

The House of Refuge they found to be in "acceptable condition", but recommended redecorating of some rooms and replacement of fire hose in the building.

Need Elevator

An elevator to help older people to move from floor to floor in the House of Providence was suggested, as well as a more modern fire alarm system.

At St. Vincent's Orphanage, a new fire hose was recommended, and the grand jury found that the window opening on to the fire escape with difficult to open. A separate recreation room for children was also suggested.

Redecoration of the walls and ceiling in the county court room was urged, as well as replacement of washroom facilities outside county court chambers with more modern facilities.

Prisoner Complains

One prisoner at the county jail complained to the grand jury that he had not yet been transferred to the Ontario Reformatory, although he was placed in county jail in September.

Sheriff John Harstone explained that accommodation at the Ontario reformatories is crowded, and that the prisoners could seldom be transferred as soon as they were sentenced.

New flooring in the dining rooms at Anson House was recommended, as were concrete coal bins for the Children's Shelter.

Liscum's Condition Remains Critical

Clarence Liscum, 26, of Apsley, is still in critical condition in Civic Hospital. He received serious head injuries late Thursday afternoon in a collision between two stake-body trucks on Highway 28, a mile and a half south of Lakefield.

His condition is "unchanged," said hospital authorities today.

William Donegan, 56, of McFarlane Street, Liscum's companion in the north-bound truck, is reportedly better. He too received head injuries and facial cuts.

The three Lakefield residents in St. Joseph's—all of them occupants of the second truck involved in the accident—are said to be improved. They are Mr. and Mrs. George Jessup, both 26, and Mrs. Ray Dunford 24.

Mrs. Dunford received a fractured nose and facial cuts; Mrs. Jessup cuts on her right leg and head; and Mr. Jessup, skull and knee injuries.

Liscum, the most seriously hurt of the five, operates a lumbering and sawmill business north of Apsley.

Friday, heading for Hungnam, 45 miles away.

Fighting in blizzard conditions that deprived them of air support, the 20,000 were fired upon by dug-in Chinese Communists overlooking the icy mountain road down to the lowlands and the sea.

Secrecy was kept over the whereabouts of the 7th Division's 17th regimental combat team and two South Korean divisions. The 17th, only U.S. unit to reach the Manchurian border, was ordered days ago to withdraw from the Yalu river border town of Hyesanjin.

Some elements of the South Korean capital division, which had pushed north toward the border from Chongjin, were evacuated by water. The rest were reported withdrawing by land to Hungnam.

Millbrook Gives Council An Acclamation

MILLBROOK, Dec. 8 (ENS) — All municipal offices were returned by acclamation Friday night so there will be no election this year in Mlilbrook.

Reeve Dr. J. W. Wright was returned for his third consecutive term. Previously he spent two years as councillor.

All four 1950 councillors were nominated, but as G. F. Harrington is now visiting in Mexico and perhaps would not accept office, his nomination was withdrawn. His place was taken by Basil Richards, a newcomer.

The other three councillors are H. J. Raper, beginning his second term; Weldon Coulter, third term; and Clifford Larmer, second term.

School trustees are L. H. Winslow, a trustee since 1939; David Fowler who has completed a term; and Dr. M. E. Hobbs, a trustee since 1942.

The other two trustees, not up for election this year, are Mrs. W. W. Kennedy and Fred Lowery.

Dr. Hobbs also represents Millbrook on the Durham High School Area board, and Mr. Winslow is the representative for Durham county.

Also in by acclamation is Stewart Snelgrove, starting his second two-year term of office as hydro commissioner. The other commissioner is Cecil Sutton.

England Draws Match With Queensland

TOOWOOMBA, Australia, Dec. 9—)Reuters) — England drew their two day cricket match with a Queensland country team here today after an exhibition of carefree hitting.

The English side, which scored 428 for six wickets declared in the first innings, put out the Queensland team for 220. England did not enforce the follow on but batted again in deference to the wishes of the home captain who wanted the local crowd to have a second chance of seeing the tourists in action.

England rattled up 294 for seven in quick time before declaring a few minutes before the close. There was not enough time left for the Queensland side to start their second innings. It was the eighth draw of the England team's tour.

Royal Program During 1950 Most Spectacular Since 1939

By MURIEL NARRAWAY.

LONDON, Dec. 9 (CP).—The Royal program for 1950 was the most active and spectacular since pre-war days.

Pageants, state visits, command performances, ceremonial openings of parliament and a succession of lavish evening functions found the Royal family in the public eye as seldom before.

The pomp and glitter all Britain loves made austerity almost a forgotten word in court circles.

In a more personal way, too, it was a memorable year for the King and Queen, the two princesses and Queen Mother Mary. Bonds of affection and respect between the Royal family and the public were tightened with the birth of a daughter Aug. 15 to Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. Christened Princess Anne, she became third in line of succession ahead of Princess Margaret.

Growing-up Year

For Princess Margaret, 1950 was something of a growing-up year. The gay, style-conscious young princess who two years ago startled Buckingham Palace by dancing the naughty French can-can at a party, gradually assumed an increasing share of official duties.

The first big event of the year was the state visit last March of French President Vincent Auriol and Mme. Auriol. This was the first state visit since 1939 and a natural setting for the dazzling English elegance.

The occasion found Princess Margaret a lonely Cinderella, confined to her room with a heavy cold. Her consolation came in November when the popular Queen Juliana of the Netherlands accompanied by her consort Prince Bernhard, came to London for three days.

Country Week-ends

The King, apparently recovered after his illness of 1949, left many lesser public engagements to the Queen and to Princess Margaret. Spending long weekends at Sandringham and Windsor, shooting and generally enjoying country life, he built strength for heavier duties in 1951.

In Scotland, Margaret celebrated her 20th birthday with a round of social engagements including a visit to the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch, parents of the 27-year-old Earl of Dalkeith, one of her most frequent escorts.

This visit, coming after Lord Dalkeith's presence at Windsor for the Ascot racing meetings, during which he drove to the course in Margaret's carriage, gave rise to much speculation. Many newspapers openly prophesied an engagement.

Margaret's increasing share in state duties allowed Princess Elizabeth more time with her husband and family. Twice during the year, Elizabeth joined her husband at Malta.

Follows Example

Uncertain when leaving London of her whereabouts at Christmas, Princess Elizabeth was tempted to take the young Prince Charles with her. Her son's first Christmas was spent away from her during another visit to Malta. The Princess, however, is following her mother's example and giving her children as unbroken a schedule as possible.

The birth of Princess Anne made 1950 a special year for Queen Mary. In her 84th year, she is the first British Queen-Mother to have seen two great-grandchildren born in the Royal inheritance. Although she has withdrawn from public life and rarely undertakes public engagements of her own, Queen Mary is still a notable figure on most state occasions.

Characteristic of the Queen-Mother's patriotic generosity was her recent gift to the nation of a 12-panelled carpet in exquisite antique design, on which she had worked for eight years in her leisure hours. She stipulated that the carpet should be offered for sale to raise dollars the nation so urgently needed. A beautiful example of gros point embroidery, the carpet was bought in Canada by the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire.

Indignation and concern were voiced when a break-in at Marlborough House, London residence of Queen Mary, was announced June 23. Miss Alice Knight, the housekeeper, surprised the prowler and suffered serious knife-wounds. Later, Gerald O'Brien, a gardener, was sentenced to eight years in prison.

Thomson Asks Frost Report On Hydro Rates

WELLAND, Dec. 9 (CP) — Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal party leader, Friday night challenged the government of Premier Frost to declare what reduction below cost in hydro power rates pulp and other industries enjoy.

"What do Long Lac and other Thunder Bay companies pay?" he asked in an address to the Welland County Liberal Association during which he criticized the government's hydro policy.

"What about the manipulation whereby the Frost government paid $5,000,000 for the Camm plant at Fort William? This was an exorbitant payment, estimated to have been 50 per cent more than the plant was worth. Yet Premier Frost takes credit for saving Abitibi (Power and Paper Company) from bankruptcy, and the company has been given power at a bargain price."

Mr. Thomson said that Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, "had no training mentally, physically, or any other way for the job and had better get out of the post before we ask him to get out."

"He would serve us much better if instead of flitting about in a $250,000 plane he would stay at home and take the reports of hydro engineers."

Will Need Year To Complete Pension Plan

OTTAWA, Dec. 9 (CP).—Federal authorities look on January, 1952, as the earliest possible beginning of the contributory old-age pensions program considered at the federal-provincial fiscal conference.

The conference ended Thursday with the announcement that the governments will give early consideration to a constitutional amendment permitting the federal government to inaugurate a contributory system of $40-a-month pensions for Canadians of 70 and over without a means test.

Federal authorities estimated Friday that it would take at least a year to go through the necessary legislative steps and to get the administrative machinery in order. They said that while the program conceivably could be inaugurated in about a year it might be delayed by disagreement among the governments over the wording of the proposed constitutional amendment, or the outbreak of a third world war.

No decision has yet been reached on how the program will be financed, but some consideration is to be given to a 2 per cent levy on incomes. This would be collected along with the income tax and there would be a ceiling on the amount of individual contributions.

The federal proposal also included an offer to pay half the cost of $40-a-month pensions to the needy in the 65-69 age group. The provinces would pay half and they might finance their part of the program through an indirect sales tax at the retail level. A committee will study the proposal.

Charge Education Failing Produce Needed Qualities

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP). — Modern education has failed notably to produce the qualities that New Zealand business men want in their employees, according to a survey by the Auckland Chamber of Commerce.

Whatever other advantages the new education has, members of the Chamber by a large majority said that it does not produce good junior clerical workers.

The employers answered a questionnaire on whether standards of work by young employees were improving or declining. Half the employers said there had been a marked deterioration in the last 10 years. Others said the decline in standards had started earlier.

Those questioned included manufacturers, retailers, wholesalers, importers, exporters, accountants and insurance, banking and law offices.

Need Accuracy

On the question whether young employees showed accuracy and care in arithmetic, 64 per cent of the answers were in the negative. About the same proportion said they were not satisfied with the legibility and neatness in writing

On English grammar, including vocabulary and expression, well over half the employers said they were not satisfied.

The report said that the results of the questionnaire indicate that in those subjects where commerce requires a certain degree of proficiency the standard of juniors is unsatisfactory.

Different Attitudes

"The position disclosed is most alarming," it said. "The admission that the broadening of the curriculum in the interests of culture means less time available for the three R's demonstrates the different attitude held by the school stoward these subjects."

Apart from the ability of juniors to carry out their work satisfactorily, their attitude to their employment is also to be criticized, according to the survey. It found that the new teaching methods have not given employees a good approach to their work.

Only 14 per cent of the replies showed satisfaction on the question of an employee's thoroughness and dependability. Forty-eight per cent agreed that they were punctual, conscientious and loyal to their employer. And 3 per cent agreed that the junior workers were "imbued with common sense in their application to work."

Questioned whether the attitude to work and the employer was better or worse than 15 years ago, 80 per cent said it was worse.

The Chamber of Commerce, declaring it was depressing to find such low standards in spite of alleged improvements in educational methods, has forwarded the report to the Minister of Education, R. M. Algie.

Two Companies Refuse To Cut Prices On Cars

DETROIT, Dec. 9 (AP). — General Motors and Ford Friday night rejected a government request to rescind price advances announced for 1951 model automobiles.

Both said the request from the economic stabilization administration was "impractical," and added they were "disturbed" that such a request had been directed to them.

Meantime, General Motors announced its first higher prices with the introduction of the 1951 Chevrolet. The new price tags will be $60 to $80 higher than on the 1950 models. Similar increases are expected on Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac.

Wilson said the increases amounted to "something less than five per cent."

Newfoundland Calling On DP's To Aid In Development Program

By RUPERT JACKSON

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Dec. 9 —(CP)— Newfoundland is calling on the skills of Europe to help in her all-out development program, bringing Latvian brains and German machinery here to point the way.

Heading the group is Dr. Alfred Arthur Valdmanis, a master of economics who in pre-war days was called the "wonder child of Europe." Others in the group are Olga Leikucs, his secretary, another master of economics; Arnold Graudins and eight other Latvians who have been asked to accept technical positions with the provincial government.

Among these are bridge engineers, civil engineers, draftsmen and other technicians. Most are refugees from their native Latvia and some are still in the displaced persons camps of Europe.

Dr. Valdmanis came to Newfoundland last June. Since then he has established three new industries here, equipped with machinery made in Germany at comparatively low cost.

The first plant is a cement mill, to be constructed as a cost of $3,000,000. The other two involve gypsum deposits on the west coast to produce powdered gypsum and gypsum wallboard and lath. Both these mills will be built at a total cost of $2,000,000. These plants are at Humbermouth.

Coming Soon

Coming in the near future is a marine oil hardening plant near here. Nine other industries are under consideration. It is likely that German machinery will also be used to equip some of these.

Dr. Valdmanis was recommended to Premier Smallwood as an economist by Federal Trade Minister Howe. He came to Canada after spending most of the war in German and Russian political prisons.

He was professor of political economy at Carleton College, Ottawa, and later loaned to the Department of Trade and Commerce and Mines and Resources. From Ottawa he came to Newfoundland.

Most of the other Latvian economists and technicians have been reached by the Newfoundland government through him.

Stock Exchanges Attempt To Find Cause Of Market Fluctuations

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

These are uncertain times to say the least, and it is not surprising that stock markets share in the uncertainty.

Remember last week when they took a beating and then recovered? Well, this week they wondered whether they really should have recovered, took another dip to see how robuest they really are, and found they are indeed quite robust.

But at week's end they were still mulling it over. The world news is bad on one hand; and then, on the other, whether world news is good or bad, stocks still look quite good. And so they are torn a bit about what to do or think, as aren't we all?

To illustrate all this:

Last Saturday markets sagged a bit, wondering whether their very sturdy recovery from a Tuesday drop was the right decision.

Change Direction

On Monday they continued in this mood, only more so. Tuesday they about-faced and went ahead, and, in the main, continued the upgrade Wednesday. Then on Thursday, they turned cautious. Friday, on Canadian markets, was good. In New York railroads reached their highest in 20 years, but otherwise the advance wasn't decisive.

Perhaps as good comment as any is that which appears in Oliver Gingold's column in Wall Street Journal, which said last Tuesday:

"Great divergence exists and new highs will be made in individual stocks. Utmost caution and careful selection is advised. Strategic switching is in order. Long-term investment positions should be held until major distribution is apparent."

This comment illustrates how difficult the market is for the small investor. It is advice essentially for the person who makes a study of the market. But it is difficult for him, too, for, as Gingold said Wednesday:

"Stocks rebounded Friday to the surprise of professional traders who sold heavily in the week's opening session and saw nothing in the overnight news to encourage demand for securities."

Two Children Die In Measles Epidemic

HAMILTON, Dec. 9 (CP). — Two children are dead here as a result of measles and an epidemic of the disease is sweeping through Hamilton and Toronto districts.

Dr. L. A. Clarke, Hamilton health officer, said Friday the youngsters—one eight months old and the other a two-year-old girl—suffered from a particularly virulent form of measles.

About 450 cases have been reported here during December.

In Toronto, health officer Dr. Gordon P. Jackson said 275 cases have been reported this week as against only eight in the same period last year.

The measles is of the so-called "simple"—but serious—type as opposed to the milder German measles.

Asks Co-Operation

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 9 (CP)—Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario Ray Lawson Friday night called on service clubs, the YMCA and other organizations to co-operate with the Canadian Reserve Army in getting recruits during this "present international crisis." He was speaking to about 200 officers, former officers and guests at the annual London Garrison Officers' mess dinner.

Gen. McNaughton spoke in an address prepared for delivery before the inauguration of the Belleville branch of the Engineer-Institute of Canada. He is Canadian co-chairman of the International Joint Commission, which deals with Canada-U.S. border problems.

However, marriages totalled 88,218, compared with 89,750.

Canada Included

OTTAWA, Dec. 9 — (CP) — Canada will be included in any Anglo-American action on allocation of basic raw materials, a government official said Friday. He was commenting on a dispatch from Washington which said Prime Minister Attlee and President Truman have agreed on a 10-point common foreign policy.

TORINTO, Dec. 9 — (CP). — Mr. Justice R. I. Ferguson extended his sympathy to International Waxes Ltd., of Agincourt, Ont., but ordered the company Friday to pay a Cleveland, O., manufacturer $118,119 for breach of contract. The Frontier Is Still At Our Back Door

Visitors from the British Isles, and other Europeans, have now grown accustomed to thinking of Canada as something other than a waste of country inhabited by savages and Mounted Police. In fact, their thinking is so altered that, although they still expect to find Niagara Falls, they do not expect to see Red Indians, virgin forests or log cabins. They have heard so much about Toronto and Montreal, palatial tourist hotels in the Laurentians and the Rockies, gold bricks on Bay street, skyscrapers around the corner, that the openness of this country is a shock, and the sight of inhabited log houses a surprise. Greater must be the surprise when these are encountered in Ontario, the richest, most industrial and populous province, and when they are met with only a few miles north of such cities as this.

We who live here take for granted the emptiness of the north of this county, and the fact that Canadians generally are huddled along a narrow belt above the American border. Commonplace as these are, they are nevertheless remarkable. A citizen of this city can take a half-hour's drive north and he is in a wilderness. He can stand beside his car, look north, and, given some sort of magic telescope, would be able to see clear to the North Pole without a village, a factory, or even a house blocking his view.

The north of Frontenac county is wild. Next to it is the county of Lennox which hasn't even a town and so is joined to Addington for administrative purposes. Could an Englishman conceive of an entire county which has not even one town? Next to Addington is Hastings, with its rock and lake above Number 7 stretching north until the county merges in the vaster wilderness of Algonquin Park. True, there is a railway line running north through this county, which is itself part of the fantastic nature of the scene, with its infrequent trains and remote route. Next is Peterborough County. Despite the large industrial city which is its county town, and the arable prosperous land south of the city, two-thirds of Peterborough county is bush and lake and rock. North of Peterborough is Haliburton with its hills and relatively few settlers. Travellers along Highway 7 need not be told how wild and uninhabited these counties are.

The five counties with all their emptiness and wildness are the eastern-central heart of southern Ontario which is the busiest, most thickly populated sector of Canada. They touch or are within an hour's run of the Lake front which is our American border. It is fantastic, when one stops to think about it.

We in these parts, despite towns a century old, and fields which have felt the furrow for a century and a half, can still step out our back doors into frontier country and leave the trappings of civilization behind. As for log-cabins; they may be museum pieces in the U.S.A. but they are still the homes of many of our people; good homes, too.

An Unusual National Investment

An investment made by Finland fifty-three years ago may be said to have reached full maturity yesterday; it has been an uncommon sort of investment, and decidedly not the kind of thing our cyclical-budget wizards in Ottawa would recommend; but it has paid Finland richly. The investment was a modest annual pension granted to the composer, Jean Sibelius, when he was thirty-two years old. Yesterday Sibelius was eighty-five; he is beyond question the greatest symphonic composer of our time, and his place among the great names of music seems to be assured; he has brought honour to Finland in the highest measure, and he has made the name of Finland glorious in every civilized part of the world.

We do not suggest that the pension made Sibelius. But there can be no doubt that it set him free from the drudgery of teaching—that killer of creative genius—and made it possible for him to take the time that he needed to do his best work. That work is of noble quality and by no means inconsiderable in quantity—eight symphonies, nine tone-poems, a violin concerto, many songs, and works which have not yet been given to the public. His family say that the old master works every day on new compositions, even at his present advanced age, and it seems likely that we shall not have access to these new works until he is dead.

We do not know how much Sibelius gets from the Finnish government. Let us say, however, that it is $10,000 a year—it is probably much less. That means that the country has paid him $530,000, and has received priceless treasure in return. The political record of Finland has not always been clear and stainless in these difficult times, but the people of North America particularly have always been sympathetic and helpful whenever it lay in their power. And why? Because, to millions of us, it seems incredible that anything but the highest motives should prompt the actions of the nation which is celebrated in that great hymn of noble aspiration, Finlandia. When we think of Finland, we do not think of the ambiguous Mannerheim, but of the Swan of Tuonela. More than we recognize, our notions of Finland and its people are rooted in the music of Jean Sibelius.

This is not to argue that nations should cherish their artists in order that their artists should provide them with whitewash in time of need. Finland's enlightened assistance of Sibelius is not to be dealt with in such terms. But we must point out, as we have done so often before, that it is the art of a nation which most effectively presents its personality to the rest of the world, and Finland has given Sibelius what he needed—solitude and security—in order to produce great art. Only a very enlightened nation could have done it: only a great artist could have accepted such a gift without harm to himself and his work. Finland and Jean Sibelius both command the admiration of the world—and our own artistically barbarous country in particular—upon yesterday's happy anniversary.

The Quiet Sunday

Readers of our Giles cartoons know that a campaign is in progress in English towns to hush-up Sunday. There are officials who would close movie houses, public houses and other places of entertainment now open from Sunday noon. (A moralistic Labour attempt to make the people good and sober whether they like it or not?) It is curious that this movement occurs at the same time as a contrary agitation in Ontario to permit Sunday commercial sports. Last Monday fifteen communities voted on the question. It is interesting to know not only how these places voted, but which ones considered the matter lively enough to warrant holding a vote at all.

Fifteen Ontario communities voted on Sunday sports and ten of them turned them down. These were: Hamilton, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie, Kitchener, Waterloo, Guelph, Brockville, New Liskeard, Cobourg and Whitby. The five voting for Sunday sports were Fort William, Essex, Sandwich West, Capreol and Wolfe Island. It seems therefore that the cry for Sunday sports is hollow, if loud. Judging from the results of last Monday's polling, Ontario favours the quiet Sunday, in name and law at least. After Monday's results, there is not much likelihood of other communities bothering to vote on the question for a few years to come.

Perhaps we are somewhat previous in this surmise. Even though Cobourg has turned down Sunday sports, Port Hope and Lindsay have yet to register their opinions on the question—which they will do on Monday.

NOTE AND COMMENT

And so, as Canasta moves into Oblivion, an Oriental shadow steps forward with a gesture of greeting; it is the ghost of Mah Jong.

President Truman says that he is for the underdog because he has always been one himself. We have observed that an underdog has to get on top before he is ready to make any such admission.

In the entrance lobby of the Public Library is this titillating sign: "DO YOU UNDERSTAND THE RUSSIANS?" Of course. Let's get on with the next question.

Mr. St. Laurent says that the gravity of the situation is likely to mean an increase in income tax. Just for curiosity, we should like to know what combination of circumstances would make a politician foresee a reduction in taxes.

A psychologist says "the best way to treat old age is to ignore it". Fine! Out you go, Grandpa, and shovel that snow. Now, now, Grandpa, that's not thrombosis—just a little gas around the heart. Get up, Grandpa, you look silly lying there in the snow. Hm, Grandpa never was much of an ignorer.

The first Briton to arrive in Canada under the Dominion Government's new scheme to subsidize air passage for immigrant workers comes from Ayr, Scotland. His name is Silvio Galli. But he speaks "in the soft tongue of Ayrshire", a reporter says, despite his having lived in Italy almost all his eighteen years. Wonderful what chance birth in Scotland does for one's tongue.

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Raymond Cataplasm, M.D., F.R.C.P.

Dear Dr. Cataplasm:

I read an article the other day about the richest man in the world, an Armenian gentleman named Gulbenkian who owns a lot of oil wells. He is now over eighty, and he hopes to live as long as his father, who died at the age of 106. The article described his meals in detail. Two facts about them impressed me; each meal (he eats four times a day) takes 45 minutes; each meal ends with a plate of Turkish sweets.

I have never taken 45 minutes to eat a meal in my life. I can eat eight courses in fifteen minutes. Can it be that I eat too fast for long life and health?

I detest Turkish sweets. They appear to me to be made of raw mutton fat into which low-caste Turks have ground carraway seeds by rubbing it between the soles of their feet.

However, Gulbenkian eats slowly and he eats nasty things, and he expects to achieve a great age. Perhaps you would like to quote his example to a few patients who are not so hasty and fastidious as,

Your perennial patient,
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

To Chandos Fribble, Esq.

Esteemed Fribble:

Because of your scientific interest, I am sure that you have observed the tremendous popularity of public address systems and intercommunication systems in recent years; they are in all sorts of places where they are not needed. But yesterday I came across a use for these affairs which directly bears upon your Canadian version of the Kinsey Report, which I understand you are working on at present.

I was in Toronto, in a modest restaurant of the cafeteria type, where they had a microphone on the counter; through this a boy of about seventeen gave orders to the cook, who was four feet away from him, behind a partition. It was interesting that he used the mike to speak to her, but when she spoke to him she simply stuck her head through the service hatch and gave tongue.

It was the boy's use of the mike which fascinated me. When he spoke to customers he used his ordinary, epicene, lisping voice, but when he used the mike he bayed like a bloodhound. He dropped his chin on his chest, relaxed his throat and roared in the rich, syrupy tones of a radio announcer. Now and then he sang a few bars into the thing, in a style modelled upon that of Bing Crosby.

He did this, obviously, to fascinate and ensnare the female customers, and he did it in all seriousness. What is more, he was clearly succeeding with several young women who stood in line near me; they gazed upon him lubriciously, and sighed. When you prepare your report don't forget to mention that a microphone can be a substitute for muscles in alluring the female.

Yours in the interests of science,
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

To Hengist Marchbanks, Esq.

Dear Cousin:

As the Christmas season draws near I think it as well to signify my intentions to all relatives concerning gifts. Because of inflation I shall have to raise my usual expenditure of 75 cents a head for Christmas gifts to $1.00. Will you, therefore, buy yourself something valued at that sum between now and the 25th, and when that day comes, let me see it; if I think you have chosen wisely I shall give you a pretty tag with "From Sam, with Love" on it which you can attach to it, and a dollar bill, as well. Do not attempt to make anything on this transaction. I know the present range of dollar goods very well.

Uncle Gomeril writes to me that he is meeting inflation by giving us all rubber balloons, which we can inflate ourselves. Aunt Bathsheba is giving bottles of soda water, so that we may be inflated personally, to march with the times. Cousin Gengnis, who believes in deflation, is giving pinches of bicarbonate of soda, prettily gift-wrapped.

Yr. Affct. cousin,
S.M.

To Miss Nancy Frisgig:

Charming Nancy:

I visited my old school a few days ago, and I cannot tell you how pleasant it was to see so many boys working away at their lessons, without a girl to be seen. I have always been against co-education. If there is one thing which kills a boy's interest in girls, it is having to sit with them in school, listening to their silly answers to easy questions, and observing how miserable they look early in the morning and when they are hungry.

Most people think that I dislike co-education because I think that boys and girls, thrown together, neglect their lessons in favour of romance. Nothing could be farther from the truth. I think that girls should be kept away from boys in order that there will be a proper relationship between the sexes in later life. A boy who knows too much about girls is like a boy who grows up in a confectioner's shop; proximity has killed his taste for what should be one of his principal preoccupations. But a boy who has been educated only with boys, and whose illusions have not been ruined by adolescent girls with their giggles, bands on the teeth and incessant colds in the head will be a splendid subject for romance when at last he is let loose upon the world.

You might mention this to any members of the Department of Education whom you meet in beverage rooms.

With deep regard,
SAM.

To Amyas Pilgarlic, Esq.

Dear Pil:

When I was in Toronto a few days ago I visited Toyland, as I do every year, just to see how the Christmas Racket is getting along. Toyland is as hot as ever; the temperature was not a smidgeon under 90 F. Most of the customers, like myself, wore full winter outdoor dress, and were suffering hideously. The only really comfortable people appeared to be the gnomes and elves who were helping Santa; these were young women ranging from the toothsome to the merely wholesome, dressed in shirts and very short shorts.. This association between Santa Claus and the female underpinning fascinated me; Santa was there for the children, but the gnomes were there for the fathers—in a very limited sense, of course.

Santa himself, beneath his paint and ample white beard, seemed to be about 28; when children approached him his eyes rolled in an agonized fashion which betrayed the youthful bachelor. A photographer was on the spot, assisted by a leggy female gnome, taking pictures of every tot with Santa. This impressed me as a fine stroke of commercial whimsy, and I started up the runway myself. "Where you goin'?" said a blonde gnome with a large bust, catching me by the arm. "To have my picture taken with Santa", said I. "It's just for kids", said she, trembling a little and looking for the manager. "I am a child at heart, gnome", said I. But she had pressed a button in the wall beside her, and at this moment a store detective appeared, wearing the insensitive expression of his kind. "What gives?" said he. "This character wants to go up the runway with the kids," said the gnome. "Oh, one of them sex-monsters, eh?" said the detective, closing one eye in a menacing fashion. For a moment I feared that I might have to spend Christmas in jail with my friend Osceola Thunderbelly. But I talked my way out of it, and as I hastened away the detective gave the gnome a slap on the podex which was probably mere brotherly goodwill. Christmas is becoming a terribly complicated season, full of mixed and mistaken motives.

Yours, still blushing at the shame of it,
SAM.

Louisbourg Fortress Needs Monument

(SYDNEY POST-RECORD)

MORE than 14,000 persons visited the great historical park of Louisbourg in the ten months of this year up to the frist of November, we were told in the report of its caretaker.

One aspect of the fortress scene that has been neglected or at any rate not sufficiently emphasized, is the spirit of reconciliation between the French and English speaking people of our country. The fortress was the scene of a bitter struggle between ancestors of Canadians in the long ago before Confederation ever had even been dreamed about. Now the descendants of those fighters are one people of one nation whose differences in language and in other respects, matter much less than many of them realize. The fact is that in the generations that have passed since Louisbourg ceased to figure in military strategy, the people of this country regardless of racial heritage, have come to be remarkably alike.

If this is not apparent to ourselves, it certainly is apparent to people who come to Canada from abroad. And there needs to be some recognition of this fact at Louisbourg, some monument to the valiant defenders as a gesture of recognition. The attackers of the fortress, many of whom were New Englanders at a time that area was still a British colony, are memorialized all over the place. The time has come for an appropriate memorial to the French defenders of Louisbourg. It is a national park belonging to all Canadians.

It is good to know that next year the bridge will be rebuilt across the moat at the South Gate leading to Black Rock.

The road and path leads to a scene that has not changed one whit since the 18th century time the walls of Louisbourg Fortress stood intact. There where the jagged rocks meet the best of the Atlantic waves, one can rest and reflect and renew the forces of the spirit, there where the wild music of the waves and the cries of seabirds, speak of eternity.

It is a place of escape from the noise and the odours of twentieth century mechanism, a place to get in tune with what matters most. Cape Breton has in its keeping a great heritage of the spirit.

Letter To The Editor

MARKETER WOULD PAY METER RATE

Sir: If the City Council decided to put parking meters in the Market Square, I feel that I would still want to pay for the time I am parked as well as pay for the market toll for the use of the tables.

It is my express thought that I could remain in my present location and pay for this privilege rather than have the market location moved to the proposed site which after a time might be needed, used or taken from the farmers for some other purpose such as the Memorial Site, or other use. Thus, defeating its purpose as a market again.

Splitting the market is far from being practical. Bus connections are not good enough, and not being a transfer point, the buying public must of necessity be so inconvenienced that they will be forced to quit attending the market.

I feel that the taxpayers can be saved money, no one inconvenienced and parking for shoppers will be disrupted for only a few hours per week. During winter months snow removal will be confined to just one city location.

Being a market gardener, and a city taxpayer, these are my sentiments.

HAROLD F. DOIG.

NOT EASY TO FORGET

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

O come, let us sing unto the Lord: let us make a joyful noise to the rock of our salvation. Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving, and make a joyful noise unto him with psalms.

For the Lord is a great God, and a great King above all gods. In his hand are the deep places of the earth: the strength of the hills is his also. The sea is his, and he made it: and his hands formed the dry land.

O come, let us worship and bow down: let us kneel before the Lord our maker. (Ps. 95: 1-6.)

Thus saith the Lord, The heaven is my throne, and the earth is my footstool: where is the house that ye build unto me? and where is the place of my rest? For all those things hath mine hand made, and all those things have been, saith the Lord. (Isa. 66: 1, 2.)

And God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good. (Gen. 1: 31.)

ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT?

Old English Recipes Tease Cook and Palate At Yuletide

By VICTORIA CHAPPELLE

A glance at the cookery books used by our British ancestors induced a sense of reluctant admiration for their extraordinary capacity. To do justice to a round of beef, mutton pasties, goose liver, game and ducklings, with various side dishes and a few assorted rich cakes of which one 18th century Christmas dinner for four people consisted, surely needed carefully trained appetites.

But in those days cooks were proud of their work; they kept recipe books which were treated as heirlooms and many of these are still to be found all over Britain. A recent request by a famous woman's organization to members to send in their proven ancestral family recipes resulted in a book which is a treasure to every woman who loves experimenting in her kitchen, for many of the Christmas recipes can be used again today.

When relatives drop in on Christmas Eve here is a good recipe for "Oast Cakes." The writer had a racy style of her own and her instructions ran:

"Rub a tidy dollop of lard into a pound of flour with a pinch of salt and a teaspoonful of baking powder. Put in currants according to what you have. Mix up stiff with a nice drop of parsnip wine and water. Fry in hot fat when they come up lovely and brown. Don't hang about, but sit down and eat them. Hot's Hot."

But the relatives may insist on staying for supper. For that event here is a savory dish called:

Cotswold Dumplings

2 eggs bread crumbs
4 oz. grated chees, pinch salt
2 oz. butter dash of pepper
Cream together butter and cheese. Add beaten eggs seasoned with salt and pepper and enough white bread crumbs to form a stiff mixture. Form into dumplings or balls, roll in bread crumbs and brown in hot fat. Can be served with tomato puree.

A cook in the household of a former Duke of Beaufort created a sauce of which the family was so proud that it was called after the Duke's famous house:

Badminton House Sauce

½ bottle port wine, 2 finely minced shallots, 1 pinch cayenne pepper, 1 tsp. mango chutney, finely grated rind of 3 oranges and 3 lemons, 1 tablespoon Worcester sauce, 1 dessertspoon scraped horseradish, 1 lb. red currant jelly. Beat all ingredients together thoroughly and allow to stand a few days.

Then there is always the cold dish ready for unexpected guests, and here is one for which the recipe seems first to have been recorded in 1800, although it is much older. It was always eaten at Christmas time and is called Chicken Pie but it is far from being the usual chicken dish. Here is it:

Chicken Pie

Steam a young cockerel and one pound of tender streaky pork. When half done remove rind from pork and simmer in the liquor for an hour longer. Meanwhile, prepare a good flaky pastry. When the meat is tender, cut the bird into small joints and the pork into cubes. Have ready sausage meat, hard-boiled eggs, thin slices of ham and stuffing. Line a baking dish with the pastry, reserving enough for the top crust. Arrange the cooled chicken and pork in the dish, then pile on balls of sausage meat and dressing, topping with sliced hard-boiled eggs and thin curls of ham. Season with salt and pepper. Then pour over the cooled gravy to half fill the dish. Put on top crust, making sure of "steam holes." These can be concealed with pastry "leaves." Bake in slow oven for 1½ hours, then cool slowly.

For a crowd of hungry youngsters, why not try "Salmazundie?" It dates back to 1750 and is believed to have come from a West Indian household. Here is the original recipe.

Salmazundie

"Take the white part of a roasted chicken with the white and yolks of 4 boiled eggs, 2 pickled herrings and a handful of parsley. Chop all these ingredients exceeding small, take the same quantity of lean boiled ham, scraped fine, turn a china basin upside down in the dish, mould 4 ounces of butter in the shape of a pineapple and set it on the basin bottom, lay round your basin a ring of shred parsley, then a ring of yolks of eggs, then whites, then ham, then chicken, then herring till you have covered your basin and used all the ingredients, lay the bones of the pickled herrings upon it with the tails up to the butter and the heads laying on to the edge of the dish, lay a few capers and three or four pickled oysters round your dish and send it up."

And now for a royal recipe. One Christmas, King Henry VIII of England saw a pretty maid of honor eating a cake. Her name was Anne Boleyn and she later became his wife. The cakes of which she was so fond were eventually known as Maids of Honor, and here is the 16th century recipe:

Maids of Honor

"Warm a pint of fresh milk to blood heat, add a teaspoonful of rennet and a pinch of salt. When the curds have set, drain through fine muslin all night, then rub them with four ounces of butter through a sieve. Heat the yolks of two eggs to a froth with a dessertspoonful of brandy and add to the curds. Blanch and chop half an ounce of sweet almonds, add them with a little sugar and powdered cinnamon and last of all the grated rind and juice of half a lemon. Line patty pans with puff pastry, fill them with the mixture and sprinkle some with currants. Bake in a hot oven."

And here is a final Christmas recipe for:

Shresebury Cakes

"Take one pound of flour, one pound of sugar, one pound of butter, half an ounce of carroway seed, some nutmeg, rub it well together; then take three eggs, beat them well, then put to them three spoonfuls of sack and as much rose water. Mix this with your paste then roll it out and cut it into what shapes you please; bake them upon tin plates, prick them with a pin, let your oven be not too hot."

Ontario Statistics

Mother Tongue

In Ontario in 1941 there were 425,189 persons speaking a foreign language as a mother tongue. Of this group, German was spoken by the largest number, 66,037; followed by Yiddish, 51,166; Ukrainian, 48,318; Polish, 45,502, and Italian, 42,888. Indicative of the immigrant origin of these people is the larger number of males in each language group.

Birthplaces

Canadian-born residents of Ontario increased by 426,975 between 1931 and 1941, and constituted 80.64 p.c. of the population in the latter year, as against 76.56 p.c. in the former year. Persons born in other British countries declined by 77,608 or by 14.74 p.c. Persons born in European countries increased by only 7,739.

There was a considerable migration of persons from other provinces into Ontario during the period, caused by the depression and by the development of war industries in 1940 and 1941. Of the increase in Canadian-born residents mentioned above, 70,156 came from other provinces.

Religious Denominations

Members of the United Church constitute the largest religious group in Ontario, with 1,073,425 members listed in the 1941 Census. Roman Catholics follow with 882,369 members, and Anglicans come third with 815,413 members. These three denominations accounted for 73.17 p.c. of all church memberships in 1941.

Between 1931 and 1941 Roman Catholics increased by 18.5 p.c. United Church members by 10.2 p.c., and Anglicans by 6.7 p.c. While in general there were more males claiming church memberships than females, it is of interest that in the United Church there were more female memberships.

Area

The total area of Ontario is 412,582 square miles, of which 363,282 square miles or 88.1 p.c., is land and 49,300 square miles or 11.9 p.c., is lakes and rivers. The province extends 1,000 miles from east to west and 1,050 miles from south to north. Of this area 8.2 p.c. lies south of the isotherm of 60 degrees F. mean July temperature, which is generally considered the northern limit for the economic production of cereals.

Ontario is approximately equal in size to the combined areas of the following fourteen states of the United States: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin.

Received an interesting letter from the Department's divisional chief of Fish and Wild Life, Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, about the scummy condition affecting the shining waters of our Kawarthas.

He explains: "The plant plankton (scum) is the immediate result of conditions within a body of water relating to the amount of fertility, the amount of sunshine, depth of the water, currents and other conditions. If fertility is increased by water flowing off adjacent rich agricultural lands or from treated or untreated domestic sewage . . very great growths of this plankton occur. Great growths often result from stirring up of bottom water in a lake or from especially favourable sunshiny clear weather; plankton grows in response to sunlight and much of it denotes fertile water. Plant plankton can be very well turned into fish food and may increase the production of fish if other conditions in the body of water are favourable for fish production as well."

Thank you for this information, Dr. Harkness. After listening to tourists and cottagers expound all sorts of theories on the matter, your explanation makes sense. It is apparent, then, that our summer resort areas are becoming too heavily populated (excess domestic sewage), that in changing from hand to power boating we are constantly stirring up bottom water of lakes and that no matter what we say our summer weather is becoming finer (plankton grows in response to sunlight). So we nod our heads wisely and say that it is a cycle of nature that will correct itself instead of accepting it as a condition that is very likely to last for a long time.

You Can't Tell Your Best Friend?

Kawartha deer hunters are to be congratulated on their caution in the woods during the recent hunt. No fatalities occurred although some near pot shots and one or two cases of careless rifle handling have been reported. For years authorities have been recommending that gunners wear bright red apparel and this accepted rule has no doubt saved countless lives. But there is a queer twist to this, too:

Some cases have been logged elsewhere of shooters—not trigger-happy—banging away at brightly-clad brothers. The truth was that they were colour-blind as far as red was concerned. To be as safe as possible in the woods, clothing in bold black and white designs should be worn. It contrasts sharply against mottled landscape and gives added assurance of coming home from the hunt without a hole in the head. A visual checkup might surprise some of the boys because it is proven that colour blindness is five to six times as common among men as women.

The Bulldog On The Card

Everyone is busy going through his Christmas card lists, deleting and adding after a deal of pen sucking. It is a treat to hear of some staunch souls who know to whom they will mail cards and what the cards will be. Marjorie and Harry Goss of Bewdley have even sent me a preview. They are using a photo of six cute British bulldog puppies (shown elsewhere on this page). There is a story behind this, going back a couple of years. I went to their Rice Lake home to do a feature on a very special champion dog of their's called ACE—the bulldog with a stout heart that climbed the prize benches of showrings in Canada and the United States to die on the eve of the National Show in Philadelphia. Three rooms in their home are filled with cups, plaques, and all manner of prizes to testify his top standing. Anyway, the six cuties in the picture are brothers of his. Good looking dogflesh, too.

As part of the security drive arising from the Korean situation the RCAF said this week in a press release that they have turned the Canadian northland into one large listening post. The move started three months ago by radio communications and letter to RCMP officers, meteorologists, service men and others asking for reports on aircraft they see, giving details where possible.

This item interests me. I was chief civilian detection officer in the Lower St. Lawrence (Mont Joli area) during the submarine warfare in World War Two. We were ten miles from a patrol squadron base and had a 600-mile radius radio hookup and eight aircraft to do our special reporting. Our pilots spotted surfaced Nazi subs on three occasions and the alert was flashed to RCAF headquarters in the matter of minutes. They took action as quickly as three hours later. I hope for security's sake, that spotting-and-immediate-action formulas have improved during the past seven years. A strange plane travelling at present-day speeds of, say, 500 m.p.h., would eat up a lot of sky in three hours.

SHORT TAKES: Only one banded duck has been reported this Fall season in the Kawarthas. Allan Ireland of Buckhorn shot a ring-necked duck in Harvey Township and turned the leg band in to Lindsay district office. It had been tagged last March at Georgetown, South Carolina . . . The Quiet Life

Happy the man, whose wish and care
A few paternal acres bound,
Content to breathe his native air
In his own ground.

Whose herds with milk, whose fields with bread,
Whose flocks supply him with attire;
Whose trees in summer yield him shade,
In winter, fire.

Blest, who can unconcern'dly find
Hours, days, and years, slide soft away
In health of body, peace of mind,
Quiet by day.

Sound sleep by night; study and ease
Together mix'd; sweet recreation,
And innocence, which most does please
With meditation.

Thus let me live, unseen, unknown;
Thus unlamented let me die;
Steal from the world, and not a stone
Tell where I lie.

Progress of Peterborough: XLVIII

Northern Townships Surveyed; Road Systems Developed

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

Burleigh township was surveyed in 1861, a year after the government began building a Colonization Road from Burleigh Falls roughly northeast toward Apsley. The first 43 miles were completed by contract so inefficiently that, after forest fires in 1864-65, the road was impassable; in 1865-66, however, it was rebuilt as far as Peterson Road. The first settler, Giles Stone, came in 1861, and in the next two years 14 more arrived. In 1862 John McConnal walked to his lot 14 miles from Mount Julian carrying a hundredweight of flour, an iron sugar kettle and a heavy logging chain, in one day. John Coones in clearing lot 21, con. XIII on Eels Creek that year came on skeletons, a flintlock musket with bayonet, etc., relics of the old French portage route from the Ottawa to Lake Simcoe. James Goulburn built the first sawmill on Eels Creek in 1863, adding a gristmill in 1866, the ruins can still be seen. Peter Whelan started a tavern.

In 1864 Burleigh post office was opened, and in 1866 another at Haultain. Thomas Eastland brought mail from Peterborough once a week, via Young's Point and Mount Julian; the trip took three days. Roman Catholic priests from Douro parish visited the hamlets and shanties regularly throughout the area. By 1866 there were 46 ratepayers and two schools operating. The previous year the township had been incorporated, with James Goulburn as first reeve.

Anstruther township was surveyed in 1862, and the same year 12 settlers arrived One of these was Capt. F. Lynch-Blosse, son of an Irish baronet, who settled on the Aplsey Road and died at Stewart's Tavern two years later. Early in 1950 his family in England rather belatedly made inquiries about his fate, in seeking the present heir to the title. Chas. Vizard, who got the first land title (94 acres) in 1864, built a sawmill on Eels Creek that year (lot 35, con. II, near Apsley); later he built a store and postoffice. George and Thomas Wilson also received land patents that year. D. R. Casidy started the first store and postoffice on the site of Apsley in 1865, and this hamlet by 1870 had 125 people. In 1866 the township had two schools and a small Methodist church, also Stewart's and Hall's Taverns. The fare to Peterborough by water and road was $1.50.

Chandos township was surveyed in 1862, and within two years had 18 settlers, including the Youngs, Mahers, O'Briens, Horans and Finartys. In 1865 the first patents were issued to John Harty (200 acres), Wm. Harty (200 acres) and Alex MacDonell (173 acres). Henry Maxwell started Chandos store and postoffice. By 1866 there were 57 ratepayers.

Cardiff township was surveyed in 1862, in which year W. Armstrong, Geo. Patterson and Jos. Dunlop arrived. The land agent, Jos. Graham of Bobcaygeon had an office at Paudash.

Monmouth township was surveyed in 1862, but had no settlers until the 1870s. These five townships along the Burleigh Road were grouped for administrative purposes from 1865, and by 1871 had 127 families and 721 population (400 males, 321 females).

Harvey township was resurveyed in 1864-65, and in 1865 had 69 ratepayers. The first reeve in 1866, when it separated from Smith, was W. A. Scott. By 1871 Harvey had 119 families and 670 people (365 males, 305 females), Galway township was incorporated in 1863 under Reeve Thos. Probert. Thomas White and John Edgar were tavern-keepers. Presbyterian, Methodist and Anglican services were held at Silver Lake and other points. By 1866 there were 122 ratepayers. Cavendish township was surveyed in 1862, but had few settlers until 1870. Galway and Cavendish together in 1871 had 95 families and 521 people (278 male, 243 female). Snowdon township, surveyed in 1862, was settled soon after by S. S. Peck, J. B. and Henry Edmison, R. McCracken, W. B. Brower, S. Moore, R. C. Garrett, A. Scott, R. Ritchie, H. Aggleстone, J. Sheffee, D. Roxborough, D. and A. Chalmers. It was near Minden and therefore had no early mills, villages stores postoffices or taversn except one tavern at Spring Hill (Dutch Line). A Methodist Church was built in 1863 and by 1866 there were two schools and 83 ratepayers.

Glamorgan township, surveyed in 1862, had few settlers before 1870. Snowdon and Glamorgan together in 1871 had 76 families and 399 people (212 male, 187 female. Minden township was settled more rapidly, and by 1866 had six schools, a Presbyterian and three Methodist churches. These churches, and Anglican and Bible Christian missions, were served by ministers from Bobcaygeon and Lindsay at first. By 1866 there were 188 ratepayers, and in that year Minden village had six stores, a division court, a hotel, a sawmill, a gristmill (built 1864), two churches, etc.; by 1870 the village had 150 people. At Ingoldsby hamlet, a sawmill was built 1865, and by 1870 there were 30 people. The township in 1871 had 145 families and 797 people (411 male, 386 female).

Stanhope township, surveyed 1860, received seven settlers in 1861: S. Sims, R. Sturgeon, J. Ferguson, Thos. Mason, C. Davis, Wm. Welsh and Ben Clark. Three sawmills were built in 1862-63, but no store, church or school until 1870. The first Reeve in 1866 was J. Mellville, when there were 51 ratepayers. Sherborne township, surveyed 1862, had few settlers until the 1870s. Stanhope and Sherborne together in 1871 had 60 families and 310 people (165 male, 145 female).

761 Families

The above townships, together with Dysart, Dudley, Harcourt, Guilford, Harburn and Bruton, formed the northern part of Peterborough County, represented by five or six reeves in the County Council after 1865, and having in

New Testament: Luke XII

1871 a total of 761 families and 4073 people (2181 male, 1892 female). The Crown Land agent for the area was John Carroll of Peterborough, who had 140,000 acres for sale at 70c an acre cash, or $1 by instalments, subject to settlement duties and timber licenses. As land sales were slow, the government in 1861 sold ten townships to the Canada Land & Emigration Company of London, England,—Dysart, Dudley, Harcourt, Guilford, Harburn, Bruton, Havelock, Eyre and Clyde in Peterborough County, and Longford in Victoria. The Company paid down over $95,000, and sent a surveyor to lay out the townships into farmlots of 100 acres each, in 1862-3; his reports made them aware that they were buying much isolated water, granite and swamp, and the agreement was renegotiated in 1864, the Company agreeing to pay 50c an acre for 362,125 acres, with 10 per cent. refund for road construction.

Road Systems

The Company built a wagon road branching from the Bobcaygeon Road just south of Minden village, thence to Ingoldsby and north to Haliburton village, a road still used. The Government co-operated by cutting the Peterson Road in the early sixties, from Maynooth (in Hastings) roughly westward on the northern boundaries of Harcourt, Dudley, Dysart, Minden, Anson and Langford townships. A branch called the Kennaway Road went southwest from Maynooth, crossing the Burleigh Road in northeast Dudley, then wandering westward before dividing; one section went along the north bank of Burnt River, the other curved north to rejoin the Peterson Road at Haliburton village. The Victoria Road, started about 1863, ran from Goose Lake on the Mariposa boundary north along the western edges of Fenelon, Bexley, Laxton, Digby and Longford townships, to join the Peterson Road in northeast Longford. The Monck Road (named for Gov. - Gen. Lord Monck) was completed 1861-75 from Orillia eastward through northern Somerville, from Kinmount to Gooderham, and through southern Snowdon, Glamorgan, Monmouth and Cardiff townships, crossing the Bobcaygeon, Buckhorn and Burleigh Roads enroute, thence to Bancroft, following an old Indian and French portage route.

These roads were conceived as safe routes to the upper Great Lakes in case of war with the United States; because of the maze of lakes, swamps and hills, none of them was ever completed as a through highway, although they were valuable connecting roads between lakes and rivers, for the use of settlers and lumbermen. Now most of them are overgrown again.

The Bobcaygeon Road was extended north to Dorset, then turned northwest around Lake of Bays to join the Muskoka Road at Huntsville; parts of it are now Highway No. 35. The Buckhorn Road was cut north through Harvey and Cavendish, crossed the Kennaway Road and arrived at Haliburton village, and the Guilford Road wandered north from there into Havelock township. From Dorset village, the Gilmour lumbering or "tote" road went northeast through Livingstone and then north to the middle of Peck township (now in Algonquin Park). There were many others such as the Paudash Road, the Strickland Road, the Northeast Road and the Deer Lake Road, used a few years and then abandoned.

Northern and Eastern Settlement

Dysart township had half a dozen settlers before the company bought it, but in 1863 came D. Sawyers and Wm. and Jas. Murray, and in 1864 a dozen more. The only link to the outside world was the wagon road to Minden. In 1864-65 the Company laid out Haliburton village, and built a sawmill, a gristmill, a school, and a tiny Anglican church. Garrat's general store, Pocket's tavern, a postoffice, and several tradesmen opened for business. According to Poole, the land around was quite fertile, and its farm produce won a prize at the London (Ont.) Fair in 1865; an Agricultural Society was organized and held outdoor fairs in the village. In 1866 there was a small steamer on Lake Kushog. John Lucas was first Reeve of Dysart, Dudley, Harcourt and Guilford in 1867. By 1870 Haliburton village had 175 people and stagelines to Lindsay and Peterborough. Dudley township received a few settlers, but nearly all abandoned their farms by 1880. Harcourt township likewise flourished for a decade or two but finally the settlers left and the one sawmill was torn down. Guilford township had several sawmills around Pine and Eagle Lakes but otherwise did not thrive. Harburn township had a few settlers but most left when the timber was cut over. Bruton township was never settled though a lumber company built a depot camp.

Havelock, Eyre and Clyde were lumbered over but never settled. The Company in 1867 was still offering "choice land" in these townships at $1 an acre, but consistently ignored the timber wealth on the lands, and consequently the Company failed by 1880.

No sympathy should be wasted on an English company which tried to profiteer in Canadian lands largely useless for agriculture, by selling them to the gullible at 100 per cent profit. The first six of these townships, the only ones with settlers in 1871, had 139 families and 655 people (350 males and 305 females).

Exploited by Lumbermen

Northern Victoria county was likewish exploited by lumbermen and neglected by settlers. Bexley township along Balsam Lake prospered on the timber trade; Dennistoun of Peterborough had large limits there, and brought in French-Canadian families. Northern Irish and Scots settled in the west, and in the north was the "Peel Settlement" of families from Cavan in Durham. Mail came in from Kirkfield once or twice weekly. Coboconk village by 1870 had 150 people, and the whole township in 1871 had 489.

Somerville township along Burnt River was quickly lumbered over, and received, settlers up the Bobcaygeon Road. One of

Eagles Rally In The Third To Beat Petes In Fast Tilt

Catching fire in the third period to ram home six straight goals at Civic Arena last night, the Eagles downed the Petes 9-6 before 2,000 fans to climb to within a game of the league-leading Swartz squad. It was another thriller, fast and clean all the way, with each side drawing four minor penalties, one figuring in a goal for each side. The count was 2-2 in the first and 4-3 for Petes going into the third. They tallied two more but then the Eagles flew for six in a row to win the tilt.

Apart from a drive the first 10 minutes of the game and a spurt the last five minutes of the second period, the Magee-coached crew were outplayed for more than two periods as the Jopling crowd dished up smart hockey. But Eagles finally battled back in their oldtime style to pull the game out of the fire with a hot, sustained attack in the final 13 minutes of play.

Rochetta Led

Joe Rochetta led the victors with five scoring points, closely followed by Deotch Vitarelli with four, while Freddy Mortimer and Bill Crowley, with three points apiece, and Bert Hill with two, were other ace attackers for Eagles. Single points were counted by Keith Montgomery, Jim Munroe, Sixty Coombs and Johnny Godfrey. The whole team looked good in spots but not over the whole route. Both goalies were busy and made a lot of fine saves. Gus Leonard, Junior West, Honey Tompkins and Freddy Garvey were in on two each for the Petes, with Jim Millar, Jake Wade, Ted Collins, Chum Fryia and Arn Dugan earning a point apiece. The team really looked smart till the late stages when they couldn't stand off the fierce Eagles' attack.

Vitarelli scored right off the bat from Rochetta. Crowley drew a slashing penalty and Wade went off briefly with a cut on the nose. Dugan got one for high-sticking but they were back with no damage done and both sides stepping fast, Eagles having an edge on play. Horton was gated for elbowing and Montgomery followed for interference, but they were back again when West tied the count from Garvey neatly. Collins put them ahead as the Petes showed superiority, West and Garvey being in on it. Near the close, Freddy Mortimer tipped in a forward pass from Montgomery to sew it up at 2-all.

Petes Pressed

Wade and Montgomery were waved over for roughing to open the second and Munroe followed for elbowing. Gus Leonard counted as the Petes pressed, Tompkins and Fryia fashioning the play. Fred Mortimer got the thumb next for holding the puck but returned when Wade's nifty backhand slap shot cuffed in Dugan's pass. The Eagles drove late in the period but Harding was hard to beat and his mates covered well. However, Vitarelli got one back on a hot shot with Rochetta's corner passout near the close.

Gus Leonard batted in a return pass from Tompkins inside to start the third, and when Millar's screened shot from the blue line fooled Nicholls, it was 6-3 and appeared to be all over but the shouting. Eagles kept battling back and Crowley slapped one into the twine on a passout, aided by Vitarelli and Rochetta. They kept pressing in and at 10.48 began to back the Petes up when Freddy Mortimer got in fast with Munroe's pass to catch a corner. Bert Hill then tied it up at close range on a play with Coombs and Fred Mortimer, and Vitarelli put the Eagles in front on a hot high angle shot, assisted by Crowley and Rochetta inside defence. Hill's second stab with Godfrey's forward pass beat Harding and, with Millar off for high-sticking, the Eagles wound it up with one more, Rochetta rapping home a drop pass from Crowley.

Canada Attempts Picture For TV

TORONTO, Dec. 9 (CP)—The cameras started to roll Friday on what is claimed to be Canada's first motion picture produced especially for television.

It is "Morgan of the Mounties," a two-reel semi-documentary film based on an actual RCMP case. Filming is in both black-and-white and color.

On completion, the film will be screened for television executives of the Columbia Broadcasting System in New York. If it is acceptable, its sponsors hope to sign a contract for a series.

Production of the film at the Queensway Studios near Toronto is backed by Brian Doherty, well-known Canadian theatrical figure and his brother, D'Arcy Doherty.

Douglas Ney of Toronto has been given the role of Morgan, the mountie hero. Also in the cast is comedian John Pratt of Montreal.

No Wonder It's Sore

SHERBROOKE, Que., Dec. 9 —(CP)— If Sherbrooke's city clerk Antonin DesLauriers has a sore hand, it is not without cause. In three days he signed his name to 1,200 bonds, representing total bond issues in excess of $1,000,000 issued under recent by-laws. By the middle of next week, Mayor C. B. Howard may be in the same straits. He has to countersign each bond.

NEAT EFFORT — Gus Leonard turned in a neat chore for the Petes, scoring two goals, but his side lost out to Eagles for the second time this season.

LEADS SNIPERS — Joe Rochetta led the Eagles' scorers with five points here last night as they defeated the Petes 9-6 in a nifty senior "B" puck tussle.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Yukon Eric, the tree that walks like a man, will strive on Tuesday night to render apart a hard rock from "down under"—Australia's Fred Atkins. This will be the main go of a three-bout mat card at the Brock Arena, and a tasty dish 'tis for grapple followers. Two powerful guys with Eric a little stronger but Atkins rougher and more experienced. Nor does the dour Fred back away from anyone. He'll really test the big Alaskan in this bout. Semi-final has Wee Willie Davis teeing off against Toar Morgan, whose speed and boxing ability may offset the other's height and weight. Dave Simms makes his debut here in the prelim when he tackles Abe Zvonkin, former Hamilton gridder.

A CP story deals with the anonymous case history of a referee as reported in the QSHL 1950 rule book. Referee "X" admits refs make mistakes but says the players make more. He lists six reasons why players and coaches argue with puck arbiters: 1. An alibi for his own failure; 2. a plea for future consideration; 3, a display of real or feinged anger to stimulate himself, his mates or fans; 4. an attempt to undermine the referee's authority; 4. a legitimate squawk; and 6, a psychoc thic hatred of referees. But "X" hastens to say that officials are not wholly without sin.

* * * * * *

Some Of The Types

He classifies referees as: The "get tough one" who goes out there defying a player or coach to utter a peep; the "bored" type who is as narrow-minded as the tough one; a "red tail" is like "old rabbit ears" (who hears every jibe from bench or stand) except that he has a perpetual mad on; the "gabby" arbiter is one who does too much wise-cracking; the "showboat" stands and plumes like a peacock; the "preoccupied" ref is interested in everything else but the hockey game. Referee "X" concludes sadly that a hockey official must have a good deal of the gypsy in his makeup to survive. Ah, well, the pay and expenses are good, and ye puck ref doesn't have to wish like Robbie Burns: "O wad some gift the Giftie gie us tae see oorsels as ithers see us." No, indeed, he's told!

* * * * * *

You can't ever count the Eagles out until the final gong of a hockey match. They looked to be well beaten here last night by the league-leading Petes, but they didn't fold up. Kept battling back and finally exploded in the last half of the third period to rifle hot rubber into the hemp as they came from behind to grab off a 9-6 decision. About half of the capacity crowd cheered them heartily while another half looked glumly on—the fans being pretty evenly divided, according to the noise made on scores. The Petes played better hockey for some two-thirds of the tilt, but Eagles had that terrific finish—as of old but not much in evidence this year—to yank it out of the fire. They're but two points back of the Petes now, and will be meeting Kingston Nylons here on Monday night in what should be another thriller.

* * * * * *

They Stepped On It

Last night's tilt was really fast, both sides stepping high, wide and handsome. Generally clean, too. Petes looked good until near the finish. They're two well-matched and classy clubs, and every meeting is a puck classic. Main snipers for Eagles last eve were Rochetta, Vitarelli, Crowley, Freddy Mortimer and Hill, a flock of others being in on the odd goal. Gus Leonard, West, Garvey and Tompkins provided the main punch for the Petes. While each goalie looked as if he fanned on one or two, they were screened shots, and both netters stopped a bunch. It was open hockey at a hot clip, and we hear some money changed hands at the windup, but the bets were laid at even dough—as well they might be.

* * * * * *

IOOF-ers continued to win in their junior "B" group last eve, yanking out a 4-3 decision in Port Hope. Doris, West, Wyatt and Douglas were the scorers for Bun Kingdon's hustling young band, an assist apiece going to Morrow, Armstrong, Douglas, Doris and West. Their defensive work was good, too, against the speedy Panthers on the large sheet at Port Hope. That's four in a row and keeps the Links up atop the scramble, but they will face a stiff test next Wednesday down Bella Ville way. Bob Wyatt leads the locals at bat so far with 10 points in seven games, though he's running second only to Dean Wasson in penalties served.

Nurses And CGE Gain Wins In Cage League

Nurses Juniors shaded Normals 23-19 Friday night in the YWCA girls' basketball loop in the first game of the weekly doubleheader. The second game between Black's and CGE, won by the CGE 17-14, was marred by jump balls and fouls which slowed the game to a standstill.

Normals carried too much power in the first quarter for Nurses as they jumped ahead 7-2 on baskets by Verne Sine, Doris Reynolds and Helen Lane. Mary Braund counted the lone Nurses' double. Mary Braund, Jean Bell and Fran Hannan brought the Nurses back into the game in the second quarter as they surged ahead by one point, 12-11. Helen Lane and Amy Curtis counted the points for Normals.

Mary Braund, Lois Stackhouse, Barbara Jex and Carol Chestnut sent Nurses' score up to 19 in the third quarter as Normals were held to two baskets by Carol Raper and Amy Curtis. In seesaw play only four points were scored by each team in the final frame, Jean Bell and Fae Jones for Nurses, Doris Reynolds and Amy Curtis for Normals. Nurses' Mary Braund led with 10 points while former schoolmate Amy Curtis, of Normals, had six.

Close At Start

Pat Nixon's lone basket in the first quarter for the CGE cagers was enough to take the quarter time lead 2-1, the single for Black's being by Mary Knox. Reta Naylor, Marjorie Laing and M. McIlvena pushed Black's score up to eight in the second quarter while CGE this time held to a single by Dot Jackson.

CGE started back up the trail in the third session outscoring Black's 8-6 with Dot Jackson, Pat Nixon, Mary Hodson and Barbara Luther scoring. Black's points, which kept them up 14-11, were notched by Marjorie Laing, Rosie McInroy and Carol Ferguson. Three baskets by Dot Jackson, Pat Nixon and Joan Fletcher were enough to do the trick for the CGE'ers while Black's were blanked. Pat Nixon with six points and Dot Jackson with five, both the CGE cagers, led the scoring.

Summary, first game:

Normals (19)—Raper 2, Butlin, Sine 2, Reynolds 5, Lane 4, Van Peters, Curtis 6, Shunk, Mary Scanlin.

E. Storey Rolls A 337

Bombers, Glengarrys, Tigers, and Lucky Strikes were two-point winners over Aces, Commandos, Huricanes, and Corvettes in the YMCA lasses' bowling league this week in keen play. The Bombers rolled high single game of the evening with a mark of 1,128.

Elsie Storey took down all individual honors with the season's high single of 337 and 766 for three. Maisie Cunningham rolled 711, Mary Johnson and Irene Penrose having 628, Frances O'Heron 605, and Toots Hewitt 600. Wanda Lockie knocked off a single of 304, I. Penrose hit 301, M. Cunningham 295, Ada Merrett 282, F. O'Heron 261, M. Johnson 251, and Shirley Heckman 247.

THE SLUGGER — Hockey is just getting nicely warmed up, so naturally the irrepressible 62-year-old Ottawa promoter, T. P. (Tommy) Gorman, is wielding a baseball bat. Tommy has just engineered the transfer of the Jersey City franchise in the International Baseball League to the Canadian capital. Always one to keep ahead of the field, he's looking forward to a big first season for the Ottawa "Little Giants".

Triple Links Beat Hopers In Speedy Junior Tussle

Oddfellows defeated Port Hope last night 4-3 to hold their position atop the junior "B" hockey group, in a thrilling two-way battle at the Peter Campbell Memorial Arena.

Two sparkling goals by Bob Wyatt, leading point-getter, and Ray Douglas, flashy centre star, early in the third period, after two breathless periods that found the teams deadlocked at 2-2, enabled Bun Kingdon's boys to extend their undefeated string to four games to date.

Fought Hard

Panthers fought hard and effectively throughout, however, and were thwarted in their efforts only by the tireless backfielding of Links' ace forwards and the defensive leadership of Army Armstrong and Dean Wasson who paired with Don Clapper and Don Bigford respectively. The latter two boys played a creditable game, too.

Red Wasson again proved impregnable in goal on many hard chances while his rival "Yo-Yo" Ashton was equally good. All goals were hard-earned. Panthers put on a relentless drive in the opening stanza to take a fair territorial edge for the first 10 minutes, but as Oddfellows re-adjusted their style to the larger ice surface, their plays clicked better and at 13.47 Doris plunked an 18 foot beauty past Ashton as Douglas fed him a fast back pass on a power play. Downey from Campbell equalized seconds later as a smart home passing attack worked close in.

The second period followed a similar pattern though Panthers opened with Lawless scoring on a face-off at the right circle midway in the frame, while Dean West, who played a whizzing game, combined on a lightning criss-cross with Morrow and Armstrong to blaze the best tally of the night past Ashton.

Finished Strong

Then followed the rousing third, the fastest chapter of all with every man giving his best both ways and then the dramatic finish. It was clean, though rugged with Oddfellows at their best to win.

Marlies Coast To 6-1 Win Over Tired Hamilton Tigers

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Marlboros rode their win streak one game further Friday night and their five victories in a row have brought them back atop the Ontario Hockey Association major series—tied with Toronto St. Michael's.

In a ragged contest, Marlies coasted to a 6-1 win over the Hamilton Tigers. It was the only senior game scheduled.

The Tigers two-line system, which beat the powerful St. Mike's the last two times out, ran out of steam after the first seven minutes. Coach George Redding said "the boys looked tired tonight. If things continue I'll try putting some of the kids in action."

All three of coach Flash Hollett's lines figured in the scoring. Bob Hassard, Eddie Stankiewicz, Bus Wycherley, Scotty Mair, Frank Davis and Don Rope share the honors. Aging Ab Conick scored the only Tiger counter from a scramble in front of the Marlboro net.

In the junior division, all 10 teams saw action and the top teams in the standing won in each case.

Edge Teepees

Toronto Marlboros beat St. Catharines Teepees 3-2 and Barrie Flyers defeated Galt Blackhawks 4-2 to stay tied with 27 points on top the junior loops.

Marlies leading 3-0 at the start of the third had to turn back a spirited St. Catharines rally for their win and the Flyers had an awkward time with Hawk goalie Clark Sommerville who turned aside 44 shots.

The third place Oshawa Generals had an easier time. They swamped the seventh-place Windsor Spitfires 9-2. The Generals were generaled by Lou Jankowski who scored four goals to hand the Spitfires their fourth straight setback and their worst licking at home in four seasons. Tommy Ivan, Detroit Red Wings' coach, was at the helm for Spits, replacing suspended Jimmy Skinner.

Guelph Biltmores held fourth place by defeating the still winless Waterloo Hurricanes 5-2. It was Waterloo's 18th loss.

Stratford Kroehlers broke a fifth-place tie with St. Catharines by defeating Toronto St. Michael's 7-3 for their third win in as many starts against the Irish.

Leafs Expect Fireworks With Ezinicki

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto hockey fans tonight get their first glimpse of two Maple Leafs castoffs performing for an opposing club, and they're braced for an explosive evening.

The players are William (Wild Bill) Ezinicki and Vic Lynn of Boston Bruins, a team that in a few short weeks has shed the role of doormat to become a solid contender for the National Hockey League title.

Any fireworks—action might be tame—are expected to centre around Ezinicki. The 26-year-old right winger from Winnipeg is said to be bent on haunting his former mates on the club that hired him for six straight NHL seasons before trading him Nov. 15.

During those six years bashing Bill earned a reputation as one of the stiffest body-checking forwards in hockey. He had a strong following in Toronto, and literally no friends among fans in the circuit's five other cities.

Leafs Not Cowed

The Leafs are by no means cowed at the prospect of facing Ezinicki as an "enemy," but coach Joe Primeau has advised his boys to skate with their heads up. Meanwhile, indications are that the prospect of rugged action will draw a sell-out crowd.

In other games tonight, Montreal Canadiens entertain Chicago Black Hawks and the victory-hungry New York Rangers are guests of the second-place Detroit Red Wings.

The rampaging Bruins invade Toronto with a string of three victories. They've won four of their last five starts in a drive that has brought them from the cellar to within four points of the Hawks and Canadiens who share third place with 23 points apiece.

Coach Lynn Patrick and manager Art Ross say they're satisfied with Lynn and Ezinicki. Each has been crashing the scoring summary frequently.

Doing Better

Since the ex-Leafs joined them, the Bruins have won five, tied one and lost four in 10 starts. The victories included a 3-1 beating of the league leading Leafs in Boston and a 6-3 shellacking of the Red Wings, also at home.

The skidding Canadiens, in a move to bloster their injury-riddled club, Friday recalled defenceman Ernie Roche from Cincinnati Mohawks of the American League and brought up centre Gerry Desaulniers from Montreal Royals of the Quebec Major League on a lend-lease basis.

On Sunday, the Habitants travel to Boston for a game with the Bruins; the Leafs are at Detroit and the Rangers at Chicago.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

New Haven Eagles of the American Hockey League, in last place in the eastern division, will disband after Sunday night's game here with Indianapolis.

Reports that the club was on the brink of folding up were confirmed Friday night by Nathan Podoloff, managing director of the New Haven Arena which holds the franchise.

Said Podoloff:

"It is with regret that the arena management announces the withdrawal from competition in the American Hockey League and the disbanding of the Eagles team.

"The combination of the team's failure to win, which is no way a reflection on the ability of coach Frank Beisler, and the resulting lack of attendance made this move an economic necessity.

"The arena management gave lengthy consideration to various plans in the hope of averting a suspension of play, but in the final analysis it was decided that a discontinuance of American League hockey in New Haven for this season at least, was to the best interests of all concerned."

Reports that the Eagles were about to disband began circulating Sunday night when the team lost the 22nd of 27 games it has played since the season opened two months ago.

None of the players are owned by the New Haven club. Most of them are the property of other clubs in the league, or National Hockey League teams, and are expected to be returned to their own organizations if the local club disbands.

The Eagles were formed at Fort Erie, Ont., last fall to replace the New York Ranger-owned Ramblers who were withdrawn from the league after four seasons here. The Rangers were reported to have dropped more than $30,000 a year during their tenure here.

Attendance so far this season has been the worst in the post-war era. Thursday night's crowd, by actual count from the press box, totalled less than 650.

Loss the Eagles leaves the league with a nine-club set-up.

Branch Rickey says he sees no reason why baseball, with quick and proper adjustment, should not continue in the event of full mobilization.

"I look for greater drafts and more of them on all clubs," said the Pittsburgh general manager. "I am not thinking in terms of two or three years from now. I already have in mind a war team. That is why I took Peter Reiser. I'd like to have three or four more of the same."

"We had total mobilization last war," Rickey continued, "I know no reason why the same attitude by both baseball and the government shouldn't prevail again with quick and proper adjustments. If baseball served a purpose then it can now."

Gordon Brown, 21-year-old Calgary Stampeder inside, has been named rookie of the year in the Western Canada Interprovincial Football Union.

Announcement of the award of the Dr. Beattie Martin Trophy to Brown was made in Calgary by Union president Jack Grogan Andy Sokol of Winnipeg Blue Bombers won it last year.

Branch Rickey has retained Bill Meyer as Pittsburgh manager for 1951.

Meyer, a veteran of 57 with years of service in the New York Yankee farms before he got his big break with the Pirates in 1948 had one year to go on a two-year contract. But his fate was in doubt after Rickey moved from Brooklyn to Pittsburgh as general manager last month.

Rickey said Meyer's holdover contract with a big salary had "nothing to do" with his retention. Although Meyer was reported to have received $40,000 a year Rickey said the amount was incorrect. He wouldn't give a corrected figure.

Pete Durham, Omaha defenceman, got a one-game suspension and a $10 fine Friday from R. G. Cook, president of the United States Hockey League.

Cook said the suspension and fine were because of a misconduct penalty in a game with Denver Wednesday. Cook said it was the Fort William player's fourth misconduct penalty of the season and boosted his penalty total over the 90-minute mark. Earlier this season he got a one-game suspension and a $25 fine, said the league president.

Tommy Spiegal of Pittsburgh scored an upset victory over Dave Castilloux of Montreal, Canadian lightweight champion, in a fight at Toronto 10 years ago today. The judges were unanimous in giving the decision to Spiegal.

Gospel Of Jesus Christ Message Of Love, Grace

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, DD.

The Gospel of Jesus Christ is the good news of God. In its message of love and grace, and its regelation of the true way of life, it is in strong contrast with the bad news of the world, which our morning paper brings us day by day.

This news is of war and strife, of international suspicions and distrusts, jealousies and hatreds, of cold wars and threatening of tragedies of conflict abroad, and of crimes and gangsters, gamblers and grafters, greed, dishonesties, and incompetencies in high places at home.

It is, of course, good news that if wars are fought, aggression and violence are being overcome. It is a satisfaction that so many in high places and in low are true patriots, setting the interests of their country and the welfare of their fellow-men above all considerations of personal interest and gain.

It is good to know that in the world, in all countries today, even under great trial and persecution, so many are seeking to know and follow the Christian way of life. This dark world is not without rays of light and hope.

But the evil in the world is so great and so appalling, so scattered over the lives of men, and so entrenched in high places of material might and power, that one might almost despair of the triumph of Christ and His Gospel.

It is important, therefore, that we remember the condition of the Roman world in which the Christ lived on earth as did the Gospel, fulfilling the richness and greatnes of tne law and the propnets.

How did that Gospel take hold and spread in that indifferent, or hostile, environment? The Roman, trustful in the power of his might, and his world conquest, might well have looked with scornful contempt, upon a Jewish teacher and his few disciples.

Furthermore the Christians talked about things strange to Roman ears: Of love, enemies, forgiveness, blesisngs on the poor in spirit and the meek, and of a kingdom of love and peace that would conquer the world.

The secret of that growth, which we must learn, and from which we must profit, could bring the Gospel of triumph in the world of today.

I think it was two-fold. It was, first of all, an intense devotion and loyalty of the disciples to their Master.

Secondly, they found the reality of His mission and purpose spiritually strengthening. And with this was the witnessing, testifying what they had heard and seen, and through others passing on the story to others in a continuous chain of spoken experience and power.

It is that sort of Christian witnessing the world needs today; and it is only in such witnessing to the power of the Gospel that the triumph of the Christ can come in such a world as this.

Guild Elects 1951 Officers

MARMORA, Dec. 9 (ENS). — Officers for 1951 were elected and a successful year's activities reviewed at the December meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild held in the Parish Hall on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Percy Eamer brought in the following slate which, under the chairmanship of Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie, were elected: president, Mrs. Frank Leal; first vice-president, Mrs. Peracy Eamer; second vice-president, Mrs. William M. Regan; secretary, Mrs. William D. Lavender; treasurer, Mrs. Donald McInroy.

The retiring president, Mrs. Donald Robertson, presided for the major portion of the session.

Mr. Brownlie opened the meeting with prayer. The financial statement given by Mrs. McInroy showed a good balance on hand. Mrs. Regan offered her home for the January meeting for which Mesdames J. Hewitt and L. R. Rundle were appointed as lunch committee.

Hold Funeral For F. W. Pitts

HAVELOCK, Dec. 9 (ENS).— The funeral service for Frank Walter Pitts, 85, was held in the Curtis Funeral Parlors on Friday evening and was conducted by the Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh. Burial was in Park Lawn cemetery, Toronto, today.

Surviving are three daughters: Mrs. Charles Rupert of Havelock, Mrs. E. Wilkinson of Campbellford, Mrs. P. J. Kelly of Montreal; two sons, Alfred of Cobourg, and Frank of Long Branch. There are also nine grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren. His wife predeceased him 14 years ago.

Mr. Pitts was born in Bicester, England. Before his retirement he was employed as an engineer in the John street pumping station at Toronto. Four years ago he came to Havelock to live with his daughter, Mrs. Rupert, where his death occurred on Thursday following a short illness.

Everett Glover Civil Servant For 40 Years

"He took me on for two weeks and I guess it's pretty nearly up."

With a pleased grin Everett Glover, chief draftsman of the Trent Canal system, recalled how he had been hired 40 years ago, by an official of the Dominion government.

Friday on his 65th birthday, Mr. Glover comoleted his last day of work for the Trent Canal. Members of the office staff gathered around in a large drafting room and smiled a little self-consciously, but happily as their boss, J. J. Ryan, presented Mr. Glover with an adjustable tripod for a camera (photography is his hobby) and a new type alarm clock.

Mr. Ryan said Mr. Glover was the finest type of civil servant—never out of humor, efficient, willing and capable, a man who could do his job.

In December, 1910, Mr. Glover, obviously now a favourite among his fellow civil servants, was hired by a Mr. Kerr to work as a laborer for the Department of Transport in Newmarket. Mr. Glover briefly outlined his career from then on.

The Newmarket job lasted only a short time and instead of being laid off, he was sent to Hastings for another job which lasted only a short time. Again he escaped unemployment.

He was brought to Peterborough to learn to be a draftsman. His first job on the Trent Canal system was to help take some soundings at Burleigh Falls.

He has worked on the canal ever since. But Mr. Glover has not been a man to let only one interest occupy his whole attention. He developed considerable skill as a photographer and has many fine photographs of scenery along the many miles of the Trent Canal and other scenes that caught his eye.

He also took up oil painting, both portraits and scenes, but modestly disclaims any exceptional talent with a brush. When he was not busy with these occupations he was reading.

Last year his health failed somewhat but he is still a vigorous man, physically and intellectually. At 65, Mr. Glover is a long way from finished.

CHRISTMAS CHOPPING TIME FOR THESE BIRDS is right now and several hundred of Vernon Lowe's turkeys have gotten the chop already. On one of the few successful turkey ranches in the district, in Emily township, many of the ovens in Peterborough could be filled with a roasting fowl for Christmas. Buyers by day and predators at night keep Mr. and Mrs. Lowes busy around the clock. Vernon, Above, holds a fine specimen of a broad-breasted bronze back turkey hen.

By T. J. ALLEN

Weed beds, Chemong Lake; blossoms from Green Hill; Eel's Lake mudflats; view from Kosh mountain near Nepheline mines; Jackson Park creek; little grocery store; Lakefield, and so on. Even if you are not interested in painting, you would be interested in going to see this seventh annual exhibition of the Peterborough Group of Painters now in the Public Library gallery, for these painters' subjects are local, and it is fascinating to see familiar scenes through another person's eyes. It is a fine show and should rouse enthusiasm and discriminating praise.

It is a mark of the continuity and purpose of this group of painters, mostly professed amateurs, that this is no less than their seventh show. And each year, it seems to this viewer, there is an advance in technique and interpretation. In the van this year is Winnifred Lampman. The variety of her subjects and the range of her canvases—from the large and attractive "Sugar Shanty" (reminiscent of Manley McDonald, but no mere echo) to the exquisitely done small Roses—is impressive. Is this her blue period? The blue in two canvases, notably the panoramic view from Kosh Mountain is striking. I like well her Old Buggy, and least her Prayer. Sentiment has a high place in art; sentimental has not. Mrs. Lampman is a painter of professional standards. Her nude, by the way, is too chaste.

Important Idiom

Jack Hamer continues to be recognizably Jack Hamer, which is a good thing, for his idiom is good and important. He deviates rather conventionally in a pleasantly lit canvas on the west wall at the south corner (October Gold?). It is not memorable, but it is an attractive thing to have about the house. The one I liked best was Winter Austerity — a frame house surrounded by snow and blending winter sky. It is a fine composition and full of feeling. The canvas on the south wall at the north corner has a wonderful light seen from five yards away, but a disturbing busy-ness closer. I think this painter is getting beyond the deftness and virtual caricature of his style which I remarked on last year. He is so facile and able that careful discipline is needed to prevent the pen running away with the word, to use a metaphor from an allied art. He is showing only two water-colours, a medium in which he is both deft and sensitive.

Enchantment of Light

Gertrude Cox understands the enchantment of light. Her Late Afternoon, October, is an illustration of that. Miss Cox is an able and versatile painter and gives her attention to varying modes, abstractions (two examples in the show) and framing. Her distinctive Hydrangea, which I liked, was well framed, but the frame around Sombre October , though of the same material, was deleterious to the painting, because of the colouring.

Where The 'Gobble' Drowns Out Motor Earth Is Black With Mass of Birds

It is roundup time at Vernon Lowes's turkey ranch north of Fowler's Corners in Emily township. On a visit to his place on Friday afternoon it was not evident that there was anything extraordinary to see, at first hand, a neat house, a barn and several long brooder houses overlooking the north end of Fife's Bay in the full sweep of cold winds from Chemong Lake. Mr. Lowes drove to his house from over the hill in a large orange tractor with a wagon hitched behind it. He yelled over the noise of the motor and strong wind to climb aboard and he would show what happened at feeding time.

Signal For Feeding

A few large birds clung to some bare elm trees and others huddled on a rail fence. The approach of the wagon was a signal for feeding time. They fluttered down from their roosts and followed. As the tractor broke over the hill and started down the other side, the surface of the field turned into a black moving gobbling mass of birds. They wheeled in solid patterns for the wagon, a tide of turkeys, whose 'gobble' drowned out the sound of the motor.

In a few moments the great moving mass reached the tractor and wagon and lighted on the vehicles and gobbled. It was impossible to estimate the number of hungry birds that covered the hill; there were hundreds of free-wheeling drumsticks on the hoof. Mr. Lowes declined to tell the exact number.

The birds, finding no food, finally surged back to long rows of feeding troughs. Their roosts were rows of poles down across the flats. There was also a small building near the roosting area that was apparently a tool shed.

12 Years In Business

We drove back to the farmhouse and talked of turkeys in the warm kitchen. The Lowes have been in the turkey ranching business about 12 years but had not gone into the thing on a large scale until about four years ago. They own 250 acres but do not farm any of it—the space is now used to rotate ranching land each year.

Their own breeding fowl supply eggs for incubation at custom hatcheries and the day-old poults are brought back to the brooder houses, according to the weather, anytime from May 1st to July 12th. The birds are fed on commercial foods, starter, grower and fattening grades, which runs into considerable tonnage each season.

Range raising produced a higher mortality rate than confined methods, Mr. Lowes said, and pointed out that losses were due to stampeding at night, changeable weather and wild animal predators. He explained that the shack down by the roosting area was a sort of sentry house where both he and his wife slept at nights to be right on hand to stop any trouble before it got out of hand. They said that two-legged foxes caused them the most wakefullness.

Although there was no killing taking place at the ranch on Friday, several hundred had been killed and dressed earlier in the week and the same number were slated for slaughter in a few days' time.

The interview came to an abrupt end as a carload of buyers drove into the yard. As a parting shot the reporter suggested that they would at least have plenty of turkey to eat at Christmas.

They both said, "We like roast goose better."

Westclox-Made Alarm Clock Household Pet

"Nobody knows how many alarm clocks are in use in the United States, but the Westclox Company has sold more than 200,000,000, and there are few homes where there is not at least one alarm clock.

Alarm clocks, retailing from two dollars up to twenty-five dollars each, amounted to $80,000,000 of the $135,000,000 worth of clocks of all types that Americans bought last year."

This quotation from a story in the S.E.P. this week, continues: "The Westclox Company of LaSalle, Illinois, (and Peterborough) now a branch of General Time Corporation, is credited with first giving the dignity it enjoys today to the alarm clock, which was once a cheap item—50c to $1.25—the butt of crude jokes and regarded as a necessary evil.

Westclox set about early in this century to change this attitude, with the Big Ben alarm clock, which retailed then at $2.50, an unheard-of high. Big Ben was endowed with a rich tick, a full-throated melodious alarm, a dignified case of heavy metal, and a mahogany base was often thrown in.

Since then, Big Ben, and later the smaller Baby Ben, have attained international fame, from Siam—where a king was buried several years ago with a Big Ben among the treasures placed in the tomb—to darkest Africa where Bens, Big and Baby, are often an important part of the equipment of witch doctors.

David L. Bennett of Kenya Colony reported that he once frightened away an angry lion by waving a Big Ben in his face. One African clock dealer made a fortune by selling Baby Bens at one dollar each instead of the regular price of about six dollars. The catch was that he convinced the native that only he could wind their clocks, and he charged twenty-five cents for each performance of this service."

Santa Made His First Call

Where Innocence Supreme

You would have been surprised, too, if Santa Claus probably far from your thoughts Thursday night, suddenly appeared in an automobile at the Examiner curb.

"Heh, heh, heh", he laughed, lowering the front seat window. "You weren't expecting me, were you!"

Having seen Santa Claus once upon a time in a Christmas Eve dream, you just never could answer him with a flip: "So what!"

He was as jovial as ever, and seemed to be practicing that gleeful chuckle of his, as he repeated: "Heh, heh".

"You look as pop-eyed as that little boy we passed in front of Northey's store, coming through Lakefield."

"Heh! Heh! If there's one thing I like it is surprising people."

He looked as bright and shining as a new bugle. He was wearing either a new suit, as red as ever, or the cleaner had done a superlative job. And the beard and eyebrows were snow white under the familiar red hat. He had all the appearance of fresh tubbing, and some lingering before a full length mirror. Obviously, he was highly satisfied with himself, and in great good humor.

When you manage to explain to him that it was still eighteen days until Christmas, and you weren't expecting him, besides you had never seen him in a motor car, he replied:

"I left my reindeer back at a farm house, north of Bancroft. Heh! Heh! You should have seen the look on that farmer's face when I pulled into his yard just at dusk. I knew there was no snow down this way, and besides I didn't have a load of toys on this trip. The reindeer needed the exercise for Christmas Eve, and I wanted to look around and see how my young people have been behaving this year."

Santa Claus' eyes were atwinkle with the merriment of a Foxy Grandpa, his pockets full of good things for his children's children.

"Haven't you anything cheerful to say to me?" he asked.

And when you told him the ticker upstairs was rapping out a gloomy story he hesitated a moment.

"I know all about it," he said, "but in my world there is only innocence, and with it there is happiness, and that's where I belong."

Recovering a final chuckle Santa Claus waved a parting with his hand in the red sleeve and fringe of white fur, as the car moved off easterly on Hunter St. in the direction of Norwood, Hastings and Campbellford.

He didn't leave any message for the boys and girls of Peterborough, but it was implied in his visit. Nor did he say where he was calling here, if any place, but it is as true as the eager trusting light in little Peter's eyes that he was at the Examiner curb Thursday night.

Old Benches, Prisoners' Dock To Be Replaced In New Court

This week a representative of the architects who are building the new city hall, was looking through the police department to see what equipment can be used in the new building.

If any of the equipment now used by the police does find its way into the new quarters in the east wing of the structure, there won't be enough to make the new look much like the old.

Missing for certain will be the creaking old benches which court room spectators occupy each morning to watch the proceedings.

Probably they will be replaced with more solid benches that won't creak for many a year.

The old prisoner's dock, in which only five men can be squeezed will be lost somewhere between the old and the new. The magistrate's desk raised on a platform will also be replaced and witnesses will tell the truth from a new witness box.

No one will miss any of the fixtures that for so many years have had a permanent place in the dingy court room. They were painted a dirty yellow that was supposed to be an imitation of a natural grain finish. It did not even achieve a poor imitation.

The ill-lighted court room has been a source of some mortification to local residents when out-of-town lawyers paid a visit. The new one will be a source of pride.

The finest new feature of the new court will be that probably it will have a separate desk for the newspaper reporter who covers the many trials. No longer will people confuse him with a lawyer as he sits at the counsels' table. That should please both trades.

New Assessment Proves Aid To Townships

Galway-Cavendish had a jump of 500 per cent in local assessment this year, the greatest of any of the municipalities in Peterborough county. The jump was from $62,350 to $325,000.

"This increased assessment does not necessarily mean that taxes are going up," said Stewart G. Sparling. "Rather it indicates an equalization of taxpaying."

Some Galway-Cavendish ratepayers will even have smaller tax bills, he pointed out. The mill rate is now down from 63 to 18, with some small adjustment depending on the school area.

A large proportion of this increased assessment is on summer properties not previously listed. As well there was a revaluation of listed properties.

Only One Appeal

There was only one appeal by Galway - Cavendish ratepayers, said Mr. Sparling, indicating that the people felt the revaluation was equitable and fair.

Returns are not yet complete but the increase in assessment in some of the other municipalities is as follows: Burleigh Anstruther, $137,000; Chandos, $57,000; Smith, $120,000, with some new buildings still to be assessed; North Monaghan, $90,000, plus some new buildings; Harvey, $110,000; Ennismore $37,000; Dummer, $80,000, and Belmont-Methuen $70,000.

Some of the municipalities whose local assessment is low may find the local assessment figure doubled when it comes to estimating their share of the county's equalized assessment.

"All these changes are taking place with a view toward equalization," said Mr. Stewart. "Each municipality must bear its fair share of the county's expenses."

Lack Of Frost Delays Rinks

Work on the outdoor rinks began this week under the direction of parks superintendent Armar Butcher. Already the boards have been erected at King Edward, Riverside and Inverlea rinks. Mr Butcher expects this portion of the work to be completed at Turner park and the Stewart-McDonnel streets rinks early next week.

As yet, said Mr. Butcher, it has not been cold enough to make ice. Attempts were made at Riverside but the ground was not frozen hard enough.

"After we get the boards up, it's up to the weatherman," said the superintendent. "If we get suitable weather, two shifts will likely make the ice for skating. With thunderstorms only two days ago he hasn't started to co-operate yet."

BOY SLIPS, BREAKS ARM

Eight-year-old Stewart Found is in Civic Hospital with a broken right arm. Stewart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Found, 328 Euclid Avenue. He was returning from King George School Friday when he slipped and fell heavily on his right arm. As both parents were out he went to the home of Leo J. Healey, a neighbor. Mr. Healey saw he was in pain and was about to call a doctor when the boy's mother arrived back home, and he turned the injured lad over to her. Stewart was then taken to hospital, where it was discovered he had a broken arm.

Jury Acquits Glen Anderson Of Dangerous Driving In Death of Gordon A. Ham

A county court jury on Friday found Glen Allen Anderson, 25, McKellar St., not guilty of dangerous driving. The jury was out less than three-quarters of an hour. "You are a very fortunate and lucky young man to have the jury bring back the verdict they did," commented Judge J. A. McGibbon. "It could easily have been otherwise." Anderson was charged following the death October 25 of Gordon A. Ham of Peterborough. The accident took place on Highway 28, half-a-mile south of the Kendry CPR crossing.

No Eyewitnesses

There were no eyewitnesses to the accident, and both the car and truck contained only one person. A mysterious man on crutches, who was mentioned frequently in evidence, was never located.

Anderson told court Friday that he was going to pass a car, but had not gone over the white line in the centre of the road when the accident happened. The car he was trying to pass has not been located.

The only evidence of what actually happened at the accident was given by Anderson himself. He said that he had swerved to the left, near the centre line of the road, and flicked his lights up and down to warn the car north of him that he wished to pass.

He had barely done this, he said, when "very suddenly I saw the lights of the oncoming car. I tried to make the right edge of the road and the accident happened."

Charge to Jury

In his charge to the jury, Judge McGibbon said "these motor accidents happen in the twinkle of an eye. You are probably mostly drivers of cars and you know how quickly they can happen.

He said that the jury could decide only on facts and must take the interpretation of law from him. However, this was a case which had to be decided almost entirely on facts. He warned the jury that they must hold no sympathy for Anderson.

"In my opinion, Anderson told a straightforward story and he told the truth. But it is for you to decide."

Addressing the jury, defence counsel T. J. Carley, KC, said, "You cannot guess a man into punishment in a British court of justice if you are to uphold your oath."

Missing Witnesses

He stressed the fact that the witnesses who knew something about the accident—the man on crutches and the driver of the car ahead of Anderson—should have been advertised for.

"But if there is a reasonable doubt in your minds, the benefit of that doubt must be given the accused."

Crown counsel John A. Bradshaw, in his address to the jury, said that reasonable inferences might be drawn from parts of the evidence. He mentioned the fact that Anderson admitted taking a drink in Bowmanville before he left for Peterborough, and that the accused had had no supper before leaving.

It was up to the jury to decide whether the drink could have affected Anderson's driving.

"The 18-inch tire mark on the road which led to the right front tire of the truck Anderson was driving was partly on the west side of the highway. It could be inferred that the tire mark was made by the truck tire and that the truck had been at some time on the wrong side of the road," said Mr. Bradshaw.

Speaking to the jury after they came in with the not guilty verdict, the judge said, "You have taken a very lenient view. The decision might have been otherwise."

To Anderson the judge said: "You are a young man and I was much impressed with the manner in which you gave your evidence.

"You've been pretty close to the jaws of a home quite unlike the home you are living in now. You are a very fortunate young man."

While the plan shows only one bedroom, the neat little den overlooking the front garden could also serve as one if required. A large recreation room finished in knotty pine is provided in the basement, as well as a second washroom. House is faced with Credit Valley stone, with side and back walls of buff brick. Roof and shutters are blue, and the trim and gable ends are parchment. For further information regarding plans, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Mechanic Killed Hit By Engines

CROWLAND, Dec. 9 (CP). — Martin Joseph Pilon, 25, coach line mechanic, was killed Friday night when his automobile was sandwiched between two locomotives.

Police and garage men worked 30 minutes to pry his body from the wrecked car.

Pilon's automobile was struck by a CNR yard engine as he drove across the Ontario road level crossing. The car bounced into the path of a Wabash Railway freight train passing at the same instant from the opposite direction. The automobile then was crushed in a steel sandwich as the two locomotives passed each other.

Pilon was the father of two children at Crowland, five miles east of Welland.

Jury's Decision

BRANTFORD, Dec. 9 (CP).— Death by misadventure, was the verdict returned by a coroner's jury Friday inquiring into the death of Wallace Muir 58, of Brantford. Muir was found dead in the Canadian National Railways yards here November 19, it was believed he had been struck by a freight train.

Lawn Terrace The Answer To Outdoor Living At Home

At the first hint of good weather the outdoors beckons us all to garden, to playground and field. The very warmth and coziness of the living room so welcome in winter, now seems merely stuffy. The house is much too closed in. Draperies are heavy, rooms are dark, walls are confining.

Holidays away from home take us for short periods to shore and mountains, but most of us find that many weeks of good weather must be spent at home. Through careful planning we are making our gardens more useful for longer periods and are relating them more logically to our lives.

Summer Living Room

The terrace, whether built of brick, stone or concrete, is one of the answers to the urge for more outdoor living right at home. Forming a part of the house, it also becomes a part of the garden, the link between house and garden, making each more accessible to the other. It is the summer living room, dining room and play room, the invitation to the garden.

We tend to make fireplaces in the garden too large and terraces attached to the house too small. The spacious terrace will accommodate a group of furniture for dining and in addition some easy chairs, and handy little tables that hold a cool drink, a new magazine or a bit of mending. Even small houses should have fairly large terraces if the full use of the space is to be enjoyed. These terraces should be protected from sharp winds but should not be screened in so much that they seem restricted and cut off from the garden.

Provide for Drainage

In construction, it is important to have a slight fall away from the house, to allow for perfect drainage. Terraces may be flush with the lawn or raised a step or more above the general level, depending on the design of the grounds.

Architects frequently provide even small houses with a terrace that is sheltered and well related to the garden. Such terraces may be added to old houses that do not have them. The addition of a well-proportioned brick terrace to the house will add outdoor living facilities for many months of the year at very low cost.

Doctors Threaten Police Over Parking

SUDBURY, Dec. 9 (CP). — Doctors here threatened Friday to stop tending indigent patients unless the police commission grants them special parking privileges.

The ultimatum was delivered to the commission by a four-man delegation from the Sudbury District Medical Association. The doctors demanded that police stop putting parking tags on their automobiles.

Members of the delegation claimed they performed more than $20,000 in free work last year, and if they were to carry out their threat the city would have to spend a total of $34,000 in salaries to hire specialists.

Judge James Cooper said that if parking-free stickers were issued for doctors' cars, the cars could be used by their wives or other members of the family.

Police Chief Jack McLaren said some doctors "don't want to co-operate at all. Some seem to think it is their right to park without putting money in the meters."

Mayor W. S. Beaton said "the doctors have asked for this three times in the past 10 years. We have taken the matter up with other cities and their advice has been to give special parking privileges to no one. What I can't understand is why the doctors are putting the bee on us practically on the eve of the election."

FUNNY BUSINESS —By Hershberger

"You needn't wait for me any longer, dear—just give me your wallet and you can go on home!"

Paperhanging for Amateur Not So Difficult a Task

"Is it possible for an amateur to do a reasonably good job of paperhanging," is a question often asked. The answer is, Yes—the task of applying wallpaper is not so difficult that it should frighten the average homeowner. It may tax his or her muscular system—and patience—but it can be done by an amateur. Actually wallpaper is easy to hang, and hang properly and effectively if the work is done carefully, methodically and in proper sequence.

The first question which should come automatically to the mind of the paperhanger is: "Are the walls ready for the paper?"

For new walls finished in a hard white coat, is smooth, dry and unstained, a coating of size is sufficient. Should walls show signs of stain or dampness, a thin coat of shellac should be applied to such spots, after which the entire walls should be sized.

Removing Old Paper

To ensure a perfect job, old walls, if previously paper, should be stripped by applying lukewarm water with a wide brush. Allow this to soak thoroughly and remove old paper with a scraping knife. When the walls are dry, rub them down with sandpaper and give a coating of size.

The sandpapering process can be made easier and much more effective by fastening the sheet of sandpaper around a wood block of a size that wil conveniently fit the hand. A section of 2" x 4" scantling or 2" board is ideal for this purpose.

Some authorities claim that wallpaper removing is speeded up and made less irksome by using real hot water to which has been added saltpetre, in the proportion of a heaping teaspoonful to a gallon. This fomula is worth trying, but it would be advisable to remove any of the saltpetre solution from the woodwork before it dries.

The waterproof coating on the surface of varnished wallpapers should be removed by rubbing the entire surface with No. 2 sand paper. This will permit the hot water to soak into the paper stock and the process may be speeded up by adding a little ammonia or washing soda, taking care to keep the solution off all doors and woodwork.

Treating Painted Walls

Painted walls should be treated with pearlash, and when dry, rubbed down with sandpaper and then sized.

Kalsomined or white-washed walls must be washed thoroughly, then sized. If washing will not remove the old kalsomine, the walls must be scraped. Wallpaper will not adhere to walls if any kalsomine is present.

Walls on which any of the casein paints have been used, require no special treatment before applying wallpaper—sizing only is sufficient.

All cracks or holes in plaster should be filled in, preferably with a standard patching plaster, or plaster-of-paris, before papering. A little vinegar mixed with plaster-of-paris will slow up the drying and make it easier to handle.

Small cracks or holes should be enlarged or widened by cutting the plaster of the under edge further back than the surface edge to provide a key for the patching plaster. Moisten with water before applying plaster and smooth with sandpaper when dry.

All wooden walls, partitions and ceilings should be covered by tacking on cheesecloth or thin cotton sheeting, two inches inside the edges of the cloth and these pasted to the wood. The paper should then be hung directly on the cotton and any wrinkles will disappear when the material and wallpaper is thoroughly dry.

Rail Strike Legislation Tops Parliament's 1950 Activities

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, Dec. 9 — (CP) — Legislation ending the general rail strike last August topped the list of important enactments at two busy sessions of parliament in 1950.

Other major pieces of legislation were passed but none surpassed the strike-ending measure in importance. It ordered 124,000 railway workers back to their jobs within 48 hours and ended a nine day strike which had affected every community in a country largely dependent on rail transportation.

Parliament held a regular session in the spring. In August it was called back to settle the rail strike, to authorize the raising of forces for use in Korea or elsewhere, and to approve measures made necessary by an accelerated defence program.

One measure broadened the powers to deal with espionage within and without Canada. Another gave the government power to control the prices and the distribution of materials and services essential to defence.

Appointed Arbitrator

In the unprecedented railway strike legislation, parliament not only ordered the men back to work. It also directed the unions and the railways to resume negotiations on points outstanding in the wage-hour dispute.

The legislation proved for appointment of an arbitrator in the event that direct negotiations should again break down. The negotiators failed to reach a settlement and the government appointed Mr. Justice R. J. Kellock as arbitrator.

His decisions were to be binding on both parties.

The changes in the Official Secrets Act gave the government power to prosecute anyone owing allegiance to Canada, even for a temporary period, on espionage charges.

If the offence is committed against Canada, but outside of her boundaries, the government has power to prosecute if the offender can be brought before Canadian courts. Penalties for offences were doubled, the maximum from seven to 14 years.

The previous act gave the government no power to prosecute for offences committed against Canada outside of the dominion.

Impose Controls

As part of a drive against inflation, the government imposed controls on instalment buying and consumer credit.

During the year, the courts delivered important judgments on the validity of some legislation. The judical committee of the privy council in London upheld a Supreme Court of Canada ruling that parliament cannot legislate on the manufacture, sale or distribution of margarine.

The Privy Council agreed with the Supreme Court that the manufacture and sale of margarine fell under provincial and not federal jurisdiction. Quebec and Prince Edward Island have banned the manufacture and sale of the butter substitute within their boundaries. Other provinces have taken action to restrict the coloring of margarine so that it cannot be confused with butter.

The Supreme Court, in a test case brought before it by the Nova Scotia government, ruled that the federal government and the provinces cannot legally delegate to one another powers given them under the constitution.

FLOODS BRING APPLE JAM — Bobbing for apples would have been a cinch in Tuscarora Creek near Martinsburg, W. Va., after a flood jammed the stream with 20,000 bushels of fruit. The apples were swept from a fruit packing company's outdoor stockpile and bobbled merrily downstream.

Chalk River Atomic Project Great Potential In Peace Or War

By DOUGLAS HOW

CHALK RIVER, Dec. 9 (CP)— They don't talk much about war around Canada's six-year-old atomic project but it was founded in war and it would swiftly have a vital role to play if war came again.

So far the crisis stemming from Korea has shown no sign of swinging the government away from the policy of devoting the $40,000,000 plant to peaceful pursuits, yet ironically even now some of its activities and by-products have an inevitable relation to potential war purposes.

It produces plutonium, a radioactive element said to be better than uranium for the A-bomb. The same process frees invisible specks of radioactive dust that now are trapped and buried underground. In war, scientists believe they could become a death dust scattered from the skies.

With devices called generators or accelerators and the radioactive pile or reactor that is the heart of the whole project, a double assault is being made on the ramparts of atomic energy itself. One is along the avenue of approach to the A-bomb, the other along the avenue of approach to the hydrogen bomb.

No Direct Relation

There is no direct relation between the work here and either bomb. But the constant and varied explorations might divulge information that would benefit both because peaceful and martial uses of the atom run the same course for certain distances.

The search to tap the tremendous energy for power in ways that man can use widely is proceeding not only in the devices, both by splitting heavy atoms and synthesizing or building up light ones, but in the engineering field. They're trying to learn here how to handle the great energies already turned loose in the pile rather than simply letting them gush back into the Ottawa River in a stream of hot water.

If they can learn, if they can find the metal to contain it, if they lick the other problems— and they think they will—they will open the door to the atom's real bounty, but both for peace and war.

Could Make Bomb

As for the ultimate question itself, could Canada make the A-bomb? Trade Minister Howe, the Cabinet's expert, has said she could. The scientists say here it's possible — if the government wanted to put up the tremendous amount of money necessary.

They hope she won't have to. They're true and typical scientists. All they want is to go on aiming in the direction of tapping the atom's staggering potentialities for the benefit of all humanity.

Acting Talent Acquired, Not Natural

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 9 (AP)— Are movie stars born with their talent?

Lillian Burns, dramatic coach for most of MGM's top stars, believes there is no such thing as "a natural-born actor."

"The worst thing you can advise an actor is 'be yourself,'" she remarked. "That is absolutely false. When you see an actor do a good role, he seems natural, but he is not being himself. He is merely doing a good piece of work."

Miss Burns, an intense woman whose conversation has a sense of the dramatic, pointed out that everyone has gestures that are natural to him. But, if you want to be an actor, those gestures have to be refined, made graceful and dramatic.

I put the old, old question to Miss Burns: "What makes a movie star?" She tried to elude, but I pinned her down.

Must Draw Friends

"It is an intangible thing," she confessed. "A star does not have to be beautiful, though it is generally necessary to be pleasant to look at. A star does not have to be a great actor or actress. In the final analysis, a star has to be someone the public feels friendly to."

Miss Burns has helped coach to stardom four of the most popular girls on the screen today—Esther Williams, Jane Powell, Elizabeth Tayor and June Allyson. She analyzed their abilities:

"When Esther came to us a few years ago, her only professional experience had been with Billy Rose's aquacade at San Francisco. She had been turned down by every studio in town because they said she couldn't act. Well, perhaps she couldn't.

"But she was an attraction. And since we are in show business, that is what we are looking for.

"Jane Powell was a little girl with a cute face and a gorgeous voice. She came back to the studio after two pictures on the outside, neither of them very successful. But time and training proved her potential.

"Elizabeth Taylor was a strikingly beautiful girl of 12 when she came here. But she proved in 'National Velvet' that she was also capable of dramatic force.

"When June Allyson came from Broadway, she was sure she could only be a soubrette (light comedienne). We had to convince her she could do real acting, such as she demonstrated in 'The Stratton Story.'"

Miss Burns added that none of the four, except Miss Tayor, is real Beauty. None is yet a great actress. But all have that certain something that makes a movie star.

Sunday Afternoon Musicales Most Popular Winter Event

More than 850 people crowded into the Salvation Army Temple last Sunday afternoon to attend the 10th in a series of musicales presented by the Peterborough Corps.

Although this was the largest attendance to date, these musicales have drawn capacity crowds since their inception one year ago last September.

Purpose Outlined

What is the purpose of these musicales and why have they proved to be so popular? According to Major C. G. Everitt, commanding officer of the Peterborough Corps these musicales have the same purpose as all music used in the corps — to glorify God and to interpret the gospel with music. In addition behind these Sunday afternoon performances is the wish to provide entertainment on Sunday and also to stimulate music appreciation in the city.

The program of each of these musicales is made up of renditions by the corps' band, songsters and soloists. The Peterborough band is considered to be one of the best Salvation Army bands in Canada. The songsters are also similarly acclaimed.

In 1914 the Peterborough band represented Canada in the Salvation Army World - Wide Conference held in London England. Since that time the band has toured extensively, playing in many cities in the United States and Canada.

The high calibre of musicianship of the local band and songsters has done a great deal to attract citizens to these musicales. However the addition of talented soloists has also added to their popularity.

During the series, local and outside talent performing at these musicales have included vocalists, pianists, a cornetist, timbralist and an euphoniumist.

Program Timed

Local and outside dignitaries to act as chairman are another feature of these musicales. However, no matter how important these visiting masters of ceremony are, they are given programs with time schedules stating when each number is to begin. This precaution is taken to eliminate any speeches that might prolong the program.

These musicales have been patterned after similar Sunday afternoon entertainments presented by corps in Toronto, Montreal and other centres. Before they took their present form more than a year ago, the Peterborough corps held Sunday afternoon meetings but they were not succesful from an attendance point of view. The census board of the corps under the leadership of Major Everitt decided to hold these musicales one Sunday every month and raise the calibre of the music.

At present all the music played by the band and songsters is written or arranged by members of the Salvation Army, and has to pass the Music Board of the Salvation Army in London, England.

Use Feeder System

The high calibre of the band and songsters perhaps can best be explained by what is called the "feeder system" used by the corps. In addition to the senior band under the direction of R. G. Routly, the corps also has a junior band directed by Len Slaughter. Any vacancies that occur in the senior band are immediately filled by junior band members who have received years of training both in the junior band and a learner's class directed by Arthur Wilfong.

The local corps also have a separate saxophone band who play with the senior band when needed.

The songsters operate on a similar system. The senior songsters are under the direction of Ben Smith and Mrs. Len Slaughter directs the junior songsters.

Last Sunday's audience overflowed the temple auditorium and a PA system was installed in one of the Sunday School rooms. In the near future, Major Everitt hopes to be able to install a two-way PA system.

Lac La Ronge Suffers Growing Pains

REGINA—(CP)—Delegates to a meeting of the Saskatchewan Tourist Advisory Council said Lac La Ronge in the northern area of the province is a full-fledged boom area, but nothing is being done to control its growth.

A bustling domestic and American tourist trade has spurred resort and camp building in the community 250 miles north of here.

Mrs. A. Quandt, an outfitter from La Ronge, said "everyone in the north adheres to his own standards of building and doing business."

She says the La Ronge hamlet of ttourist camps needs the status of a village, with an elected council to ensure orderly growth. Conscientious tourist operators were "being hurt" by others who erected poor-type buildings.

Earlier in the meeting, A. H. Macdonald, provincial director of fisheries, said 200,000 pounds of fish were taken from the lake this year. He said a limit will be placed on pike next year, and possibly on lake trout.

One operator said some American fishing parties caught 200 to 400 pounds of fish.

the first families to build a shanty on the site of Kinmount was that of Mr. and Mrs. James Buckley; a daughter, was six months old then, later became Mrs. Frances McGee, who celebrated her 91st birthday in June 1949. At Kinmount, John Hunter built a sawmill in 1861, and Wm. Cluxton and several others built mills nearby. Bill Davys, early Kinmount blacksmith, often walked on Saturday night to Cartwright or Darlington on the lakefront to visit a young lady, and back fifty miles on Sunday night to take up his work at 6 a.m. Monday; later he settled down as a Bobcaygeon storekeeper. In 1870, Kinmount had 100 people, and next year the township had 1,074.

Laxton, Digby and Longford townships had fine timber but little arable soil. Longford was sold by the Canada Land and Emigration Company to the Longford Lumber Co. of Orillia, which stripped it of timber. By 1871 the three townships had 850 people. Carden and Dalton townships had a few small farming settlements, and by 1871 had 1,027 people. Lutterworth, Anson and Hindon townships were mostly cornered by lumber firms, but received a few settlers up the Bobcaygeon Road. By 1871 they had 515 people mostly west of Minden village. Altogether, these 10 northern Victoria townships had 3,955 people by 1871, very thinly scattered on the granite frontier.

Librarians Elect Local Women Ontario Executive

At the annual meeting of the Ontario Association of Medical Record Libraries held in Toronto this week, the following slate of officers was elected for the year 1951:

President, Sister M. Celine RRL, St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough; vice-president, Miss Rita Redmond RRL, Victoria Hospital, London; treasurer, Miss Rutn Muldoon RRL, RN, Peterborough Civic Hospital; secretary, Miss Jean Cappa RRL, St. Joseph's Hospital, Sarnia; councillors, Mr. S. E. Bolton RRL, Sarnia General; Miss S. Hall RRL, Toronto General; Miss M. Farley RRL, Ottawa Civic; Miss A. Campbell RRL, London Beck Memorial; Sister M. Emily RRL, Sudbury Grey Nuns' Hospital.

During the business session a letter was read from Capt. A. A. Stone, Honorable Secretary of the International Hospital Federation in which he invited the Canadian Association of Medical Record Librarians to become an Associate Member of the International Hospital Federation. The Ontario members were in accord with the Canadian Association in wishing to accept the invitation to world membership and a motion to that effect was made by Miss Muldoon.

Dr. M. E. J. Stalker, Medical Inspector of Hospitals of Ontario in his message stressed the importance of compiling accurate and complete medical records in hospitals. He said he is often keenly disappointed when inspecting some unusual illness in a hospital to find the very information that he needs to help solve the difficulty and information which would be invaluable for medical research missing because of the poor quality of the records kept.

Dr. O. L. Bradley, Executive Secretary of the Ontario Hospital Council spoke on The Administrator and Medical Records. He outlined the role of the administrator as: first: to provide adequate space, (a medical record department comparable to that of the laboratory or X-ray or the business offices), adequate equipment, and sufficient personnel; secondly: to establish and enforce good hospital policies and regulations regarding medical records.

Urges Slinky Nightgown To Reduce Divorce Rate

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—(AP)—If more women wore low-cut nightgowns to bed the divorce rate wouldn't be so high, says Margie Richardson.

That advice goes for single girls as well as married ones, adds Margie, a tall, curvy red-haired model who specializes in posing in bedroom attire.

'If a girl gets in the habit of looking attractive when she goes to bed even before she's married," Margie explains, "she'll keep it up after the wedding day. That would save a lot of marriages."

Margie recommends a long, slinky nightgown with plunging neckline as the best sleeping garment. "Pyjamas are nice," she says, "but the tops always crawl up around my neck.

"And as for sleeping in the nude, I think that's a terrible mistake. It's not as glamorous as sleeping in something soft and clinging, and besides you might catch cold."

Margie, although she's single, has some ideas on what the well-dressed man should wear at night in bed.

"I think men, too, should look attractive when they go to bed," she says. "They should wear pyjamas, or even night shirts. I think night shirts are cute.

"After all," says Margie, "there's no reason why both men and women should't look just as attractive when they go to bed as they do when they go to the office. It's good for morale."

Margie, who is a size 12, has a 36-inch bust, 25-inch waist, 35-inch hips and is five feet, eight inches tall, says her own preference in nightgowns runs to nylon and crepe.

"I like nylon best because it clings."

She has another twist on bedroom beauty.

"I even wear jewelry when I go to bed—a necklace or a pin in my hair. I've gotten loads of compliments from my girl friends who have started to copy the idea."

Because she has made such a study of bedroom attire and has posed for so many pictures in nightgowns, Margie has been named Miss Under Cover Girl by a famous fashion designer.

HISTORIC CAMP

Remains of a huge fortified camp at Maiden Castle near Dorchester, England, are believed 4,000 years old.

Paris Using Rich Materials In Festive Season Creations

With the approach of the festive season silks in all their formal beauty take the stage. Glistening velvets and satins, heavy sumptuous poults, foamy or brightly gilded lame and soft light chiffons and organzas rank high on the list of fashionable fabrics for feminine wear.

From Paris comes word of how famous French designers are using these rich materials.

A novelty striped poult, finely ribbed, in shades of black and violet, blue and black, black and green and black and light brown, from the textile house of Bianchini Ferier in Paris, inspired Fath to create a little bodice, narrow and high, to be worn with a wide black skirt.

Bruyere uses the same fabric for a frock which combines black, violet and mole color in long interlaced panels right down the skirt while Desses uses the black and brown combination for a very strict tailored suit.

Satin Andalou, decorated with black designs which bring out the richness and depth of its various shades, is fashioned by Jeanne Lafaurie into a stylish buttoned waistcoat set off with jet cabochons and embroidered with small black pearls.

Check and cut velvets are favorites. Carven offers a close-fitting dress of velvet decorated with tiny flowers. Schiaperelli uses brown and white check in a gay dance frock with wide pleated skirt and large pockets.

Plain velvet is as important as ever, and black, as usual, is most popular. In many of the frocks gold and pearl embroidery is used to cover the shoulders.

Bruyere covers brilliant velvet with a shower of strass while Jeanne Lafaurie attaches diamonds to a wide-skirted frock. Raphael uses Lyons velvet in a severely braided tailored coat. Piguet presents an amusing novelty, a little straight-lined jacket of myrtle green, completely padded and covered with golden spots arranged in the shape of a diamond. Molyneux uses black velvet covered with little mirrors in a voluminous skirt and combines it with a pink brocaded bodice embroidered with pearls, to create a formal evening gown.

Paquin uses satin from one extreme to another. In black, four panels show up the narrowness of a hobble skirt. In white, a skirt is buttoned with strass on the bias, the bodice is held up by a mink collar and there is a bolero trimmed with the same fur.

Balmain uses white chiffon in a delicate evening gown, the bodice decorated with grey velvet and fastened with little grey metal buttons. Griffe uses lorganza combined with gold chiffon worked into filmy frills to achieve a fairy-tale evening dress.

Dior makes use of pink and gold lame in a frock which has a lightly draped strapless bodice and a similarly draped skirt. Molyneux uses violet brocade for a gown with a classic outspread corolla skirt and strapless bodice, the upper part lightened with pink satin.

Can Single Woman at 35 Be Good Wife Material?

A FAMOUS psychologist has warned girls that bachelors of 35 are not, generally speaking, good husband material. He says that if a man gets to be 35 years old without being married, it is likely to be because he is lacking in the love instinct, or is selfish, or afraid of women, or shirks responsibility ,or all of 'em, and, anyway, he is set in his ways and impossible to change.

Dorothy Dix

A correspondent wants to know if these matrimonial disabilities are also to be found in the woman of 35, and how she rates as a wife prospect.

Well, you cannot answer this question right off because the man bachelor nearly always achieves bachelorhood through sheer force of determination and foxiness, whereas the girl bachelor generally has bachelorhood thrust upon her. Hence it is no sign that a woman is lacking in affection, or domesticity, or does not yearn for a husband and children because she is keeping house with another woman and toting her own latchkey at 35.

She's Not Disqualified

There are many reasons why a woman may still be single at 35 without any prejudice to her qualifications for making a good wife. One is that she may never have had a chance to marry. That is no reflection upon her charms and virtues. Men are notoriously poor pickers. Many of the women that Nature designed to make the best wives never get the opportunity to be wives at all. Or it many be that a woman has never married because she has never found the man who came up to her idea and she would rather have no husband at all than a second-rater.

Many women of 35 are single because they sacrificed their youth to their families and gave the years when they were most attractive to men to supporting their parents and educating younger brothers and sisters. Others were so busy getting an education, or fitting themselves into a job, or pursuing a career that they had no time for romance and they let 35, which is almost the deadline in marriage for a woman, creep upon them unawares.

The advantage that a man has in marrying a woman of 35 are that he knows what he is getting in a wife, as he cannot possibly know when he marris a young girl. He can judge her as she is and her likelinood of suiting him witmout gambling on possible future developments. She is intelligent or dumb, sweet or sour, interesting or a bore. She is domestic or otherwise. A man pays his money and takes his choice. He doesn't buy a pig in a poke.

Has Acquired Tact

Also, by the time a woman is 35 she has acquired tact and diplomacy in dealing with people. She has learned to adapt herself to others. She is fairer, juster, more liberal in her views and less exacting of her husband, if she marries, than a young girl. And, above all else, if a woman marries at 35, it is because she is crazy to marry and have a husband and home and children, and she is so eternally grateful to the man who saves her from a lonely old age that she spoils him to death.

The disadvantages of marrying a woman of 35 are that, in many cases, she is so wedded to the family she has devoted her life to that she never divorces herself from them. Her husband always runs a bad second to Mamma and Papa, susters and brothers, hordes of nieces and nephews. If she has been successful in business or a career, she is almost always bored to death with domesticity and pines for the excitement of the outer world.

Having worked side by side with men for twenty years, she knows them through and through and is a poor incense burner. Having her her own pocketbook and been free to go and come as she pleased, she won't stand for being bossed, or having to account for every penny of the household money. And she also, like the male bachelor, has acquired "ways." But, taking her all in all, the woman of 35 is a mighty good matrimonial bet. Especially for a widower.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Crab Newburg Basic Recipe For Fish Delicacy

Every homemaker needs new ideas from time to time for quick dishes that neither look nor taste as though they were fresh out of a can. But with a small household particularly it is not always so easy to give an attractive touch to servings for only two or three people. The right answers to the small family cooking problem will be found in the "Meals for Two Cookbook" which has just been released this week by this newspaper. This is the twenty-first title in the series of twenty-four Culinary Arts Institute Cookbooks.

Menus, recipes, illustrations, marketing problems, cooking equipment, and leftover ideas are only some of the features of the Meals for Two Cookbook. Best of all, most of the recipes are simple, easy to follow, easy to make. Here is an especially easy one from Meals for Two which can be made from one small can of crabmeat. If served in croustades made of slices of bread shaped into a box and toasted in the oven, it will give a party touch to a Meal for Two:

Crab Newburg

¼ pound crab meat
2 tablespoons butter
⅛ teaspoon salt
Dash cayenne
1 tablespoon sherry
1 egg yolk
½ cup cream

Heat crab meat in butter. Add salt, cayenne and sherry. Beat egg yolk and add cream. Add to crab meat and heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and serve in croustades.

To get your copy of Meals for Two all you need do is clip a Cookbook Coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25c at the Examiner office, or to your carrier or at Braund's Home Food Markets or at the Dominion Stores Master Market. Or order your copy by mail by sending the coupon and 30c (5c additional for postage and handling) to Cookbook Department, Examiner, Peterborough.

Readers' Saturday Column by Mary Moore

Question: I look with great interest for the page in the paper containing your column and wonder what you have dished up for us. Am going to make an itemized file for all recipes I have clipped which I know will be one of my prize possessions on completion.

Unless I have missed the issue, I do not believe that you have given us a recipe for fruitcake and as it is coming around to the time when one must be thinking of Christmas cakes, I was wondering if you would give out with a white fruit cake as well as a dark one, if it will not put you to any undue trouble?

Helen W.

Answer:

White Fruit Cake

One pound seeded sultana raisins (do not use dark sultanas or cake will be dark), ¼ lb. candied pineapple, 1¼ cups blanched almonds, ½ lb. finely cut citron peel, ½ to 1 cup shredded or dessicated cocoanut, 2 cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teasoon soda, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, ¾ cup butter or margarine, 1 cup white sugar 6 medium sized eggs, 2½ tablespoons pineapple juice. Soak the raisins until they are fully plump in cold water. Drain and dry well. To them add the finely cut pineapple, slivered almonds, citron and cocoanut.

Sift the flour and meaure it then sift it with the salt, soda, and cream of tartar. Dredge the fruits with half cup of this flour mixture. Cream the butter and sugar together for 5 minutes.

Add the egg yolks to the sugar-butter mixture and do not spare your arm or the electric beater—bea thard for at least 5 minutes, preferably 8 or 10. Sift the remainder of the flour mixture over and mix it in alternately with the milk or pineapple juice. Add the floured fruits and nuts. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Divide the batter into 2 regular-sized loaf pans which have been buttered. Now it is best to steam this cake and if you have a big rectangular roaster place the tins cross-wise in this on the trivet, add about ¾ inch boiling water to bottom, cover and steam in oven of 275 deg. Fahr. for 2½ hours—then remove from steamer to racks in oven and bake ½ hour longer at same temperature.

If your pans will not fit into your roaster, bake cake at 275 deg. Fahr. but be sure pan containing water is under them at all times.

Alabama Fruit Cake (A dark rich cake)

Two lbs. currants or 1 lb. dates and 1 lb. seedless raisins, 3 lbs. raisins, 1½ lbs. blanched almonds, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 4 freshly grated nutmegs, 2 large wine glasses wine, 1 oz. rose water, ½ lb. each lemon and citron peel, 1 lb. flour sifted, 1 lb. sugar, 1 lb. butter, 1 dozen eggs (yolks and white beaten separately), (1 pint jar orange marmalade may be used in place of the lemon peel), 6 oz. fruit juice such as apple or pineapple. (The flavor of this cake is excellent.)

Question: ...would like to see Grape Jam, etc. "Queen"

Answer: I asked Queen to watch for these Grape recipes she requested. Here is one.

Grape Jam or Conserve

Use Concords. Wash and drain and then remove Concord grapes from stems. To each 4 lbs. prepared grapes allow 2 lbs. sugar, 1 teaspoon salt (if for Conserve add 1 cup seedless raisins, 1 ground orange and 1 cup walnuts). Slip the skins from the grapes and keep them separate from the pulp. Boil the grape pulp, stirring until seeds float to the top then press through sieve. Add this puree to the sugar (and other ingredients except nuts if for conserve) and boil 10 minutes then add grape skins and nuts if used and boil about 15 minutes stirring—or until of jam consistency. Pour into hot sterile glasses and seal with 2 coats of paraffin.

News Briefings Dropped By MacArthur

By RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO, Dec. 9—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur's headquarters today suspended informative briefing sessions for war correspondents, presumably for reasons of security.

MacArthur's no-censorship rule still prevails but the new order means a basic source of news and background is closed to correspondents.

Soon afterwards, the British commander for Korea said the need for censorship is "growing every day."

It was the second time in a week that Lt.-Gen. Sir Horace Robertson had raised the question of censorship.

Robertson said in a statement that censorship is "particularly important to prevent the enemy from getting early information on the location and movements of UN forces and their headquarters and on projected operations."

No Official Request

Robertson has made no official request for censorship. His earlier statement said in effect the problem was up to the United Nations.

MacArthur's key officers restated Friday their view that an effective censorship would have to be applied equally to Korea, Tokyo, Washington and other world capitals. They said censorship would not work otherwise.

Col. M. P. Echols, MacArthur's public information officer, said there is "no particular reason" for briefing sessions because most of the information given orally is included in mimeographed handouts that are still being issued.

It was not yet clear whether briefings also would be suspended at Eighth Army and 10th Corps Headquarters in Korea.

MacArthur's briefing officers in the past have given correspondents valuable background information and occasionally fresh news which had not been reported from the front.

While this is an uncensored war, correspondents both in Tokyo and at the front voluntarily have co-operated with military sources in withholding certain information until it is no longer of value to the enemy.

IN THE TRAP—Encircled 1st Division Marines at Hagaru airstrip, on the southern tip of Chosin Reservoir, scan the skies as Air Force planes fly in to evacuate wounded. In the background are two C-47s, ready to take off with casualties for Hamhung.

MP Urges Reversion To 44-Hour Week

SARNIA, Dec. 9 (CP)—Reversion to the 44-hour week to combat inflation and speed re-armament was urged Frida night by J W. Murphy, MP for Lambton West. He was speaking to members of Lambton county council at the annual county clerk's dinner.

Mr. Murphy held that a return to the 44-hour week would not only help curb the inflationary spirel, but would give workers the added income they needed to keep abreast of the cost of living.

For Bad Cough, Mix This Splendid Recipe, at Home

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this easily prepared mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It is no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water until dissolved. No cooking needed. (Or use corn syrup or liquid honey instead of sugar syrup.) Get a 2½ ounce bottle of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a 16 ounce bottle and fill it up with your syrup. The 16 ounces thus made gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and is a very effective relief for coughs. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This splendid mixture soothes the irritated membranes, loosens the phlegm and helps to clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known as a soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

FOR EXTRA CONVENIENCE GET NEW, READY-TO-USE, PREPARED PINEX.

A Bad Tangle

MONTREAL, Dec. 9 — (CP) — Canada's present constitutional "tangle" is the worst such "mess" in the world, Ontario CCF leader E. D. Joliffe Friday night told members of the Co-operative Commonwealth Youth Movement of Quebec as they opened a three-day convention. He said "politicians of the old parties" have been using the unsettled conditions regarding provincial and federal distribution of authority as an "excuse" against progressive legislation.

Pastels and Perspective

Helena V. Munro continues to delight with her pastels. Her 'Winter' has a fine sheen and is a pleasant evocation. Mrs. Munro's delicate and observant pastels have a quality which all viewers must find admirable.

John McKercher tends to be stiff, but I liked his 'Little Grocery Store, Lakefield' despite the difficulties he encountered with perspective. Maralin Munro continues her special interest in theatre design. Her costume sketches in pastel, very suitable framed, are most attractive. Her portrait sketch reveals her competence.

Florence Wilson is showing an interesting highway scene in 'Night Driving', Her 'Relic) (a big stump is striking for its surroundings. The stump itself is out of its proportion, actually and artistically). Betty Weir's pastel 'Marigolds' was marked "sold" when I saw it—evidence of a perspicacious buyer. Her 'From the River Bank' is not overworked as are some of her others.

Madeline Hambly has a pleasantly recognizable lake scene, an island in Stony Lake; and her Green Hill blossoms are patiently attractive. Mary Lee has considerable variety in her four canvases shown. Bonnie Carlisle has a neat street scene viewed from a kitchen window.

This show is more selective that others I have seen of this group, and it is well hung. There are some fine, reasonably-priced Christmas presents in this show! Prices range from five dollars to $100.

That's Co-operation

WINDSOR, Dec. 9 — (CP) — Police are often informed of automobile robberies by radio but seldom as conveniently as was the case here a few nights ago. Constable Paul Morris stopped a taxi driven by Maurice Roberts and was reprimanding him for speeding. Just then the cab's radio blared with an announcement that the cab had been stolen. In court today, Roberts pleaded guilty to a charge of taking a car without consent and was remanded for sentence.

Hoses And Clubs Halt Berlin Mob

BERLIN, Dec. 9 — (AP). — West Berlin police Friday night fought off with fire hoses and clubs, a crowd of 2,000 persons who tried unsuccessfully to block the return of Nazi-favored Werner Krauss to the Berlin stage.

Two policemen and five civilians were injured. Dozens more were mauled and bruised.

The West Berlin government had invited the Burg Theatre Company of Vienna, with Krauss as its star. City officials rejected repeated demands from the Jewish community to cancel the engagement.

Jewish leaders were in the vanguard of the angry crowd which broke windows and doors of the Kurfuerstendamm Theatre and invaded the lobby itself.

Despite the uproar outside, Krauss gave his portrayal of the bank director in Ibsen's "John Gabriel Borkman." The exhausted actor, now 66, responded to 20 curtain calls.

American author Curt Riess, who has written a half-dozen anti-Nazi books, was punched and kicked when he argued with the mob saying that Krauss had gone through three denazification trials and was entitled to take up his life's work again.

Army Unbeaten-MacArthur Says Losses Exaggerated

Will Form 3rd Battalion For Army's Special Force

OTTAWA, Dec. 11—(CP)—Defence Minister Claxton today announced formation of 3rd battalions of the Royal Canadian Regiment and Royal 22nd Regiment as training battalions within the Army's Special Force. That means that the force, now training at Fort Lewis, Wash., will have five battalions or virtually two brigades.

Mr. Claxton said the men will come from the reinforcement pool for the Special Force and stressed that the new battalions are being "organized purely for training purposes." He said the move will "greatly assist training."

It was considered likely, however, that the new battalions will be kept in existence unless the force goes into action. That would open the way for formation of a small, two-brigade division.

The special force at Fort Lewis now consists of 2nd and 3rd Battalions of the R.C.R. and of the Royal 22nd and the 3rd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. The 2nd Battalion of the Patricia's has been dispatched to Korea.

Go To U.S. Soon

The troops for the new battalions now are in Canada but will be dispatched to Fort Lewis "in the near future" and will come under the direct command of Brig. John M. Rockingham, commander of the special force brigade. Most of the officers will come from the active force.

Based at reinforcement camps at widely scattered localities, the reinforcements now are trained as individuals. Brought together in complete battalion formations at Fort Lewis they will immediately begin to train and operate as a team of platoon company and battalion levels. This will speed up training, the minister said.

Formation of the two new battalions eliminates the 25th reinforcement group and the reinforcement stream, although the personnel remain, in effect, reinforcements for the second battalions within the brigade.

Mr. Claxton stated that artillery reinforcements will be formed into an additional training battery and placed under command of the 2nd Field Regiment, R.C.-H.A., at Fort Lewis.

Music Critic May Sell Letter From Truman

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP) —Some charity may be the winner in the disagreement between President Truman and music critic Paul Hume over Margaret Truman's singing ability.

Hume, critic for the Washington Post, said Sunday night he had several offers for the letter, in which Truman threatened to beat him up for writing that Margaret sang flat in a Washington concert.

He hasn't made up his mind whether to sell the letter or not, Hume said, but if he does the proceeds will go to charity.

Miss Truman, who said after the letter became public that Hume had a right to say what he thought, winds up her current concert tour tonight in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Attlee Finds Ottawa Talks Useful

OTTAWA, Dec. 11 — (CP) — Prime Minister Attlee flies back to the United Kingdom today after what he has termed "thoroughly useful and thoroughly harmonious" talks in Ottawa and Washington on the critical international situation.

Scheduled to take off from Ottawa for New York at 3 p.m., EST today, on the first leg of his journey back to London, Attlee will fly to New York in an RCAF transport plane. The original plan was for Mr. Attlee's party to pick up a stratocruiser in Montreal but weather conditions cancelled this. It was too large to land here.

Mr. Attlee arrived here Saturday morning and crammed into a stay of less than 48 hours, a meeting with the Canadian cabinet, several chats with Prime Minister St. Laurent, two official dinners, a press conference and a broadcast to the Canadian people.

Off-The-Record

His comments to reporters Sunday were largely in the off-the-record category, though he did say that Britain and the U.S. were "very close" on objectives and methods to meet the threat of Communist imperialism.

He and Mr. Truman, recognizing the "dangers and difficulties" of the times, had studied events in the Far East and in the West and had looked at the "long-term

Moslem Mob Runs Wild In Singapore

Troops With Bayonets Try To Halt Riots Over Dutch Child

SINGAPORE, Dec. 11—(AP) —British troops with bayonets moved into the riot-torn streets of Singapore tonight to battle fanatical mobs, stirred to a frenzy by the court fight between a Dutch mother and a Malayan nurse for custody of a white child.

Hundreds of soldiers in trucks raced through the downtown sectors where the mobs were battling police, attacking Europeans and overturning and burning automobiles.

About 5,000 Malayans stormed for three hours at the Supreme Court building, where a hearing was under way on an appeal to return the 13-year-old child, Maria Bertha Hertogh, to her Malay foster mother and her Moslem schoolteacher husband.

Then thousands of fanatic Moslems raged toward the Roman Catholic convent, where the girl and her Dutch mother were reported in hiding.

They threatened to kidnap the child and burn the convent "if it took all night."

Still Running Wild

After eight hours, the mobs still were throwing stones and bottles, beating up Europeans, especially Dutchmen, and attacking vehicles.

Shots were fired and tear gas bombs hurled as police battled to break up the mobs. Thousands of Moslems flocked to the big Sultan mosque where priests told them the court decision giving custody of Bertha to her Dutch mother affronted and violated the Mohammedan religion.

Authorities feared the religious outbreak, at a time when the entire Far East is in a ferment,

Make Little Progress In Sudbury Dispute

KINGSTON, Dec. 11 (CP) — Efforts begun here Friday to settle the threatened walk-out of 62 Sudbury High School teachers Dec. 31 have resulted in little progress so far.

T. W. Mayor, president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Association, said here today after returning from an executive meeting in Toronto Saturday that the association felt the next move should come from the Sudbury High School Board.

F. B. Pense, chairman of the Kingston Board of Education and president of the Urban and Rural School Trustee Association, said he had suggested Sunday in a telephone conversation with J. G. Lowe, secretary of the Sudbury board, that the board arrange an early meeting with the O.S.S.T.A.

Locust Plague Threatens Vast Areas Africa, India

CAIRO, Dec. 11—(AP)—The dread locust plague is darkening the skies over vast areas of Africa and southwest Asia, threatening millions of impoverished people with famine.

The battle against the voracious swarms that have blighted these lands since Biblical times already has begun. Local governments and British and French colonial governments today are appropriating millions of dollars to strike at the rapidly-breeding insects before they can spread to rich crops on which most of these countries depend.

The giant grasshopper—like bugs began gathering in hordes last summer for what could—if unchecked—become the worst locust plague in 25 years.

They have been seen swarming toward the vital food, cotton and other cash crops of Egypt, the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Libya, Ethiopia, Eritrea Somaliland, Kenya Tanganyika, French Equatorial Africa, Algeria, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Lebanon, Iran, Pakistan and India.

Abnormal summer rains in Saudi Arabia which should be a welcome sight over that parched and arid land, have turned into a threat because they encourage the breeding of the locusts.

Mobilized insect fighters in 1,000 specially-built desert trucks, armed with insecticides, poison bait, sprayers and other anti-locust equipment are heading toward the Saudi Arabia breeding grounds in the hope of killing off the insects before they are big enough to fly. Effects of the anti-locust measures will not be known for four or five months.

Labor Board Strikes Death Blow At CSU

Rules Communist-Dominated Group No Longer Trade Union Under Act

OTTAWA, Dec. 11—(CP)—The Canada Labor Relations Board today struck what may prove to be a fatal blow to the once powerful Canadian Seamen's Union.

The board ruled that the Communist-dominated union, once with a membership of 6,000 in Canada's deep-sea and Great Lakes fleets, was no longer a trade union within the meaning of the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act and was not entitled to certification as a bargaining agent.

The decision was given in a case brought before the board by Branch Lines Limited which operates a number of ships out of Corel, Que., on the St. Lawrence waterways. The company challenged the right of the CSU to continue as bargaining agent for its employees on the ships.

Has A Few Contracts

The CSU still has a few contracts with companies operating ships on the Great Lakes. Most of the companies on the lakes and on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts now have contracts with the Seafarers' International Union of North America (AFL-TLC).

Referring to the strike, the board said it regarded the incident as evidence of the "close association" of the CSU "with foreign elements of the international Communist front in the promotion of international Communist policies and activities which are entirely foreign to the purposes of a trade union under the act."

The CSU had been expelled by the International Transport Workers' Federation and by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada for setting off the 1949 shipping strike.

Expulsion from a trade union congress could not in itself deprive a union of its status under the Industrial Relations and Disputes Act, said the board.

"The board wishes it to be clearly understood that it does not base its decisions on the action taken by the trade union congresses."

13 Countries Preparing New Peace Plan

LAKE SUCESS, N.Y., Dec. 11 (AP)—Thirteen Asian and Middle East countries met behind closed doors today to consider final terms of a new Korean peace plan. They were expected to submit the plan to the political committee of the United Nations assembly later in the day.

India's Sir Benegal Rau, leader of the peace efforts, said he still had received no word from the Chinese Communists as to whether they would accept a previous appeal to halt at the 38th Parallel.

Details of the new plan were kept secret, but informed quarters said the resolution would include an appeal for a cease-fire and probably would urge creation of a demilitarized buffer zone along the 38th Parallel, old dividing line between North and South Korea.

Continues Debate

The conference was held while the political committee, in a nearby room, continued its debate on a six-power resolution demanding withdrawal of the Chinese Reds from Korea.

A spokesman for the United States said the U.S. would not comment on the 13-nation plan until they saw it in its final form.

He said, however, the U.S. delegation would be inclined to go along with the proposal if it is based solely on the military situation and has no political connotation.

The U.S. so far has refused to deal with Peiping in such a way as to imply recognition of it as a legal government. Washington has insisted that the U.N. is the proper forum for the negotiations.

Inclusion of a proposal for direct negotiations might be one of the "objectionable qualifications" which the U.S. State Department said Sunday it would oppose in a cease-fire resolution.

Except for such "qualifications" the department said, it would not object — at least in theory — to such a plan.

Rau said he had not discussed his ideas with the Americans and had no idea whether they would support his move. He also said he did not know whether the Chinese Reds would agree to any plan he might propose.

UK Consumers Get 22% Fresh Meat Cut

LONDON, Dec. 11 (CP) — A 22-per-cent cut in the small fresh-meat rations to British consumers took effect today. Corned beef was put on the market as a substitute for the loss of fresh meat from the ration.

At the time the cut was announced earlier this month, the food ministry stated the reduction was the direct result of failure of British and Argentina to agree on prices to be paid for Argentine beef.

British meat stocks are reported to be declining steadily and there is some speculation that another reduction in the weekly ration soon may be necessary.

The fresh-meat ration was increased 10 per cent last August to one shilling, six pence (about 23 cents) worth a week. At the same time the government discontinued the weekly ration of two pence worth of corned beef.

Gunmen Riddle Police Car But Constable Escapes

SAULT STE. MARIE, Dec. 11—(CP)—A Provincial Police net of almost 100 men today blocked off hundreds of miles of northern roads in a hunt for gunmen who Saturday night riddled a police cruiser. Constable John Gouley, 25, barely escaped with his life in the shooting on a routine check.

On the assumption that the thugs are trapped, with the highway their only avenue of escape from the district, police today began a search of back roads, including the 135-mile road to Chapleau.

As bullets from the mysterious gunmen smashed through the windshield and side window, the policeman whipped out his revolver and fired left-handed at the speeding target. His cruiser swerved on the snow-covered highway, plowed through a three-foot snowbank and crashed into a railroad fence.

Gouley's face was cut by shattered glass but although bullets tore into the seat upholstery, he was not hit.

Set Up Roadblock

Police set up roadblocks at Espanola, Sudbury, Blind River, Thessalon and Bruce Mines but found no trace of the car.

It was a routine mission that nearly cost Gouley his life. On a regular highway patrol he noticed a car ahead had no licence plate and moved up beside it to notify the driver.

"I figured he might have dropped it," the puzzled officer said. "Just as I pulled up beside the car they started shooting at me."

The first shots hit the windows. As Gouley tried to keep control of his cruiser and draw his gun, the car pulled ahead and the gunmen kept firing. Slugs ripped through the windshield, the edge of the car's roof, the fenders and the roof. Gouley said his hurried shots missed the fleeing car.

Police said the men may be the ones responsible for a series of safe-cracking jobs here, latest of which occurred Saturday night when a safe was expertly jimmied and $500 taken.

Oliver Stanley Dies In Britain

READING, England, Dec. 11—(AP). — Oliver Stanley, a leading member of the Conservative Party and former Cabinet member, died Sunday night after a long illness. He was 54.

Stanley had been a member of the House of Commons since 1924.

Among the government posts he had held were War Secretary, Minister of Labor, President of the Board of Trade, and Colonial Secretary.

His death increases the Labor Party majority in Commons to seven, pending an election to fill his vacant seat.

Stanley was a member of the "Shadow Cabinet" of Conservative Leader Winston Churchill. These are the men who will be named to Cabinet posts if the Conservatives return to power.

It was generally believed that Stanley was slated to become Chancellor of the Exchequer in any new Conservative Government.

He was the nephew of the Earl of Derby and the fourth member of his family to have been War Secretary.

Chiang Against Using Atom Bomb In China

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP) —Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek expressed the view today that the atom bomb should not be used on Communist China.

The Nationalist Chinese leader said he "doubted very much" that dropping the A-bomb on Communist forces "would produce the desired effect."

Chiang's views were contained in an interview copyrighted by "U.S. News and World Report," an independent weekly news magazine published in Washington.

30% Casualties In Marine Div.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—(AP) —The marine corps announced today that the first marine division suffered more than 30 per cent casualties in its desperate and successful fight to break out of a Chinese trap in Korea.

This implies possibly 6,000 to 7,000 casualties in the three infantry regiments making up the division although the marine corps gave no specific figure.

The casualties include those taken out of action by frost bite.

Gen. Clifton B. Cates, commandant of the marine corps, announced he has received a report from Lt.-Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, commanding general, fleet marine forces, Pacific, that he visited the division Dec. 9 and found:

"That they are in high spirits from the commanding general down, and the troops have their tails up".

A Marine spokesman added that the casualties reported included all categories such as weather cases (mostly frostbite) and injuries, as well as those killed, wounded and unaccounted for due to enemy action.

Fans Get Double Feature See Game, Lively Brawl

KITCHENER, Dec. 11—(CP)— Fans and players take their hockey seriously in western Ontario.

Eight persons were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct at Walkerton following a brawl during an Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate B tilt here Saturday night between Walkerton Merchants and Bridgeport Vets.

Taken to jail and released later on bail of $250 each were George A. Burgess, president of the Bridgeport hockey club; Robert Rafferty, playing coach, and defenceman Wally Kullman of the Vets; William Pagett and Norman Charbonnea, Bridgeport; Carson Shantz, Kitchener; Sullivan and David Silk, Walkerton.

Silk is sub-goalie for the Walkerton Merchants team, while Sullivan is a member of the town's Western Ontario Athletic Association entry, Walkerton Capitals. Both were spectators along with Pagett, Charbonneau and Burgess.

All are scheduled to appear in police court here Thursday.

During the melee in the seats, Shirley Wagner of Bridgeport was trampled and was unconscious when taken from the rink.

After treatment at Bruce county general hospital, she was able to return home on the players' bus.

The major ruckus started near the close of the third period of a rugged game, won 8-2 by Walkerton.

Three defencemen—Frank Seli and Joe Schnurr of Walkerton and Bob Schaefer of Bridgeport —were involved in a fight, all drawing major penalties.

A few minutes later, Bridgeport defenceman Wally Kullman, who had returned to the ice after serving a minor and misconduct penalty, became incensed by jibes from the spectators. He jumped over the boards and the free-for-all was on.

Last of Trapped Marines Reach Safety Of Plateau Near Hamhung As U.N. General Pays Visit To Korean Front

TOKYO, Dec. 11—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur flew to Korea today for a hard look at his heavily-hit United Nations Command. He said it remains unbeaten, relatively secure, and able to battle the Chinese hordes. His visit to both the northwest and northeast fronts came as the last elements of 25,000 bone-cold, unshaven American Marines and Infantrymen and a small group of British Commandos streamed down onto the Hamhung coastal plain from a series of Communist traps near Changjin reservoir.

A huge fleet stood off Hamhung's port of Hungnam. But whether it would evacuate the weary, outnumbered U.S. 10th Corps unit in the northeast remained to be seen. The northwest front was relatively quiet.

There was a note of guarded optimism in MacArthur's statement to correspondents after he returned to Tokyo from his quick trip to the war fronts. He had conferred on-the-spot with his top generals.

In Good Shape

"The United Nations Command, in spite of its recent heavy fighting, is in excellent shape with high morale and conspicuous self confidence," the UN commander said. "Although heavily outnumbered it has come through in a superior manner."

Enemy claims of UN losses were "fantastically exaggerated." Losses inflicted on the enemy had been staggering—"estimated by local commanders in the field as high as 10 to one compared to our own."

"Notwithstanding the enormous danger enhanced in the drastic change in the nature and capability of the enemy force I consider that the command for the time being is relatively secure."

"They have been in good order and with unbroken cohesion among the various components."

Doctor Says Ilse Koch Now Faking Insanity

AUGSBURG, Germany, Dec. 11 (AP).—A doctor testified today he believes Ilse Koch is faking insanity to escape her trial for concentration camp atrocities.

"The Red Witch of Buchenwald" was carried from her jail cell to Augsburg Hospital in a screaming frenzy Sunday night.

Two doctors told the court today they did not regard Frau Koch is insane.

Dr. Rudolf Englert, court physician, said in his opinion the 43-year-old defendant "is attempting by theatrical and artificial attitudes to sabotage or at least to delay her trial."

Crippled Model Takes $12,000 As Settlement

TORONTO, Dec. 11 (CP). — A $12,000 settlement has been reached between Helen Billson, 21, Toronto model crippled in a traffic accident nearly two years ago, and Virgil Barkman and Herbert E. Vickery.

The girl, who said she supported her blind father, had brought suit against Barkman, a barber, and Vickery for $88,830.

Her counsel, Norman Borins, announced settlement when the case was called in court today.

Struck By Car

Miss Billson was struck down by an automobile while she and a friend, William Miller, were walking along the Kingston road on Toronto's eastern outskirts on the way home from a dance Jan. 30, 1949. Miller was killed and the girl's legs were broken.

The girl was in hospital until last May. She appeared in court on crutches.

Barkman gave himself up to police in February, 1949. He was sentenced at that time to 21 days in jail and fined $100 for leaving the scene of an accident.

Police said Vickery was the owner of the car that struck the couple.

Armed Guards Patrol Mine

COBALT, Dec. 11 (CP).—Because highgrading in this once-fabulous silver-mining camp has reached a record high, guards armed with shotguns are patrolling one mine here.

Armed guards have been posted at the Cobalt Lode Silver Concentrator, manager Dan Hellens announced today.

"They have been armed with shot guns and given orders to shoot," he added.

Following an attempted break-in at the Cobalt Lode, concentrator last week, Mr. Hellens announced that he would arm watchmen to protect the silver concentrates.

Earl Williams, Cobalt mechanic, was tried in Haileybury last week on a high-grading charge and was found innocent. Another man, Arthur Kensett, New Liskeard taxi driver, is due to appear in Haileybury court Dec. 19, also on high-grading charges.

Dies From Exposure 75 Yards From Cabin

TIMISKAMING, Que., Dec. 11 (CP).—A 73-year-old trapper, H. Paquin, died of extposure and exhaustion 75 yards from his cabin near here last week after he had plunged through the ice into Douglas Lake, it was disclosed today.

The body was discovered by Lambert Moore and F. Robinson, trappers on their way to Moosehead Lake.

Police believe Paquin was crossing the lake to get to his trapping cabin. The ice gave way, and Paquin plunged into the icy water. He was able to claw his way back onto the ice surface, but collapsed while attempting to reach his cabin, 75 yards from where his body was discovered.

Allies In Agreement Western Europe Still Crucial Front

OTTAWA, Dec. 11—(CP)—The Attlee talks here and in Washington have shown that the United Kingdom, American and Canadian governments are in agreement that western Europe remains the crucial front for joint defence despite the Asian crisis. Informed quarters say one result, paradoxical as it may seem now, is that the current Korean situation may mean Canada's 10,000-man Special Force will go to Europe.

The reasoning behind this is based on the official belief the worst thing the west could do is get too heavily involved in Korea or any other relatively minor military front while Europe remains largely defenceless.

It would cause no great surprise here if the special force brigade group goes to Europe next year while the 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry carries Canada's fighting banner in Korea.

Must Finish Training

The 2nd Battalion of the Patricia's is expected to take another six to eight weeks to finish training in Japan for Korea and then be committed to the fighting line in Korea as part of a Commonwealth brigade or division.

Announcement of the battalion's arrival at Yokohama, Japan, is expected momently. It may already be there.

Its place in the special force, now training at Fort Lewis, Wash. has already been filled by formation of a 3rd battalion, PPCLI.

There now is general confidence the U.N. forces can hold on in Korea. This was expressed Saturday night by Prime Minister St. Laurent after the cabinet met with Prime Minister Attlee and Field Marshal Sir William Slim, Chief of the Imperial General Staff.

Won't Be Driven Out

Mr. St. Laurent told reporters "my information is that the U.N. is not going to be driven out of Korea."

This means unless a diplomatic solution can be found a winter campaign is shaping up with Canadians taking part in it, possibly starting in late January.

The stress of Western Europe's need of a swift build-up in defences was underlined in talks Sir William Slim had here over the weekend with Canadian defence leaders.

He talked with Lieut.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, chief of Canada's General Staff, before Gen Foulkes left Saturday afternoon for London and an important meeting of the Atlantic Pact military committee.

Truman Plans Emergency Call

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP).—Defence Secretary George Marshall pointed up the gravity of the world crisis Saturday by saying President Truman is seriously considering the declaration of a national emergency.

The cabinet member told reporters this as he stepped from a three-hour closed conference with senators considering President Truman's request for nearly $18,000,000,000 to strengthen U.S. fighting forces.

Several of the senators, who had listened to grim reports from Marshall and army, navy and air force leaders, wanted to go beyond declaring a national emergency to at least a start on "all-out mobilization."

Most senators said the chief value of a presidential declaration of emergency now would be to put the American public on full notice.

Heavy Beer Casualties

ROCKLAND, Dec. 11 (CP). — More than 1,500 cases of beer were the chief casualties in a highway accident near here Saturday night. A big Montreal-bound tractor trailer unit, owned by the Ottawa-Montreal Express, Limited, skidded on a slippery curve and overturned in a 10-foot ditch. William Sheehan of Montreal, driver of the truck, suffered minor leg injuries.

MORE ABOUT—

Command Secure

Every possible advantage has been taken of the fortunate premature disclosure of surreptitious enemy build-up operations designed to encompass our destruction by one massive stroke.

Enemy Fails

"This enemy plan has failed. All our units are intact and the losses inflicted on the enemy have been staggering—estimated by local commanders in the field as high as 10 to one compared to our own."

It was the General's first statement to correspondents on the Korean campaign since he personally directed the allied end-the-war offensive at daybreak Nov. 24—a push turned into a full retreat the night of Nov. 25 by bugle-blaring hordes of Chinese infantry.

It was evident that MacArthur was seriously concerned about the condition of his forces, particularly the U.S. 1st Marine Division and units of the army's 7th Infantry Division which battled through a frozen, Chinese-lined hell for two weeks on both sides and south of the Changjin reservoir in northeast Korea.

A Marine spokesman said the last elements of the 25,000-man escape force completed the hazardous, winding descent from snowbound mountains ringing the big hydro-electric reservoir to the coastal plain leading to Hamhung.

Kill 15,000 Chinese

The bitter 50-mile retreat began Nov. 28. The spokesman estimated the Marines alone killed 15,000 Chinese in breaking through the series of traps.

With the U.S. troops were about 100 British Royal Marines.

One grimy, bewhiskered American, huddled in his tattered parka, probably expressed the feelings of all of them with this comment:

"It was tough. That's all — tough."

Associated Press correspondent Jack MacBeth, the only wire service newspaperman who was with the trapped force, said more than 4,000 wounded were flown from the snow-mantled airstrip at Koto until two days before the final breakout drive.

Most of the wounded were Marines. There was no estimate of American dead, but MacBeth said the number would be high.

"Two days ago," he wrote, "I watched nearly 200 bodies nosed into a big grave by a bulldozer. There was no time for more elaborate arrangements."

Fighting Retreat

MacBeth, a Toronto-born reporter who formerly was sports editor of the North Bay Nugget, called the withdrawal "one of the fightingest retreats in military history." He said the leathernecks "walked out of 12 days of freezing hell, full of fight after the gory nightmare of death in Korea's icy mountains."

Temperatures at times plunged to 25 degrees below zero.

The Marine retreat began Nov. 28 from the flea-bitten village of Yudam west of Changjin reservoir. Three Red Chinese divisions and one regiment attacked the two Marine regiments.

On the far northeast coast, elements of two South Korean divisions, the 3rd and the Capital, were retreating southward toward Hamhung and its port of Hungnam. Some of the South Koreans were removed by sea.

But the two cities still are threatened. A force of two Chinese Red divisions — up to 20,000 men—was reported moving toward Hamhung from the northwest.

A 10th Corps spokesman said American troops were in wait for them.

UN planes continued hammering Chinese troops and supply arteries throughout North Korea.

Marine and navy pilots from the U.S. carriers Leyte and Sicily reported killing more than 2,000 Chinese Sunday in a single sector north of Hamhung. Fifth Air Force pilots estimated 1,600 Chinese were killed or wounded in northwest sectors.

Say Weapons Not Manpower To Win 3rd War

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP) —If a third world war should come, American strategists hope to win it by better weapons and better tactics. They can hardly hope to match the boundless manpower of the Communist world.

The present, localized conflict in Korea is an example of the kind of battling the American military planners had hoped to avoid—a struggle in which ground forces of the United States and her allies face Red hordes which outnumber them almost five to one.

The planners have been certain of one fundamental thing: the forces of the non-Communist world war could never win a world war if numerical strength alone was involved. The Russian ground force alone numbers more than 3,000,000 men, the Western powers substantially less.

Unhappy Situation

Now, without a Russian soldier moving over the border or firing a shot, the Communist camp has plunged the non-Communist world into the unhappy situation. In Korea, about 210,000 United States and other United Nations troops are facing 1,000,000 Chinese Reds. This Red force is only part of a total 4,000,000-man Communist China army.

Well, what about the better weapons?

Here the United States is in a curious position. It has among its arsenal of modern weapons the atomic bomb. Some think that weapon alone could wipe out the dangerous difference in manpower strength in Korea. But there is hesitation about using it.

Part of the reason is political, and ethical, part of it tactical.

There is deep reluctance to use a weapon which would kill so many innocent men, women and children.

Also, the countries of West Europe worry lest use of the bomb in Korea might be the giant spark that would set off atomic war in Europe, with Russian A-bombs blasting the cities of the Western democracies.

Negotiated Peace CCF Objective

OTTAWA, Dec. 11 (CP)—The C.C.F. national executive believes that "every avenue should be explored, short of appeasement, for a negotiated peace with China."

"The aim of this settlement should be the establishment of a free and United Korea, and the eventual seating of the Chinese People's Republic in the United Nations," the executive said in a statement endorsed at a week-end meeting.

The statement condemned Chinese intervention in Korea and urged that every effort be made to keep the Korean situation from developing into a general war.

"We regret that some of the political and military statements and decisions of United States leaders have weakened the effectiveness of the United Nations action," said the statement. "There has been a tendency for Washington to act without consultation, leaving her allies with little alternative but to agree. The Canadian government should have made its influence more strongly felt in the decisions that have been taken.

"It was particularly important that no single nation, acting unilaterally should under any circumstances decide on use of the atomic bomb."

Credit Unions Thrive In West

REGINA (CP).—Thirteen years after passage of an act legalizing credit unions in Saskatchewan, the province now has 243 credit unions with 46,000 members. Their shares and deposits total more than $10,000,000.

The 243rd union was formed recently at Cupar, 35 miles northeast of Regina.

Against total assets of $12,600,000 at June 30 there were loans in force amounting to $8,012,717. The credit union is a local co-operative saving and loan association, specializing in small, short-term loans. Its resources belong entirely to its members.

Each union has a board of directors, credit committees and supervisory committee. Neither directors nor committee members are paid, but the treasurer usually gets a percentage of the gross earnings.

Prices Climb Steadily In Quiet Trading

TORONTO, Dec. 11 — (CP).—Prices climbed steadily in quiet trading as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

In industrials gains ranged to more than $2 with a wide list of leaders ahead. Papers, steels, utilities, agricultures, constructions, foods, liquors, refining oils, banks and manufacturing companies showed a majority of gains in the groupings.

Base metals advanced strongly over a broad front. Consolidated Smelters led the group with a $1 jump and East Sullivan, Hudson Bay, International Nickel, Quemont, Steep Rock and Waite Amulet were leading issues that posted good gains.

Golds showed very little trading. Dome, Hollinger, and Teck Hughes added fractions among senior producers and a few leading junior producers climbed pennies.

Western oil advances ranged to 15 cents.

Volume for the first three hours was 773,000 shares.

CNE Concession Burns

TORONTO, Dec. 11—(CP)—A souvenir concession on the Canadian National Exhibition grounds was gutted early Sunday in a two-alarm fire. Loss was estimated at $15,000. Elwood Hughes, CNE general manager, blamed bands of young hooligans "who break into buildings and steal leftover stock" for causing the blaze.

Grain Ships Dash For Canal

SAULT STE. MARIE, Dec. 11 (CP)—A dozen Canadian ships loaded with grain are preparing for an eastward dash across Lake Superior from the lakehead before the great ship canals here close for the season.

Two United States vessels, the Ranney and the Galloway, also are on Superior. They, too, are scheduled to pass downbound through the locks to Lake Huron prior to the closing. The Canadian canal will be closed Friday.

Three Canadian freighters and possibly two or three American craft, still on the lower lakes, are expected to make their last trips of the season to Lake Superior ports this week.

Many of the ships that passed eastbound through the locks in good weather Sunday were on their final runs for 1950.

The Pittsburgh Steamship Co., the Interlake Steamship Co. and the Inland Steel Corporation, all of U.S. firms, have sent their fleets of ore carriers to winter berths.

Three of the four U.S. locks here have been closed and drained. The fourth, the Sabin Lock, will be kept open until the last of the vessels clear Lake Superior.

would gravely endanger security and offer an opportunity for Communist sabotage.

Scores of European women were attacked with bottles on the streets and in automobiles. There were unconfirmed reports some European children had been kidnapped as hostages until Maria Bertha is returned.

One British police officer was seriously wounded in the clashes. Two Malays were shot and seriously wounded. More than a score of European men reported to police outposts they had been beaten with clubs, stoned and struck with bottles.

Burning Cars

Flames and columns of smoke shot skyward as angry mobs ranged the streets attacking European-owned automobiles. Throngs of Moslems angrily shouted at foreigners to get out of Singapore as they loosed barrages of stones and clubs at passersby.

As police, armed with riot shields, riot sticks and pistols, broke up their mass formations, the squads of Malays and Indians hid in clumps of bushes along the streets and roadways, awaiting the chance for further violence.

One Associated Press correspondent was injured and another was missing tonight in riotous Singapore.

Tom Masterson, 38, chief of the Associated Press bureau, suffered a broken leg and other bodily injuries at the hands of a Moslem mob.

Larry Allen, who wrote the story of the disorders, was with Masterson at the time of the attack and is missing.

The court recessed its hearing until tomorrow.

Maria's foster mother and husband are asking that her Dutch mother, a Roman Catholic, be restrained from taking the child to the Netherlands. The Supreme Court here returned Maria a week ago to her Dutch mother, Mrs. Adeline Hertogh, from whom she had been separated since the Second World War hit the island of Java where they lived.

Dairy Product Stockpile Shows Big Drop

OTTAWA, Dec. 11 — (CP) — Canada faces the winter with sharply-reduced stockpiles of dairy products, but officials believe there will be enough to carry through until spring production starts.

The reductions were noted all through the dairy industry. The Bureau of Statistics Saturday estimated that creamery butter stocks on Dec. 1 were down 14,000,000 pounds from a year ago.

Cheese and evaporated whole milk holdings were down about 20,000,000 pounds each, while skim milk powder was down about 6,000,000.

Officials attributed the declines to lower prices for butter and cheese and more attractive prices for fluid milk, aided by greater Canadian demand.

Channelled Off

This meant that milk which might have gone into butter and cheese was channelled off into the fluid milk trade.

As a result, Canada's production of creamery butter for the first 11 months of 1950 dipped to 252,220,000 pounds, compared with 267,100,000 a year ago.

November's output totalled 13,200,000 pounds, compared with 16,176,000 in 1949.

Part of the stockpile of 52,000,000 pounds of butter, which compared with 66,399,000 last year, was in the hands of the government which has been supporting the market all through the summer months. However, even here there was a decline. The government is believed to be holding about 33,000,000 pounds, compared with about 48,000,000 last year.

position and the wider position.' They had discussed "fully" the North Atlantic Security Alliance and considered the question of building up defensive and economic strength in that region.

Parries Questions

For the next 20 minutes, Mr. Attlee parried a series of reporters' questions which ranged the wide field of the fight against Communism. Some he declined to answer and others he referred to Field Marshal Sir William Slim, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, who was with him at the conference.

All of the answers, by the quietly-spoken Prime Minister's own ruling, were not for publication.

Sunday night, in an address broadcast over a CBC national network, he said the world would have no need to fear aggression if the United Nations could be so strengthened that its members would act with the "same remarkable co-operation" as did the members of the British Commonwealth in times of trouble."

Of his Washington talks, he reported "complete agreement" between Britons and Americans on their common objective of peace and freedom for all men, with the opportunity to develop their lives happily and in their own way.

CGE Christmas Party Planned For Saturday

Peterborogh's largest industrial Christmas party, staged each year by the Canadian General Electric, has already been planned down to the smallest detail. Invitations to all employee parents with children up to and including 14 years of age have been distributed.

The big "do" will take place at the PCVS auditorium on Saturday, December 16th, commencing with the first age group at 9.30 a.m., and running through four additional sections; the last will be staged at 4.30 p.m. To help in operating a tight assembly line program, coloured tickets applicable to various age groups have been printed — buff, cherry, white, green and canary. Parents have been requested not to attend with their children until the time called for on the tickets due to the limited seating capacity of the auditorium.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS By Merrill Blosser

Original Revue By Grove Boys

The boys of Lakefield Preparatory School, under the direction of Hugh Taschereau, presented Saturday evening in the school hall a musical revue called "Hey There New Boy!"

A novel feature of this show was its originality. Centred on theme of a new boy at the school and his progressive discovery of its ways, personalities and moods, it was written by Mr. Taschereau who also produced and directed it.

There were lively adaptations of old and modern tunes, as well as original tunes by Mr. Taschereau. Christopher Gledhill put notes and harmony to the tunes. The lyrics had bright paraphrases, amusing take-offs on school affairs, and mordent dips into modern and ancient lore.

Among the chief performers were Fred Gibaut (the new boy), Percy Sherwood, Bill Boyd, Hugh McCulloch, Nick Powell, David Dale, John Grey, Bruce McNaughton, Peter Irwin, Jim Moffat Alec. Ryder and Chris Mainguy. These also took part in the ensemble work, together with Billy Wilson, Peter Saunders, Michael Gordon, John Davis, Richard Hibbard, John Grey, Chris Colin-Smith, John Mockridge, Peter van Buskirk, Michael Houghton, George Jones, Henry Scott, Darroch MacGillivray, Sandy Scott, Rick Crang and Hugh MacDonald.

It was an enthusiastic script and performance, and had an enthusiastic reception. Mrs. G. Winder Smith was tutelary genius and, as the program noted, Chris Mainguy was "General Kibitzer". Also bolstering the production were David Walks (property) and Gregg Rogers (technician).

US-British Friendship Said Halting War

CANBERRA, Dec. 11 (Reuters) —Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies of Australia told the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association today that traditional United States - Commonwealth friendship and armed might is preventing another world war.

War was not inevitable he added, and in any event could be avoided for at least five years.

Other delegates stressed that the United States and Britain should mobilize all available resources to present a strong unified front to any aggressor.

Forty delegates from 12 commonwealth countries are attending the conference.

Retirement A Luxury Cobourg Rotary Told

COBOURG, Dec. 11 (ENS) — Retirement for many men and women who had worked industriously was becoming more and more a thing of luxury and beyond the reach of far more people than it was a generation ago, said Telfer R. Hanson, representative of a Toronto firm, in an address at the regular luncheon meeting of Cobourg Rotary Club.

Urging that people with investments in mind should consult a reputable investment firm, Mr. Hanson said that often a man spent a lifetime in a business in which he became very competent and then turned around and bought stocks of all kinds and values without the care which had characterized the dealings in his own business. An investment firm will help a client analyze his investment programme, the speaker declared.

Mr. Hanson pointed out that an investment dealer was not a broker. A broker was an agent or salesman who handled a client's order to buy or sell on a brokerage commission and with no liability attached. However, an investment dealer was actually a merchant trading in securities which he had purchased at a certain price with the intention of realizing a profit. Sometimes the stock was sold at a loss.

Roy Archer's orchestra furnished music for round and square dancing. Following lunch a presentation of a purse of money was made by Albert Thistlethwaite and Leonard Metcalfe to the bride and groom. They both thanked all for their gift and those who had helped to make the evening a success. They will reside on the groom's farm near Norwood. Friends were present from Campbellford, Hastings, Havelock, Warsaw, Peterborough, Norwood and district.

Need Missionaries For Arctic Diocese

TORONTO, —(CP) — Missionaries are needed for Canada's Arctic.

The Rt. Rev. Donald B. Marsh, Anglican Bishop of the Arctic, says demand far exceeds supply of ministers in Canada's northland. Churches are filled to overflowing each Sunday.

He says things are so bad he has had to figure out how to jam 230 into a church built to hold 250. And he has held confirmation outdoors in freezing weather because there was no room in the chapel for families and friends to witness the service.

Eskimos carry prayer books with them wherever they go he says. No one is without one.

Pallbearers, all nephews, were Louis and Gordon English, Raymond McGuire, Vincent Keogan, Daniel Kewen and Joseph O'Reilly. Burial was at Our Lady of Mount Carmel cemetery, Hastings.

Miss Buck closed the meeting with a carol.

Halt Honeymoon For Earl, Girl Marry Properly

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 11 (AP) —The 66-year-old Earl of Essex and his 37-year-old fiance left their honeymoon cottage here on Saturday night for a quick marriage ceremony after discovering that they were not legally wed.

They had gone to the cabin for the night after having appeared before a Seattle judge. They assumed they had been married, and so told reporters. But a query to the judge disclosed that he had granted them only a waiver on the legally prescribed three-day wait which is supposed to precede all marriages.

The news flashed on the radio. British consular officers heard it. The landlady at their motor court was notified. She rushed breathless to their cabin and told them.

Near midnight the Earl and his fiancee went to the home of Justice of the Peace Delbert Bresemann.

"I gave them a quiet office wedding —a two-ring ceremony with candlelight," Bransemann said.

"I didn't know the Earl from Adam. That's the first nobility I've ever married.

The Earl and his fiancee arrived in Vancouver recently from Australia. They motored Saturday from Vancouver to Seattle.

The nobleman's family name is Algernon George de Vere Capell. He is the eighth Earl of Essex a name prominent in British history for nearly three centuries. His bride is the former Z. Mildred Carlson, a native of New York.

The Earl and Miss Carlson met in Melbourne, Australia. The couple had left Seattle during the day, Saturday, for a leisurely honeymoon trip to Bermuda.

"KING"

Most authorities agree that the title "King" is from the Anglo-Saxon cyning which is made up of the word cyn, meaning a nation or tribe and the suffix -ing, meaning "of". Since, in Anglo-Saxon times, the king was elected by the Ulitenagemot, or people's High Council, he was therefore the choice and head of the nation.

The Ladies Emerge

Last week twenty-six women were elected to municipal office in Ontario—one as controller, ten as aldermen and fifteen as school trustees. About half the eligible voters in Ontario are women and it is proper that they should have an adequate representation at municipal tables. The election of 26 of them is a pleasing indication of their growing interest in local government. Even if a woman's place should be in the home, she is not thereby barred from political interests. A man's place is in the office, factory, shop, or on the farm, but a good many of them manage to concern themselves with government and get elected to office.

Peterborough women have long taken leading parts in municipal affairs. During two decades the late Mrs. Kate Morris was a member of the Board of Education. She was in fact one of the first women in Ontario to be elected to such an office. Last Monday's elections put a second woman on the Board, who will be an able co-worker with Mrs. Paige Rowell. This is a very satisfactory state of affairs. It is not the first time the city has had two women members of the Board of Education at the same time; not long ago Mrs. Robert Parnall and Mrs. F. W. K. Harris served at the same time. In provincial and Federal politics our women have played no large part, although in 1945 Dr. Lorna Cotton Thomas ran on a C.C.F. ticket (and went down to defeat) and Peterborough has a woman senator, the Honourable Iva Fallis.

Lighting Our Blackout

We have already remarked in these columns how speedily our own Utilities men and Ontario Hydro crews set to work to get power into homes and industries after the blow at the substation which made the city powerless for hours and would have kept it that way for days had not all hands turned to the repair work. The Hydro was particularly helpful. The extent of the assistance given by the Peterborough works of the C.G.E. is now known. From management to storekeeper and operator all co-operated splendidly. Quick consultations were held with Utilities engineers to determine what was needed in the emergency. Two oil circuit breakers were taken from a job in progress and sent over to the suostation. Men worked continuously to get parts necessary for fifteen disconnected switches. Some hundreds of feet of available bare copper cable were taped braided and weather-proofed to make it serviceable. In fact, for two days, or until all that they could do was done, the C.G.E. plant gave Utilities sub-station requirements priority over all other work.

It was a fine display of co-operative, skilled and quick effort by the company, Hydro men (whom the H.E.P.C. made available instantly without question) and the Utilities people themselves. By Monday all power was restored. Before midnight on that Wednesday electric light and heat were available to all houses, and by the following Monday full power was restored to city streets and industry.

No Beauty Contests At Queen's

Beauty and personality contests have been outlawed at Queen's University. The ban was imposed by the women students themselves—by unanimous vote of their Levana Society. Do they fear that as a female student body they will not show up in bathing suit as well as in cap and gown? Not at all; they recognize by this restriction that organized contests in pulchritude and personality are not proper to halls of learning. Systematized contests at universities should be limited to trials of brain and brawn: at examinations, in debate, and on playing fields. Beauty has its testing times, personalities their areas of play, as ever with the female of the species; but these are now reserved officially to time-honoured individual practices in unorganized modes. Lures may be set to trap a man, but not through semi-professional, mass displays.

Who Will Be Boss In Chicago?

Since the comparatively early days of its history, Chicago has had a political boss. The latest occupant of the post is a short, slender man named Jake Arvey, who has now resigned. Official title of the post is chairman of the Cook County Democratic Organization, and there are two aspirants for it, backed by opposing factions within the Democratic Party.

Underlying reason for Mr. Arvey's resignation was the political toss he took in last month's elections. It was his job at that time to produce enough Chicago votes to re-elect Senator Scott Lucas, but he failed to do so. And the reason he failed to do so was a blunder which seemed incredibly stupid for a man noted for years for political astuteness.

Headed by Senator Lucas, a man of great ability, and high integrity, the list of Democratic candidates compiled by Mr. Arvey was generally excellent. There was, however, one serious exception—a former police captain named Dan (Tubbo) Gilbert, running for sheriff of Cook County. So far as we have seen, nothing has been made public about whatever political obligation Mr. Arvey may have met by approving Mr. Gilbert's candidacy. Presumably it was great, for no one could have failed to realize that the latter would be a serious obstacle to Democratic success.

Mr. Gilbert had become an investigator in the state attorney's office, at a salary of $9,000 per year. He investigated quite a number of gangsters and racketeers, but it appears he seldom, if ever, recommended an arrest as a result of his investigation. This lack of action, coupled with possession of a personal fortune of some $300,000, was too much for most Chicagoans, and a city which normally records huge Democratic majorities elected a Republican to the Senate.

Chicago and Cook County have provided many political and related spectacles in the past—some amusing, some terrible and some pleasantly encouraging. The Democratic defeat falls in the last category, we think, for it is good to see electors refuse to follow a party line when doing so necessitates the election of a candidate considered unfit for office.

Fundamentally Unphysiologic

An uncommonly interesting prediction in the field of healing has been made by Dr. Franklin D. Murphy, dean of the school of medicine in the University of Kansas; in the next fifty years, he says, modern surgery may be almost wholly replaced by non-surgical treatment, and surgery may be confined to the care of wounds, to corrective treatment for congenital troubles, and to beautification or plastic surgery. Surgery, he says is "fundamentally unphysiologic", by which we presume that he means that it is an arbitrary interference with nature—an interference, it must be said, for which we are often deeply grateful. Nevertheless, if the advance of medicine makes it possible to treat serious internal conditions without recourse to the knife, much of modern surgery will fall into disuse.

We are apt to forget how short the history of modern surgery is. About ninety years covers the field. Previous to 1860 there was no widespread use of anaesthetics, and the use of sterilizing agencies was little understood. There are people living who have seen surgeons at work in ordinary street dress, using implements which were certainly not sterile. The techniques of surgery have undergone revolutionary changes; to take a simple example, the removal of the vermiform appendix, which is a routine matter today, meant an illness of several weeks twenty-five years ago, and when King Edward VII underwent the operation it was attended by considerable risk. The astounding skill of the modern surgeon is a development of the last century. Before that time surgery, though sometimes skillful, was attended by dreadful risks of infection and was, at best, torture for the patient.

We can only wait and see what comes of Dr. Murphy's prediction. The great strides made by medicine since 1900 have prepared us for almost any change, however apparently miraculous.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Toronto is trying to get rid of its starlings by sprinkling coal oil in places where they roost. Do they suppose that starlings smoke in bed?

Scientists say that there is always an electric charge in the human stomach. That accounts for those occasional short-circuits.

When Mr. Attlee met with Mr. Truman, everybody remembered Churchill and F.D.R. It was like the road company after the all-star cast.

A science note says that if all the 7,000,000 people in New York were to talk at once they would generate just enough electricity to light a 60-watt lamp. That's about the usual ratio between talk and the illumination it provides.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

I WAS listening to the sneeze at the opening of Kodaly's "Hary Janos" suite the other evening on the radio, and it occurred to me that there is a good deal of humour in music, more thany many people realize. Now there are two kinds of musical humour. There is the kind that relies on some extra-musical idea, and there is the kind that resides in the character of the music itself. To make any meaning clear let us make an analogy with humorous cartoons. There are some cartoons which depend for their effect on the words, the drawing being quite simple and naturalistic. Other cartoons, on the other hand, are funny because of some ludricous distortion of the features, and require no words of explanation. As an example of the first type in music there is the famous "March of the Davidsbuendler against the Philistines" in Schumann's "Carnival". There is nothing particularly funny in the music itself. The joke consists in the fact that though it is called a march it is written in triple time. As an example of the second, purely musical type of humour there is the passage in one of the variations by Mozart to "Unser dummer Poebel meint" which always makes me laugh. The theme is given out by the left hand in octaves. There is a rapid skip in the theme from G down to D, but instead of hitting D in this variation it goes down to D sharp, sounding for a moment as though the pianist has made a "domino". This happens two or three times, going down to C sharp and F natural, but each time Mozart modulates smoothly back. Another example of Mozartian humour is the "Musical Joke", a collection of cliches and elementary errors such as one might hear from a village band in the eighteenth century. Diagnileff included this as a symphonic interlude at the Russian ballet. Nobody but Diagnileff saw the joke. His coterie listened with perfect solemnity to this witty parody as though it were something to be admired and imitated, so Constant Lambert says.

A GOOD deal of humour in music is of a mixed nature, neither entirely musical nor entirely literary, such as the "Tortoise" in Saint-Saen's "Carnival of Animals". The ludicrous effect of the "can-can" theme played very slowly by the double-basses is obvious at first hearing. The music itself is funny. What I did not realize until quite recently was the fact that the humour is even more pointed. The celebrated "can-can" tune comes from Offenbach's operetta, "Orpheus in the Underworld". Now Orpheus played on a lute made of the shell of a tortoise, hence the reason for using that particular theme to depict that animal in the Carnival.

THERE is grim humour in music at times. Beethoven was quite a specialist at this, but there is a particularly good example in Berlioz's Fantastic Symphony. The Fourth movement, the March to the Scaffold, opens in G minor with an ominous descending scale and squeaking and gibbering woodwind. Then there is a sudden modulation to B flat major, an altogether sunnier key, and the brass blazes away lustily. Surely this is an example of grim humour. There is the unfortunate criminal being driven away in a tumbril to his execution, while the crowd is enjoying a holiday and the band is playing a jolly march tune. Finally the knife of the guilloline descends, and one can distinctly hear the sound of the head bouncing down into the waiting basket. The long cnord and side-drum roll seems to say "Justice has been done".

AS a footnote to my remarks on musical copyright I am reminded of the fact that the copyright of the music (not the words) of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas expired on November 22, the fiftieth anniversary of the death of Sullivan. There is considerable concern lest these tunes should fall into the hands of Tin Pan Alley and be hung, swung and quartered in the sacred cause of the almighty dollar. A suggestion has been made that a petition to the Governments of the British Commonwealth and the United States be made to take over the copyright—in other words, that Sullivan should be "inter-nationalized". Presumably this would mean that the governments concerned would have to publish the music themselves (under the form of "White Papers"?) or else issue licenses to reputable music publishers. I am afraid that this plan, even if workable on an international basis (which I doubt), would create a very awkward precedent. Supposing the Soviet Government in 1958 were to proclaim that it had taken over the international copyright of Rimsky-Korsakoff for all time. Imagine the outcry from the rest of the world. And yet Rimsky should be entitled to as much protection as Sullivan. No, I am afraid that lovers of G. and S. will just have to grit their teeth or turn off the radio when they hear their favourite numbers crooned and drooled to death by illiterate morons whose only assets appear to be chronic laryngitis and a constitutional inability to sing in tune. Sometimes I wish that the microphone had never been invented, or at least that it was used solely for picking up the sound of the footsteps of a fly!

IN the course of my career I have been astounded by the number of amateur pianists who have no idea of what goes on inside a piano when it is played. They often do not know why the sound stops when a key is released. As for the workings of the pedals they are altogether too mysterious. Are you amongst this number of ignorant pianists? If so, I would advise you to open up your piano without delay and find out for yourself what goes on. You should then have a far better idea of how to improve your touch and your pedalling.

PUT ON YEARS

The old lady was very much against smoking, and took every opportunity of speaking against it. Seeing an old gentleman obviously enjoying his pipe, she couldn't resist telling about the evils of tobacco.

"It knocks years off your life," she finished. "Just think of that!"

"Well, madam," replied the old gentleman, "look at me—never been ill a day in my life. I have smoked regularly since I was sixteen, and I'm sixty now. What do you say to that?"

"What do I say?" thundered the old lady. "Why, man, if you hadn't smoked, you might have been seventy by now!"

USE LARD INSTEAD

Sir: Permit me to say a few words re margarine and butter. I have been a nurse for several years and have been with an elderly patient for a number of months. She has been using margarine for a year or more and her skin has broken out with an irritating rash which causes her a great deal of pain and discomfort. It is similar to the skin of another lady who had similar trouble due to lack of calcium. The latter lady did not use butter at all as she did not care for it, consequently she did not get her calcium. I warn mothers of families to beware of using margarine as there is nothing can take the place of nourishing milk and butter. Do not jeopardize the health of your families by using margarine. Why not use lard which is cheaper and just as nourishing. Calcium is necessary for the health of every one, young and old.

Yours truly,
A NURSE.

CATHOLIC TRUTHS

Sir: Roman Catholics have every right to believe whatever is required of them however strange and unwarranted some of their new doctrines may seem to those who profess to hold to "the faith once for all delivered to the saints" in its primitive form. But to make statements as 'Catholic' has done, in your paper of Dec. 7, as the truth and nothing but the truth, and without a word of proof, is only to confuse, not to say mislead, many of your readers who know little or nothing of church history and perhaps very little of the writings of the early church as contained in the New Testament.

The statements that S. Peter was the just Pope, that Henry VIII divorced his lawful wife, that this man created the Church of England, that the Roman Catholic Church teaches the same doctrines as the Apostles (and supposedly no others), that this church is the only one able to trace her pedigree—these and certain other claims are acknowledged as legitimate subjects of controversy today in the realm of scholastic learning, and it is claimed by many scholars of repute that some of these claims have no historical or theological proof to support them whatsoever.

Further, we have to remember that while many believe such claims, and many because they have been so taught—a very much larger number of professing Christians, many of them exercising their reason, do not believe them at all. The reading public has to take this into consideration.

However, Mr. Editor, I would suggest, as justice cannot be done in a letter to a newspaper to the truths and claims of the Christian faith, and that the reading public be not confused, perplexed and misinformed by letters often written by well-meaning persons but with little learning, that such controversy be at least discouraged if not excluded. All sufficiently interested can read the earliest church history in the New Testament and the doctrines which the Apostles taught, and books of later church history can easily be bought and read and studied. Further one can exchange views and learn much from some friend who worships in another church. And we can all learn to love as brethren.

CATHOLIC (NOT ROMAN).

NO U.S.S.R. WHEAT BOUGHT

Sir: Quoting the Peterborough Examiner: "Britain is buying a lot of wheat from Russia which she could have bought from Canada. What about that? Imperial ties are expected to work both ways".

Wheat bought by Britain for the nine months ending September 1950 was 46,819,545 cwt., supplied as follows: Canada 37,081,068, Australia 826,280. Other Commonwealth countries and the Irish Republic 1, France 981,735, U.S.A. 7,746,229. All other foreign countries 184,232. U.S.A. purchases are probably obligatory under Marshall Aid provisions.

Unfortunately segregated figures for the last item are not given, but if we reject all South American suppliers, the entire quantity amounts to less than decimal four per cent. of the total, so this represents the maximum possible Russian purchases which were made in sterling compared with dollars.

A possible point four per cent is not "a lot" or a large proportion, and the Examiner's criticism of British purchases appears to be false, and certainly unmerited.

Yours truly,
C. W. HOLMAN.

(Ed. Note: Mr. Holman is quite right in these figures. Britain herself has imported in the last three years for use in the U.K. almost no wheat from Russia. Our point is not violated, however. Britain bought in Russia during 1948 and 1949, and is continuing to buy in Russia, large quantities of wheat and wheat flour for delivery to her dependent areas. This is according to Department of Trade and Commerce officials, but we have not yet been able to get the figures. Britain has also bought in Russia and imported into the U.K. the following (figures are given in hundredweights of 112 pounds):

	1948	1949	1950 (first nine months)
Barley	8,603,418	2,854,987	6,511,325
Oats	2,053,280	1,199,117	1,675,045
Maize	2,783,579	1,018,413	3,339,768

Britain bought no oats or barley from Canada and only a few thousand hundredweight of maize.)

Cost Of A President

(San Francisco Argonaut)

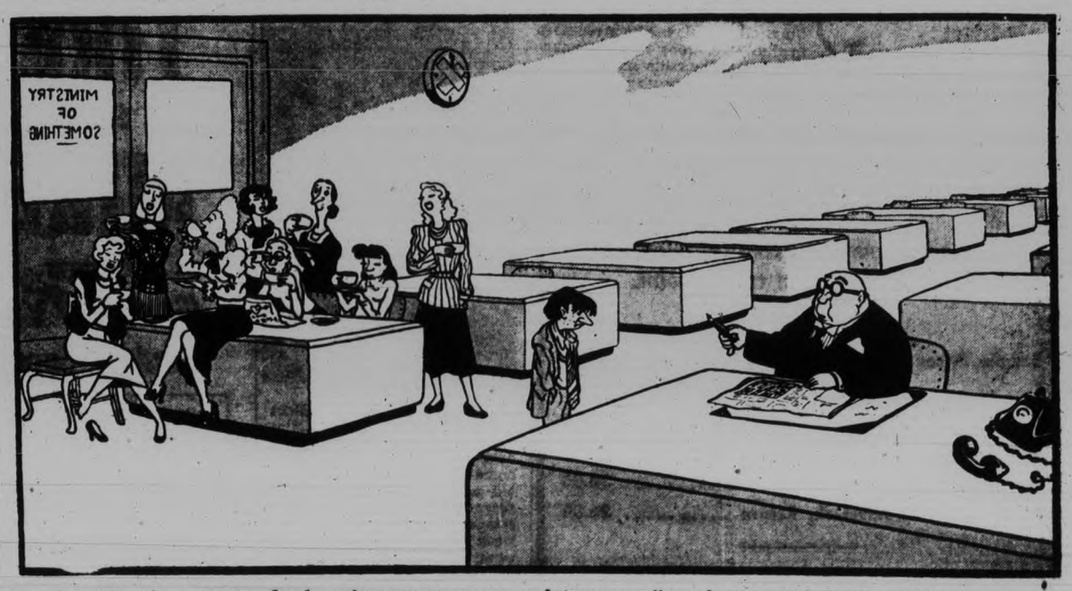
President Harry S. Truman is one of the best paid men in the world according to computations by Representative Woodruff, Republican from Michigan.

The Congressman claims that a private citizen would need an income of $3,000,000 at the very least to live as President Truman lives.

"First of all", Mr. Woodruff claims, "Mr. Truman has a take-home pay of $110,000 a year out of his $150,000 salary — of which $50,000 is tax-free.

"As to services available to the President for traveling and vacationing there are 42, including planes, 35 White House automobiles, the yacht Williamsburg, a private Pullman car and vacation retreats in Key West, Florida and in Maryland. He has an estimated staff of 665 to run them at an annual cost of $1,491,540. He has a White House travel allowance of between $33,896 and $40,000, exclusive of air travel which is charged to the air force.

"The crew of the yacht Williamsburg costs $190,000 annually. The President's personal plane cost $1,133,000 to build and about $120,000 a year to man. His private railroad car expenses run between $250,000 and $350,000 annually. A White House staff of 225 receive in salaries annually $998,254."



"Boy—be a sport and take a letter to the mines and factories telling them to work harder and longer"

EARL TO WED—The eighth Earl of Essex, 66, and his blonde 37-year-old fiancee, Mildred Carlson, were wed in Seattle, Wash., over the week-end. A few hours after the ceremony they learned the wedding was invalid and were married again in a Justice of the Peace office. The British peer met Miss Carlson, a U.S. consulate worker, in Australia a year ago. This photo was taken in Vancouver, shortly after the couple arrived from Australia.

European Teacher Awarded Scholarship

TORONTO, Dec. 11 (CP) — A language teacher from Europe who hasn't yet mastered English, was presented with the Bryan Memorial Scholarship Saturday as the Ontario College of Education's "most worthy graduate" in 1950.

T. W. Mayor of Kingston, president of the Ontario Secondary Schols Teachers' Federation, presented the award to M. Sterian, a graduate of the universities of Vienna and Bucharest who began teaching in Austria in 1924.

Mr. Sterian, described as "between 45 and 50," and married, came to Canada in 1949 and enrolled in OCE so he could teach in Ontario. College officials said he had a "brilliant" record there.

His knowledge of English is not yet good enough for him to teach, they said. Meanwhile he is assisting the staff at the college.

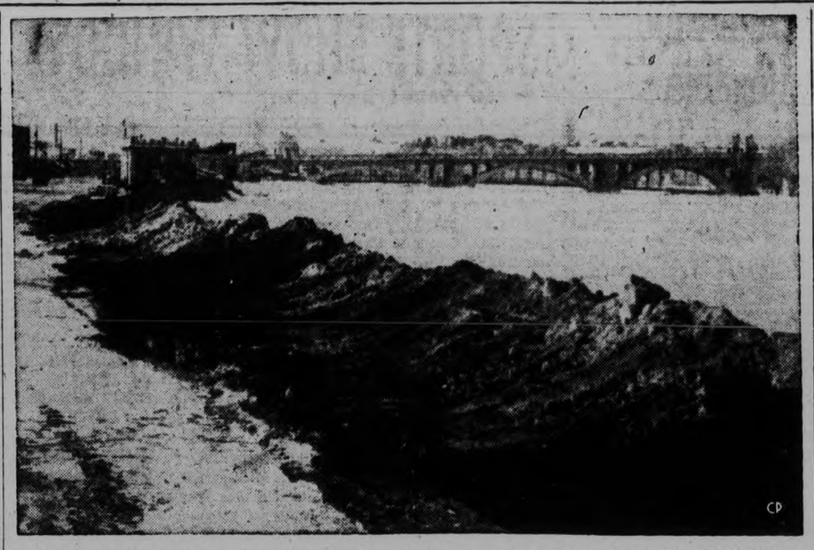
Papal Broadcast

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 11 (AP) —The Pope will broadcast his usual Christmas message on Dec. 23 instead of on Christmas Eve, it was announced Saturday. The reason is that on Christmas Eve the Pontiff will be busy with the closing ceremonies of the 1950 Holy Year.



ICE POUNDS DIKES—A 15-foot ice jam pounds dikes in the heart of Calgary as water seeps through the barriers into city streets. Nearly 3,000 persons left their homes when waters from the Bow River flooded riverside areas. The lower deck of the Centre Street Bridge, background, was closed to traffic when the ice piled up.

Hoping To Use Canadian TV Talent

TORONTO, Dec. 11 (CP) — A director of the CBC said here Saturday that talent for television in Canada will have to grow with the industry.

Ernest Bushnell told a symposium on television "we hope to make use of the talent available in Canada and we hope that Canadian talent will not hold a pistol to our heads. . . .

"We are not gong to pay fabulous salaries to people while they are learning their business. No one is going to get $50 an hour to learn how to walk on or off stage."

Mr. Bushnell said television is much more advanced in Canada than most people realize but its progress depends on an improvement in the present international situation.

He said Toronto will have television a year from now, if the international situation improves.

Revenue Down

REGINA (CP).—The Regina Exhibition Association has announced net revenue of $75,086 this year, compared with last year's $81,841. Paid admissions this year were 137,819 compared with 130,852 last year.

Doctors Develop New Heart-Lung

11 — (AP). — Fels Institute for Study of Human Developments at Antioch College Sunday announced perfection of a "revolutionary" artificial heart-lung so simple any laboratory technician can build it.

Institute scientists who designed and tested the $60 device say "it is ready for use on human beings."

The "Fels oxygenator," as it is called, was developed by Dr. Leland C. Clark, Jr., head of biochemistry at the institute, in cooperation with Dr. Frank Gollan, institute physiologist and research pediatrician, and other institute workers.

The institute described the machine as a possible answer "to a long standing physicians" and physiologists' dream." Dr. Sontag said "the Fels oxygenator represents a very important advance over previous efforts for these reasons:

"It has no moving parts; it is easily sterilized and weighs less than four pounds; it causes no detectable damage to red blood cells after hours of pumping, can be filled with less than a pint of blood and automatically adjusts its pumping rate from over one-fourth pint to over a gallon a minute."

Development of a similar device by Hahnemann Hospital, in Philadelphia, was reported last week in Cleveland. That device also was called an oxygenator and used a mechanical pump. It was reported to have kept one dog alive for 71 minutes while bypassing its blood around its heart and lungs.

Joe Morton, a Dayton Journal Herald reporter who watched the Fels device operate, said he saw it keep a 50-pound dog alive for more than two hours. He said the dog kept up its normal breathing, heart action and blood pressure.

Plan To Raise Hospital Rates

BRANTFORD, Dec. 11 (CP) — Following within 24 hours of the announced plans for a new $2,556,000 addition to the hospital building here, J. McIntosh Tutt, chairman of the board of governors of the Brantford General Hospital, announced Sunday that it would be necessary to increase hospital rates Jan. 1 by approximately 10 per cent.

The increase will apply to all bed accommodation.

Mr. Tutt said the increase had been necessitated by steadily rising costs, with higher salaries and soaring food prices as the major factors.

He estimated that the hospital deficit this year would be approximately $100,000 as compared with last year's $45,000.

TAKING A SHORT CUT HOME—That's what jockey Willie Shoemaker appears to be doing with Pension Plan at the Hollywood race track this week. In the top centre picture the Pension Plan begins to bolt towards the rail. Centre, the horse heads over the rail with Shoemaker still aboard. Bottom, Shoemaker somersaults to the infield turf, followed by Pension Plan. The jockey sustained only a sprained wrist and was back in action the next day.

Atkins And Eric After Title Bout

What should prove to be one of the outstanding matches of the season will be staged Tuesday night at the Brock Arena when Yukon Eric tangles with Fred Atkins. This will be the main go of a three-bout card, and a rare tidbit for grapple fans. Eric is the strongest of the pair, with Atkins faster and more experienced.

Atkins was quite anxious to meet the Alaskan, figuring a win over huge Eric will put him right in line for a shot at Whipper Watson and the British Empire title. Eric is at the top of the heap at present and cannot afford to drop a verdict to the Australian champ. It will be a bitter, hard-fought contest.

Toar Morgan, who has been displaying plenty of fight lately, will get the acid test against villainous Wee Willie Davis. In his present form Toar should make it plenty hot for Willie.

A newcomer, Dave Simms, will open the show against Abe Zvonkin. Simms is highly rated.

Orfuns Hold Enjoyable Closing "Do"

Half a hundred officials, players and guests attended the wind-up banquet of the Peterborough Orfuns Football Club on Saturday night at the Colonial Room, at which Mayor Max Swanston congratulated the executive and team on doing a fine job in promoting the game.

G. A. Gillespie, Exhibition Board secretary, said the board was always glad to give the use of Morrow Park to any sport of community interest. Don McGillis Sr. and coach Harry Bamforth both spoke briefly to the gathering.

Dr. Don Aitken, who is taking over the club's managership, spoke on plans for 1951, pointing out that while Dave Wilson could not continue as manager he would be active on the executive.

Dr. Roger Chenoweth, president reported on the club's financial position, stating it was strictly an amateur club with players not being paid to play. He said it was a local club, though some players would be brought in—the type who would make their homes here and become good citizens. He praised the hard-working executive which put in so much time solely to help the sport here.

A Good Season

Captain Gord Beatty, Spike Matthews and John Lynch, speaking briefly, felt that 1950 had been a good year inasmuch as a solid foundation for future football was concerned. Bill Huntley drew a hand when he announced he would continue to live in Peterborough.

C. Wishart, vice-president of Brinton Carpet Co., and Harry Baptie of Westclox and Reg Reid of Outboard Marine Co., also gave short addresses.

Past president Harry Yudin made a club presentation to Don McGillis Sr.—an autographed football from the players—as a token for the generosity he has shown to keep the game going. Mr. McGillis said he would continue his interest in football and hockey. The annual closing dinner, the club decided, will be known in future as "McGillis Night." Stan McBride was master of ceremonies for the "do."

Head table guests were: Mayor Swanston, G. A. Gillespie, Dr. D. Aitken, D. A. McGillis, C. Wishart, A. Butcher, Dr. Chenoweth, Dave Wilson, H. Yudin, S. McBride, Dr. J. Howes, H. Bamforth Frank Foster, Fred Dufton of Cobourg, Gord Beatty, Bill Shadgett, H. Baptie, R. Reid and H. Worton.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

A full round of activity in the National Hockey League during the weekend saw the race for individual scoring honors tighten with shifts in position.

Max Bentley of Toronto, although inactive through injury, dominates the group with 29 points, made up of eight goals and 21 assists.

The circuit's top scorer, Toronto's Tod Sloan, picked up a brace of counters and an assist but had his second-place spot taken over by team-mate Ted Kennedy, who notched two goals and three assists for a total of 27 points. Sloan has 16 goals and is one point behind Kennedy.

Turk Broda, Toronto goal tender, rules in the shutout department with five.

Two Toronto players switched penalty honors. Bill Barilko was jugged for eight minutes during the weekend for a total of 57 minutes. He takes over from Gus Mortson who has served 52 minutes.

Los Angeles Tryouts

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP).—United States track and field tryouts for the 1952 Olympic games will be held in Los Angeles—probably early in July and just prior to the International games scheduled for Helsinki, Finland. Avery Brundage, president of U. S. Olympics, Inc., announced.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Kingston Nylons play the Eagles at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena, an OHA senior "B" fixture that ought to be a humdinger. The Eagles are back in the hunt for first place, while Nylons are in a see-saw struggle for third slot with Belleville in this hot race. Tonight's tussle will be plenty fast and close before another big crowd. You can't ignore a team like Nylons with Specs Udall in goal, a big, bumping defence, and a first front line of Ken Partis, Joey Catlin and Walt Gerow. But you can't write off the Eagles, either, a scrappy squad that won't quit until the final gong. They didn't reach Ontario finals the last two years without being good.

* * * * * *

Fans are still arguing over the Petes-Eagles' fray of Friday night. A dandy game with the Petes appearing better for about two thirds of the route. Then, Eagles erupted to rap home six straight goals in the third and take the tilt. The Petes are vowing vengeance for that one, and they're still leading the pack. Meantime, the jubilant Eagles celebrated the victory at a party at Coach Mick Magee's place Saturday eve. It's much too early in the long season to pick a top team between the two classy local clubs—and you certainly can't forget Belleville or Kingston yet for awhile. The Petes and Eagles are top teams at the moment and well-matched, but Redmen or Nylons (and Queen's possibly, too) could be atop the heap by schedule's end.

To Be Or Not To "B"

Quinte columnist hasn't quite got the senior or senior "B" setup straight yet. It's still senior "B" and will be until Mar. 11. Then, the OHA has decreed that one club in each of the six senior "B" groupings in Ontario will be named to go into Allan Cup playdowns as a senior "A" team. It is up to the group conveners, Frank Buckland advises, to arrange a meeting of teams to decide how they want to work it out. It might be that the team leading the group at that time will be picked for Allan Cup playdowns, but possibly some teams will say "no, we don't want the extra expense if we should be on top then." Convener Lorne Cook of Kingston will have to work that out in this group.

* * * * * *

We don't want to embarrass or perplex pal George Carver of the Quinte sheet, but neither do we wish to have him laboring under a delusion—and we don't mean you, Ald. Claude Tice, an old friend, who is managing editor at Belleville! It's senior "B" hockey as yet but the teams from this group which hits the playdown trail toward the Allan Cup the last half of March will be rated as senior "A". The former senior "A" clubs like Hamilton, Marlies, etc., are now in a major (or minor pro) rating. Heck, what's the difference what you call our senior squads? It's the same hockey, and good hockey at that, chum.

* * * * * *

Regarding The IOOF-ers

Our junior "B" Oddfellows are idle till they go to Bella Villa on Wednesday, and they have a home fray here Friday. Fred Maybee has been keeping track of their scoring marks and shows Wyatt in front with 10 points, while B. Robinson has nine, and West and Morrow eight each. Doris follow swith six, as Buckton and Stewart are tied with five apiece. G. Robinson has compiled four to date, with three each counted by Armstrong and Douglas, two by Clapper and one each by Wasson, Floyd and Shearer. They've played seven games so far and are up atop the pile in a nice showing. Leading in penalties are Wasson, Wyatt and Morrow. More statistics again.

* * * * * *

The grid Orfuns had a swell windup dinner Saturday night with about 50 on deck, including a number of prominent guests. The general feeling was that a big start had been made the past season toward building a strong ORFU squad for the future and keeping the game popular with the fans. Stan McBride was an efficient master of ceremonies, and the whole "do" was enjoyable. A highlight was a presentation of a players' autographed football to Don McGillis Sr., a generous helper of the club for several seasons. Also Dr. Don Aitken, manager, and Coach Harv Bamforth outlined some 1951 plans. Dr. Roger Chenoweth, president, said the team was strictly amateur and as much homebrew as possible. Any imports are expected to live here. Bill Huntley gave out some good news by announcing he was staying.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

It would seem that these Saturday two-hour bonspiels are just what our boys and girls want. So popular have these events become that there was just about 100 per cent capacity entry. In the afternoon there were 12 rinks out and in the evening "Family Hour" 'spiel there was a full entry and more wanted to play but there was no ice available. If this keeps up the committee may have to consider running two mixed 'spiels Saturday evening, one at 7:00 o'clock and one at 9:00 o'clock. At least, it's a thought.

Our club has been notified that the Tankard playoff games for this district will be held here Monday, Jan. 15, 1951.

R. F. Downey and V. Brown skipped rinks in the Orillia bonspiel on Saturday.

We understand that the entry for the Walker bonspiel, this coming Wednesday, is complete.

Now there is another bonspiel coming up next Saturday, 9:00 o'clock to 6:00 o'clock, 14 rinks and schedule calibre. This is meant particularly for the boys who work in factories and are not able to get away on Wednesday.

Just a reminder—of late some of the winning skips have neglected to deposit their score cards in the box. This delays the records and it also does not give us a chance to publish the results.

Tonight Groups 2 and 3 continue with the schedule.

Winning Skips

Saturday afternoon, W. M. Cruthers, R, Payne, J. Richmond, and M. Metherel.

Saturday evening, D. Charlton and W. Archibald.

Bantam Coach Complains Of Practises

Sports Editor,
The Examiner.

Dear Sir: The absolute lack of consideration for the Otonabee bantam hockey boys of the PMHA is without precedent.

Three times I have boys, ages 12 and 13, up at five a.m. to catch a bus so as to be at the Civic Arena for a practice at seven a.m., only to find the juveniles on the ice, city boys aged 16 to 18. One man is a complete dictator of all practice hours and schedules.

Why are not the other officials on the board consulted—three heads are better than one? Also we should have some recourse to state our case. After all, I spent some time in the Air Force in two wars to help get rid of the 'Hitlers.'

I also wore out a pair of shoes collecting for both the Memorial and Civic Arenas, as well as donating a fair share. Though five miles out, we support the rink more than one sees on the surface. Last week at a meeting of the PMHA (which I have been a member of for 35 years) our team was one of two teams out of 12 that turned in the necessary $30 in full.

I leave it to public opinion — how would you as parents feel if your boys got up at five a.m. three times, went in 12 miles only to find older boys on the ice?

Sure, we all make mistakes. I make a lot of them and admit them. My point is that some individuals never admit they make a mistake.

The boys did not want me to write this letter in case they get thrown out of the league. We can only see what happens. The parents are fed up—with exams on for the boys—and their support has cooled off after this morning.

Thank you, Mr. Editor, for space to state my case. Sincerely,
GEORGE W. HERON,
The Pines, Highway No. 7.

Eagles In Last Game Bow To Capitals 6-5

By The Canadian Press.

New Haven Eagles bowed out of the American Hockey League Sunday night in the same fashion that forced them to disband. They dropped a 6-5 decision to Indianapolis Capitols.

About 1,200 fans, fairly good considering the Eagles have won five games in 28 this season, saw their team's final appearance.

But it wasn't all tears. Veteran Bill Summerhill of Toronto closed out his career in a blaze of glory. He performed the hat trick and the first of his three goals made him the seventh man in league history to score 200 goals. Summerhill said he expects to retire.

Buffalo Bisons, Eastern Division leaders, ran their unbeaten string to eight games last night, drubbing Providence Reds 8-3. Ab De Marco and Paul Leger led the attack with two goals each.

Has 365 Victories

By The Canadian Press.

Jockey Joe Culmone, leading rider of 1950, boosted his season total of victories to 365 at Tropical Park Saturday by winning one race in eight starts. He scored on Bright Player, which paid $11.10.

Willie Shoemaker, closest to Culmone on the national list, remained 14 behind Culmone as he took clicked once. Shoemaker had six mounts at Hollywood Park and won on Pitch, $6.60.

Culmone now is behind Walter Miller's all-time record of 388 victories in a season, set in 1906, and has 18 more racing days to go.

Additional Sports On Pages 7, 8.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Proximity, queen of the trotters is the harness horse of the year.

The golden-hoofed all-time money winner is the first mare to receive the top honor of sulky turfdom. And no small share of the credit is due to Clint Hodgins, the 44-year-old veteran reinsman from Clandeboye, Ont.

Hodgins, acknowledged one of the top drivers in grand circuit competition, drove the daughter of Protector and Agnes Worthy in most of her many major victories this year.

Proximity's owners, Ralph and Gorden Verhurst of Victor, N. Y., give Hodgins the credit for developing the mare from a "misfit" into the champion she is today.

The eight-year-old brown mare was selected harness horse of the year by 229 sports writers and broadcasters throughout the United States. The poll was conducted by the United States Trotting Association.

During the 1950 season, Proximity set four world records and broke the all time money winning record which had stood for 73 years. The mare's earnings now stand at $247,379—$30,000 more than the previous mark set by Goldsmith Maid.

The world records set this year by the fleet-footed mare were the 1 1-16 miles, 1⅛ miles, 1¼ miles and the mile record over a half-mile track.

Robinson weighed 156½, Van Dam 157½.

When the fight ended all 15,000 spectators were on their feet booing the American.

Robinson all but finished the Dutchman in the third round and just before the bell ended the round he caught Van Dam with a punch that appeared to be low. The Dutchman went down and was saved by the bell.

He was carried to his corner but tottered to continue the bout at the start of the fourth. Robinson quickly finished him.

Noor raced to victory in the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup Saturday and convinced his arch rival, Hill Prince, and 50,007 roaring fans that he is the finest handicap horse in the United States this year.

The dark five-year-old horse from Ireland thundered under the wire to win this richest race of the year by a length in track-record time for 1¼ miles.

Isador Bieber's Palestinian scored a surprising second and Hill Prince, Chris Chenery's proud three-year-old champion rolled in a disappointing third.

The Noor triumph, matching in brilliance the four conquests he ran over Citation earlier this year was clocked at 1:59 4-5, a fifth of a second faster than the record set by Cover Up in 1947 in this Gold Cup classic.

Six thousand Berlin boxing fans rioted Saturday night when the referee counted out an American Negro and a German heavyweight after both had fallen out of the ring.

Gene (Tiger) Jones of Camden, N. J., and Wilson Kohlbrecher, of Osnabrueck, West Germany, had nearly knocked themselves out in the first round of an eight round bout.

In the second stanza, the two flailed each other furiously near the ropes. Suddenly both tumbled into ringside seats.

The referee counted 10, and then announced both were defeated.

Then the crowd started breaking chairs and hurling them at boxing officials. Police immediately ordered the Funkturm Sports Hall cleared.

Many fans had to be thrown out bodily.

Wings' Strategy Works Defeat Toronto Leafs 3-2

By The Canadian Press.

Detroit Red Wings may yet set the pattern of strategy for other National Hockey League clubs to employ against Toronto's flashy league-leading Maple Leafs.

Apart from proving that the Leafs are beatable, the Wings on Sunday night learned that the only strategy that pays off against them is ti stick to hockey and forget the rough stuff.

The Stanley Cup champions, playing before the largest home crowd of the season—14,904—started out in usual slam-bang fashion only to find themselves traili gn2-0 at the end of the first period.

Remembering how they dropped an American Thanksgiving Day game in Detroit marked by 22 penalties, the Wings gave up the rough stuff the rest of the way and won 3-2.

Hold On Grimly

They got no penalties in the middle session while pumping three goals past Turk Broda in the Toronto net, and held on grimly through a hectic third-period assault by the Leafs.

The loss snapped Leafs latest unbeaten streak at nine games. It also evened the inter-club series at two victories each, and marked the Wings as the only team that has been able to win twice from the Leafs in this campaign.

In other week-end games, Boston Bruins recovered from an 8-1 trampling by the Leafs at Toronto Saturday to send Montreal Canadiens down to their fourth straight defeat 5-2; Detroit shut out New York Rangers 5-0 Saturday, while Chicago were blanking Montreal 5-0; and the Rangers and Chicago tied 3-3.

Result of the weekend action left Toronto—with 38 points—enjoying a six-point lead over Detroit. Chicago took over third place with 26, Montreal follows with 23, Boston with 21 and New York last with 16.

Have Flying Start

The Leafs got off to a flying start against the Wings on first-period goals by Dan Lewicki and Cal Gardner. The period was marked by six penalties, including majors to Harry Watson, of Toronto, and Detroit's Ted Lindsay for fighting.

Gordie Howe, Gaye Stewart and Metro Prystai scored within eight minutes in the middle session as Detroit forged ahead. Prystai's game-winning tally was tinged with luck, however. Broda miscued in tossing a long shot from his gloved hand to the ice near the Toronto net within reach of the Detroit sharpshooter.

At Boston, the Bruins also scored three goals in the middle session for their victory before 8,869 fans. Their marksmen were Vic Lynn, Johnny Peirson, Dunc Fisher, Bill Ezinicki and Pete Horeck, while Elmer Lach and Floyd Curry clicked for the losers.

The Montrealers were outlucked in the pre-game warm-up when goalie Gerry McNeil suffered a three-inch cut and had three teeth jarred loose in stopping a shot fired by team-mate Vern Kaiser.

Conacher Scores

Veteran Roy Conacher potted two goals in staving off defeat at the hands of the luckless Rangers before 12,008 Chicago fans. The Hawks trailed from the outset, Tony Leswick putting the Rangers ahead after 18 seconds of the first period. Each team scored twice in the second. Conacher and Ben Guidolin for the Hawks, Ed Kullman and Pentti Lund for New York. Conacher's second goal came mid-way through the finale and tied the game. It was Rangers' 10th tie game of the campaign.

A Toronto crowd of 13,881 fans on hand to watch ex-Leafs Ezinicki and Lynn perform for Boston were treated to a dismal show by the Bruins Saturday.

The visitors showed to good advantage only in the second period and were trailing 5-0 in the third stanza before Lynn potted their only goal.

Marksmen for the Leafs were Sid Smith and Tod Sloan, with two each. Lewicki, Hugh Bolton, Fleming Mackell and Ted Kennedy.

At Detroit Saturday, the Wings tacked their second straight whitewash job on the helpless Rangers on goals by Phystai, Stewart, Sid Abel, Jimmy Peters and Gordie Howe.

Goalie Emil (The Cat) Francis, brought up from Cincinatti of the American League, replaced Chuck Rayner in the nets for New York. But he had almost as bad a time as Rayner had last Wednesday when the Wings won 9-0.

St. Mikes Whip Dutchmen In 9-1 Triumph

By The Canadian Press.

It's Toronto St. Mikes by two points in the Ontario Hockey Association major series. The Saints have the jump by this margin for the loop's top spot over their city rivals, Toronto Marlboros, as a result of a pretty lop-sided licking they dished out Saturday.

St. Michael's beat the tail end Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 9-1 and it was only in the last three minutes that the Dutches were able to beat goalie Phil Hughes. Mickey Roth, the Dutchmen's leading goal-getter, scored their only counter.

It was the fifth straight defeat for Kitchener, in last place two points back of Hamilton Tigers.

The league's two leading point-getters, Johnny Ubriaco and Gord Hannigan, each added to their point total by getting a goal apiece but the game's scoring leader was rightwinger Ed Mulligan with three goals. Johnny Arundel earned two and John Meldrum and Pat Wilson each got a singleton.

Another Break

In the 10-team junior series there was also a break during the weekend in the two-way tie for first place.

Toronto Marlies, who had been deadlocked with Barrie Flyers with 27 points for the league lead, battled to a 2-2 draw with the fourth-place Stratford Kroehlers in a Sunday game at Toronto. Barrie Flyers dropped to second place—and just one point ahead of the third-place Oshawa Generals—when the Generals edged the Flyers 3-2 in a fast and furious contest at Oshawa Saturday.

The Dukes marksmen were Bill MacFarland and Ron Stewart while both Stratford goals were tallied by John Wood.

Herve Dejordy paced the Generals with two goals, Lou Jankowski got the other. Lionel Barber and Bill Hagan scored for Barrie.

Galt Black Hawks, led by aces Pete Conacher and Bill Wharram with two goals apiece, earned a seven-place tie in the league standings with Windsor Spitfires by defeating Guelph Biltmores 5-2. Marksmen for the fourth-place Biltmores were Andy Bathgate and Herb Dickenson. Tony Poeta got Galt's fifth goal.

Windsor kept pace with Galt by winning 5-2 over the hapless Waterloo Hurricanes. Eddie Joss was the big wheel for Windsor with three goals and Eldor Thomas got the other two. Claude Watters and Joe Mihlinson scored for the tail-end Hurricanes, yet to win this season.

In the second game of the doubleheader in Toronto Sunday, St. Catharines Teepees hung onto sixth place by hanging up a 4-2 victory over St. Mikes. Skip Teal, Wayne Brown, Bill Young and Gord Lomer scored for the winners. Butch Ratchford and Joe McCann potted the Toronto goals.

Seeking To Bar Joe Louis From Fighting

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 11 (AP) —John (Ox) Da Grosa, Pennsylvania Athletic Commissioner, is seeking to bar Joe Louis from any more fights, "in the best interests of boxing" and of the ex-champion himself.

Da Grosa disclosed Sunday night that he has started a move to keep Louis out of the rink in Pennsylvania and will ask the National Boxing Association to do likewise.

He asserted the aging Louis's scheduled fight with Freddie Beshore in Detroit Jan. 3 should be called for the "health, welfare and future" of the one-time brown bomber.

Moreover, he said, permanent retirement of Louis would also be "in the best interests of boxing."

From his New Jersey home NBA commissioner Abe Green commented: "I would not want to be a party to barring Joe Louis from boxing. He has meant too much to the sport and has made a magnificent contribution both in and out of the ring. The furthest I would want to go would be perhaps to call on Joe personally to keep his brilliant record and reputation as a great fighter untarnished."

No Comment

No word was forthcoming from Louis. At Stony Point, Ont., where he is training for the fight with Beshore, handlers said Louis would not be accessible for comment until mid-morning.

Meanwhile, however, two newspapers—one in Detroit and the other in Milwaukee—published reports intended to throw light on Louis' sentiments and plans.

Tony Devine, Detroit Free Press sportswriter, said the man who reigned for 12 years as world heavyweight champion, had given up all hope of regaining the title, but was set on four fights before retiring for good.

In New York officials of the International Boxing Club, which has been promoting Louis fights said Louis's avowed plans to retire were news to them. They said also that the Louis-Beshore fight was the only one of those mentioned by Louis definitely set.

Ray Grody of The Milwaukee Sentinel reported it is pride rather than a need for money that keeps Louis fighting. He quoted attorney Truman Gibson of Chicago, Louis's personal adviser, as saying "no one attempts to tell Louis to quit" because "he won't listen."

"He's made up his mind to keep fighting and prove to the doubters he can get into proper shape with the possibility of challenging Ezzard Charles again."

NO LACE? Because of the strict Quebec code regarding girls' clothing, Gorgeaus Gussie failed to reveal any of her much-publicized lace lingerie at the recent Bobby Riggs professional tennis exhibition at the Montreal Forum. In fact, the gal who made lace panties famous was shaded not only in tennis but in eye-compelling attire by her opponent, Pauline Betz. The photo above shows the two professional women in action during the Montreal stopover of the touring tennis group. Betz trimmed Gussie 6-1 in their singles set. Jack Kramer emerged as victor over Pancho Segura, 6-8, 6-1, 8-6. Kramer, after teaming with Gussie and beating Segura and Betz in a double match 7-5, 13-11, delighted the local fans by loaning 3 of his prized racquets to Montreal lads and showed them some of the finer points of the game after playing close to 2 hours in the doubles match.

Belleville Edges Lindsay Kinsmen 5-4

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 11—Belleville Rockets came from behind Saturday night to edge Lindsay Kinsmen, 5-4, in overtime in a hard-fought OHA junior "B" fixture here.

Bill Strachan led the attack for the winners with two goals and an assist, while Jerry Desjardines earned a goal and two assists. Chief Henhawke and Pat Gilmour also scored.

Arnie Karrys potted two of the visitors' four goals, while Herb Baker and Bruce Hall got the others.

The win put the Rockets in a tie for third place with the Oshawa Bees, whom they meet in Oshawa Monday night.

Robbed By Thugs

HAMILTON, Dec. 11—(CP)—Bruce O'Connor told police he was held up by two thugs and robbed of $20 in a struggle at suburban Crescent Beach Saturday night. O'Connor was completing his bread deliveries at the time. By coincidence he had run short of bread a short time earlier and had turned in $200 in receipts when he returned to the bakery for further supplies.

Red Sox Make 5-Man Trade

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 11 (AP)—Already strengthened by the acquisition of Lou Boudreau, the once peerless shortstop, Boston Red Sox Sunday completed a five-man trade with Chicago White Sox that helped where it was needed most—pitching.

The important deal, first to be consummated at the winter baseball meetings here, brings to Boston a pair of front-line hurlers—left-hander Bill Wight and right-hander Ray Scarborough—exchange for rightfielder Al Zarilla and pitchers Joe Dobson and Dick Littlefield.

Littlefield, a 24-year-old southpaw, came to the Red Sox from Birmingham last August and finished with a 2-2 record. Both sides say no money figured in the deal.

Wight, 28, won 10 and lost 16 for the second-division White Sox last season. Scarborough, 32, came to the Sox in a six-man trade with Washington last May, wound up with a 13-18 record.

Zarilla, 30, had a fine year with Boston, hitting .325 in 139 games and knocking in 74 runs. Dobson, 34, had a 15-10 record last year. His lifetime mark against Chicago is 17-6.

Manager Steve O'Neill of Boston said that Billy Goodman, the American League's top hitter last season, will replace Zarilla in right field. He also said that Vern Stephens will be his regular shortstop with Boudreau filling in at third or short in a untility role.

COAL BRIQUETTES

OSLO, Norway — (CP) — A factory is being built at Bergen to make briquettes from low-grade coal mined in Spitsbergen. Present plans call for production of 20,000 tons a year for the Norwegian state railways and home owners.

Refuse To Give Information On Dismissal

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 11 (CP)—Written application of Mayor-elect Allan J. Rush, for hearing on his dismissal from the city police department last July was turned down by London police commission Saturday.

His appeal, read at what probably is the last meeting of the 1950 commission, was "filed" on motion of Magistrate Donald Menzies and Judge Ian MacRae.

"Haven't we dealt with this matter two or three times?" the magistrate inquired. "Is there any reason we should change our minds?"

"No in my estimation," said Mayor George Wenige.

Earlier efforts on behalf of the former detective who was swept into office as mayor by an overwhelming majority Dec. 4 were handled in the same manner.

"Matter Closed"

In answer to a city council request, the commission declared "the matter is closed." Requests from London Police Association and Mr. Rush's attorney were filed.

Pleas from the session of Mr. Rush's church, London labor groups and individual members of council gained no official response.

With the commission maintaining its five-month silence, firing of the 16-year member of the force remains unexplained.

Mr. Rush will become a member of the police commission Dec. 18. In an address after his election victory he promised he would see what complaints chief constable A. E. Knight had laid before the police commission which led to his dismissal from the force.

Work of Crackpot

SEATTLE, Dec. 11 (AP).—Military officials said Saturday night that damage to a naval transport in the Seattle harbor, first reported by the navy to be full-scale sabotage, was evidently the work of a "malicious crackpot." Capt. M. E. Eaton, commander of the military sea transport service, said damage to the vessel—the 12,000 ton Marine Phoenix—totalled only $200.

Pearson Flies Back For Debate On Korea

OTTAWA, Dec. 11 (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson returned to New York by air Sunday night to head Canada's delegation in the current United Nations debate on the Chinese intervention in Korea.

He was accompanied by Veterans Minister Lapointe, also a ranking member of the delegation.

Both flew into Ottawa Saturday with Prime Minister Attlee of the United Kingdom, here for two days of talks with Prime Minister St. Laurent and the Canadian government.

Mr. Pearson went to Washington Thursday night to accompany Mr. Attlee and Mr. Lapointe and Defence Minister Claxton joined the party in New York Friday evening.

Seeking Place To Park Car Endurance Test

By JACK SCOTT

"Since the war's end, the problem of downtown parking has become aggravated in every major city of this continent. The private automobile, as a method of home-to-office transportation, is fast becoming a thing of the past . . ."

—From a Safety Council report.

Now, to begin with, Henry Pludge had no idea that the events of the morning would lead to such international proportions. He had been driving around the block for perhaps 12 minutes, looking for a parking space near his office. This was by no means extraordinary. He remembered several mornings when he'd circled the block a dozen times before a car moved out and let him in.

But this morning it so happened that two businessmen were standing on the street-corner, chatting, and one had been watching Pludge's Ford in its gyrations. Finally he turned to his companion and said, "That green Ford has been around the block at least nine times now. The fellow must be trying for a world endurance record." The other man laughed and when Henry's car came around again they both looked at it curiously and called over an acquaintance.

Well, you know how such things are. In the next few minutes a crowd began to gather. A newspaperman passing on his way to his office stopped to investigate, decided it made a humorous little hot weather story, and phoned his office.

Soon after that the news came in on Henry Pludge's car radio. He heard the announcer saying, "A considerable crowd is forming in the downtown area to cheer on an unidentified motorist who is apparently trying to set a new world's record. Yes, folks, is seems the poor fellow has been circling a downtown block now for nearly 45 minutes trying to find a parking space. It may be something new in the way of endurance records. Keep tuned to this station."

To a Record

The beginning was as simple as that. In no time at all police traffic officers had been called out to control the crowds lining Henry's route. A great roar of disappointment had gone up when a car pulled out from the curb and it seemed that Pludge would come to rest, but a heavy Buick squeezed in just ahead of him.

A mobile unit of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation followed Henry's car to broadcast a running commentary, coast-to-coast, on Henry's progress. A press room had been set up in an empty clothing store and the reporters filed five-minute flashes of Henry's progress. Pop corn wagons converged on the scene and were doing a roaring business.

At first Pludge had been alarmed at all this attention. Indeed he was on the point of driving away when a note was tossed through the window. The Champion Spark Plug Company were offering him $5,000 for a testimonial. All Henry had to say was "Champion Plugs never let me down when I'm looking for a parking space." Henry decided to stick around for awhile.

At the end of the first four hour Henry had accepted testimonial deals for a brand of anti-knock gasoline, the manufacture of a carburetor and puncture-proof tires. An elaborate arrangement had been made to refuel his car while in progress. Sandwiches and a thermos of coffee had been passed in to him on the fly. And Henry had flung out the first of a series of dramatic notes. "Feeling great," it said. "Will carry on to the bitter end."

A committee of the Automobile Club was then set up to officially clock Pludge's time, and the underworld was reportedly organizing a giant lottery to pay off on the moment Henry's wheels came to rest. "Pludge" badges were being sold on the street corners. The streets were roped off and space on the surrounding rooftops was being sold at a dollar a seat, plus tax.

By the end of Henry's first 72 hours there had been many repercussions. The LPP hailed Pludge as a representative of the "little men" and accused the city council of short-sightedness in its town planning. Debate raged hotly over the parking meter question and a shake-up in the police administration was hinted.

The transit company, never overlooking a good bet, plastered the city with advertising posters, "Don't Be a Pludge," they read, "Ride the Busses."

Henry's face now carried a stubble of beard and his eyes were bloodshot. Occasionally he took a shot of benzedrine. From time to time on his radio he heard reports that other motorists throughout the world were also trying for records.

In Toronto a motorist had claimed that he spent a month trying to find a parking space on Yonge Street, but his mark was promptly declared unofficial. Several promotors were organizing "Parkathons," the modern counterpart of the "Walkathon."

It was at the 84-hour mark when a great cry went up from the crowd and Pludge, shaking his head wearily, saw that a parking place was opening up ahead of him. Yes, the car was definitely pulling out

Henry Pludge snapped out of his wild day-dream, realizing he had circled the block exactly 14 times. He pulled into the empty space, got out and knew instantly that he had no nickel for the parking meter.

Bacall Believes Actors Bit Wacky, Not Plain Folk

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 11 (AP)—Lauren Bacall comes right out with the admission that the acting folk are not normal. In fact, they might even be a bit wacky.

This is quite a revelation. For years Hollywood has been trying to tell us that movie stars are "just plain folks" like the people next door. I have always believed that to be pure malarky. If all citizens were like movie stars, this would be a fascinating, but some catastrophic world.

Miss Bacall believes so, too.

"A person has to be un-normal to get into this kind of a business. Normal people couldn't take it.

Slightly Demented

"In the first place, you have to be slightly demented to make a fool of yourself in front of dozens of bored people. In the movie business, you have to do tense scenes in front of a whole crew of people who don't care a bit about what you are doing. They've been there for years and have seen Colleen Moore, Gloria Swanson and many others before you.

"Very often you will find yourself playing a dramatic scene face-to-face with some gaping tourist visiting the studio. How can you be normal and do that?

"Also, you have to be a little nuts to get up at six o'clock every morning to go to work."

"The Look," as she was known in her earlier film days, admitted that acting people can be hard to live with. She is married to one, a guy named Humphrey Bogart.

Keep Quiet

"But you can get along with them, if you know enough to keep quiet at the right time," she added. "Fortunately Bogie is one of the least temperamental actors I know, so we don't have too much trouble."

It's also hazardous marrying an actress, she remarked frankly. They're inclined to high and low moods," she observed. "Bogie's father told him never to marry an actress, but he went ahead and married four of them."

Capsule review: "For Heaven's Sake" has the making of good fantasy, but doesn't always realize its potential. The story has two angels (Clifton Webb and Edmund Gwenn) coming down to earth to help a little girl get born. Her chosen parents are a theatrical couple (Robert Cummings and Joan Bennett) who are too busy to have a child. The angels' efforts provide a few good laughs, but the script goes overboard too often for comedy. With a defter touch, it could have been a winner.

Nickel keeps our milk pure...

Keeping milk pure begins in the dairy barns. Many parts of milking machines, cream separators and other equipment are made of Nickel alloys for cleanliness and resistance to corrosion.

The pipes through which milk is pumped from one place to another in the modern dairy are made of Inconel, an alloy containing a high percentage of Nickel.

Milk storage tanks like these are shining, spotless, hygienic inside and out because they're made of Chromium-Nickel Stainless Steel.

Forty-three years of research have uncovered hundreds of uses for Nickel in the United States and other countries. Now Nickel exports bring in millions of U.S. dollars yearly. These dollars help pay the wages of the 14,000 Nickel employees in Canada and also help pay Canadian railwaymen, lumbermen, iron and steel workers and other men and women making supplies for the Nickel mines, smelters and refineries.

Given 2 Years For Starting $167,000 Fire

Harvey David Silvester, 32, was sentenced to the Guelph Reformatory for two years less a day definite and two years less a day indefinite when he pleaded guilty in police court today to starting the S. S. Kresge store fire Aug. 17, 1948.

Asked if he had anything to say after the evidence was in, Silvester said, "I don't know why I did it, or anything like that. Something came over me and I started it."

Assistant Fire Chief Stuart Foster said the fire loss was estimated at $167,000. He said the fire was started in the basement of the store, "but how or where I don't know."

Questioned At The Time

He said Silvester had been questioned at the time of the fire but admitted nothing.

Chief Constable William J. Carey of the Cobourg police, testified that Silvester came into the Cobourg police station last August. He said he had known Silvester since he was a small boy.

Silvester told a constable that he had started the fire and the constable called the chief down from his office.

"I went to some length to explain to him the seriosness of the offence," Chief Carey said, explaining that he had given him the usual police warning before taking a statement from Silvester.

In his statement, which was entered as an exhibit, Silvester said in part:

"I took a walk down to the staircase facing George St. Underneath the staircase I piled some boxes up high and set fire to them. I came up the staircase facing Simcoe St. and I punched my time card at 8.20 (p.m.) and I went out the George St. entrance and locked the door.

"I went across the road to the Blue Bird restaurant. I was there about 15 or 20 minutes. I went up George St. to Hunter, up Hunter to Water, down Water St. to Simcoe. I went back to the store and the firemen had just got there. I stayed around there for the rest of the night.

"Next day or following, I was questioned by Inspector of the Fire Marshal's Department and Fire Chief Smith.

"They asked me if I knew how the fire started and I said I didn't.

"They asked me if I started the fire and I said no.

"I told them that I had been walking on Hunter St. bridge when a lad came up and told me the store was on fire".

Went For Observation

Last September, Silvester was charged with being mentally ill, examined by two doctors and remanded to Kingston mental hospital for 50 days. He was released at the end of that period.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshwa, in moving for sentence, said, "For his own sake and for the sake of others, a lengthy term is indicated."

In the fire which destroyed the basement and most of the store level of the building, 19 men were overcome by smoke and taken to hospital for treatment.

The fire was not brought under control until the early hours of the morning. Thick black smoke made it impossible for firemen to find their way about and locate the source of the fire.

Two Swimmers Finish In Dead Heat

Alec Baptie, of the YMCA Swimming Club, and John O'Dell of Hamilton, finished in a dead heat in a 100-yard free style swim for boys under 14 Saturday night in Hamilton. Their time for the event in the 18th annual Christmas water carnival, sponsored by the Hamilton Aquatic Club, was 1:18.8 minutes, three seconds better than Baptie's best previous time.

Coach Gordon Minty said today that the event's finish was disputed. He believed that the young swimmer's hand touched before the Hamilton boy's but agreed to the final decision.

Nearly 40 swimmers from the YMCA and the YWCA in Peterborough took part in the event. Other YMCA-YWCA's and swimming clubs totalling about 300 swimmers from Toronto West End YMCA, Toronto Lakesore Swimming Club, London, New Toronto, Welland, Hamilton, Fergus and St. Catharines.

Except for Baptie's first, the local swimmers had an off evening.

Donald Wood, Ontario outdoor backstroke champion, dropped behind placing fourth in the 200-yard event finishing only a touch behind the third place swimmer. The club's relay team of Donald Wood, Ralph Wood, Jim Starr and John Boorman also placed fourth.

Peter Wood, a nine-year-old swimmer who made his debut in swimming competition by placing second in heat for the boys under 10 years, 25-yard free style, and fourth in the final heat. Sixteen swimmers from across southern and central Ontario were entered in this event.

Faces Drunk Charge Following Accident

Following an accident Saturday evening, John Joseph Murphy, 424 Donegal St., was charged with drunk driving and careless driving in police court today.

He pleaded not guilty and the case was adjourned to Dec. 28.

The Murphy car was involved in an accident with a taxi driven by Chris Cummisky, 464 Patterson St. at Cambridge and Elm streets.

Shortly after the accident, Murphy said his son, Paul, who was in the car, had been driving.

Cummisky had been driving west on Elm St. and Murphy was travelling south on Cambridge St.

Constable John Morrow who investigated, reported the road surface was very icy at the intersection.

Eighty-five students from countries around the world are studying at universities through the aid of Rotary fellowship foundation scholarships, District Governor Arthur Ferguson told Peterborough Rotarians Monday.

The 85 students, he said, were taking courses at universities in countries other than their own—Uruguayan students were in Europe, U.S. students in Japan.

Last year, 55 students were using these scholarships, he said.

Mr. Ferguson, who is from Gravenhurst, briefly outlined the history of Rotary. He said it started in Chicago 40 years ago, spread to the west coast of the United States, and then north to Canada. First club in Canada was at Winnipeg.

Only three countries do not have Rotary Clubs he said. They are Russia, Turkey and Spain. Mr. Ferguson was introduced by V. J. Elderry, K.C.

$2,000 Bail Set Cab Theft Case

William Burns, 19, of 69 Maple St., was bailed for trial by a higher court on a charge of stealing a taxi in a preliminary hearing held in police court today.

Facing the same charge, William Kerr, 18, Oshawa, was remanded to Dec. 18.

Provincial Constable Stanley Judson of Lindsay told the court he received word that a car was stolen about 7 p.m. Dec. 2 He drove south of Lindsay to the junction of Highway 7 and Highway 35 to watch for the car.

In about 15 minutes he saw it come along toward Lindsay. He followed it as it turned in a nearby service station and started to turn back out on the highway. He said Burns was driving the car.

Keys Left In

Carmen Deck, a taxi driver for Gerald Montgomery, said he brought the cab to the office on King St. and parked it across the street. He went for a cup of coffee and when he returned to go out on a call in less than 20 minutes the taxi was gone. He had left the keys in the ignition, he said.

Burns had been out on $500 bail, but bail was raised to $2,000 after it was decided to send him to a higher court. He is represented by J. C. N. Currelly.

Failed To Report Accident—Two Fined

Pleading guilty to a charge of not reporting an accident in which they did damage of more than $50, Jackson Engell Campbell, 24, of Clydesdale, and Ted Musclow, 18, Bird's Creek, Hastings county, were each fined $10 and costs in police court today.

Corporal Lloyd McClure testified that he and Constable Harold Armstrong investigated a report Sunday morning about an accident between two bridges at Young's Point.

They found a vehicle had hit the east side of guard rails and knocked down five posts and splintered some of the guard rails as well as a large red warning sign.

Tracks left by a vehicle zigzagged up the road to Burleigh Falls. In a garage there they found a truck owned by Campbell. The corporal said Campbell admitted driving north and hitting the guard rail.

Musclow had been driving behind Campbell in another truck and crashed into the rear of Campbell when he hit the guard rails. Damage to the truck was about $150 and to the rails about $50.

The Musclow truck was found on a side road parked beside some cedar trees about a mile from the scene of the accident.

South Storm Sewers May Be Delayed

The program of storm sewers in the area east of Park St. and south of McGill St. received the authority of a bylaw, the third reading of which last week was delayed until approval came from the Ontario Municipal Board.

The work may not be begun now until spring, although City Engineer Chalmers said it could be done during the winter, but with some extra cost.

The network of drains includes these streets: King George, Wilson, Braidwood, McGill, Payne, Young, George, Jane, Hurley, Barret and Herman.

The storm drains are required to carry off the surface water from that comparatively recently acquired section of the city. As part of North Monaghan, the area was provided with street ditches which did a fair job on [illegible]

3 Local Military Awarded New Decoration

The Canadian Forces Decoration, a new decoration this year, has been awarded to three men connected with the 50th Heavy AA Regiment, RCA. They were included in a list of awards recently released by the Department of National Defense in Ottawa.

The decoration will be received by: Captain Francis Frape, DCM, Royal Canadian Infantry Corps; Warrant Officer Class 1 Albert Croasdale, Royal Canadian Artillery; Staff-Sergeant Gerald Alexander Dunn, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

Capt. Roy Leaman of the A. and T. staff attached to the regiment said today that the decoration may be awarded to all ranks of the armed forces of Canada who, in an approved capacity, have completed a period of 12 years service. Several of these men have completed well over that period of time as well as fulfilling the qualification governing the award.

Capt. Frape, an infantry officer, is attached to the local regiment as the adjutant. He also assists in the instruction of the PCVS Cadet Corps. Warrant Officer 1 Croasdale is bandmaster of the regiment's trumpet band and also assists the collegiate corps by instructing the trumpet band as well as the PCVS concert band. Staff-Sgt. Dunn has been a member of the A. and T. staff (active force) attached to the regiment for the past four years.

Had Postoffice For 40 Years

Some of the older southend residents are finding it a bit difficult remembering that the new location for No. 7 sub-postoffice is now Orr's drug store, 195 Braidwood Ave. That is Braidwood just west of Lock St.

And the reason is that for 40 years the postoffice south of Lansdowne St. was at the store of William J. Grady, 846 Lock St. It was known as the Claraday postoffice.

Feeling that he could not afford the extra time Mr. Grady resigned and the postoffice was transferred to Orr's on November 15. Until December 1, 1949, it was a revenue office but then it became No. 7 sub postoffice.

Mr. Grady continued in a temporary capacity until November and then gladly had the extra work taken off his hands so he could attend to his own business—a refreshment booth and novelty shop.

In that time Mr. Grady has been an interested witness to the growth of the city.

"When I became postmaster in 1910 there were only about 40 houses in the Claraday area," he said. "Now I understand there are 10,000 people living south of Lansdowne St."

It is the only postoffice south of Lansdowne St. and Mr. Grady feels that giving these people proper service is the job for a younger man.

Owner Catches Man Removing Defroster

An attempt to steal a defroster from the windshield of a car parked behind a Simcoe St. hotel Saturday evening was cut short when the car's owner, Joe Clark, Mark St., interrupted the theft.

Clark, his broken shoulder in a cast, came upon a man with the defroster almost off the windshield of his car. He questioned the man who gave the name of a Frank St. resident.

The would-be thief ran away from Clark and disappeared in the traffic on Simcoe St. Constable Louis Rodreque investigated.

Thieves Raid Four Places Get Away With Cash and Merchandise Valued at $360

A gang of thieves raided four places in the Peterborough district early Sunday morning and got away with cash and merchandise valued at $360. In each of the three successful raids they gained entry by smashing the glass in either a door or window. Once, however, they were frightened off by the barking of a large police dog. All of the breakins occurred outside the city. Provincial police are working on the assumption that it was the work of one gang who struck swiftly during the hours of darkness. Most of their loot was cigarettes.

Most heavily victimized was the Stop-A-While snack bar on River Rd., north. Thirty-three packages of flat-50s (Christmas wrapped) were taken, as were 35 cartons and some loose packages of cigarettes—the whole valued at nearly $250.

Till Is Rifled

Some $75 in silver was taken from the till. It included $40 in quarters, $20 in dimes, $7 in nickels, $4 in coppers and other loose change, some of it United States' money.

The snack bar was also broken into two weeks ago. Proprietors are Philip Campanaro, P. J. Vitarelli, and John J. O'Sullivan.

The thieves smashed a side window, undid the latch, and let themselves in. They swiftly gathered up the large quantity of cigarettes as well as the money in the till and presumably started off on their next raid.

An even bolder theft was made at the Armstrong Lumber Co. Here they smashed a window overlooking Highway 28 but found only about $10 in the office. This was taken from a soft-drink machine and a stamp box in the main office. No merchandise appears to have been taken from the lumber company.

A crowbar was used to tear out a side window at the Fixit Shop, Norwood, and the sash has not been found.

The thieves found little money for their efforts about $1 in pennies which the proprietor, Jack Thompson of Edgewater Blvd., had not bothered to take home when he locked up just before midnight Saturday. Most of the loot was merchandize — antifreeze, oil and cigarettes.

Dog Disturbed By Noise

Had it not been for a police dog the gang might have had a perfect score. But they drew a blank at Douglas Mitchell's garage on Sherbrooke St. west. They started out as usual by breaking a glass panel in the door to unlock it and got entry.

The noise of the breaking glass apparently disturbed the dog who was in the garage section of the building which is separted from the office section by a half door. In any case the thieves abandoned their breakin attempt and fled.

Provincial police are co-operating with Chief Constable William B. Parcels to investigate the breakin in Norwood.

STOLEN CAR

A Lindsay man faces charges of car theft following a chase along country roads near North Bay Sunday. Frank Palfrey, 23, will appear in magistrate's court at Sturgeon Falls, provincial police said.

Say Stolen Cow Recovered Near Oshawa

COBOURG, Dec. 11 (ENS).—John White, 37, of Brougham, was remanded on $2,000 bail in Cobourg police court today on a charge of receiving a stolen Holstein cow, the property of Dr. A. J. Andrews, Murray township.

He will appear in court again on December 29. In the meantime he is trying to obtain the services of Arthur Greer K.C., of Oshawa, as defence counsel.

Brougham was arrested Sunday at his Ontario county home by Provincial Constable Don Erskine of Campbellford, assisted by Provincial Constable H. E. Bonisteel of Brighton. He was originally charged before a justice of the peace in Oshawa and then brought to Cobourg for trial.

Several cattle have been stolen in the Murray township area in recent months and police believe an outside cattle rustling ring is responsible.

White is alleged to have received the Holstein which Dr. Andrews says was stolen from his farm on November 20. Police are continuing their investigation.

11 Bungalows New Project

Fred O'Grady, contractor, 210 Wilson Ave., has been making rapid progress on the building of eleven bungalows on the property at the southwest corner of Monaghan Road and Lundy's Lane.

The land was bought from Frank Montgomery, and is one of the last remaining parcels available for housing development in the city. Walls are up, and roofs are on, providing enclosure for the interior work during the winter. Mr. O'Grady said today that the first of the ten houses should be completed by the end of February, or early in March.

They are five-room houses each 25 by 40 feet, brick veneer exterior, and basements finished in detail. Oil-burning furnaces are being installed, combined with insulation. They are modern type bungalows in an area of good homes. Only a few of them remain unsold.

Total investment in this development is approximately $90,000. Some of the houses are being erected on a new street opening south from Lundy's Lane.

Oddfellows of Peterborough are requested to attend funeral service at Comstock Funeral Home for late brother W. Peel of Corinthian Lodge 61, Oshawa, at 8:00 p.m., Tuesday.

ELIZABETH ANN HUGES, 18-month-old orphaned Irish colleen, arrived in Montreal, a few days ago, from Shannon, Ireland, aboard a TCA plane. Her parents were both killed in an accident earlier this year and the tot was adopted by Bill Huges, of Robin, Man., who paid a visit recently to the Emerald Isle. The child flew across the Atlantic alone. In the photo above she is shown with TCA Stewardess Olive Mandzuk, left, and Mrs. J. E. Ferguson, right, who looked after the pretty Irish miss during her stopover in the metropolis. In the picture at right, the tiny colleen waits for her guardian in the Montreal depot, well prepared for the cold Canadian winters.

National Defence Problem Puts Heavy Tax Burden On British

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON, Dec. 11 —(CP)— Before a rising tide of international unrest, Britons approached the end of another year of recurring crises with growing concern about the state of their country's defences.

Already shouldering a staggering burden of taxation, they faced the grim prospect of finding something like £1,300,000,000 ($3,900,000,000) in 1951 as insurance against a third world war. The target constituted a further instalment towards Britain's emergency rearmament program, the costliest defensive drive in her peacetime history.

It was an answer, underwritten by 11 other Atlantic Alliance powers, to the threat of Communism on the march—a challenge to any would-be aggressor. But with alarm bells clanging ominously in the Far East and elsewhere, many feared the warning may have been sounded too late.

The country's leaders agreed that while the situation was grave, global war was not necesarily inevitable. They were convinced, however, the best deterrent was a policy of speedy and efficient preparedness.

Hoping for Time

Britain hopes that time will remain on her side. To provide her with the means of negotiating on the basis of strength, she has committed herself to the following long-range program:

1. Entered into collective security pacts with the free nations of the world.

2. Expenditure of approximately £3,900,000,000 on defence during the next three years.

3. Extension of compulsory military service to two years for men between 18 and 26. Previously the service term was 18 months.

4. Creation of a strong civil defence force with emphasis on safeguards against atomic warfare.

5. Plans for mobilization and strengthening of her Territorial forces, auxiliary services and home guard.

6. Geared her industrial potential to meet defence needs.

Drastic Revision

Outbreak of war in Korea, eruption of other trouble spots and defensive measures under the North Atlantic Pact, necessitated drastic revision of Britain's rearmament plans.

The program at present envisages an annual outlay equivalent to about nine per cent of the national income. It represents an increase of some 40 per cent over the original budget assigned to defence. Warnings, however, have been given that costs will be boosted as more modern weapons and equipment come into full production.

For reasons of security, detailed information about expansion of the nation's military strength has not been publicly disclosed. But every department of defence is being rushed into a state of readiness.

Enlarging Services

All three branches of the armed services are being enlarged and not only by the increased compulsory call-up. The intake of regulars has stepped up sharply since Sept. 1, when substantial pay boosts were approved, involving an annual outlay of approximately £70,000,000.

The Royal Navy is being strengthened, with stress on aircraft carriers and anti-submarine units. In the air the race is for more and better jet-propelled craft. Factories are turning out an ever-increasing volume of defence supplies.

Casting a fearful cloud over these moves was the uncertainty of Russia's intentions. Military observers estimated that Russia had more than 175 divisions under arms, with 33 stationed in Eastern Germany alone, where the Western nations have only nine. Backing up this might she was said to have some 40,000 tanks and about 20,000 military aircraft. What progress she has made in the development of atomic weapons remained a big question-mark.

Atomic Scandal

The British people, however, were shocked to learn that secrets of her own atomic researches had filtered through their security net into Russia. The men who betrayed their trust were Claus Fucks, brilliant German-born scientist and Bruno Pontecorvo, an Italian. Both had been employed at Britain's atomic research plant at Harwell.

Complicating the gloomy picture were the difficulties in obtaining agreement on a strategic plan for Western European defence. Not least important has been the thorny question of German participation.

Behind it all was a state of uneasiness among the opposition political forces in the United Kingdom. The Labor government has been accused of neglecting the nation's defences in face of the gathering threat of aggression and of "dragging its feet" on preparedness plans already approved.

THIS TRAIN, jammed with soldiers, civilian refugees and heavy motorized equipment on flat cars, is ready to move south from Sariwan, North Korea, as they flee from the Chinese Communist armies.

Sell Newspaper For Five Million

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (AP) — The 100-year-old Portland Oregonian, known as "the great newspaper of the West," was purchased Sunday by publisher Samuel I. Newhouse for a sum in excess of $5,000,000.

A joint statement announcing the sale by Newhouse and E. B. MacNaughton of Portland, president of the paper, was issued here.

The announcement said the Oregonian sale was entirely for cash, involving no outside financing.

Newhouse owns a number of other newspapers. They are the Newark, N.J., Star Ledger, Long Island Daily Press, Long Island Star Journal, the Harrisburg, Pa., Patriot News, the Syracuse, N.Y., Herald-Journal and Post Standard and the Staten Island Advance.

The announcement said there would be no changes in the staff or policies of the Oregonian.

The statement said the paper was sold "because the present owners of the Oregonian found that the deaths of various members of the family groups tended to develop a pattern of ownership consisting of widely scattered holdings."

"As a result," it continued, "they felt the Oregonian would be lacking in the dominant and effective direction essential to the publication of a strong newspaper able to carry on the century-old tradition of community service and newspaper leadership."

Alleged Thief Returns Money Before Arrest

GRIMSBY, Dec. 11 (CP) — William Broklebank, 23, of Grimsby, was arrested Saturday on theft charges. But according to the man he is alleged to have robbed, Brokleband before his arrest had returned the $60 to his victim.

Louis Fallon of Great Neck, N.Y., told police he gave Brokleband a lift in his car, then was held up by the young man and his $60 taken. Fallon was ordered to stop at a diner near Grimsby and "outside the diner he got out of the car, gave me back my money and then ordered me inside where we got coffee." While at the counter, Fallon decided Broklebank had no gun and jumped him.

U.K. Government Carefully Nurses Narrow Majority

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Dec. 11 —(CP)— Political historians may remember 1950 as the year in which a government that was supposed to be dead refused to die.

After a "stalemate" election in February, British politicians predicted a new vote within months, but the Socialist government stayed in office, carefully nursing its narrow majority into the New Year.

Some Labor members speculated another appeal to electors might be delayed until November, 1951. But as 1950 ended, international events in Korea and elsewhere made forecasts impossible.

The political deadlock created by February voting profoundly influenced domestic policies. Shorn of the overflowing parliamentary representation which enforced its decisions after the 1945 election, British Socialism slowed down. The legislative rhythm of a regime which passed 300-odd bills in its first epoch of full power changed in tempo as Labor leaders sought refuge in a policy of "moderation and consolation."

On Eligible List

Michael Young, youthful research expert, was assigned to try to work out a policy declaration for a party which to some extent seemed disillusioned with public ownership. A list of industries previously slated for nationalization, including sugar, minerals and insurance, was quietly omitted from party manifestos, although spokesmen stressed these industries remained "eligible" for nationalization.

The February election, which left Socialists and Conservatives towering over the rest, influenced other outstanding political developments of 1950. In a rout of Independents and small splinter parties, the Communists suffered chief losses with all but three of 100 candidates losing their £150 ($450) deposits. The Liberals, running 474 candidates in a bid to gain the political balance between Labor and Conservative, polled 2,600,000 but elected only nine members to the 625-member House.

Late in the year there were signs of a split between the nine Liberals, some favoring support of Labor and some arguing hotly against it.

Conservative Gains

Winston Churchill's Conservatives, only party to gain seats in the election, appeared to be growing more powerful as the year ended. In the 10 by-elections held between February and December, the Conservatives picked up votes although unable to wrest any seats held by Labor.

Meanwhile the government—lacking elbow room in a parliament it controlled by only a handful of votes—contented itself with a largely non-controversial legislative program. The only really controversial issue involved the government's determination to carry on with nationalization of the iron and steel industry.

The Conservatives resisted this and some other government decisions, but Prime Minister Clement Attlee and his supporters —some of them occasionally summoned from sick beds to participate in parliamentary divisions —rode out every major crisis. Twice Labor was defeated on non-crucial votes and twice its margin in confidence tests, which would have meant a new election, was a single vote.

Two Cabinet Shuffles

Attlee made two Cabinet shuffles, one after the February election to replace defeated ministers and one in the fall to replace Sir Stafford Cripps as Chancellor of the Exchequer. Sir Stafford, symbol of austerity and virtual economic dictator in Britain's battle to pay her way as a trading country, resigned for health reasons and went to Switzerland for treatment. His successor was Hugh Gaitskell.

Economic prospects improved during the year. United States stockpiling of sterling-area raw materials, the greater competitiveness of British goods following the decision to devalue sterling in September, 1949, had a buoyant influence on gold and dollar reserves, once so perilously low. But the outbreak of the Korean war in June marked a setback on the economic planning of the Western world. Ambitious plans for restoring trade balances and meshing free economies had to be revised under the impact of rearmament.

The strain of rearmament, involving a possible cut in social services, was reported causing unrest among Labor left-wing members headed by Health Minister Aneurin Bevan, but Bevan later issued a statement saying he supported the rearmament program.

Embroidery Used For Party Gowns In Paris Styles

By FLORENCE MILLS

PARIS —(AP)— Party dresses designed for the festive season by French couturiers vary a lot in style, but all have one thing in common—plenty of embroidery in every shape or form.

In addition to the usual sequins, pearls, jet beads and mock diamonds, two extra novelties have been introduced this winter —embroidery with wool and tufts or fur.

Schiaparelli plasters tufts of grey squirrel fur all over a tight fitting jacket made of champagne-colored satin which has a fluted peplum extending into two ground-length tails at the back. She speckles the fur tufts with pearls and sparkling rhinestones and smothers the space between the autumn leaves embroidered in silk and gold thread.

Jacques Griffe goes in for wool flowers. He makes a strapless number in smoke grey tulle, which has about a dozen circular skirts piled on top of each other, and veils the whole affair with white shadow lace spattered liberally with flowers embroidered in shaded grey wool, with jet and mock diamonds.

Both long and short evening dresses are popular this winter but both are split into two distinct classes—those with crinoline or bouffant skirts that eat up yards of materials and those with straight skirts that impede movement and show up all figure faults except slimness.

Glass Beads Used

Tulle, taffeta and satin are the main materials used, except for occasional lame or broche. In the main the luxurious look is in the embroidery more than the material.

One of the most spectacular creations is shown by 25-year-old Alwynn, who embroiders black and white horse blanket check wool with glass bugle beads and jet stones. He uses it for a tight-waisted evening coat with a skirt big enough to fit over the white tulle crinoline set beneath it. The bold check wool is also used for the crinoline bodice.

Another fabulous creation by Alwynn is a white satin strapless sheath which has so much bead fringe and chunks of glass dangling from its bodice it looks like a walking chandelier.

Jacques Griffe uses shaded chiffon for a knife-pleated number which starts lime yellow at the waist and ranges through grey and peacock blue to petrol at the hemline. Another called "Noel" is in thin grey lace and has its bouffant skirt overlaid with shaded old gold and turquoise chiffon.

This designer also creates a snaky looking dress in rustling black taffetta and emphasizes its leanness by balancing a gigantic two-foot long bow on one shoulder and another on the opposite hipbone.

Saskatoon Woman On Council Has Many Chores

SASKATOON, Sask. — (CP- — Mrs. Marjory Walker attended 274 meetings in a year; she poured tea at 30 social gatherings.

She's a member of the Saskatoon City Council and the Public School Board, the city's representative on the parks board, the YMCA and the Board of Health and the School Board's representative in the Playground Association.

When she is at home, she's knitting tablecloths and bedspreads, reading, or explaining to telephone callers why she voted the way she did at the one meeting or another.

In addition, she keeps house for her husband and son.

She says she can do all these things because she "budgets" her time.

Needs To Organize

"It's just a matter of organization," she explains. "Most women are good organizers who get to be 'clever' with time when their children are little."

Mrs. Walker has four children. When two of them married, she found she had time to spare, but instead of taking to teas and golf, she "took another road."

She is the only woman on most of the boards on which she serves, but that doesn't disturb her. "I don't think of myself as a woman, and I'm sure that the men don't feel that I'm any different," she said. "I'm just another person to those men. I've never been a 'twitterer.'"

Mrs. Walker wishes there were more women in public life. "Women have such an entirely different idea of things. Something that's obvious to me simply doesn't occur to the men, so surely we have things to offer."

Roseneath W.I. Holds Christmas Meet

ROSENEATH, Dec. 11 (ENS). —Many lands, far apart in space and time have given us our Christmas customs and our picture of Santa Claus, said Rev. R. C. White, pastor of Roseneath United Church, guest speaker at the Christmas meeting of Roseneath Women's Institute.

Continuing with his Christmas message, the speaker said: "Our modern Christmas may be so commercialized that much of the true meaning is clouded, but this world of ours is infinitely richer for its possession of Christmas. No other word can summon so many memories of love and devotion and happy times within the family.."

The meeting was held in the Township Hall with Mrs. Frank Adams as hostess. The hall was gaily decorated with evergreens and Christmas decorations. The president, Mrs. Harold Taylor, presided over the business period. A detailed report of the area convention held in Belleville in November was presented by three of the delegates, Mrs. J. W. Pacey, Mrs. Edgar Carew, and Mrs. Charles Sandercock.

The presentation of a silver cup was made to Miss Marjorie Hogg third prizewinner at the public speaking contest. The presentation was made by Mrs. Harold Taylor on behalf of the Roseneath and Fenella Institutes. Mrs. Pringle conducted the exchange of Christmas gifts. The hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Eric Darling, served refreshments.

Six Sisters Second Time Form Quesnel Bridal Party

In the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church Saturday morning Dorothy May Quesnel became the bride of Herbert Arthur Bryan of the RCAF, Trenton, with Rev. G. F. Sullivan performing the ceremony.

The bride, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walton Quesnel, 80 Lynch St., was attended by her five sisters, making an unusual bridal party which has occurred for the second time this year in this family.

As matron of honor was the eldest daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Fasken (Mary Louise). Miss Aline Quesnel was bridesmaid, Pauline and Ellen were junior bridesmaids and five year old Shirley Ann was flower girl. The five were in bouffant taffeta frocks with large bertha collars and finished with large bows at the back, all designed and fashioned by their mother, each with mittens and headdress to match. The matron of honor and bridesmaid were in yellow, the junior bridesmaids in blue, each carrying an old fashioned nosegay, and the flower girl in baby pink and carrying a basket of roses.

White satin fashioned the bride's gown and it was styled with a yoke of sheer nylon and bertha collar of deep lace, the skirt extending in a full length train. She wore a halo headdress with shoulder veil of net caught with orange blossoms and carried a full bouuet of deep red roses. She was given in mariage by her father.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs Arthur Bryan, 264 Lansdowne St., was attended by Leo Burrie of the RCAF, Trenton, and the ushers were two Air Force men also from Trenton.

The church altar was decorated with flowers for the wedding and traditional music was played by the organist. During signing of the register, Mrs. Mark Collins sang "Ave Maria."

The reception, attended by 45 guests, was held in the Colonial Room. Mrs. Quesnel was receiving with the bridal party, dressed in navy sheer and wearing a navy velvet hat and a corsage of red roses. Also receiving was the groom's mother, who wore a wine suit-dress with grey hat and grey squirrel furs and had a white gardenia at her shoulder.

The bride and groom left in the afternoon by motor for a short honeymoon. The bride was wearing a blue suit and grey topcoat with black fur hat and bag to match.

Loring-Burridge Wedding In Home of Bride's Parents

The Gothic style living-room window of Century House, Pleasant Point, home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burridge, on Sunday formed a beautiful background for the wedding of their daughter, Jill Carillon, to Mr. Rex Loring. The ceremony took place by candlelight, and the room was decorated with roses, fern, evergreen and myrtle. The Rev. Ivan C. Morgan of Murray Street Baptist Church, Peterborough, conducted the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing an informal dressmaker suit of ivory faille, traced with silver beading on collar and turned-back cuffs. A short, full veil of ivory tulle fell from her simple bandeau headdress, and she carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and baby gold 'mums. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Everett Staples of Toronto, wearing champagne crepe with matching hat, and a corsage of bronze baby 'mums.

Mr. Loring, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. J. Loring, London, England, was formerly a radio announcer at Peterborough. He was attended by Mr. Paul Reid of Peterborough.

The bride's mother wore a long sleeved black crepe dress, handtrimmed in pearls, and matching feather hat. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

A reception for the immediate family took place at Century House, the bride's table being decorated with tall candles and flowers. The wedding cake was decorated with tiny symbols of radio broadcastings, both bride and groom being engaged in radio work at Station CFCF in Montreal.

The bride's travelling costume was a tailored dress with black velvet bodice and dolman sleeves, skirt and Mandarin collar in grey worsted. Her small hat and pouch handbag were in black fur fabric. The couple will have a honeymoon trip to Ottawa and the Gatineau, and will live at 4200 Maplewood Avenue, Montreal.

Veterans' Children Given Party By Legion Ladies

Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion on Saturday afternoon staged their first Christmas party for veterans' children. Close to 200 small-size children and quite a number of the adult-size spent a glorious two and a half hours in the Legion Hall. Children from St. Vincent's Orphanage and the Children's Shelter were also guests.

Wide-eyed, the children followed every movment of Bob Hardy as he performed his tricks of magic, and were completely mystified. Later, one little girl was found looking for "the bird that vanished," because she saw which way it flew. Some were not at all pleased when a wiggly little rabbit turned into several chocolate bars—it seemed that candy had lost its value for a moment.

The sharp eyes were none-the-less observant when Santa Claus arrived and gave them bags of candy, nuts and oranges and Christmas crackers filled with candy. They questioned his arrival by car instead of with sleigh and reindeer, and a slight slip of the white beard revealing a clean-shaven face wasn't missed.

Other entertainment was provided by four young fairies of the YWCA ballet class, Diane and Marina Zakos, Arlene Bellinger and Patsy Tobin.

Mrs. L. Ralston and her pupils with their accordion playing led a sing song of all the Christmas songs, including "Rudolph" and the Christmas carols.

For the lunch, Auxiliary ladies had provided 500 sandwiches, 30 quarts of milk and 18 pounds of cookies, thinking the quantities would be more than ample. They had not under-estimated, but they had no problem in disposing of left-overs.

With hearts made glad by the children's joy, Mrs. Albert Mason and her fellow members are laying plans to make such a party an annual event.

GORE'S LANDING, Dec. 11 — (ENS).—The Christmas ceremony of lighting candles was the central theme in the WMS candlelight service held in the United Church on Friday evening. A large audience sang carols before the service with Mrs. A. E. Larke as leader and Mrs. Joseph Harris, organist.

The church was decorated with wreaths and two large Christmas trees with colored lights. On a table between the trees, were five tall white candles. As a Christmas meditation was read by various members of the WMS, Mrs. Larke lighted a candle, representing love, Christ, peace and hope. Mrs. Wallace Pratt read a Christmas story and four small girls, Muriel, Nancy and Pamella Harris and Beverley McFarland sang "Away In a Manger." How Can Friendless Girl Build Social Life at 30

DEAR MISS DIX: Suppose you were about 30 years of age and had never learned to play. You hadn't many girl friends and no boy friends. Suppose you wanted to learn to play and to go places where you would meet men. What would you do? Where would you go? Suppose you wanted to learn to dance better and had very little money for it. What would you do? Suppose there was a boy you had met and you felt he was THE one and you hadn't made the proper impression on him. What would you do? Suppose you tell us in your column just what to do.

THREE BLIND MICE

ANSWER: I can't. If I knew any way by which a mousy girl could turn herself into a brilliant bird of paradise; if I knew any secret magic by which a quiet unassuming girl could suddenly become gay and vivacious and spectacular; If I knew any way by which a girl without dates could attract all men to her, I should not be writing a newspaper column. I would be elected President of the United States by the unanimous feminine vote.

Dorothy Dix

These things come by nature. No one knows how or why.

Habits are Set

But to try to answer your questions. It is pretty late to try to learn to play when you are 30 years old. Your habits are settled. Your tastes are formed. But if you have permitted yourself to become too settled you can begin to step out a bit and entertain a little. That is the easiest way to get to know men without seming to run after them. Men will always eat out of a woman's hand as long as she has good food in it.

The best place to meet men is in business. It takes wild horses to drag a man to a tea, summer resorts and winter resorts are Adamless Edens, the happy hunting ground for husbands is to be found in offices.

If you want to learn to dance better and cannot afford a teacher, practice your steps with some friend who is a good dancer. That's easy. But as to how to win a boy on whom you have failed to make an impression, that's a different story. Love comes and goes as it will and none of us know why or have the power to compel it. The only thing you can do is to throw yourself in the young man's way as often as you can without arousing his suspicions, and try to make yourself as interesting and agreeable to him as possible. Find out his taste in women and then try to be it.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am 18, have run around considerably, thought myself in love many times, but found out I wasn't. Have had a job away from my family and friends for more than a year. Have always been in contact with older people in business and association and feel older than my age. Considering these things, would it be safe for me to marry a boy of 22, who is a fine fellow and able to support me? Does a girl of 18 know her own mind well enough to make a wise choice and know what she wants in a husband? What is the average outcome of youthful marriages?

MARGARET

ANSWER: According to divorce statistics, the average outcome of youthful marriages is failure. The proportion of divorces granted to men and women in their twenties is far in excess of any other age.

But calendar age and real age do not always tally. Some girls at 18 are mature enough to marry and that may be your case. But why not give yourself the benefit of the doubt? When you are married you will be married a long, long time, so what's the hurry?

At 18 you are at what should be the beginning of the happiest and most carefree time of your life. Why not enjoy it? Don't throw away your girlhood. You will be sorry for it if you do.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My oldest son is 28. He will not work and the younger children have to work and support him. When I try to get him to hunt a job he gets frantic and does not speak to me for weeks. What can I do with him?

A WIDOW

ANSWER: Nothing but turn him out of doors. Your son will never work as long as you and the other children support him, but he would work rather than starve.

Women Teachers Seeking Advice

TORONTO, Dec. 11— (CP) — Women teachers would like parents' advice on changes in public school curriculums, Gertrude Bergey of London, Ont., Saturday told the Board of Directors of the Federation of Women Teachers Associations of Ontario.

Miss Bergey, provincial research convener for the organization, has been touring the province for four months to ascertain the attitude of teachers toward curriculum revisions.

She reported they were "willing and anxious" to participate in such revision and were organizing in groups to evaluate the present system and ways of improving it.

Would the little girl like a nice gift—if she has a nice little ten-shilling note?"

Of Interest to Women

THE BUSTER BROWN influence in a little hat with grosgrain ribbon trim is from the Piko Spring collection. The veil ties over the face ending in a bow in the back.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Production-line Cookies Needed for Children

You can't win if you have youngsters.

Even my oversized offspring at 16 and 18 years will not leave the cookies alone.

Real cagey-like I thought I would fool them and have Marianne make a double batch of Hermits to provide some for their YPU Christmas party and some for the Moore's.

I was flabbergasted to hear them divvying up all that were left, after the party, between their lunch bags—so they could pass them around in the school cafeteria. Those cookies had a half pound of my precious pecans in them too.

If you have lots of padlocked cupboard space you may be luckier than I.

In any event today's recipe is a whopper. Eighteen dozen one and on-half inch drop cookies may be made from one batch of cookie dough—but there are different varieties.

I figure one batch like this will carry any average family right through December and over New Year's entertaining. They will be the foundation of your plates of cookies. You add shortbread (see next Friday's column) and fancy Swedish cookies and chocolate nut diamonds or some such fancy cookies, to give the plate glamor.

Three-In--One-Batch Cookies

Six cups sifted flour, 2 2-3 tablespoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon milk powder, 8 eggs and ½ cup water, or ¾ cup whole egg powder and 1 cups water, 1 cup shortening, 4 cups brown sugar, 1 tablespoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon each cloves and nutmeg, 1 or 2 cups raisins, 4 squares unsweetened chocolate, 1 cup shredded cocoanut.

Sift through sifter together the sifted flour, baking powder, salt, and if used powdered egg, and powdered milk. Cream the shortening with the sugar until light and fluffy. Add the eggs to this mixture, if used instead of dry whole egg powder, and beat well. Add the vanilla to the water, and add them alternately with the flour mixture, to the creamed butter mixture, mixing well between additions. Now divide this batter into 3 equal parts. To the first part add the spices and raisins. To the second part add the melted chocolate and cocoanut. Leave the third part as is. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto buttered cookie sheet and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for from 12 to 15 minutes.

The plain cookie may be topped with half of a red or green cherry to give them the Christmas spirit.

Three-In-One-Batch Cookies

(Smaller batch—5 doz. 2 inch)

Three cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, ¾ cup shortening, 2 cups light brown sugar, 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¾ cup milk, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, scant ¼ teaspoon each cloves and nutmeg, ⅓ to 1 cup raisins, 1½ to 2 squares melted unsweetened chocolate, ½ cup shredded cocoanut. Sift together the sifted flour, baking powder, and salt. Cream together the shortening and sugar until light, then add egg, one at a time, beating. Add vanilla. Add sifted flour mixture alternately with the milk, mixing smooth after each addition. Divide dough into 3 parts. To first part add spices and raisins. To second part add the melted chocolate and cocoanut. Leave third portion plain or when placed on cookie sheet decorate each with a whole walnut or half cherry. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 15 minutes.

Bible Class Holds Christmas Party

The Excelsior Bible class of St. James Church held a Christmas party Wednesday evening with 40 present. At this time the losers of the class attendance contest provided a chicken dinner for the winners under the convenership of Mrs. F. Craik and Mr. and Mrs. R. Heard. Under the leadership of Mrs. R. Bell, worship service was conducted. Christmas carols were enjoyed and Mrs. A. Saunders read the Christmas story. Miss Grace Woodcock gave two Christmas readings. Mr. Craik and Mr. Heard offered prayer. Mr. Craik also brought the class a timely Christmas message.

Presentations were made to the class teacher, Miss J. Martin. Mrs. R. Bell, class president, and Mrs. C. Davis who has been the class treasurer for the past seven years. Also to Mrs. F. James and Mrs. A. Saunders leader of contest teams and to Mrs. Draper and Mrs. Phillips for best attendance record during the summer. Mrs. A. Saunders tendered a vote of thanks to the hostesses of the evening. Miss Martin, assisted by Miss F. Allen, distributed the gifts from a beautifully decorated tree.

6—In Memoriams

DODD—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Fred Dodd, who passed away one year ago today, Dec. 11, 1949.
Today recalls sad memories
Of a dear mother gone to rest.
And the one who thinks of her today
Is the one who loved her best.
—Ever lovingly remembered by her sons Arthur, Walter, Trevor and family.

DOXSEE—In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Helen Doxsee, who passed away Dec. 9, 1947.
You can only have one mother,
Patient, kind and true,
No other friend in all the world
Will be as true to you.
For all her loving kindness
She asked nothing in return,
If all the world desert you
To your mother you can furn,
So all I can do dear mother,
Is to go and tend your grave,
And leave behind a token of love,
To the best mother God ever made.
So you who have a mother,
Cherish her with care,
For you'll never know the heartache
Till you see her vacant chair.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by her daughter Marlene.

DOXSEE—In loving memory of my dear daughter, Helen Ferguson, who passed away three years ago, Dec. 9, 1947.
In Trent Valley Cemetery softly sleeping,
There the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one I love so dearly,
Though I could not save.
Deep in my heart lies a picture,
More precious than silver or gold,
It's a picture of you dear Helen,
A picture that will never grow old.
It's lonesome for me without you dear
And life is not the same to me
Since you were called away.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by her mother.

DUNFORD—In loving memory of our dear grandmother, Mrs. Jos. Dunford, who died Dec. 9, 1944.
Beautiful memories are all we have left,
We loved her so dearly, she was one of the best,
Gone and forgotten by some she might be,
But always remembered, dear grandma, by me.
—Never to be forgotten by her grandchildren Arthur, Garnet and Roxie Downer.

SMITH—In loving memory of my dear father, Adam Smith, who died Dec. 11th, 1943.
The depth of sorrow we cannot tell
Of the loss of one we loved so well,
And while he sleeps in peaceful sleep
His memory we shall always keep.
—Ever remembered by daughter Annie and family.

SMITH—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Adam Smith, who died Dec. 11th, 1943.
There is a road called remembrance
Where thoughts and wishes meet,
We take that road in thought today
For the one we cannot greet.
—Ever remembered by his wife and family.

WHYTE—In memory of John Henry White, who passed away on Dec. 11, 1947.
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well;
And while he sleeps a peaceful sleep,
His memory we shall always keep.
—Ever remembered by mother, dad and sister Helen.

WHYTE, John Henry—In loving memory of John Henry Whyte, who passed away December 11, 1948, age 13 months.
Sweet little flower of heavenly birth,
He was too fair to bloom on earth.
—Lovingly remembered by his Grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tarkington.

Put Communist Back On Council

By The Canadian Press

The Toronto suburb of Long Branch re-elected a member of the Communist Labor-Progressive Party to its council Saturday and in Northern Ontario the township of Tisdale approved Sunday afternoon commercial sport.

These were among highlights of scattered voting in municipal elections Saturday. Most elections were held last Monday and the next big voting day is Monday, Jan. 1. Some centres vote today, including the city of North Bay which has before it a Sunday sports bylaw.

In Long Branch, a village to the west of Toronto, James Wallace, Labor-Progressive, placed third among six candidates for three posts as members of the village council. Thomas F. Carter was elected Long Branch reeve and Mrs. Mabel Curtis became the first woman to win a council seat, winning as deputy reeve.

In other Toronto area elections, William Jackson was re-elected mayor of New Toronto for his 21st consecutive term, W. A. Edwards was named reeve of Mimico over Hugh M. Griggs, Sydney Smith was elected reeve of Toronto township and William G. Beech reeve of York township. York township voted in favor of a $750,000 debenture issue for a new hospital.

Woman's Body Found In Bay Of Quinte

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 11 (CP) — Object of an intensive search since she disappeared two weeks ago, the body of Rachel Fox was recovered Sunday night from the Bay of Quinte in about 20 feet of water.

The body, found about 40 feet off the end of what is known as Ostrom's dock at Rossmore in Prince Edward County, was brought here for a post mortem.

Her hat, last week washed against the shore, and this served to concentrate the search. Yesterday, her coat was found by dragging from a row boat after breaking ice near the shore.

She disappeared on the night of Nov. 25 but her disappearance failed to cause any alarm until she did not attend church the next morning. Her car was found at nearby Rossmore, which led to concentrating the search in that area.

Dummer Pays Accounts

At the regular meeting of the Dummer township council, December 7, various accounts were authorized for payment, on motions of Councillors Olver, Sloan, and Gallaher. Doctors Using "Bone Bank"

MONTREAL, Dec. 11 —(CP)— Doctors have found a way to salvage human bone from amputated arms and legs and store it in a "bone bank" for use in other patients.

The method was described today to members of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons by Dr. John Conway Kennedy, specialist in orthopaedic surgery from London, Ont.

Dr. Kennedy told the college's annual convention and convocation that experiments with the process have been carried on for 18 months in London in the laboratories of the University of Western Ontario and in operating rooms of the university's affiliate, Western Hospital. He said more than 80 western Ontario men, women and children have had grafts from the bone bank with excellent results.

About three operations a week involving use of the bone bank are performed in London.

Small Baby Raped Police Question Man

ALANTIC CITY, N.J., Dec. 11 —(AP)—A 26-year-old amputee war veteran, the father of two children, was picked up Sunday night for questioning in the rape of a 21-month-old baby.

Police said they were questioning Albert Bowen in what they described as the "foulest case in the annals of the Atlantic City police department." They said he denied any connection with the case and no charges were placed against him.

The baby was found in her blood-stained crib early Sunday by her mother, Mrs. Shirley Reed, 25. She told police she had left the baby alone in her apartment and had gone to a party with two women friends.

The baby was taken to hospital in fair condition.

Woke Up Married After Party Ex-Soldier Seeks Annulment

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Dec. 11—(CP) — Gordon George Ongleton told the British Columbia Supreme Court Saturday that during his first wartime leave in England he woke up on a kitchen floor to find he was married and the step-father of two children.

He asked the court to annul his marriage.

The former Canadian soldier said that on Feb. 2, 1943 he entered the Red Horse pub in Sutton, near London.

A civilian with two daughters invited him home for further refreshments. Ingleton claimed that when he came to he found himself married to one of the daughters, who had two children. He said he recalled no marriage ceremony. He returned hurriedly to camp and has not seen his wife since.

Mr. Justice J. M. Boady said he found it difficult to believe a registrar would perform a marriage for a man as drunk as Ingleton claimed to have been. He told Ingleton, now a prison guard, to obtain stronger proof and adjourned the petition.

Remand Mrs. Sullivan Until December 14

OTTAWA, Dec. 11 (CP)—Mrs. Marion Sullivan today was remanded until Thursday, Dec. 14, for preliminary hearing on a charge of murder in connection with the bludgeoning to death of her prominent lawyer husband.

The 50-year-old Toronto society woman made her fourth appearance in Magistrate's Court to hear Magistrate Glenn Strike grant the remand and agree to have the hearing begin on Thursday.

The charge of murder arose from the discovery of the nude body of Francis J. Sullivan, 52-year-old solicitor of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, in a bedroom of the downtown Chateau Laurier Hotel, Nov. 18.

Automatic Jet Pilot Can Even Fire Guns

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP) —A new automatic pilot being produced for the United States Air Force can guide jet planes through good or bad weather and may even fire their guns aimed by radar.

The air force announced the device Sunday, calling it "the first mechanism developed which can meet the high speed and manoeuvrability required to fly today's jet fighters." Automatic pilts are customary in bombers and transports, but not fighters.

The new robot pilot, called the F-5 autopilot, was developed by Lear, Incorporated, of Grand Rapids, Mich., in co-operation with the air material command.

Once off the ground, the pilot can point his plane toward its goal and relax. To turn right or left, to climb or descend, he needs touch only two tiny controls to perform all simple flying manoeuvres.

Europe Too Busy With Christmas To Bother About War Scare

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

PARIS, Dec. 11 (AP) — The was scare isn't scaring many people in Europe—yet.

It has got Europeans worried a little, and it has driven them to a more intense reading of newspapers, perhaps, but there are no signs of war jitters, according to an Associated Press survey of the major capitals of Europe.

The big news at this debate is the same as big news always has been in early December—Christmas.

The stores are decorated for London's Father Christmas, Paris' Pere Noel and Berlin's Saint Nicholas. Shoppers in numbers exceeding even 1949's record buying sprees are jamming the counters.

There are no traces of an exodus.. Airlines and steamship companies say their business is normal for this time of the year. And their empty lobbies prove it.

Americans are calm about it all, and, for the most part, see no reason to juggle their plans for this year's Christmas.

To Set Record

The big department stores of Paris have a rush business that store officials believe will set a postwar pre-Christmas record.

Rome also reported Christmas shopping at its height, and in London, the Financial Times said the volume of trade there now appeared to be running 10 per cent ahead of 1949, which was a record year.

President Truman's recent remark that use of the atomic bomb was under active consideration in the Korean war caused a flurry of jitters, but they have mostly subsided. Some Americans were booed in Rome, Paris and elsewhere at the time but the feeling quickly passed.

There is some evidence of hoarding, but not to the extent reported from the United States at the outbreak of the war in Korea.

Business As Usual

Copenhagen said stores there had experienced extraordinary high purchase of items which may become short if there is a war, but blamed most of it on the fear of cuts in import quotas rather than wars.

Black marketing, always fair game in Europe, hasn't reacted to a war scare, either. The sidewalk banker rate for francs in Paris has remained the same for several weeks and showed no upward tendencies as it would if there were a rush for dollars by the wealthy fleeing a war scare.

From behind the Iron Curtain there came identical reports of "business as usual—although uneasy." Prague, capital of Communist-controlled Czechoslovakia said Christmas buying was normal, and there were no signs of migration.

Boom Continues

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton's 1950 building boom continues to break records. November figures show building permits valued at $1,961,786 compared with $1,618,999 in November last year. Permits for 11 months were $46,189,977 compared with $37,963,092 in the same period of 1949.

Canada Runs Four Plants For Atom Work

By DOUGLAS HOW

CHALK RIVER, Dec. 11 (CP)—Canada's affair with the atom has a four-cornered pattern and this spot is the most important corner — the fountainhead — of them all.

The others stretch into the sub-Arctic and the Rockies and down to Lake Ontario. But the public seldom realizes that this larger design does exist, that Canada's atomic effort constantly has to cover vast areas to keep going.

Its geographical locations are known by the names of Eldorado, Trail, Port Hope and the isolated scientific outpost of Chalk River on the Ottawa River, thousands of miles from two of the other three.

Eldorado is the magical name of the government-owned mining property in the Northwest Territories where the uranium comes from. There they find and dig the ore that is the vital ingredient of scientific work on the atom not only in Canada but in the United States and probably to some extent in Britain.

Uranium is the radioactive element which allows the nucleus of minute atom-fractions of its body to be split at Chalk River to release energy. It is no secret, however, that considerably larger quantities of Eldorado's uranium go to the US than come here.

Port Hope Refinery

The second corner of the pattern is at Port Hope, on Lake Ontario, where there is a plant to refine the raw uranium ore and process it for use by the scientists here and in the US.

The third corner is at Trail, BC, near the American border, where a huge smelting plant has an adjunct which produces heavy water to be railroaded more than 2,000 miles across the country to Chalk River.

Heavy water is the great governing factor behind Chalk River's radioactive pile, which is the core of the whole project. It slows the energy-releasing processes, keeps them controlled and feasible, allows the disciplined release of energy. Here science is wrestling with the problems of tapping that energy in ways that man can use.

All four corners operate largely in secrecy. Three of them are run by the government, the fourth at Trail by private industry.

The public knows they exist and knows a broad, scant bit of their activities but not too much. It's not wise in a world like this that too many know too much about atomic efforts.

Nobel Prize Winner Says He Believes In People

By MARGUERITE McMILLIN

OXFORD, Miss., Dec. 11 (AP)—William Faulkner, whose tales are known for their violence and terror, is a gentle Mississippian who says "I believe in people."

And though today he receives the Nobel Prize for literature, he calls himself "a farmer who just happens to like to write. I'm not a literary man."

Though his stories deal with the southern scene, he says he is not concerned with regional problems but with "human problems. Observations on man — that's my trade." He insists, "I'm not a sociologist."

"I write about Mississippi because it's all I know."

Before he left here for Stockholm to receive the award, he gave his views on literature and mankind in a rare interview at his Antebellum home.

Embarassed at Praise

The 53-year-old author, small of stature and slight of build, moves with the soft sure step of a veteran woodsman. He spoke with obvious embarrassment when his writings were praised.

Sitting stiffly in the high-ceilinged living room, Faulkner gazed at the floor as he told how he felt about winning the highest international honor for such works as "Intruder in the Dust," "Light in August," "The Bear" and "Sanctuary."

"The honor is to the work," he said. "It doesn't matter so much who does it, what his name is, what sort of bloke he is in private life—so long as the work uplifted, strengthened or did something to other hearts."

Did he see any grounds for optimism in present trends in the South?

In Bad Time

"We're in a bad time. There are no longer any problems. Man is faced with one question: Whether he's going to get blown up. There used to be problems of courage, honor, chastity, virtue . . . they don't exist any more. There are only 'angles.'"

"But man is immortal. He'll work out his predicament in time, not by his own efforts. He'll outlast his trouble. I'm inclined to believe it'll come of sheer necessity. Some day we'll run out of angles and have to get back to virtues."

Could Do Better

And as for literary work:

"If I could write it again I'd do it better. I've never been completely satisfied with what I've done."

Faulkner ranks the Elizabethans above all other writers for their achievement in English literature. No others have reached a height comparable to Shakespeare, Ben Jonson and Robert Herrick, he said.

The novelist plans to give away the $30,000 prize money which comes with the Nobel award.

"The award made to 30 years of hard work, sweat and dissatisfaction of an anguished spirit shouldn't be wasted on a bloke 50 years old just so he can have a new suit and a new car."

More Motorcars

VICTORIA — (CP) — For the first time in history, the number of motor-cars licensed in British Columbia passed the 250,000 mark in October. A statement just issued showed that on Oct. 31 there were 251,667 licences issued, an increase of 36,000 over the same period last year.

Announce Plan In London For Journalists

LONDON, Dec. 11 — (Reuters)—Commonwealth journalists will be able to work for a year in each other's countries under an interchange scheme announced here today by the Empire Press Union.

The aim is to increase their knowledge of the Commonwealth and widen professional experience. Promising young journalists will be selected by the Press Union which represents the newspapers and newsgathering organizations of the Commonwealth.

British journalists will be encouraged to visit other Commonwealth countries, while overseas writers will be invited to come to Britain.

Newspapers will be asked to accept the visitors for attachment to their staff at normal rates of pay, and many offers have already been received at the union's London headquarters.

The plan was recommended by the Imperial Press Conference in Canada last June.

Sunday Sport Passes

SOUTH PORCUPINE, Dec. 11 (CP).—Voters of nearby Tisdale township approved commercialized Sunday sports in municipal voting here Saturday. The vote was 1,521; against 1,092. Also approved by a vote of 556 to 416 was a pension plan for civic employees. Reeve Victor Evans was re-elected for his 14th straight term, defeating Lloyd Hunkin by 315 votes. About 66 per cent of eligible voters voted.

Narrow Escape

AILSA CRAIG, Ont., Dec. 11—(CP).—Their automobile carried 150 feet before being tossed aside by a Canadian National Railways freight here Sunday night, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Larkin, of RR 2, Parkhill, escaped serious injury. Larkin, 62, had no injury and his wife had only facial cuts, bruised knee and chest injury.

Reds Hurl 27 Divisions Against UN In S. Korea

OVER THE HUMP—The first truckload of Marines rolls into Hungnam on the east coast of Korea after smashing their way through a blood-spattered gantlet of Chinese Communist troops. Trapped and greatly outnumbered in the Chosin Reservoir area, they cut a 50-mile path through enemy divisions, to reach the coast where an armada waits to evacuate them. "We brought out all our wounded," said Maj.-Gen. O. P. Smith, "We brough out all our dead. We are over the hump."

Stay in Korea, Attlee Belief

LONDON, Dec. 12—(Reuters)—Prime Minister Attlee told the House of Commons today he has "good hopes that the forces of the United Nations will maintain themselves in Korea." Members of the Commons cheered the announcement, made as a report on the Prime Minister's world crisis talks with President Truman in Washington and Canadian leaders in Ottawa. Attlee returned by plane from his North American trip today, immediately reported to the King and held a conference with his Cabinet. Outlining to the House the results of the trip, Attlee said:

"On Korea and the Far East we have agreed on the immediate course which our representatives at the United Nations should follow.

"We were agreed that aggression must be halted and we were equally certain that every effort should be made to prevent an extension of the conflict.

"Our long range objective is to reach a stable position in the Far East."

Attlee said he was fully satisfied with his talk with Truman on the subject of the atom bomb.

"I would ask the House to accept my assurance that there is no difference between us on this vital matter," Attlee said.

On the different attitudes of Britain and the United States to recognition of the Chinese Communist government and Chinese representation in the United Nations, the Prime Minister said:

"We did not expect that these differences could be resolved in talks lasting only a few days."

Defence of West First

He said the defence of the west remains the first task of all members of the Atlantic community.

With regard to conduct of the campaign in Korea, Attlee said, "it is clear that the general directives of the United Nations have been followed."

Conservative Leader Winston Churchill asked for further information on any projected use of the atom bomb in these words:

"The President has made a number of very important and far reaching statements, and whether any fresh statement is to be made on his behalf I do not know. But I feel some clearer definition of the position of this extremely important issue should be before us when we debate the question on Thursday."

Attlee replied that he was "completely satisfied" with Truman's position on the use of the bomb.

Egg Price Support Plan To Be Continued In 1951

OTTAWA, Dec. 12—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner today announced that the government's price support program for eggs will be continued in 1951. The prices will remain the same as in 1950. The decision is in line with a request by representatives of Canada's 500,000 poultrymen to have the program continued to maintain confidence and stabilization in the Canadian egg market.

Under the plan, the Agricultural Prices Support Board will buy, at the termination of the storage period late in 1951, all eggs then unsold which had been stored to board specifications during the December, 1950, to May, 1951, storage period.

The board will pay, at all storage points, 38 cents a dozen for eggs stored as grade "A" large and 36 cents a dozen for eggs stored as grade "A" medium. In addition, an allowance will be made to cover storage costs.

No Cost To Government

The 1950 program, said Mr. Gardiner, has resulted in no cost to the government.

All eggs stored under the 1950 program have been disposed of by the original holders. None have reverted to the Prices Support Board.

The Canadian egg market today, Mr. Gardiner added, is sounder than when the 1950 program was announced after the United Kingdom stopped buying eggs from Canada. No Canadian eggs were sold to Britain in 1950.

However, even with the discontinuance of that market egg prices in Canada now are well above the support levels, Mr. Gardiner said.

Cabinet Tackles Defence Budget

OTTAWA, Dec. 12 (CP).—The cabinet will soon buckle down to examining details of next year's whopping defence program at a time of crisis which may even drive it well beyond the $1,000,000,000 figure already broadly accepted by the ministers.

In the weeks ahead, the ministers will get a formal, semi-annual appreciation of the world military situation from the Chnefs of Staff, and then pitch into the job of deciding just how far Canada should go to meet it.

It is impossible to tell at this date the effect of the Chinese-Korean crisis and such offshoots as the Truman-Attlee-St. Laurent talks. The crisis hit Ottawa hard and brought great alarm that a third world war might be closing in but, for the moment at least, Prime Minister Attlee's visit appears to have soothed these fears.

Some people here think continuance of the present grim outlook will inevitably be reflected in Canadian defence expenditures even bigger—particularly for arms production—than the $1,000,000,000 that has been mentioned by a number of cabinet members. That figure originated in the earlier days of the Korean crisis before the Chinese brought a general war to the horizon.

Justice Terms Case "Fraud"

VANCOUVER, Dec. 12 (CP)—The case of the $900,000 Thomson will exploded Monday in Supreme Court when Chief Justice W. B. Farris raised the possibility of a "gigantic fraud."

His comment came after Fireman Gilbert Campbell, who stood to inherit between $300,000 and $600,000 if the will were proved genuine, officially announced that he was stepping out of the case.

His counsel, Thomas A. Dohm, explained that Campbell was doubtful of the document's authenticity and would not proceed with action to probate.

Six cousins of James Thomson, wealthy hotel man who died on December 12, 1948, were prepared to oppose the will on the grounds that the signatures of Thomson and his witnesses were forgeries.

After Mr. Dohm outlined the decision of his client, Chief Justice Farris said: "There can be only one suggestion if this action isn't proceeded with, and that is that this has been a gigantic fraud; that the whole thing is a forgery from beginning to end."

Russians Pulling Fast One

Get Allied War Material

FRANKFURT, Dec. 12 (AP)—Highly-strategic war materials are flowing behind the Soviet Iron Curtain from West Germany, and the Western Allies are powerless to stop them.

Articles such as machine tools, ball bearings, optical supplies, steel tubing and raw steel are being moved secretly into the Russian satellite bloc.

Allied officials believe that much—or most—of this material finds its way directly to Russia.

It is believed also that quantities of rolling stock purchased from United States army surplus has been deviously shipped to Russian satellites for relay to Russia.

The Western Allies find themselves helpless. They have export licensing power by the West German government, which has not the power or means to police the ultimate destination of purchased products.

Allied sources say they have no way of determining the exact amount of contraband that has gone to the Russians. But "we feel it was and is of sufficient quantity to make a substantial contribution to the Communist bloc's war potential," one source added.

Allied sources who declined to be identified explained how the East—at a time when United Nations forces are sorely beset in Korea— acquires vital materials from the West.

A Ruhr firm, for example, exports steel to West Berlin buyers who ostensibly are legitimate dealers. But after the steel reaches Berlin, it disappears. The Allies believe it is quietly taken to East Berlin and from there shipped either directly to Russia or to one of her satellites.

Some contraband goes East under false papers. Other shipments are sold through Communist intermediaries who have set up dummy firms in West Germany. These are busy milking the strategic industries of the West German Republic.

Moslem Riot Kills 14, Injures 140

Court Rules Mother May Take Girl Back To Netherlands

SINGAPORE, Dec. 12—(AP)—Police clamped a dusk-to-dawn curfew on riot-torn Singapore tonight as the toll from two days of fighting over the fate of a Moslew-reared Dutch girl rose to 14 and more than 140 injured.

Soldiers fired at a charging mob in the eastern section of the island tonight and four Chinese were reported killed. Efforts were being made by Moslem leaders, however, to calm their followers.

The British colony's Supreme Court, meanwhile, ruled today that the girls' Roman Catholic Dutch mother may take 13-year-old Maria Bertha Hertogh back to the Netherlands with her.

Thousands of fanatic Moslems in two days of bitter rioting have tried to kidnap the child and return her to the Malay woman who for eight years reared her, and to the Moslem schoolteacher she married last summer.

The dead included four Britons, two Eurasians and one Indian. Three other bodies were unidentified. Among the injured were two American correspondents, 36 Europeans, and 52 Chinese. The rest were Indians, Malayans and Eurasians.

There were unconfirmed reports that seven Eurasians had been murdered by Moslem mobs in the eastern part of the island.

Fighting Continues

Fighting, which began with a mob attack Monday on the supreme court building, continued in the city's two-mile-square Moslem quarter. It was cordoned off by bayonet-wielding police and British troops and armored cars.

Elsewhere in the city violence was subsiding, but demonstrators made a new small-scale attempt today to rush the court building as the tribunal denied a Malay appeal to halt Maria Berthas' transfer to the Netherlands. Troops and police drove off the Moslems with bayonet charges and tear-gas bombs.

British authorities Monday night rushed the Hertogh child and her mother from the convent in which they had been staying to a secret hiding place under heavy guard. Though permitted by today's court ruling to go to Holland, the child must be returned to Singapore next March for a hearing on another appeal brought by her foster-mother and husband against the court decree annuling her marriage and returning her to her Dutch family.

It was generally believed the mother and daughter already have left Singapore following the court's green light. Dutch and British officials would neither confirm nor deny the reported departure.

Rumors swept the city that Maria Bertha and Mrs. Hertogh had been spirited to a nearby Dutch island when troops re-

Germans Reject Plan For Army

BONN, Germany, Dec. 12 (AP)—An informed source said today that the West Germany Government will reject plans of the North Atlantic Pact countries to use Germany combat teams in a Western defence force.

This source said Chancellor Konrad Adenauer disclosed his government's position at a special meeting of parliamentary party leaders Monday night.

Adenauer was quoted as saying the plan did not meet German requirements for absolute equality. The Bonn Government objected on the grounds that German troops would have inferior status, would be less well armed than divisions of other countries and German officers would not share in the higher command of the joint force.

Two Brothers Jailed

OTTAWA, Dec. 12—(CP)—Two brothers, convicted last week of beating and robbing an Ottawa taxi driver, today were sentenced to prison terms by senior Carleton County Judge A. G. McDougall. Frederick Hawley, 25, was sentenced to four years in penitentiary at Kingston, while his 19-year-old brother, Robert, was sentenced to two years less a day definite and one year indeterminate in the reformatory.

Expect Truman To Declare Emergency State

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP).—President Truman is arranging to address the American people by radio Friday or Saturday night on the world situation and the home front steps he believes are necessary as a result of the threat of war.

This was learned today from high White House sources, unquotable by name.

At the same time, there was official word of the broadening of the conference Truman has called for Wednesday with Congressional leaders of both parties.

Truman will consult at 10 a.m. EST Wednesday with a group of senators and representatives on plans for the proclamation of a national emergency—a step expected to be preliminary to a rapid series of moves placing the United States economy on virtually a war footing.

State Secretary Dean Acheson, Defence Secretary George Marshall and Treasury Secretary John Snyder also were asked to be present for tomorrow's meeting with the congressional group.

Frost May Call Special Session

TORONTO, Dec. 12 — (CP) — Premier Frost of Ontario said Monday his government would be willing to call a special session of the legislature, if necessary, to implement a proposed new old-age pension plan.

He reiterated earlier statements that his government is willing to help implement the plan outlined at last week's dominion-provincial conference. It would provide a universal, $40-a-month pension at 70 without means test and pensions with a means test for those between 65 and 70.

Ontario, said the premier, would give its consent to constitutional amendments necessary to allow the federal government to legislate for the universal pension.

He said it would be difficult for Ontario to take any steps to facilitate implementation of the plan until federal legislation was available to deal with it. However, he indicated the government may consider introducing legislation at the forthcoming legislative session asking for a broad form of approval to enter into a plan, when ready, along the lines proposed.

Labor Groups Plan CampaignForControls

OTTAWA, Dec. 12 (CP) — Publicity, information and research directors of Canada's four big central labor bodies met today to plan a campaign in favor of reimposition of price controls and retention of rent controls.

The meeting marked the first time in the history of the Canadian labor movement that the four major labor organizations have worked together on a project.

Decision to conduct the campaign was announced last week by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, the Canadian Congress of Labor, the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor and the dominion joint legislative committee of the railway transportation brotherhoods. Together they have a membership of about 1,000,000.

U.S., Britain Support Cease-Fire

Rau Proposes Chinese Help Settle Problems In Asia

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Dec. 12—(AP)—Britain and the United States today threw their support behind a middle east-Asian proposal to seek a basis for a Korean cease-fire. The U.S. insisted, however that other Asian problems cannot be discussed until the Korean fighting ends.

The two big Western powers spoke immediately after India's Sir Benegal N. Rau laid before the General Assembly's political committee the plan of the Asian and Middle East countries. This plan called both for a special group to seek a basis for a cease-fire and for another group to seek a settlement of all outstanding issues in the Far East.

American delegate Warren R. Austin said he would vote for the cease-fire on the understanding that the U.N. provided for the safety and security of the UN forces in Korea and of the Korean people. He did not comment directly upon the plan for general Asian discussions.

Kenneth Younger, British minister of state, also confined his remarks to the cease-fire proposal. He said his government supported it.

Want Instructions

At the request of Russian delegate Jacob A. Malik, the debate was recessed until Wednesday morning to give delegations time for consultation with their governments. The chairman, Roberto Urdaneta Arbelaez, said other delegations also had to await instructions.

In presenting the plan for a Asian and Middle East countries, Rau said he was convinced from his talks with Chinese Communist envoy Wu Hsiu-chuan that the Peiping government wants peace. He warned, however, that the Chinese people seem to be moving toward a sort of hands-off doctrine for the Far East.

Rau proposed that the Chinese Reds be given a direct voice in settling outstanding Asian problems after the basis for a cease-fire in Korea is worked out.

Made Suspicious

The Middle East-Asian plan was embodied in two resolutions worked out in a series of closed-door conferences just before the political committee met this morning. Rau asked for top priority consideration of the proposals.

Rau said the Chinese people had been made unduly suspicious by ordeals of the past and they see aggression where none exists.

Rau said Wu had asked him about the future of Formosa. He had replied India would stand by the Cairo and Potsdam declarations. He also said he told Wu that President Truman was on record as saying the U.S. 7th Fleet

STATESMAN DIES — Peter Fraser, New Zealand's wartime premier and a founder of the United Nations, died today in Wellington.

Peter Fraser N.Z. Leader, UN Founder Dies

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Dec. 12 (CP). — Peter Fraser, a former Prime Minister of New Zealand and founder of the United Nations, died today. He was 66.

Jailed as a Socialist objector to the First World War, he became one of the Commonwealth's great leaders in the Second World War and led his country through the critical years from 1940 to 1949.

The Scottish-born cobbler's son had suffered several heart attacks since he was stricken with pneumonia in October. Monday he rallied and left his bed for the first time since Oct. 3.

He was the third former Commonwealth Prime Minister to die this year. He was preceded by William Lyon Mackenzie King of Canada and Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts of South Africa. The three had been closely associated during the Second World War and at the formation of the United Nations in San Francisco in 1945.

Top Military Men Hold Closed Parley

LONDON, Dec. 12 (AP) —The North Atlantic Pact's top military men met twice behind closed doors today, apparently to set up a command staff for a European defence force.

The military committee of the 12 allies spent two hours in a morning session and then returned to work again after lunch. Gen. Charles Foulkes, chief of the Canadian general staff, represents the dominion at the meeting.

The meetings are prelude to a joint session Wednesday or Thursday with the pact council deputies on the problem of bringing German troops into the defence force.

Mongolians Used As Cavalry

Chinese Unopposed Throughout North; Allies Cross Frontier

TOKYO, Dec. 12—(AP)—Some 27 Chinese divisions—including 8,000 to 14,000 fierce Mongolian Cavalrymen — today pressed menacing feelers toward South Korea after driving the bulk of the United Nations forces from the North.

Shaggy little Mongolian ponies and supply caravans of two-humped camels such as the mediaeval conqueror Genghis Khan used centuries ago, gave Bizarre but effective mobility to the Vanguard of Red China's 1,000,000-man force as it streamed unopposed over almost all of North Korea.

In the west, the bulk of the Allied Eighth Army had withdrawn to Parallel 38, the old boundary between North and South Korea.

(Reuters News Agency said the main U.N. forces on the western front were waiting just south of the 38th parallel for the Chinese advance.)

An Eighth Army spokesman said "no statement had been released to the effect that Eighth Army units had withdrawn south of the 38th parallel as reported by a press service."

The spokesman said that for security reasons positions of the U.N. forces would not be disclosed by the army. He declined to comment on the source of the published report that all Eighth Army forces were south of the parallel.

In the northeast, most of the United States 10th Corps was huddled on the Hamhung coastal plain. This force was 130 air miles deep in North Korea, but it was surrounded by Communist forces and the road south was blocked. At the nearby port of Hungnam,

Rail Washout Causes Wreck

McADAM, N. B., Dec. 12 (CP).—Two train crew members were killed and three others injured today when a Canadian Pacific Railway doubleheader freight train plunged off a washed-out stretch of rail 12 miles from here.

Killed were engineer Joseph H. Doiron and fireman C. M. McKay. Injured were D. W. McDermott, engineer of the other locomotive on the 36-car train, fireman Creighton White and George Madire, trainman.

The accident occurred at Lambert Lake, west of this town near the United States border.

Sixteen cars of the freight, which left St. John, N. B., at 6:40 a.m. were derailed and 14 of them were demolished. Both locomotives turned over.

Buddy System Thrown Overboard

Mixing GI's, Koreans At Front Failure

By HAL BOYLE

WITH U.S. EIGHTH ARMY, Korea, Dec. 12—(AP)—The "buddy system" has been a failure, in the opinion of most front-line commanders in Korea.

This attempt to integrate South Korean soldiers with American front-line outfits was begun in August. It was an emergency military measure.

In those desperate days of defence along the Naktong River line not enough American soldiers were arriving to replace the men lost in battle. It was decided to fil lthe gaps in the line with selected South Koreans.

This program became known as the buddy system.

To get the needed volunteers, some enterprising commanders sent officers into Korean cities and invited picked young native policemen to come out and spend a day with their outfit.

Liked U.S. Life

After a big meal of hot American chow and the gift of a few candy bars and packages of cigarets, many decided they liked the lush life with the United States army.

The program started off in an atmosphere of one big happy military family. Each recruit was assigned to an American buddy, whose job was to act as his friend and teacher in learning how to be a soldier.

Everything was palsy-walsy—as long as the outfits were refitting in rest areas.

When the mixed Korean and American outfit went into combat, the buddy system began to fall apart. Under the stress of battle the differences of language and loyalty between the two nationalities became more vitally important than their desire to understand and work with one another.

No Time To Learn

The Koreans haven't had time to learn American army technique. An American soldier hated to have his life dependent on whether his oriental buddy knew enough to give him covering at the right moment.

There were numerous cases of outstanding stubborn and heroic fighting by these Korean volunteers. There were other cases where they broke and ran—and these created bitterness.

"They largely have just taken up space," said one veteran commander who had been among the first to welcome the buddy system.

The result today is that the buddy system has been quietly shelved.

Britain Prepared To Rearm Without U.S. Funds; Say Finances Improved

Attlee Tells U.K. Friendly Meetings Held In North America; Reports To King Two Hours After Return

LONDON, Dec. 12—(CP)—Informed sources said Monday night Britain is now ready to shoulder a $10,080,000,000 three-year rearmament program without American monetary aid. Such a program, put forward last August, was based on the United States furnishing $1,500,000,000 worth of aid. Most of American help would have been in free dollars for spending anywhere, the British Government hoped. The United States made it clear Congress could not be easily persuaded to those terms.

Now, the sources say, Britain feels her own finances and economy have improved sufficiently to permit a larger investment in the country's security.

The informants say Prime Minister Attlee may announce the program this week, possibly in a report to Parliament on his Washington and Ottawa talks.

Feeling Reinforced

Britain's feeling that she can undertake the whole of the $10,080,000,000 program on her own has been reinforced, informants say, by two factors which emerged from the Washington talks:

1. American recognition that the maintenance of civilian economies is of vital importance to the success of defence efforts. The Labor Government has long been torn between the conflicting demands of economic stability and military security.

2. Agreement by the United States that some system of providing for the equitable distribution of scarce materials is needed. As far as this country is concerned, a regular flow of various strategic materials is wanted even more than dollars.

Political sources expressed the view that Attlee pledged a definite — though undisclosed — increase in British rearmament effort in return for the American concession on raw material allocations.

Friendly Discussions

Attlee returned by plane today from what he described as "very full, frank and friendly discussions" on the world crisis with Canadian and United States government officials.

Attlee told reporters: "we covered a wide scope dealing with both the east and west of the world and dealing with economic subjects, as well as political subjects."

"We arrived at a very broad agreement on many matters and we understand one another's point of view."

Thanks To Canada

During his flight home, Attlee sent messages expressing thanks to both Prime Minister St. Laurent and President Truman.

The message to St. Laurent said:

"On leaving Canadian soil I should like to express to you my gratitude for your hospitality and my pleasure at the renewed opportunity of making the closer acquaintance of you and your colleagues in the government of Canada.

"It has been of great value to me to have your wise and experienced counsel in the present troubled state of world affairs which was the motive of my visit to the American continent."

Industrials Climb In Quiet Trading

TORONTO, Dec. 12 (CP).—Industrials climbed fractions in quiet trading as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Steels, utilities and papers paced the board with gains ranging to $1. Agricultures, constructions, retail stores and manufacturing companies showed a majority of gains in the groupings.

In base metals advances barely outnumbered losses and price changes were narrow. Consolidated Smelters, Golden Manitou, Quemont, United Keno Hill and Waite Amulet were ahead while East Sullivan, Normetal, and Sherritt Gordon eased.

Golds were mixed. In the senior group Bralorne and Wright Hargreaves gained. Joliet Quebec, Newlund and Preston were ahead among junior producers.

Car Skids on Street

A car and a pick-up truck collided as the truck, driven by Jacob Katz, 192 Aylmer Street, pulled out from Antrim Street into Water Street Monday about 5:30 p.m. Some damage was done to both vehicles.

Driver of the car was James R. Ayotte, RR 1, Young's Point. Katz, driving west on Antrim Street, stopped for the water Street stop sign and then started to make a left turn into Water Street. His light truck met in collision with Ayotte, driving north on Water Street.

Ayotte said he saw the truck and braked his car, but it skidded on the slippery road surface.

Traffic Officer Claire McGillen investigated.

Flood Waters Smash NB Dikes

MONCTON, N.B., Dec. 12 (CP)—Monctonians today prepared to renew the battle with the muddy waters of the Petitcodiac river, which Monday smashed through six-foot-wide dikes to flood highways and leave 40 homes in the marshy section of the city in a swirling, murky sea.

The strong southwesterly winds which drove the Bay of Fundy waters up the funnel-shaped river to pierce the dikes Monday continue unrelentingly. A heavy rainfall throughout the day added to the flood, which cut off the only highway between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick and isolated suburban Lewisville.

Seventeen families, including 40 children, driven from flooded homes, have found shelter in the Salvation Army hostel here and with neighbors living on higher land. Three homes have been washed off their foundations.

As the Maritimes experience the warmest December weather on record, the heavy rainfall which ordinarily would become ice, has caused the Tobique river in northwestern New Brunswick to rise three inches an hour at Plaster Rock, bringing to a halt bridge construction there.

a U.N. fleet was standing by in readiness to evacuate the encircled Corps.

An American army regiment, the 7th division's 17th that once stood on the Manchurian border, was somewhere in the frozen wasteland and presumably withdrawing toward Hungnam. Its movements were shrouded for security reasons.

So, too, were the positions of two South Korean divisions, the 3rd and Capital. At full strength they would total about 20,000 men.

They had struck along the northeast coast within 40 miles of Soviet Siberia when masses of Communist Chinese turned the tide and the order was given to withdraw.

Mass Panic

The climactic point of collapse in the campaign sponsored by 53 non-Communist countries to smash North Korean Communist aggression and unify the divided country was accompanied by near-panic among Korean civilians.

Hordes of non-military Koreans—and probably some fifth columnists—were swarming southward across the frozen countryside. Whole villages were on the move, in queues of desperation.

There was virtually no fighting contact between the Communists and Allied ground forces.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said the Chinese Reds were advancing slowly. Their troop mass appeared to be turning toward the centre of the peninsula where there is no Allied line.

The Chinese, largely an army that travels on its feet, moved slower in the west than the retreating U.S. Eighth Army did, and apparently were taking advantage of the period of no contact to reinforce and supply.

Mongolian Divisions

MacArthur's headquarters said two Mongolian cavalry divisions—with winter-hardened Mongol ponies and camel trains—had been spotted in Korea. They were described as "lightly armed . . . extremely mobile and capable of traversing the roughest terrain."

MacArthur's headquarters said 27 Chinese divisions—about 270,000 men—now have crossed the Manchurian border. This was the vanguard of more than 1,000,000 troops MacArthur said the Chinese had committed to their Korean expeditionary force.

Planes Active

Allied planes roared out again Tuesday against Communist supply troops and convoys. Pilots reported by mid-day that they had killed or wounded 550 Communist troops in Central Korea.

The retreat of the Eighth Army from its reformed line south of Pyongyang to the 38th Parallel still was covered by security, but AP Correspondent Don Whitehead, newly returned to Tokyo from Eighth Army headquarters, said the Chinese hordes had lost all chance of trapping the Eighth Army north of Parallel 38.

The UN forces in Western Korea now are safely past the critical point in their retreat southward, Whitehead said.

Still Operating

A spokesman said strong Eighth Army elements still were operating north of 38 but he did not give their positions.

Whitehead said the Army is in position to fight an orderly rearguard action toward Seoul, 30 miles south of Parallel 38, if the Chinese Reds strike across the border.

"The UN forces are not in a position to build a firm defence line north of Seoul. The main reason is terrain and the fact the Eighth Army does not have the manpower to throw up defences on the right flank all across the peninsula.

"The Chinese know this and have massed their power in Central Korea where they are in a position to hit on this right flank —if the army should make a fighting stand for Seoul."

Dollar Unchanged

MONTREAL, Dec. 12 (CP) — The American dollar today opened at 4 15-16 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Monday's close. That is, it took $1.04 15-16 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.93 13-16, also unchanged.

Re-elect Houde Mayor 7th Time

MONTREAL, Dec. 12 CP) — Camillien Houde has done it again. The perennial favorite Monday was elected mayor of Canada's largest city for the seventh time.

Mayor Houde, also Independent member of the House of Commons for Montreal Papineau, practically doubled the votes received by his lone opponent, Sarto Fournier, who may still lose his $200 deposit.

The complete count for the night from 1,257 polls out of 1,291 gave Mayor Houde 60,025 votes and Mr. Fournier, Montreal lawyer and member of parliament for Maisonneuve-Rosemount, 30,070.

In inclement weather—the first heavy snowfall of the season hit Montreal Monday, disrupting traffic and keeping many would-be voters at home—31.8 per cent of the city 283,654 eligible voters turned out.

Municipal police were out en force but things were quiet—quiet for Montreal, that is.

By the time the polls closed, police had arrested two returning officers on charges of fraud in connection with their duties and 53 other persons, including 10 women on charges of "telegraphing"—impersonation of voters.

Emigrating to New Zealand in 1910, he worked as a laborer and dock hand and joined the Socialist party.

For 17 years he sat in the opposition, becoming deputy leader in 1933. When Labor swept the polls in 1935, he became Minister of Health and Education. St. Laurent, 2 Ministers Going Overseas For Talks

OTTAWA, Dec. 12—(CP)—The emphasis in Canada's defence preparations in the world struggle against communism are shifting this month from the new continent to the old. Prime Minister St. Laurent, and at least two of his leading cabinet ministers, are scheduled to go shortly to the United Kingdom and Europe to join in Commonwealth and other steps to further the cause of the freedom-loving countries.

While none of these meetings will be on the specific problem of Korea, at the moment the focal point of the fight against the Red menace, they all form part of the global western strategy to meet and defeat Communist aggression wherever it may appear.

One of Canada's key military figures already is overseas, joining in the development of a segment of that strategy. He is Maj.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, chief of the Canadian General Staff. He arrived in London this weekend for meetings of the military committee of the North Atlantic Security Alliance.

Next to go overseas will be Defence Minister Claxton and External Affairs Minister Pearson, who represented Canada in the military and diplomatic phases of the expanding North Atlantic defence preparations.

Held Together

Mr. Claxton first was to have attended a meeting of North Atlantic defence ministers in London while Mr. Pearson joined a meeting of the foreign ministers in Brussels. Now, however, it is expected the two meetings will be held simultaneously in the Belgian capital.

Then, late this month or early in the new year, Mr. St. Laurent will journey to London to join his fellow prime ministers of the Commonwealth in 10 days of meetings opening there Jan. 4.

This conference, called at the suggestion of Prime Minister Attlee, will deal with the international situation as a whole, as it faces the members of the Commonwealth. Within that broad agenda will fall the questions of Korea, events in Southeast Asia generally, relations with Communist China, recent developments in Tibet, European affairs, and North Atlantic defence.

Mr. Attlee and Mr. St. Laurent, in their talks here this weekend, undoubtedly gave some time and thought to preparations for the meeting.

AT LEAST FIVE PERSONS, members of one family, fleeing before the advancing Chinese Communists, huddle against the cold under a blanket and atop all the possessions they can carry, nestle dangerously between two box cars just north of the 38th parallel. Many persons numbed by the cold fell from the trains and were killed.

Hotel Slaying Trial Begins

HULL, Que., Dec. 12 (CP) — John Ralph Hooper, 27-year-old scion of a well-to-do family in neighboring Ottawa, went on trial today for the hand-towel slaying March 29 last of Gertrude Davis in a dingy Bridge Street hotel.

The nude body of the 25-year-old girl, a dampened towel knotted tightly around her throat, was found across a bed in a room on the third floor of the hotel and police said she had been strangled during the night.

Hooper, arrested by police the following day, was alleged by witnesses to have taken the girl into the hotel shortly after midnight and to have left an hour later.

Cruiser Cars Continue Prowl Algoma District

SAULT STE. MARIE, Dec. 12 (CP).—Cruiser cars continued to prowl Algoma district highways and back roads today as provincial police pressed their hunt for gunmen who shot up a police car Saturday night.

The gunmen ware last seen speeding east along highway No. 17 after riddling the cruiser and narrowly missing constable John Gouley.

Inspector Leonard Neil of Toronto and district inspector J. A. Stringer of Sudbury joined the search today. Roads have been blocked off and police said they think they have the men trapped.

Finds It Doesn't Pay To Be Too Clean

TORONTO, Dec. 12 (CP). — Fastidious Kenneth Hobman had a few more charges tacked on an already-impressive list today — all because he wanted a clean suit for his court appearance.

Hobman, 27, pleaded guilty to 20 charges, including theft, false pretences, dangerous driving, carrying an offensive weapon, and leaving the scene of an accident. They were the aftermath of a wild chase through suburban York township 10 days ago

To look fresh at his trial today, Hobman asked detective Walter McGown to go to his home and pick up a suit for him. McGowan discovered the suit had been reported purchased with a worthless cheque. It was entered as evidence against Hobman.

Law Enforcement Inquiry Asked By CCF

TORONTO, Dec. 12 (CP)—The C.C.F. announced Monday it is going to ask for an investigation into Ontario's law enforcement when the legislature meets next month.

E. B. Jolliffe, opposition leader in the House, said after a party caucus that his party wants an investigation, particularly insofar as the department of the attorney-general is concerned.

"The whole province was shocked a few months ago at the revelations of gross incompetence," said Mr. Jolliffe. "An investigation was commenced by the new (Windsor) police commission, but as soon as it became apparent that a great deal of the responsibility for conditions in Windsor could be traced back to the attorney-general's department at Queen's Park, the investigation petered out."

Peculiar Circumstances

"Circumstances following the recent violent death of a provincial government employee in Ottawa, and failure of a provincially-appointed coroner to notify the police until many hours after the event, were sufficiently disquieting to cause a special investigation to be ordered by the attorney-general. Yet once again the matter has hushed up."

(This apparently was a reference to the slaying of Francis J. Sullivan, Toronto lawyer, who was found bludgeoned to death in an Ottawa hotel last month. His widow has been charged with murder in the case.)

Sunday Sports Bylaw Defeated

Port Hope ratepayers voted down Sunday sports at the town elections Monday 1,500 to 556; but they voted in favor of awarding the natural gas franchise 1,541 to 417. At present there is no gas service in Port Hope.

William Roach is the new reeve defeating the 1950 reeve, Bert Lingard, 940 to 736.

Mayor W. N. Moore was returned previously by acclamation.

Here is the complete slate of municipal officers for Port Hope in 1951.

Mayor, W. N. Moore; reeve, William Roach; councillors, (according to their standing at the polls) George Phillips, 1,508; Moss Hewson, 1,200; James Carr, 1,116; James Sinott, 833, John Rosevear, 828; Robert Everson, 817, and there were eight defeated candidates.

School trustees—J. Rowland, G. A. Graham and J. G. Tweedie.

Water commissioner—William Bissett.

Hydro commissioner — H. G. Hutchings.

Gives Resolutions

Rau said the resolution calls for:

1. Creation of a three-man commission, headed by assembly president Nassrollah Entezam of Iran, to attempt to arrange a cease-fire in Korea. Entezam, a supporter of the Western democratic viewpoint, would appoint the other two commission members.

2. Election by the general assembly of seven men to seek a solution of all Far Eastern problems. These would include the question of whether the Communists or Nationalists should represent China in the United Nations, the future of Formosa and the Indo-Chinese war.

Rev. T. S. Gault expressed his satisfaction and appreciation of the work done by the women's auxiliary, mentioning the constitution of a life member (Mrs. Ralph Woods) and the organization of the junior branch as being special features of the year.

The members were inivited to meet at the rectory in January.

Mrs. Jarvis and her assistants served lunch.

MINATITLAN, Mexico, Dec. 12 (AP).—At least seven persons drowned Monday when a small passenger boat capsized in the Coatzacoalcos river, 150 miles southeast of Vera Cruz. To Boost Meat Supply

LONDON, Dec. 12 (Reuters).—Meat-hungry Britain hopes to boost her beef and mutton supplies by 140,000 tons a year through a scheme to improve grazing on mountain land now wasted. The government will distribute £4,000,000 ($12,000,000) among farmers to help pay for schemes to improve the hillside land.

THE HORSES employed by the Montreal Police Force are now equipped with a tail-light attached to the bottom left-hand stirrup. A few of the local citizens wonder at this flashing firefly as the steeds are very seldom out after dark and who isn't able to see a horse cantering along in front of their vehicle even on the darkest of nights.

Zeal, Fire Lost Omemee Legion Told

OMEMEE, Dec. 12 — (ENS) — The Rev. Walter J. Gilling, of Peterborough, delivered a stirring address to the Omemee branch of the Canadian Legion on the occasion of their annual banquet in Coronation Hall.

Flags, and red, white and blue candles decorated the banquet tables. The master of ceremonies was Clinton Endicott, president of the Legion.

Reuben Reeds proposed the toast to the King. A toast to the ladies was proposed by L. M. Curtis and was replied to by Mrs. Alton Bailey. Solos were given by Miss Dorothy Connell and Mrs. J. Hayes, with Miss L. Race accompanying.

The speaker was introduced by the Legion padre, the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, who had become acquainted with Rev. Gilling when overseas in World War Two, where they were both chaplains. They had met in England, Italy and Holland. Rev. Gilling having been senior chaplain in Holland.

Mr. Gilling spoke about the veterans' present opportunities for service, taking as the title of his address: "As I See It."

He said the men who formed the Canadian Legion in its infancy were outstanding types of Canadian manhood—men of zeal, fire and vision, but as he sees the Legion of today, it has lost its zeal, it has little fire and it lacks vision. He told them if they took the name "British Empire Service League" seriously there was no limit to what they could do in their community. "Each and every one of you," said Mr. Gilling, "can fight Communism by doing your part to restore the spiritual life of your community, for without the Christian religion there is no freedom."

He admitted there was a peculiar type of fellowship among veterans that no outsider could possibly understand, but admonished the Legion not to selfishly spend all their time and thought sitting reminiscing.

Mr. Geo. Stephenson, an behalf of the Legion, thanked Mr. Gill-

Ford And GM Increase Prices

TORONTO, Dec. 12—Increases ranging from 4½ to 6 per cent have been announced by the Ford Motor Co. in prices for 1951 models, while General Motors prices will advance about 4 per cent.

Ford officials said Fords and Meteors would go up $100, while the Mercury and Monarch would go up $115. General Motors increases are $89 on the lower-priced Chevrolet, $94 on the higher-priced Chevrolet, $84 on the lower-priced Pontiac, and $89 on the higher-priced Pontiac.

New prices for Buicks and Oldsmobiles will not be announced until Jan. 20. Chrysler Co. and Studebaker Corp. have made no announcement on whether they will fall in line. The Chrysler Co. said it would make 1951 prices public when new models are brought out.

The Ford Co. blamed Korean war demands on industry and a general shortage of metals for the increase, but President Rhys M. Sale added that "pensions, insurance, wage and salary boosts and other benefits extended to our more than 14,000 employees in 1950 alone, have added $7,500,000 or better than 18 per cent to our annual labor cost."

He said voluntary price cuts in 1949 offset some of the new increases over 1948 levels.

Have Cigarette Plan For Soldiers Overseas

OTTAWA, Dec. 12 — (CP) — Arrangements have been completed with Canadian tobacco companies for the shipment of cigarettes at reduced prices to members of the Canadian armed forces on duty overseas.

Under arrangements similar to those in effect during the Second World War, parcels of 400 cigarettes can be sent to members of the Canadian forces overseas at a cost of $2 each. Only parcels of 400 cigarettes are available and they must be ordered directly from the tobacco companies.

The plan does not apply to personnel of the special Canadian army force at Fort Lewis, Wash., or other parts of the United States. Personnel at Fort Lewis can purchase up to six packages of duty-free Canadian cigarettes a week.

White Gift Service

COLDSPRINGS, Dec. 12 (ENS)—St. Paul's United Church held the white gift service on Sunday with a large attendance.

The chancel of the church was beautifully decorated with the Nativity scene, candles and Christmas trees. Members of the mission band brought white gifts to the front of the church, where they were received by Frank Ritchie, superintendent of the Sunday school. The mission band hymn was sung.

The 38th Parallel Was Important

It is all very well to be fair-minded about the United States' Asian policy and to cover resentment and anxiety with sympathy, now that the intervention in Korea is turning out so badly. But that is no reason for approving every step the United States and General MacArthur have taken, and for identifying Canada with them. This is what some sections of the Canadian press and populace are now doing. Perhaps it is an attempt to counter the bitterness many Canadians feel. We suspect, however, that it is in some measure an attempt to justify their earlier enthusiasm for the war, their unstinted approval of the conduct of the campaign, and their drum-beating to get Canada committed to Korea.

These people and papers are now saying that the die was cast last June when U.N. called on its members to counter North Korean aggression; that the time for Canada and Canadians to realize the risk of stirring up China's belligerency was then; that then was the time to say that the West could not fight a war on two fronts. They say that Canada was as duty-bound to resist aggression in Korea last June as the United States; that the major decision was taken then, Canada was then fully committed, and that all events in Korea since then—for instance the crossing by General MacArthur's force of the 38th parallel dividing North and South Korea—were incidental.

We disagree with this set of arguments. A few Canadian papers, ourself among them, and many Canadian citizens, from the beginning looked askance at the American entry into Korea. They did not warmly commend U.N.'s subsequent support of the American action. They warned about the danger of arousing China, and of facing a war on two fronts, of renouncing Europe in the committal of war against aggression in China. We mention these matters of record to point out that all Canada was not given over heart and body to the Korean cause. In fact, official Canada was not. The Government and our Minister of External Affairs cautiously supported the U.S.A. move, but no Canadian soldiers have yet reached the fighting front. As critics scornfully say, six months after the war began Canada's armed forces (even one battalion) are not yet committed. Is that not a mark of the lukewarm, realistic Canadian attitude?

It is more accurate to say that the dice were cast in June, not that the die was cast. The United States did the casting—all six sides. General MacArthur kept the dice rolling, right up to the 38th parallel, beyond the parallel, and up to the Manchurian border. General MacArthur is an American general taking his orders (we presume he does) from Washington. U.N.'s Security Council named him commander of all U.N. forces, but U.N. did not have a General Staff of its own to advise him, or senior political committee to devise political strategy which would govern his campaign.

The decision to cross the 38th parallel was not an incidental thing. The British and some Canadians were anxiously concerned about it, warned against it in their press; but the decision to cross was not in British or Canadian hands. It was in Washington's, and it seemed that Washington surrendered its right to make such an involved political decision to the military—to General MacArthur.

* * *

The Premier of China, Chou En-lai got Indian Ambassador Pannikar out of bed at midnight to warn him that if the American advance went beyond the line of the 38th parallel, China would fight. This is told by Blair Fraser in the current issue of Maclean's magazine. Mr. Fraser's despatch came from Hong Kong. Mr. Fraser is usually to be trusted to get his facts straight. Premier Chou outlined full details of intended Chinese troop movements toward the Manchurian-Korean border. Ambassador Pannikar was convinced that Chou was not bluffing and 'phoned Delhi immediately. This helps to explain, as Mr. Fraser points out, why India insisted that the U.N. advance into North Korea threatened war. This private warning was ignored, but China repeated it publicly.

Did General MacArthur not bother his head about it? Did Washington discount it? Did the American officials keep the information quiet about the Chinese determination to fight, so that the U.S. and Canadian press would not have it? The crossing of the 38th parallel between North and South Korea was not incidental. In the light of Premier Chou's statement to the Indian Ambassador, it was crucial. It was that which decided the Chinese entry into the war. In the light of present events, even the Americans and General MacArthur must consider the 38th parallel other than "incidental", for it seems that U.N. forces would be withdrawn voluntarily behind the 38th parallel, if now China would agree to its being a line of demarcation between the two forces, and halt her invasion.

Ontario's Liquor Labels

Various kinds of wines and rums sold in Ontario Liquor Control Board stores are imported in casks and bottled and labelled in the province by the Board. Good as these liquors may be, their labels spoil them. A quite satisfactory British Guiana rum has a drab blue-black label suitable to a bottle of cyanide. A Burgundy wine label is mincingly-lettered, and coloured like a gravestone. A very decent Empire port is identified by a design (or lack of one), apparently calculated to induce biliousness. There is neither art, imagination or good taste in most of the Board labels we have seen.

There may be a purpose in this. Does the Board wish to deter its customers from the stuff it bottles itself, and to excite their palates for the more expensive stuff imported in bottles already labelled attractively or dramatically? Profits on the imported bottles are probably greater. Does the L.C.B.O. suffer from a guilty conscience as a vendor of liquor? Does it try to assuage it and the prohibitionists by getting the person who invented the rhyme

Never drink wine, never drink beer
Always drink water
And keep your head clear to design its labels? Or perhaps the L.C.B.O. has never even thought about whether its labels are good or bad, and doesn't care. After all, it doesn't need to please customers! It has no competitors.

Our thoughts turned to the Ontario liquor labelling because we have just bought a bottle of South African sherry which, despite its insipid label, we have favoured. And lo! today we discovered that it has a new dress, and really looks much better. If this is the beginning of a reform in L.C.B.O. labels, we shall take back all we said and wish the Board and its new label designers well.

Christmas And Anti-Semitism

It was an unhappy inspiration which led Rabbi Feinberg of Toronto to protest against the singing of Christmas carols, and other seasonable festivities in Toronto schools. The Rabbi said that these festivities created a feeling of discrimination against Jews among the schoolchildren. Several other rabbis and Jewish leaders have stated their disagreement with this opinion.

We do not understand what Rabbi Feinberg is talking about. Unless children have changed very markedly in the last two or three decades (and we don't think they have) he is quite wrong. We cannot recall a single class that we belonged to in our school years which did not contain two or three Jewish boys and girls. They always took part in the Easter and Christmas concerts, sang carols, made Christmas cards and did what the rest of us did. When we were older, and a member of a school glee club, the boy who sang the tenor solo in a Bach Christmas program was a Jew; it never struck us, or him, that there was anything strange about the situation. And in later life we have gone to many Jewish ceremonies, have worn our hat in the synagogue, and tried to behave as our Jewish hosts would expect of a well-conducted guest.

This is not to say that Christianity and Hebraism are indistinguishable, or that Jewish children become Christians in Christian schools. We do believe, however, that Jewish children come to no harm from learning the customs of the majority of their friends, any more than a Christian child who visits a Jewish home is less a Christian thereby. As for Rabbi Feinberg's idea that Christmas carols in school excite anti-Semitic feelings, we cannot imagine anything less likely to create ill-feeling among children than singing good music together.

It is too bad that Rabbi Feinberg expressed this opinion, for anti-Semites will surely seize upon it and make capital of it. Those of us who know Jews, however, and have gone to school with them, know how ill-founded his fear is. Indeed, we wouldn't mind making a bet that Rabbi Feinberg was not educated in Canada. We are relieved to know that Rabbi Feinberg has withdrawn his statement and said that he did not say or mean what he said. The bruiting about was no credit to the Rabbi.

Basic Anglo-American Difference On Korea

By NORA BELOFF

THERE is a fundamental difference between British and American reactions to the latest Chinese onslaught in Korea. Mr. Attlee's visit to Washington has made it more, rather than less, conspicuous.

That difference will not be eliminated by the practical agreements already reached between the Prime Minister and the President on specific policies which they may have to adopt within the next few days in Korea or at Lake Success.

Reduced to its simplest form, the difference amounts to this: the American nation now feels that it is already at war with Communist China. Britain sees peace with China seriously threatened but by no means irretrievably lost.

NO American has questioned General MacArthur's repeated public assertions that an "undeclared state of war" with Communist China already exists. On the other hand, nothing could be less warlike than the personal hospitality extended at his own private home in New York by the British delegate, Sir Gladwyn Jebb, to General Wu, chief Chinese Communist at the United Nations. While in New York this week British officials chatted and dined with the Chinese, here in Washington Prime Minister Attlee was publicly declaring that although the Union Jack would continue to fly side by side with the Stars and Stripes in Korea, Britain would go right on advocating diplomatic recognition of Communist China: "Are we," Mr. Attlee rhetorically asked Washington newspapermen "to cut ourselves off from all contacts with one-sixth of the inhabitants of the world, from all chance of making our views known to their rulers?" Perhaps he was too confident of an American "No" to his answer.

PRIVATELY Mr. Attlee is understood to admit that in the new circumstances China could not be admitted unconditionally to the family of the United Nations—but he is still ready, indeed eager, to prepare the necessary conditions.

At the very time when Sir Gladwyn was breaking bread with General Wu and Prime Minister Attlee was privately and publicly reminding the Americans that Britain still intends to resign itself to a Communist-dominated China, British soldiers were very probably dying under Chinese Communists bullets. This seemed outrageous to many Americans, but it can at least be partly attributed to recognition among British leaders that China in fact has a legitimate grievance. Since the Communists took control, China has been deprived of its rights as a great Power and the British—in startling contrast to the Americans—are not quite sure whether the Communist leaders are therefore unreservedly to blame for demonstrating their bigness in the practical way.

THE facts are hardly under dispute: the Americans, without consulting Britain, were and are protecting the stronghold of the Chinese Nationalists in Formosa where a new army is being formed on the American model and with the personal blessings of General MacArthur. Both Americans and British know that the only conceivable reason why General Chiang Kai-shek keeps half a million men under arms in his small island is for an eventual attempt to recapture the mainland.

Secondly, the Americans, again without consulting Britain, launched their campaign for a prompt peace treaty with Japan, which would include unlimited rearmament for the Japanese and would be signed without reference to the effective rulers of China, despite that country's tragic experience of Japanese power.

NO one here knows whether or not the Chinese can be bought off at this late stage from pushing ahead with their highly successful but inevitably inconclusive struggle against the United States. They can certainly mobilize enough soldiers to throw the U.N. troops off the Korean mainland if they want to, but this would open up their own country to aerial bombing and economic blockade, depriving the Chinese people of a desperately needed breathing space for reconstruction and recovery after two hideous decades of war.

ONE thing, however, is certain: Britain will not be diverted from her efforts to coax China out of this fatal course. Private dinner conversations between Sir Gladwyn and General Wu are in the logic of British policy.

Americans are not opposed to the principle of a settlement but are inclined to feel that the time for coaxing is now past. Concessions such as the betrayal of their former ally General Chiang Kai-shek, or an invitation to Mao Tse-tung to sit at the Japanese peace conference table are more unthinkable now than ever.

Unconsidered Trifles

The girl was out with an American soldier. "So you really think I'm the most adorable girl you ever knew?" she cooed.

"Uh-huh."

"Do you think I'm the most attractive girl you have ever seen?"

"Uh-huh."

"Oh I'm so glad? And do you adore my figure?"

"Uh-huh."

"You do say the most marvellous things, darling. Do please go on."

At the peak of the rush hour the surging crowd watched a subway train crawl into the station. Near the head of one lane of passengers stood a slight mild-looking man. Aware that the approaching express was not his train, he looked desperately about for a way to escape. But the stampede had begun. The bewildered little man was swept off his feet, carried backward into the train—his arms flailing the air. A burly guard looked on with disgust.

"Toin around and walk in like a man," growled the Man of Authority. "Do ya hafta be helped in?"

THE SPHINX OF WU

Those California Wines

(By B. K. SANDWELL IN SATURDAY NIGHT)

ONE of the pleasures of eating in a public restaurant in San Francisco is that you are permitted and even encouraged to have a bottle of wine with your meal, and it does not have to be imported champagne and need not cost you more than two dollars for a large bottle, which will perceptibly increase the conviviality of a party of four people. The California restaurants have discovered that it is worth their while, and good for their state, to serve California wines.

I was in California for a week during the pre-election period, a couple of months ago, and was able to make comparisons with the same season two years earlier, when Mr. Truman was preparing his little surprise for Mr. Dewey. Two years ago the campaign for popularizing the California light wines had only just begun. Today it is going full swing and is showing very obvious results.

Californians have always been interested in what they eat and drink, and San Francisco is one of the great bon vivant towns of the world. But until recently Californians shared the illusion, common all over this continent, that the only wines fit to drink were those which importers were accustomed to bring from Western Europe, and that even these were a "sissy" drink compared with the he-man liquors of native concoction out of which the cocktail and highball are compounded.

BUT California, which has always had a lot of scenery and climate much like those of Italy, now has a large Italian population and grows a vast crop of grapes which make excellent wines. (They may, for aught I know, be a bit intolerant of transportation, as are many of the good European wines. But that obviously does not impair their potability in San Francisco.)

And the wine growers of California a few years ago determined on a vigorous and consistent and long-ranging campaign to promote two related objectives—the improvement of California wines, and the popularization of them among people largely accustomed to thinking of "a drink" as either spirituous liquor or an expensive European wine.

This campaign, let me point out at once, would have been completely impossible if the advertising of alcoholic beverages had been prohibited in California as it is in Ontario and other Canadian provinces. There are many different vineyards in California, and the product of each differs slightly or greatly from that of its neighbours. If the grower is not permitted to familiarize his potential customers with the name of his vineyard, by some more effective means than a sign over its entry and a label on the bottles, he is helpless.

TO spend money on improving the product, without being able to announce the improvement, would mean that for years he would be turning out a more costly product without the public learning that it was a better product—and in those circumstances there is little inducement to improvement.

As a result of this California campaign, which includes the celebration of a California Wine Week in the autumn of every year, Californias have become widely aware of the fact that their native vineyard product is a very pleasant, satisfying and healthy beverage, and they are rapidly acquiring the habit of consuming it in moderate quantities with their meals—which is of course by far the most suitable manner in which alcohol can be consumed.

Every licensed restaurant in the state lists California wines among its beverages, and not in a shamefaced manner so as to suggest that only tightwards or ignoramuses could possibly want them, but with every indication of recommending them to the attention of the connoisseur. They are usually served in excellent condition and with the proper glasses and suitable ceremony, though in one good hotel I was a little surprised to have a white wine poured over crushed ice instead of being chilled in a bucket.

The railways make a special effort to bring these wines to the attention of travellers, who if they come from Kansas, Mississippi or Ontario can reasonably be assumed to know little or nothing about them.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

All things are delivered unto me of my Father: and no man knoweth the Son, but the Father; neither knoweth any man the Father, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him. Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.

Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light. (Matt. 11: 27-30.)

And it came to pass also on another sabbath, that he entered into the synagogue and taught: and there was a man whose right hand was withered. And the scribes and Pharisees watched him, whether he would heal on the sabbath day; that they might find an accusation against him. But he knew their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand, Rise up, and stand forth in the midst. And he arose and stood forth.

Then said Jesus unto them, I will ask you one thing; Is it lawful on the sabbath days to do good, or to do evil? to save life, or to destroy it? And looking round about upon them all, he said unto the man, Stretch forth thy hand. And he did so: and his hand was restored whole as the other....

And it came to pass in those days, that he went out into a mountain to pray, and continued all night in prayer to God. (Luke 6: 6-10, 12.)

Hear, O my people, and I will testify unto thee: O Israel if thou wilt hearken unto me; there shall no strange god be in thee: neither shalt thou worship any strange god. (Ps. 81: 8, 9.)

Labor Income Hits New Peak

OTTAWA, Dec. 12 — (CP) — Canadian labor income is hitting new peaks this year, the Bureau of Statistics said Monday.

The all-Canada total for September came to $716,000,000 with $686,000,000 in August and $662,000,000 in September last year, while the total for the first 10 months of 1950 was $5,955,000,000 against $5,664,000,000. These totals both were all-time records

Total for the third quarter this year was $2,093,000,000 against $1,969,000,000 in the same period of 1949.

The greatest change occurred in utilities, transportation, communication, storage and trade, which climbed to $186,000,000 from $172,000,000 for August, when earnings were affected by the railway strike. The nine-month aggregate rose to $1,566,000,000 from $1,496,000,000 in 1949.

Man Nurse-In-Training But Can't Wear Prized Cap

VANCOUVER, Dec. 12 — One of the 46 nurses-in-training at St. Paul's Hospital here "is a real gentleman," says Sister Columkille, superintendent.

He is James Bullen, great-grandson of British Columbia's first physician, Dr. J. S. Helmcken, in whose memory a Vancouver street is named.

"I'm just one of the girls," said Nurse-in-Training Bullen, aged 32. He become interested in medicine and nursing during three years as a corporal in the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps.

He has had the same training and written the same examinations as his 45 classmates at St. Paul's School of Nursing, but he was not given a cap at the end of his four-month probation period. "There was noting to pin it to," he explained,

He will graduate with the others April 25, but instead of carrying a bouquet of crimson roses he plans to wear a single red rose as a boutonniere. As a nurse-in-training he dresses like internes in high-collared tunic, white trousers, and white shoes.

He is the first male nurse to graduate in BC, but it does not strike him as novel. "It is just something I wanted to do and it would have taken me too long to get started as a doctor," he said.

See Red China Organizing New Armies

By FRED HAMPSON

HONG KONG, Dec. 12—(AP)—Communist China, already armed to the teeth, seems to be rushing to convert itself into a militarist country for a long pull.

Such a program, if carried to the limit, would mean that Communism seeks to turn the world's most populous country into a feeder source for battle on a sustained basis.

Such a plan would tap a human reservoir which no single western power—and probably no combination of western countries—could equal.

Two news items in the last few days provide the latest evidence of a trend toward further militarization.

A Canton dispatch to an independent Hong Kong newspaper said the Reds were forming a sixth field army, to be headed by Gen. Yeh Chien-ying, commander of the South China military government.

Another report, from Peiping, announced the opening of five military schools to train specialists and officers. The Communists have "requested" that everyone over 17 "volunteer" for one of these schools.

Monumental Task

However, this conscription, training, financing and equipping would be a monumental task: one that might not be possible even under the most rigid controls. If they can do it, the Communists will have armies to burn.

Most observers of the China scene believe the sixth army formation report is correct. For some time the Reds have had four field armies and assorted striking forces in Manchuria, North China and in parts of west and southwest China. That some of the semi-independent units already have been combined into a fifth field army seems likely enough, although such a force never has been announced.

The rumored sixth army formation tends to confirm the earlier secret creation of a fifth field army and also indicates the Reds may be incorporating some militia units or provincial forces into the national armies.

47 Indians Indicted In Slaying

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Dec. 12 (AP) —Forty-seven Indians were indicted Monday on charges of slaying eight persons, including four Evangelist ministers, in August, 1949. One of the ministers was Norman Dabbs, 37, of Hamilton, Ont. The other three were Bolivians. The Indians were ordered held for trial.

Judge Eloy Espinoza, of Sacaca, Department of Potosi, ruled "the crime was motivated by hatred between Roman Catholics and Evangelists." The judge also found the crime was premeditated.

The Indians attacked the ministers when they were conducting religious services in their chapel in the Uncia mining region. The ministers fled in a truck but were overtaken and stoned, garrotted and knifed to death.

Nylons Edge Eagles, 7-6 With A Last-Minute Tally

Kingston Nylons clamped firmly onto third place in the OHA senior "B" race as they nosed out the second-place Eagles 7-6 here last night. Joey Catlin fired the winning goal, aided by Ken Partis and Walt Gerow with just over half a minute left of regulation time, rifling an angle drive by Nicholls on a fast in-close rush. The Eagles missed a chance to tie for first place by the reverse.

The score was 3-1 for Eagles in the first frame, but tied at 5-all to end the second as the visitors drove hard in the last half of a clean contest, speedy in spots and resembling shinny at other times. Kingston drew four of the seven penalties, all of them of a minor nature. Actually, the only exciting hockey occurred in the third heat.

A Starry Trio

The Partis-Gerow-Catlin line shone throughout for the Nylons, carrying the real threat and making Ross Nicholls look good repeatedly in goal. Gerow and Catlin were in on three goals each and Partis and Aitken two, with McKeown having two assists. Single points went to Williamson, Joyce and Potts. Bill Crowley led the local snipers with three points, Coombs and Freddy Mortimer being in on two apiece, and Vitarelli, Greenlaw, Parnall and Hill one each. Both goalies made a flock of fine saves.

Smith went off early for interference and Doug Mortimer got it later for tripping. At 8:19, Crowley went around the net fast to slip one by Udall. He followed this up with a corner passout which Vitarelli slammed home, and then Coombs counted a nice one in close, aided by Hill and Freddy Mortimer to make it 3-0 as Eagles turned on the pressure. Nylons got back in the hunt when Williamson ripped around defence with Potts' pass to tally. Watts was gated for slashing, and then Plumb and Rochetta got the finger for roughing.

Sewed It Up

Early in the middle chukker, Catlin was chased for tripping and Freddy Mortimer scored while he was off with a slap shot on Coombs' forward pass. Nylons began to use their weight with some stiff but legal checking, and it apparently paid off. Gerow notched a nice one inside from Catlin and then Partis parked one back of Nicholls on a three-way play with Catlin and Gerow to make it close. Watts returned from an elbowing penalty and Greenlaw hit home a passout after Parnall skirted the net and slipped him the biscuit. Kingston roared back and Aitken counted two fast ones in close with McKeown aiding on each to sew it up.

Nylons' first line really pressed in the third, though Rochetta and Crowley were both robbed by Udall on breakaways. Play was hot and even in this hectic heat. A Greenlaw-Parnall goal was ruled offside.

Gerow was gypped by Nicholls at point-blank range as play swept up and down fast. Crowley beat an opponent with fast skating to take the puck and bang an angle shot, which went in off Patterson's stick. But Joyce came right back to sink the equalizer in a scramble seconds later and it looked like overtime. At 19:27, Catlin's hot shot from the side, going in around defence, made the difference, the play being built up by Gerow and Partis, and that was that. Teams:

Nylons: Goal, Udall; defence, Patterson and Plumb; centre, Partis; wings, Catlin and Gerow; alternates, Watts, Londry, McKeown, Joyce, Aitken, Harrison, Potts and Williamson.

Eagles: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and Smith; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, Parnall, Stewart, Greenlaw, Hill, Coombs, F. Mortimer, D. Mortimer and Burns.

PCVS Damsels Entered In Two Series

PCVS students' loyalty to the basketball teams is going to be divided into 10 portions this year. Last week Coach G. B. Goulding announced that the boys will have eight teams and today Miss Doreen Pemberton said the girls will have two teams, senior and junior, to bring the Collegiate total to 10.

As last year, the senior lasses will be under the guiding hand of Miss Pemberton and the juniors will be coached by Miss Eva Scott. Both teams have been grouped with Bowmanville High School, Cobourg High and Port Hope High in the eastern half of the girls' lakeshore COSSA area. In the western half will be Uxbridge, Port Perry, Lindsay and Whitby. The winners of each group will meet for lakeshore honors late in February or early in March, then advancing on into the COSSA finals at the Ontario College of Education on March 17.

In Semi-Finals

Merritton holds the senior girls' basketball COSSA honors which they won from Owen Sound Collegiate at the final games at OCE in March this year. The Owen Sound girls had advanced into the night final by defeating PCVS seniors in the afternoon, the locals being the lakeshore champions. The local junior team was downed in lakeshore finals by Bowmanville High who went on to win the COSSA championship in Toronto.

Both teams will play their first game out of town on January 19 at Bowmanville. They will return here for their first doubleheader on January 26 to meet the Cobourg girls.

The schedule:

January 19—PCVS at Bowmanville; Port Hope at Cobourg.

January 26—Cobourg at PCVS; Bowmanville at Port Hope.

February 2—PCVS at Port Hope; Cobourg at Bowmanville.

February 9—PCVS at Cobourg; Port Hope at Bowmanville.

February 16—Bowmanville at PCVS; Cobourg at Port Hope.

February 23—Port Hope at PCVS; Bowmanville at Cobourg.

Though the game is somewhat out of season just now, here are a few items, anyway, on lacrosse. Annual meeting of the senior "A" club is tomorrow eve at seven in the Public Library. Election of officers, reports made, plans discussed, and so forth. And the windup dinner of the Peterborough Minor Lacrosse Association—a large and healthy youngster—will be next Tuesday (Dec. 19) p.m. at 6.30 out at Bill's Place. Officers, mantgers and coaches are invited, and should meet at six at the CNR office for transportation, Walt Murphy advises.

We feel a little disappointed in the decision of the parks department in settling for only five outdoor hockey and skating rinks this winter. We know they ran into a rough time of it last year when there was practically no ice—due to mild weather—for half the winter. But surely that was an exceptionally mild winter. All right, it cost something over $2,000 for the few days of skating ere they closed up the rinks just before the belated winter did arrive. And what is a little sum like that in the city's spending? Does it justify cutting the number of rinks in two? Civic Arena will grant more time to kids, but it can't begin to accommodate those wanting to use it. Not even with seven a.m. practices for young puckists.

* * * * * *

Such A Small Saving

This writer thinks it is being penny wise, pounds foolish. Healthful recreation (apart from juvenile delinquency, etc.) is important for all the kids in the city, not just for a limited number. When your correspondent was a kid learning to skate and playing shinny outdoors, the city's population was almost 14,000 less than it is today, so rapidly has the place grown. Even then, we had four or five outdoor rinks, flooded from time to time by the firemen. Let's give the kids of today as good a break. Five such rinks for a city this size certainly don't seem like much of a break. Make it eight, at least. Two years ago we had about 20 here.

* * * * * *

The next big senior "B" puck clash at Civic Arena is tomorrow night at 8.30 when the local Eagles mix again with the Petes. And no doubt another capacity crowd will view a whiz of a scrap. To date, the Eagles have won twice and tied once in three games with the Petes. Yet the Petes looked the better team in that last one until they blew halfway through the third period. And they lost by but one goal in their other reverse. A lot of fans still feel they're the better club. Okay, they have a chance to prove it on the morrow, and they'll certainly give it the old college try. So will the hustling Eagles. Which means a first-rate melee for the cash customers.

* * * * * *

Roamin' In Gloamin'

After playing up to form in the first period here last e'en, the Eagles forgot all about positional hockey and let the Kingston Nylons come on later to nudge 'em out 7-6. A fat chance to tie for first place picked seven ways for Sunday. They just weren't there for the passes, but then the Eagles have been playing up-and-down hockey lately, and no doubt will settle away soon to hit their true stride consistently. Of course, you can't fool around with that Partis-Gerow-Catlin line of Nylons, nossuh! They're dynamite on the attack, whatever about back-hecking. A good game the last half, after some shinny for a space. Crowley, Coombs and Freddy Mortimer were Eagles' main scorers. Montgomery, Milne, Munroe and Lalonde were absentees, due to work.

* * * * * *

Half a dozen Peterborough Minor Hockey Association games listed for Thursday night in Civic Arena. They start at six and go in this order: Empress bantams vs. St. Peter's, the SPS midgets vs. Martin-Hewitt, Clapper's juveniles vs. Trojans, the bantam Trojans vs. Otonabee Wolves, Marines midgets vs. Trojans, and Oddfellows vs. Lakefield Lions. Lots of keen puck action in each tussle, and more fans should view the PMHA-ers in their weekly tangles. Incidentally, a line of type was left out of George Heron's letter re the PMHA yesterday. The missing part said he had been a member of the YMCA (not the PMHA) for 35 years.

CITY CARPETBALL

The Glens were at home for the visit of Legion No. 7 and the first battle was a nip and tuck affair with the Glens leading all the way. Although the Big Bens deadlocked it 10-all in the 11th frame, the Glens broke in with a two in the final end to take the game 12-10. The last game was again a tight match, being tied in 5th and 7th ends by the Big Bens coming from behind. But the next four frames went to the Glens and, although the Big Bens came through with a big three in the final end, it was not enough and they lost the game 10-7. Two well played games.

The two league leaders met at the SOE hall and the Quakermen were full of their pep and in the first game led all the way — in fact only allowed the Sons to score in four ends, two of them being 3 ends and another a 4 end. But the Full-O-Pep team secured sufficient in the other ends to emerge winner by a 14-11 score. The second game was the Sons all the way and through the Quakermen took six frames they were all by singles and that did not prove enough, so the Sons grabbed the game 13-6 and stayed deadlocked with their opponents for first place.

The Legion No. 3 went to East City to play St. Lukes Midgets and, while the Midgets gave a good account of themselves in the first frame, they lost out to the Legionnaires 14-12. The East City Midgets could only capture the 1st, 11th and 12th frames in the final game and went down to defeat 15-6.

King Billie had as their guests the Southend Saints and the first encounter was a tight one with the Saints going into the lead. The Orange-squeezers came from behind and then tying it up at 5-all in the 4th end and then going on to take the next three frames, but the Southends slashed back in the next two with a 3 and a big 6 and while King Billie grabbed the last three ends, that big 6 proved too large and they lost the game 14-13. The second game saw the Southend Saints grab that first end and most of the othters to sweep the match and game 11-4.

The final match of the week was played at the Legion Hall between Fire Hall No. 9 and Legion No. 5. The first game was also one of singles except one end and while it was well fought and the result in doubt until the final end, the Smokeeaters emerged ahead in most of the ends and won a close victory by a score of 9-5. The second game was tied twice in the 4th and 9th frames. The 10th end went to the Old Sweats by one, then the Firemen came back with a two to make it 11-10 in their favor going into the final frame, but then the Old Sweats broke through and grabbed a 4 and the game 14-11. A swell match.

The president has been requested by a number of members to have the next schedule games postponed until after the Christmas season. So, the second half will start the week of January 1, 1951, and will be: Legion No. 7 vs. SOE No. 8; Glens No. 6 vs. Legion No. 5; St. George's No. 10 vs. Fire Hall No. 9; LOL No. 2 vs. St. Lukes No. 1; Quakers No. 4 vs. Legion No. 3.

The Quaker team has paid its entire membership fee. Who is next?

The winners of the draw which took place at the Legion's Bingo are G. Bishop, RR 10; C. Morris, 13 Wallace St.; N. Tinney, 310 Margaret Ave.; and their prizes have been delivered to them.

Team	W	L	T	Pts.	Av.
Quaker's No. 4	9	6	1	19	56%
S.O.E. No. 8	9	6	1	19	54%
Fire Hall No. 9	7	5	4	18	53%
Legion No. 3	7	5	4	18	51%
Glens No. 6	9	7	0	18	50%
Legion No. 5	8	6	2	18	48%
St. George's No. 10	8	7	1	17	55%
L.O.L. No. 2	7	8	3	17	49%
Legion No. 7	6	10	0	12	43%
St. Luke's No. 1	2	14	0	4	42%

The race is proving so tight that a four-point loss by any of the leaders can prove very costly; for example L.O.L. last week were in a three-way tie for first place and by losing four points tumbled downwards seven places.

Scoring Race Tightening For NHL Players

MONTREAL, Dec. 12 (CP). — The National Hockey League's individual scoring race is tightening, but Toronto Maple Leafs continue to lead the pack.

League statistics released today show that while the Leafs retain a comfortable lead over the five other clubs they are being crowded by other snipers in the individual scoring scramble.

Leafs' 16 victories and six ties in 27 starts give them a total of 38 points in the team standing, six more than Detroit Red Wings. In third spot are Chicago Black Hawks with 26, followed by Montreal Canadiens with 23. The Hawks moved up one rung during the week after the Habitants lost four consecutive games, two by shutouts.

Boston Bruins are next with 21 and the hapless New York Rangers are in the cellar with a mere 16 points—three wins and 10 deadlocks.

Losing Ground

Leader Max Bentley of Toronto sidelined through injury, is losing ground to three of his teammates. His eight goals and pacesetting 21 assists give him 29 points.

Linemate Ted Kennedy is two points behind with a similar number of goals and 19 assists. Tod Sloan, top sniper with 16 goals, also is crowding his mates with a total of 26 points, three more than Sid Smith, another Torontonian.

Montreal's Maurice Richard has been pushed down by two Chicago players, Roy Conacher and Doug Bentley, who have 22 and 21 points respectively. Richard is tied in seventh place with Toronto's Cal Gardner with 20 points.

Goalie Terry Sawchuk of Detroit, is leading netminder with a goals-against average of 1.92 in 24 games. Turk Broda follows with 1.93 which is the Toronto team average. Broda's individual average is 2.05 with sub-goalie Al Rollins helping the team average greatly with his 1.44.

(The Vezina Trophy is awarded to the goaler on the basis of the team goals-against average and goes to the one who has played most games when a club has more than one goaler.)

Broda leads in the shutout division with five. Sawchuk and Montreal's young Gerry McNeil are hot in pursuit with four each.

Toronto still is most penalized team with 325 minutes, 35 more than Montreal. Toronto's Bill Barilko leads the individuals with 57 minutes.

Sports World Stunned At Failure To Renew Contract For Chandler

By JOE REICHLER

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 12—(AP)—Failure to renew Albert B. Chandler's contract as Baseball Commissioner exploded a bombshell Monday night that left the sports world agog. Flabbergasted by the major-league club owners' decision, the baseball people attending the winter meetings wonder what the next move will be.

The most surprised man was Chandler. So stunned was the commissioner upon hearing the adverse news that he immediately resigned, then changed his mind and decided to finish out his current five-year term which expires May 1, 1952.

The anti-Chandler group is willing to buy up his contract if he will resign. Chandler's pay was officially announced last December to be $65,000 a year. It was then that the owners voted to grant him a $15,000 raise.

One anti-Chandler leader who declined the use of his name said that owners were prepared to fire Chandler on the spot but cited a baseball rule that forbids the releasing of the commissioner before the expiration of his contract.

Willingly Pay

"We are prepared to pay him for the remaining 17 months tomorrow," the owner said, "if he were to resign. That would be the best thing for the commissioner to do. It would save a lot of embarrassment and pave the way for the search for a new commissioner."

Despite the decision to oust the commissioner, there was some indication today that the pro-Chandler group was prepared to make a renewed effort to save his job.

"I am going to urge Commissioner Chandler to finish out his term," said a club owner. "I feel that the next year and a half may bring a change of sentiment among those who voted against him."

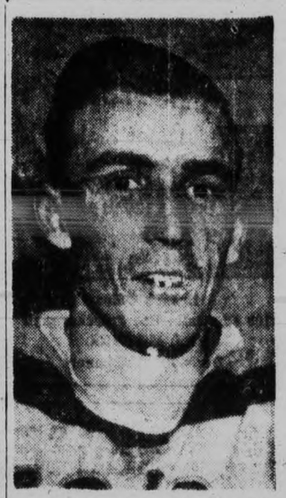
In other developments at the meeting Monday, the American League eliminated any possibility of a pennant being won, or lost, through a club's failure to play out the schedule because of rain or any other "act of God."

Only One Deal

The American, as well as the National League, also voted to eliminate the bonus rule and end the high school agreement. This, however, was a forgone conclusion since the minor leagues voted it out unanimously last week.

The trading mart produced only one deal, and that was a secondary nature. The busy Chicago White Sox, who started the pot boiling Sunday by trading pitchers Bill Wight and Ray Scarborough to Boston for Allen Zarilla, Joe Dobson and Dick Littlefield, exchanged veteran outfielders with Washington. They sent 33-year-old Mike McCormick to the Nats for 34-year-old Eddie Stewart.

By unanimous vote, the American League decreed that after the close of the season, the president could assign two extra days for the playing off of postponed contests which might affect the championship.



TOPPED EAGLES — Speedy Bill Crowley topped the Eagles in scoring here last night, being in on three goals, but the local senior "B" puckists still dropped a 7-6 decision to Kingston Nylons.

Bags Bobcat

PORT ARTHUR (CP).—The first bobcat seen in the Murillo district in more than 50 years was shot by Fred Berube, grain elevator employee. The animal was a female measuring four feet from nose to tail.

Stellar Grapple Card At Brock Tonight

Highlight of the wrestling feature match at the Brock tonight will be the return of Fred Atkins, the rock-ribbed Australian. Flinty Fred has just returned from a couple of months' mat campaigning in the States, where he reports, he was undefeated.

Fred Atkins

What a greeting he's in for, though. His opponent Yukon Eric has racked up an outstanding victory record himself. There should be mat fireworks when these two collide.

Wee Willie Davis will oppose Toar Morgan in the attractive semi-final. The opener will bring together young Dave Simms and rugged Abe Zvonkin.

Pitching Record Takes Beating

CHICAGO, Dec. 12 (AP). — The 1950 American League baseball season was one of hard knocks for pitchers.

There were only two 20-game winners, compared to five a year ago. The best earned-run average for moundsmen in 10 or more complete games was 3.20 posted by Early Wynn, Cleveland's 30-year-old right-hander, who won 18 and lost 8. Three hurlers were below the three-run mark in 1949.

Most of 1950's pitching honors went to Cleveland's right-handed star, Bob Lemon, A. L. official statistics showed today.

Lemon booked the most wins, 23 (against 11 defeats); led in strikeouts with 170; pitched the most innings, 288; tied at 22 with St. Louis' Ned Garver for the most completed games pitched; and faced the most batsmen, 1,095.

Lemon also permitted the most hits, 281, and finished 10th on the ERA list with 3.84.

The only other twirler in the charmed 20-game circle was New York's Vic Raschi with 21-8. He led in won-lost percentage with .724 and was 14th in the ERA with 3.99.

Tommy Byrne of New York again was the wildest hurler with a total of 160 passes, 19 below his 1949 mark. Philadelphia's Alex Kellner allowed the most runs, 157, and also absorbed the most defeats, 20. Last year Kellner was in the 20-win group.

Hildebrand Top Scorer

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 12 (AP) —Three goals and half a dozen assists in a week of play has pushed Ike Hildebrand of Kansas City into the United States Hockey League scoring lead. Hildebrand leads with 35 points, one better than team-mate Cal Stearns, who has 10 goals and 24 assists. Hildebrand has 17 goals and 18 assists.

WINS NON-TITLE BOUT

At San Francisco the world light heavyweight boxing champion, Joey Maxim, of Cleveland knocked out Dave Whitlock of San Francisco, in 2:37 of the fourth round of their scheduled 10-round non-title match. Maxim weighed 183, Whitlock 181.

Optimists Hear Address On False Teeth

Prosthetic dentistry—the making of false teeth—was the subject of a talk Monday night to the Optimist Club by Kenneth Meredith, dental technician. Mr. Meredith was introduced by Walter Murphy and thanked by Ed. Wright.

Mr. Meredith pointed out that in his work even with years of experience, it was impossible to make false teeth equal natural teeth. He said that people would "be well advised to guard one of our greatest treasures."

The dental technician's job, he said, called for close liaison with the dentist. Teeth to be replaced are carefully matched for size and color, and are set in molds submitted by the dentist. The final test of good workmanship, said Mr. Meredith, is a set of false teeth that give the wearer a natural appearance.

Chrysler Copies GM Contract

DETROIT, Dec. 12 — (AP) — Chrysler Corporation gave its 125,000 employees an almost exact replica of the General Motors contract Monday, at the same time boosting wages for the second time in four months.

Hourly-rated workers got a one-cent-an-hour raise immediately and a guarantee of four cents more each of the next four years. Otherwise, the cost of living will control wages almost five years.

Chrysler said its nearly 20,000 salaries employees will be given benefits similar to those granted 105,000 hourly rated workers. The company estimated the new provisions will cost an additional $20,000,000 a year.

The new economic provisions are almost identical with those governing more than 400,000 General Motors employees and 120,000 at Ford. The average wage at all three now is estimated at $1.78 an hour.

Counter Measure

BIRMINGHAM, England (CP) Prof. A. M. Low told a meeting here that anyone bothered by neighbors who play their radio at all hours, should buy an electric fan. He said that a fan can cause a radio to "make the most appalling noise" by interference.

$10,000 Raised So Far For Cavan Arena

MILLBROOK, Dec. 12 (ENS) —Cavan arena which is being built in Millbrook in memory of all those from the township of Cavan who served in World War II is nearing completion. The site chosen for the arena is just off the main street of Millbrook.

The arena board estimated the cost in actual cash would be between $20,000 and $22,000. This money they planned to raise by obtaining $10,000 by public subscription, by a grant of $5,000 from the provincial government, and by grants from the two municipal councils of $2,500 each.

By this time $10,000 in cash has actually been raised by subscription and there is $1,500 promised. As the weeks go by it is expected these extra donations may bring this to $12,000 or even more. Millbrook village council has voted $2,500 to the community centre.

If it is approved by the municipal board it will be passed as a bylaw and it will mean an increase in taxes of less than one mill for ten years until the debentures are paid off.

At the nomination meeting of Cavan township a recommendation was passed that if the council should favor making a grant to the arena the matter should first be put to a vote of the ratepayers. If the people of Cavan township should decide to make a grant of $2,500 it would mean a rise in taxes of less than two mills for one year only.

Delbert Olan, reeve-elect of Cavan, stated at the nomination meeting that he personally was in favor of a grant to the arena, although he did not specify the amount.

Although the actual cash needed for the arena will total about $20,000, so much free labor has been contributed that its value will be close to $25,000.

Anglican Guild Elects Same Officers For '51

MILLBROOK, Dec. 12 (ENS). —There was a good attendance at the annual meeting of St. Thomas Anglican Guild at the home of Mrs. D. Sheppard. The following slate of officers was returned by acclamation for a second year: president, Mrs. Fred Lowery; vice-president, Miss E. Kent; secretary, Mrs. H. A. Turner, treasurer, Mrs. T. A. Campbell; executive committee, Mrs. Ralph Innis, Mrs. Percy Hamilton and Miss Anna Fair.

A discussion on means of raising money in the coming year followed. It was decided to hold a cold meat supper on January 24.

The Guild will cater for the annual supper and Christmas entertainment in the parish hall for members of the Sunday school and their parents to be held on December 15.

The president expressed her appreciation of the co-operation and interest by the members during the past year.

Mrs. D. Sheppard and Mrs. Howard Lancashire served refreshments.

To See New Process

HALIFAX, Dec. 12 (CP). — Mines Minister A. H. MacKinnon will leave Thursday for Windsor where he will watch five samples of Nova Scotia coal undergo a new low-temperature carbonization process. Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Lil' Arthur King, of Toronto, British Empire lightweight boxing champion, gained an unanimous 10-round decision over Bobby Lloyd of Wilkes Barre, Pen., in Toronto Monday night. King weighed 136¼, Lloyd 137½.

It was dull throughout most of the 10 rounds with neither fighter willing to open it up. King, fighting out of Philadelphia, stalked the Irish southpaw from the opening bell and his best artillery was a right hook to the body.

The bout, built up as a pier six brawl, gavet he 4,000 crowd little to cheer about. It was the third meeting between the two with Lloyd taking the first in Wilkes Barre last September and King evening it up here last month.

Brian Kelly, 132½, Niagara Falls, Ont., won by a technical knockout over Tilton Leblanc, 129, Moncton, N. B., in the sixth round of an eight-round preliminary bout.

In another ring development Monday heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles signed to meet Lee Oma of Buffalo in a 15-round title fight in Madison Square Garden, Jan 12.

It will be the sixth title defence for the Cincinnati cobra. Charles will receive 40 per cent of the gate and Oma 17½. If Oma should win the crown, the two will meet in a return bout within 90 days.

Scores of Canadian track and field records—open and native for various classes of competition — were released for publication today by Jack Davies, chairman of records of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

Records were approved at the recent annual meeting of the big sports body and since have been checked and drawn up in revised form.

Big Bob McFarlane of the University of Western Ontario is credited with recognition of six marks, although his like those for several other athletes, include duplications for open and native marks. His records were set in events ranging from 300 yards to 1,000 yards. Bob was also a member of the university's relay teams credited with five marks.

Toronto's Rich Ferguson has four marks, in senior and junior events of a mile to three miles. Young Jack Clark of Montreal has half a dozen in field competitions.

Youngsters from the North Toronto Track Club were prominent in the junior and juvenile record-setters.

Several American athletes hold marks in the open class, among them Mal Whitfield, Olympic star.

From Vancouver comes a suggestion for an international lacrosse league run along the same lines as the Pacific Coast Hockey League.

Fred J. Hume, co-owner of New Westminster Royals of the PCHL and an executive of New Westminster Salmonbellies of the West-Coast Intercity Senior Lacrosse League, says he believes international lacrosse can be put on the same successful footing as hockey.

The present lacrosse league comprises three Vancouver teams, two from New Westminster and one from Victoria. Hume's plan would be to shift the franchises of two Vancouver and one New Westminster teams to Seattle, Wash., Tacoma, Wash., and Nanaimo, B. C.

District Young People Hold Sunday Services

OMEMEE, Dec. 12 (ENS) — Sunday being National Day for United Church Young Peoples' Unions, the Bethel and Omemee groups were in charge of the afternoon service at Bethel and the evening service at Omemee.

Garnet Pogue assisted by Miss Doris McCarroll conducted the service, and a joint choir of Bethel and Omemee Young People sang five special numbers. Two were spirituals, "Steal Away" and "Amen". The others were "God of Grace and God of Glory," "Fairest Lord Jesus" and "Give Us Thy Peace O God."

Miss Gala Rogers and John Lewis brought messages from National Young Peoples' Council in Belleville, and from the Mid-century World Convention of Christian Education in Toronto, where they were delegates.

Miss Rogers has been well known in presbytery and conference executive groups, and at National Council this year was appointed publications convener of National Young Peoples Council. She shared some of the highlights of the council and told of plans for a change of program in young peoples work, the purpose of which was to lead young people in Christian fellowship and active church membership.

Mr. Lewis said the biggest thing the world conference had done for him was to take away some of his prejudices and make him realize that all men were brothers. By conference with people from 62 countries he learned that church problems were essentially the same everywhere, the church's worst enemy being indifference. But not half the people of the world have heard the gospel, he said, and asked that Christian people would think more seriously about church work in other countries.

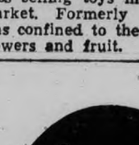
Something to remember

This is one of a series of words and expressions whose origins and meanings are published in the interest of a better understanding, use and knowledge of the English language.

"THIMBLE"



"Thimble", meaning a protective cover for the finger used when sewing, derives from the Anglo-Saxon thymel, a thumb-stall, from the Anglo-Saxon thuma, thumb. The le indicates the instrument itself, and is used commonly in our language, as in hand*le*, from hand.

The early "thimble" was a leather covering, while the Old Norse thumall was the thumb of a glove. Thus the word "thimble"—so called because it was originally worn on the thumb.

Urge Husbands Consulted On Decoration

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

There is someone in the Canadian Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association who apparently takes a defeatist attitude on the place of the male partner in the home. He starts out a piece about home decoration with this sentence.

"There was a time when the man of the house was consulted about the decorating scheme—and that was a good thing".

He doesn't explain his utter acceptance of the past tense, but after a while he gets around to be a sort of marriage-relations counsel, and perhaps that is his way of trying to win back the masculine lost ground. The appeal, however, is distinctly to feminine tolerance. He says:

"Sometimes the loving wife loses sight of the fact that she has a husband who might be interested in the four walls and roof of his dwelling, merely because he's seldom around to talk about them.

May Keep Him Home

"In which case, if she decorates to please herself, she's hardly to be blamed. On the other hand, perhaps a decorating scheme based largely on the use of color, in which a husband is consulted and to which he contributes ideas, may encourage him to spend more time at home...

"In those rooms which to a large extent you share, develop color schemes based on mutual interests. For example, the schemes for the living room and dining room should be the product of discussion and careful planning while the kitchen may be based entirely on your own wishes, for that is where you work and spend a lot of time.

Like A Den

"If you have sufficient space, why not set aside one room as a den or study for him (the husband). Men like large, comfortable chairs—red leather upholstery is attractive highly-polished woods such as mahogany and walnut; deep colors such as laurel green or rust. Never forget that men, in spite of the drab colors which they wear, are just as fond of color as women are".

And so it goes. When it gets to talking about rubbing an oak desk down to the bare wood and bleaching it, it sounds as though a man-about-the-house is distinctly needed.

Perhaps a woman wrote it.

Railways Ask For Fair Deal

MONTREAL, Dec. 12—(CP)—W. A. Mather, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said Monday night that an "understanding of the magnitude of the service to the nation in the past and now and a fair field for every form of transportation are all the railways asks".

"Given these," he said in a prepared address before the Canadian Railway Club, "there is nothing in the future to stand in the way of our providing Canada with the best railway facilities to be found anywhere."

He told the railroaders that a challenge facing them is to continue improving services and at the same time keep down costs to an economic level.

This could be done "providing we are given a fair deal with users of railway service and are able to merit and retain the confidence of investors in railway enterprise".

"Nothing would restore the investors' confidence more than the assurance of prompt and equitable treatment in the matter of freight-rate adjustments".

Ontario Taking Inventory Of Her Forest Resources

An inventory of Ontario's forest resources—the "biggest job of its kind ever attempted"—is nearing completion, the Hon. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, said in a radio address Monday night.

From this inventory will come a "comprehensive plan for the proper harvesting " of Ontario's forest wealth for years to come.

Mr. Scott said the plan would place the province's forest industries on a sustained yield basis.

The forest inventory, latest step in the department's paln to protect Ontario's forests, will mark the termination of "practices which formerly produced ghost towns in Ontario."

Adopting Ontario Methods

Although critics have claimed that too little of the department's revenue was plowed back into protection, conservaiton and renewal of forest resources, Mr. Scott pointed out that the best evidence to the contrary "lies in the fact that similar departments in other countries are studying and adopting other methods.

One of the first steps taken by the department was to cancel pulpwood concessions covering 15,000,000 acres. In a least two cases, pulp companies are operating where formerly there were ghost towns.

But the cancellation of these concessions "we halted an export program that had assumed alarming proportions," said Mr. Scott. "Today, our policies are formulated so as to make for a maximum of home manufacture of our raw forest products, with a steading decreasing export."

"We are intensifying our programs as to reforestation, fire protection and conservation. Each district is in the process of being equipped with projectors for slides and motion pictures as aids to education and to public relations.

Forest Ranger School

"At Dorset, we are operating the largest forest ranger school in the world. Here university students, young men from forest industry, forest rangers and other staff personnel carry on their studies ...(of) the technical and practical aspects of forest administration.

"Our air service and our fire protection service are the largest in the world.

"This costs money, but how can money be spent to better advantage than in a program to ensure the future of our forests and of the industries built around them?"

Mr. Scott told of the department's indebtedness to Maj.-Gen. Howard Kennedy, who as a Royal Commissioner, made an exhaustive study of departmental problems.

(Recently Premier Leslie M. Frost announced appointment of a nine-man committee as suggested by the report of the Royal Commission.)

"His report suggested the appointment of an advisory committee on forestry, its members to be drawn from... ((various) fields," said Mr. Scott, adding that the department would welcome the advice of the committee.

Nurseries in Southern Ontario and tree disease and forest insect laboratories in Northern Ontario are other steps the department has taken to ensure better forest growth in future.

Bow Tie Group Chooses Young As One President

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12—(AP)—Congratulations are in order. Alan Young, the British-born comic formerly of Vancouver, has just been made President of the Businessmen's Society for the Perpetuation and Circulation of Bow Ties.

Congratulate me, too. I have also been named President of the Society.

We have been selected for the honor by Edward Oelsner, an insurance man who is also a president. The Society boasts 100 business and professional men as members—all are president.

The men plan to send President Truman a membership because of his valiant service in popularizing the bow tie. He would be the President President of the Society, of course.

Advantages of Bow

Oelsner said one of the Society's ceremonies is exchanging ties. "Whenever we (members) meet at lunch or dinner, we trade ties. In that way you never get tired of wearing the same tie. And they will go with any color of outfit. That's not true of a four-in-hand."

I asked about the other advantages of a bow tie.

"Why, they make a man look younger," Oelsner replied. "They give him a lift, make him look neat. You'll find that the men who wear them are generally successful in their chosen field."

How It Started

Comedian Young, who has been helping to popularize the bow tie on television, told how he got started on the habit:

"I came down from Canada to New York city in the summer of 1944. It was sweltering weather and I couldn't get cool. Somebody told me I'd feel much cooler if I wore a bow tie, instead of having a long tie dangling on my chest. I tried it, and it worked. I've been wearing them ever since."

Young cited another advantage to the bow: "It's great to hide a collar that's a bit worn or second-day."

Urges Scholarships KeepCleverCanadians

TORONTO, Dec. 12 — (CP) — Establishment of scholarships to prevent talented young Canadians "escaping" to the United States was urged Monday by Edward Johnson, former manager of New York's Metropolitan Opera Association.

Speaking to the Canadian Club, Dr. Johnson, a Guelph native, said Canada should probe "talent deposits in Canadian universities" and "ferret out" youthful talent there.

Dr. Johnson now is chairman of the board of Directors of the Royal Conservatory of Music here.

Send Their Thanks

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 12 (CP) —Windsor, England, has sent its thanks to Windsor, Ont., for Christmas food parcels sent as a gift to needy families in the Old Country city. A shipment of 200 parcels was sent last month, sponsored by the local Goodfellows Club, to be distributed to poor families, and especially to those who lost a father or husband as wage-earner in the Second World War.

To Ration Newsprint

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Dec. 12 — (Reuters) — Sydney and Melbourne newspapers will start a voluntary newsprint - rationing scheme Monday D. F. H. Packer, managing editor of the Sydney Daily Telegraph and Consolidated Press, said today. The scheme would involve cuts of about 25 per cent. Packer is on his way to Vancouver, B.C., to try to speed the delivery of Canadian newsprint.

Don't Approve Scheme

TORONTO, Dec. 12 — (CP) — Highways Department officials said Monday it is "extremely unlikely" that Ontario motorists will be offered five-year driving permits. They were commenting on an announcement that British Columbia permits, except those for minors, will be issued on a five-year basis and will cost $5. They are now issued yearly with a $1 fee.

Making Tour

TORONTO, Dec. 12 — (CP) — Lord Wakehurst, executive head of the Venerable Order of St. John of Jerusalem, reached here Monday on a North American tour. As Lord Prior of the St. John's Ambulance Corps, he plans to visit most of Canada's large cities.

Screened For Loyalty

TORONTO, Dec. 12 — (CP) — All of about 50,000 persons expected, to take part in Toronto's civil defence organization will be screened for loyalty, committee chairman W. J. Stewart said Monday. Chief Constable John Chisholm said that "at a rough guess" he will need from 35,000 to 45,000 wardens and 3,000 to 4,000 auxiliary police.

Seek Permanent Quarters For Seed Fair

Quinte district seed fair is likely to return to Peterborough in 1952 as a permanent agricultural show if suitable arrangements can be made locally with assurance of continuity.

The fair next spring will be held in Blackstock if satisfactory accommodation can be obtained there. Uxbridge is the alternative place for 1951 if Blackstock facilities are not acceptable.

Wilmott Croxall of Uxbridge was chairman of the directors meeting in the office of Frank C. Paterson Monday. Others present were: Stuart Bowman of the federal Department of Agriculture; Ernest McWilliam of Dewart Milling Co.; Robert Armstrong of Cavan; Agricultural Representative E. A. Summers, Bowmanville; O. A. Dalrymple, Stirling; LeRoy Brown, Lindsay and Mr. Paterson.

W. W. Dawson, W. W. Sutton, Robert Bell, assistant Agricultural Representative; Emerson Jennings, Uxbridge, assistant representative in Ontario county; John Rickard of Bowmanville.

Removal of the furnaces from the former drill hall at Morrow Park prevented the directors from deciding to come to Peterborough next spring.

Want Central Location

Departure from the original rotary system of the Quinte District Seed Fair was largely actuated by recognition of advantages of permanent, central location, for which Peterborough was recommended. The Fair here in 1948 was broadened to such an extent in exhibits and attendance that proposals were put forth then to remain in Peterborough for the future.

At the last moment, however, decision was taken to switch the show to Kingston in 1949. It disappointed everybody, but the Fair last year in Lindsay was entirely successful.

Mr. Bowman said that when the Fair was made itinerant a quarter of a century ago, the factor of transportation supported that policy. Since then, the automobile has altered travel, and farmers have no hesitation in driving 50 or 60 miles.

Largest Centre In Area

Peterborough is the largest centre in the Quinte district, with good radial highways, and a strong industrial background including large manufacturing plants interested in agricultural production.

It was assumed in Monday's decision that Peterborough Exhibition would continue in occupation of Morrow Park, assuming chiefly that no national emergency intervened, and the Seed Fair could be developed into the activities of a late winter or early spring agricultural show.

County Warden One Vote Lead In Re-election

Norman Wilson was returned Monday for his seventh successive term as reeve of Burleigh-Anstruther, but this time by the narrow margin of one vote. Mr. Wilson, present warden of Peterborough county, polled 169 votes, and his opponent Norman Bolton 168.

It was one of the closest elections in the township's history and voting was reportedly much heavier than usual.

Albert Bolton, a newcomer, topped the polls in the five-way battle for the four offices of councillor. He got 191 votes. Three members of the 1950 council, candidates again this year, were also elected. They were Earl Trotter 151, Gordon Lane 150, and Andrew Young 149.

The defeated candidate was William Staples, a former councillor, with 133 votes.

Only three votes separated the second, third and fourth councillors.

Chesel McColl, 1950 councillor was not a candidate this year.

The three members of the Burleigh-Anstruther and Chandos township school area, returned by acclamation, are Joseph Tucker, 1950 chairman, and James Reynolds and Roy Hall. The other two trustees who were not up for election this year are Donald Fowler and Ernest Tanner.

It was the first time in 10 years in municipal politics that Mr. Wilson has been opposed.

Red Cross Award Given Minister

The Red Cross Service Award was presented recently to the Rev. Horace Ashmore, formerly of Peterborough, and once a member of All Saints Anglican Church. The award was made by the Saskatchewan branch of the Red Cross for long and diligent service.

Mr. Ashmore organized the Red Cross branch in Paddockwood, Saskatchewan, through whose efforts the first outpost hospital in the world was established.

Mr. Ashmore went to Saskatchewan from Peterborough in 1925, going to the parish of Paddockwood. In 1942 he left there for Loon Lake, Saskatchewan, where through his efforts a nurses' home was built in conjunction with the outpost hospital there.

The service award was presented to Mr. Ashmore at a meeting of the executive committee of the diocese of Saskatchewan by W. W. Whelan and Max Bieber, president and vice-president respectively of the Prince Albert branch of the Red Cross.

While in Peterborough, Mr. Ashmore was a leader in boys' work at all Saints' Church. His wife, the former Gwen Dobbin of Stewart St., was president of the evening branch of the All Saints' Woman's Auxiliary for 10 years, and she is now diocesan president of the Saskatchewan W. A.

Scrap Metal Yard MeetsWithOpposition

"Let's ask Mr. Albert to come here so we can find out exactly what he intends to do," said Ald. Doug Miller, seconding a motion by Ald. J. E. Gillespie deferring action Monday night on an application by H. Albert & Co. to establish a scrap metal yard at the corner of High and St. Mary's Sts.

Ald. E. C. Braund: "You can make up your mind on what he is going to do."

Ald. H. Dodds: "It would be a good idea if the members go and see the property. It looks different from just its location on the map".

City Planning Board recently informed the council it "was not opposing establishment of a scrap yard", but it was to be understood that they were not approving use as a junk yard or place for wrecking cars.

"That's what it will become," said Ald. Herbert Young.

Ald. Adam Sands: "You can't run a scrap metal processing plant without storage accommodation."

The area is zoned for light industry. The application mentioned machine shop and metal processing. It was assumed that processing chiefly meant mechanical pressure for facility in loading scrap metal.

JAMES HENRY DRUMMOND former member of the New York Rangers and the Oshawa and Marlboro Junior hockey teams and a resident of 188 Dublin St. who died today in hospital following a lengthy illness. He was 32 years old.

City Asks For Arbitration In Assessing Cost of Justice

"And the arbitration won't be friendly," was the comment of City Solicitor Huycke about proposed settlement with the county for division of administration of justice costs for the next five years. It was Ald. Adam Sands who inserted the word "friendly" into his motion, seconded by Ald. E. C. Braund, that the apportionment of costs be referred to Judge S. L. Smoke for arbitration.

Ald. Sands said the total charge to the city this year was $22,000 of which the council had already paid $15,000, and it was suggested that $6,000 be paid on account.

City Clerk Outram summarized part of the thinking of the council by saying that at the new city hall the city was providing new quarters for the Crown Attorney, and was assuming all the cost. "Then, we have to pay in addition, two-thirds of the cost of his quarters at the Court House."

Facilities are also being provided for Magistrate Philp at the new city hall, and again the city has to bear all the cost of the hearing of county cases at the city hall.

Allocation of the total cost of administration of justice, including county jail, court house and so on, has to be revised every five years. Last arbitration was in 1925.

Veterans Hold Christmas Party

Turkeys, chickens and cigarettes were raffled off at the annual Christmas party of the CGE Veterans' Association Monday night in the Legion hall. Approximately 350 members jammed the hall to see movies and comedian Jim Millman, of Toronto.

Mrs. J. Walton, 227 McDonnel St., was the winner of the first prize, $10, in the annual Christmas draw, the proceeds of which went to the association's welfare fund. Miss Helen Cummings, 665 Frank. St., won the $75, J. McNulty, 289 Hunter St., $50 and Mrs. R. Heale, 709 Victory Crescent, $25.

Awards of $10 were received in the draw by Joan Stewart, 23 Aylmer St.; Lenore Millar, RR 3, Peterborough; A. Hawthorne, 143 London St.; E. A. Stevenson, 446 O'Connell Road; H. T. Doleman, 499 Rose Ave.; A. McIntyre, RR 3, Keene; Frank Booth, 589 Water St.; D. T. Craig, 780 Chesterfield Ave.; M. D. McKane, 185 Dalhousie St.; Gisele Bernard, 592 George St.

Fifteen turkeys were won by: G. Farthing, G. Graham, D. Pilling, C. Whatley, C. Chapman, A. VanLuven, J. Liberty, J. Heffernan, A. Coombes, A. Mason, G. LaPlante, V. Walling, W. Masters, D. Martin and E. Morris. Consolation prizes of cigarettes and chickens were won by W. Brooke, W. Jackson, F. Welford, R. Flint and A. Thompson.

Comedian Millman of Toronto, entertained the group with jokes, song and led in the singsong. Two movies, Pheasant Island and Four Seasons were shown.

J. E. Girven, assistant works manager, wished the members a merry Christmas on behalf of the company. William Flint, president of the veterans' association, commended the members on their work during the year.

Besides his parents, he leaves his wife, the former Mary Lenore Lewis and four sisters, Mrs. Robert Miller (Mildred) of Cincinnati, O., Mrs. George Shoniker (Anne) of Norwood, Mrs. Ray Higginson (Ruth) of Toronto and Mrs. Joseph Flynn (Mary) of Oshawa. A brother, Jack Drummond, lives in Toronto.

Following this he played for the New York Rangers and then joined the American Hockey League, playing with both Hershey Bears and Philadelphia Ramblers. He was a member of St. Alphonsus Church.

Vacate House By February 1

"We don't want anything to do with dismantling the house," said Ald. Hugh Waddell, Monday night, possibly with vivid memory of the experience months ago with Murney Howe, Picton contractor for the demolition of the block of dwellings for the clearing of the city hall site.

The resolution demanding vacancy by Thomas Hughes of his house at Monaghan Road and McKellar St., west side, goes to the Board of Education with the information that if they want the house removed they will have to get the job done themselves.

Finance committee of the council, with Ald. Waddell presiding Monday night, recommended that Mr. Hughes be given a month's notice on New Year's Day.

"Hughes is now the city council's tenant," said W. F. Huycke, K.C., City Solicitor. "I can give him a month's notice if the council wishes it."

The council is expropriating the Hughes' property for the new Collegiate Institute site.

"I told Mr. Arthur Fair (Hughes' solicitor) today that it was going to arbitration," Mr. Huycke said.

Find Light Bulbs In Unused Theatre

The empty Regent Theatre was Monday evening broken into and several fluorescent lighting tubes stolen and some others broken.

Constable Donald Mackay, making his rounds, checked the door of the theatre on Hunter St. about 7.15 p.m. He found one of the doors unlocked. A bolt holding it had been broken and some of the wood around the bolt broken away.

Percy Noble, caretaker of the building was notified. Pieces of the broken light tubes were strewn about the floor of the theatre lobby.

Removing Snow At Hospital Up To Governors

The chore of snow removal at Civic Hospital was referred by the Finance Committee of the Council back to the Board of Governors Monday night. That was the phrasing of a motion by Aldermen Braund and Gillespie.

Ald. Braund was interpreting literally the implications of the vote on the hospital by-law all through the discussion of the proposed purchase of two tractors for use by the Parks Department, but "doubling" in snow clearance from the parking areas at the hospital.

"The citizens by their votes told us not to spend any more money on the hospital," said Ald. Braund.

The committee authorized purchase of one Ford tractor, at a net cost of $1635.27 for the Parks Department. The other and bigger machine which was intended for the snow job by that same department will remain in dealer hands for the present.

Do Job By Contract

Meanwhile, comes a heavy snow, the city will will keep open the highway to the hospital, but as to clearing the parking areas, it was suggested that the Board of Governors inquire into the cost of having the work done by contract.

Bids for the smaller tractors were: Ford $1,635.27 after deducting $700 on a trade in of the tractor the parks department is replacing; Ferguson tractor $1,574.36.

Armar Butcher, head of the parks department, explained that following the recent order from the council about tenders, he had called on dealers.

The motion by Ald. Braund accepted the higher tender for the Ford because of special attachments mentioned by Mr. Butcher.

"If we're running into a deficit I'm against buying any tractor, but if the money is available from other departments I'll vote for it," Ald. Gillespie said.

Ready For Delivery

Some one remarked that the machine might not be delivered until the first of the year, and payment could lapse until then.

Mr. Butcher said the tractor could be delivered immediately.

Ald. H. Dodds recalled an understanding that the board of works was to do the heavy snowplowing to the hospital and the parks department would keep the parking area clear.

Ald. J. A. Dewart said the Governors of the hospital could let a contract for snow removal if they wished and add that expense to the operating cost, and it would appear in the monthly deficit.

And in the same sense of being 'as broad as it is long', Ald. Waddell, chairman said "if it is not paid for out of this year's taxes, it will be out of next".

Cheaper For City

Ald. Dodds declared that there was no question about economy of the city doing the work by its own department, in preference to letting a contract.

"What I am concerned about," said Ald. Waddell, "is just how much the council is going to become involved in this and other expenditures at the hospital."

Ald. Braund: "I think it might be a good idea if we would have a meeting with the Governors and talk things over".

Ald. Sands suggested the plowing at the hospital might be done by contract this winter as an experiment.

Ald. Miller: "If it costs us $2,000 that way you have to pay it even if it doesn't snow an inch".

Discussion ended in no action on proposed purchase of a second and larger tractor. The Braund motion recommended that the Board of Governors be advised that the problem of snow removal from the parking lot was being referred back to them.

Suitable Place To House Wallis Collection Stumbling Block To Council

With the proferred co-operation of The Lyceum Club and the Women's Art Association in the disposition and care of the sculptured figures, which Miss Katherine Wallis wishes to present to Peterborough, the finance committee of the council Monday night expressed concern about suitability of place for such art. "Where?" was the question of Ald. Doug Miller when he said these art objects should have a worthy and suitable location.

Ald. A. B. Burrows said he understood that Miss Wallis desired her works to be kept together as a collection.

"That has been a difficulty facing the council from the beginning," Mayor Swanston remarked.

Ald. Dewart asked could the council write to Miss Wallis and ask her if she would be satisfied to have her sculpture come here and placed under the care of these associations.

Ald. Miller: "I wonder whether the ladies who have volunteered fully realize the obligation they are assuming. It is a duty they are taking on indefinitely."

Ald. Waddell: "I don't think there is any doubt about that."

It was suggested that Miss Wallis' art might be distributed among such institutions as might be selected from the following: Peterborough Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, Normal School, Public Library, Peterborough's new city hall and the YWCA.

A motion by Ald. Miller and Ald. Burrows proposed on the one hand further consultation with the local women regarding appropriate repository, and on the other the sending of an enquiry to Miss Wallis.

"Maybe the Examiner would like some of them," was the further detail of locale suggested by Ald. Gillespie.

Labor Council Requests Price Controls

A request for the Dominion government to re-impose price controls was made Monday night by the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL).

But while in favor of price controls the labor delegates felt this should not include a "wage freeze." Several stated that government policy indicated that the one would not be imposed without the other.

"Is it possible to have price controls without the wage freeze?" asked Albert Thompson, Local 822, United Textile Workers of America (CCL).

"Possible, yes, but not likely," quipped Irwin Yeo, Local 524, International Union of Electrical Workers (CCL).

William Whibbs, Local 524, IUE, felt there was still room for labor to negotiate contracts for higher wages without pushing up the cost of living.

"I'm not advocating wage freeze," said Mr. Yeo, "but even if we have one the working people will be better off. "During the last couple of years even those unions negotiating wage increases have found them insufficient to keep up with the cost of living."

The subject was introduced by Alfred Barber, president of the council. And the motion to ask the government to put the controls on again passed unanimously.

Tail Of Man's Coat Catches In Corn-picker

When his long overcoat became tangled in the drive shaft of a corn-picking machine, John Perdue, 26, of RR 2, Orono, was whirled around several times before the machine stopped. He is now in Civic Hospital with a broken arm, cuts and bruises.

Perdue stepped on to the corn-picker and long tail of his coat was caught in the machinery, dragging him in with it.

Add 105 Men To Help At Postoffice

The Christmas rush at the local post office is expected to start today, Harry White, postmaster, says.

Last year's increase on December 12 over the same day in 1948 was 18,000 cards and letters through the cancellation machine. Once the flow starts it is expected to increase daily until it reaches the peak on December 18. Mr. White hopes that after that date the mail will ease off and the rush over by December 22.

Add 105 Men

Mr. White said that the staff this year will be increased by 105. Each of the 28 carriers will have an assistant, while the others will help in sorting.

Many of the extra help will be veterans. Through the National Employment office the post office officials will select the men they wish. A few university students who have worked with the post office for the past three to five years will also be employed.

During the war collegiate students helped, but for the past several years they have not been allowed to take time off to work. PCVS students this year will write examinations on December 20 and 21.

Some post office workers today were clearing the second floor for additional floor space to handle the rush. The outgoing mail will be sorted on the first floor and the rural mail in the basement. The city parcels will once again be sorted at the armouries. The outgoing parcels will be handled at the post office.

Overseas Mail Lighter

Mr. White said that the outgoing overseas mail was not as heavy as in previous year. A large English parcel mail arrived at the office Sunday night.

"I have never seen as heavy an English mail," said C. H. Stuart, assistant postmaster.

Korean Refugees Swarm South Like Locusts Ahead Of Chinese

WITH U. S. FORCES IN KOREA, Dec. 12 (AP).—Like locusts, the pitiful victims of this ravaged country are swarming southward toward United Nations lines in perhaps the greatest mass migration of civilians since the Korean war began.

Thousands are streaming from Chinese-occupied territory. Other thousands are pouring out of villages between Communist and allied lines. This chain reaction of men, women and children seeking safety extends to Seoul and on southward.

The longest column seen is on the road between Chaeryong and Haeju, northwest of Seoul. Airmen describe it as tremendous — between 300,000 and 500,000 men, women and children.

No one can give an accurate estimate of the number on the move. United Nations relief officials say 80 per cent of the population in the path of the Communist army in the north is flowing southward. Whole villages are being evacuated.

The Chinese began driving civilians ahead of them when the Reds cracked the allied Chongchon river line last month. Since then the number of refugees has mounted rapidly. Chinese occupation of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, provided new impetus for the flight down the peninsula.

The Chinese are using civilians as a protective screen in both northeast and northwest Korea. The refugees clog the tortuous mountain roads, impeding military traffic.

Eighth army headquarters reports that enemies are mixing with the refugees for protection from devastating allied aerial assaults.

The gigantic river of sorrow flows about 20 miles in a 24-hour period. As it moves through villages it seems to pick up all the inhabitants; they fall into line, carrying their meagre possessions on their heads or backs, or in crude carts.

It is a heartrending picture Even children are burdened with packs. The youngest toddle along as best they can.

Says Cease-Fire 1st Peace Move

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Dec. 12 (CP)—L. B. Pearson said Monday night that a cease-fire in Korea must be the first step in the settlement of the Korean and other Asiatic problems.

Canada's External Affairs Minister, in a broadcast over the CBC network, made the statement in answering questions of various foreign correspondents at the United Nations.

He said, however, that Canada's support of any future UN resolution calling for a cease-fire would depend on what "strings" were attached to it.

Asked by Henryk Gall of the Polish Press Agency if Canada's support of possible future negotiations in Korea would stop short at the problem of admitting Red China to the UN. Pearson replied ". . . we should not exclude from negotiations any pertinent subject."

However, Canada would want to find out first what the reaction of the Chinese Communist government was to the whole idea of negotiation, "and when we find out from them what they consider to be essential conditions of negotiation, we'll be in a better position to decide whether those conditions are in fact pertinent . . ."

He said to Arnold Vas Xinz, of the Nieuwe Rotterdamse Courant, that Canada's policy is not one of appeasement.

Max Beer, France-Amerique, asked Pearson if he believes both peace and the prestige of the UN can be saved.

Pearson expressed hope that both could be accomplished, and said:

"We know what happened to the League of Nations when the powers began to negotiate outside the league and betrayed their obligations under the League covenant.

"Somehow we have to reconcile our obligation as members of the UN with the paramount desire we all have for peace. That's going to be a tough problem . . ."

Pearson refuted a suggestion put forward by Chester Manley of the Chicago Daily Tribune that other nations, including Canada, had failed in the ideal of collective security.

He said other nations are trying "in the measure of their resources," to help the large United States contribution to the Korean action."

China itself, Pearson said, was not likely to become a servant of the Kremlin, in the sense that Poland and Bulgaria are.

Women Capture Top Places In Ontario Civic Elections

By The Canadian Press.

Women captured the office of chief magistrate of at least three municipalities, and four others won a voice on the council in Ontario civic elections Monday.

The victorious candidates were led by Reeve Ann Shipley who was re-elected for a ninth consecutive term by the voters of Teck township which administers the municipal affairs of Kirkland Lake.

But Mrs. Marjorie Hamilton, a 51-year-old widow, stole the show by becoming the first mayor of Barrie after serving three years in the aldermanic post.

Mrs. Helen McKenzie shared the spotlight on her election to the reeveship of the town of Beaverton. Mrs. Thelma Field, 47-year-old law office worker, won election to the council of Aurora. She is the first to win a seat on the council.

Mrs. N. Carter won one of the six aldermanic posts on the Orillia town council in an election which saw Mayor J. Austin Cook defeated by Alderman W. M. Cramp by more than 300 votes.

Voting in suburban Toronto municipalities saw the election of Mrs. Marie Curtis as deputy reeve of Long Branch, while Mrs. Dorothy Hague won the same office by acclamation in Swansea.

Split On Sunday Sport

Commercialized Sunday sport was approved by the voters of Teck township and the town of Cochrane in Northern Ontario, but the city of North Bay turned it down by a vote of 2,764 to 1,603.

Mrs. Shipley defeated M. T. Maguire by nearly 1,000 votes. It was his second try for the office, having lost out by 39 votes in 1949. Mrs. Shipley polled 2,631 votes to 1,693 for her lone opponent.

Barrie's mayor-elect, who describes herself as "a brunette turned slightly grey," was taken for a triumphant ride in a cutter through the town's snow-covered streets. Following were a band and a long line of automobiles.

Mrs. Hamilton is president of the Simcoe Centre Progressive Conservative Association. She succeeds Mayor J. Edwin Wilson, who did not seek re-election, and won by more than 1,000 votes for C. J. Griffin.

Heavy Voting

At Stayner, the heaviest voting in years saw the election of five candidates who opposed the 1950 council's police policy whereby provincial police superseded the previous system of two local constables.

Charles H. Price was elected mayor of Fort Erie, polling 1,122 votes to 464 for John Taylor.

There was no mayoralty race at North Bay, Mayor T. M. Palmer having been returned by acclamation, but 15 candidates contested the 10 aldermanic seats.

Voters voted against allowing circuses, midways and side shows to operate in the city. A $50,000 street-widening program was approved; also another money by-law providing the recreational council with an annual grant amounting to one mill of the tax rate.

Germans Trying To Regain Wine Market

By GUY BETTANY.

BONN, Dec. 12 (Reuters). — The German wine industry, founded by the Romans some 2,000 years ago, is trying to regain its lost foreign markets and to help rebuild Germany's shattered economy.

Two world wars have sadly shaken the foreign demand for German wines. Before 1914, 22,000,000 bottles were exported every year. Last year, German wine experts amounted to a mere trickle of 2,000,000 bottles.

The United States used to be the largest consumer of German wines; Britain was second, and large consignments went to Holland, Belgium, Russia, Austria, Hungary and Switzerland.

Since the Second World War, tastes have changed and customs barriers have risen, in some cases to prohibitive heights. This year's German wine harvest, however, is expected to be of good quality.

One of Difficulties

One of the difficulties confronting German wine growers is the great number of varieties, for under German law the origin of all varieties must be correctly described. A German wine list looks like a gazetteer, with a bewildering number of place names —many unfamiliar even to the average German.

The area under vines in Germany is only 150,000 acres, which is small in comparison to France and Italy. There are about 120,000 vineyards, giving work to about 500,000 persons. Taking into account all related activities, including insect fighting, making sparkling wines and merchandising, about 1,000,000 persons make their living from the grape.

Brushing Up

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 — (AP)—Communist China's delegation to the United Nations bought $88 work of books on atomic energy, the United States armed forces and other military subjects from a Manhattan book store last week, the New York Herald Tribune reported Monday night. The purchase also included one volume of etiquette.

RAILROAD CITY

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Evidence that St. Thomas is still very much of a railroad city is seen in a local jewelry store which regularly checks timepieces. Approximately 800 railroaders turn in their watches every month for checking.

Yuletide Exams Big Worry For New Mayor

TORONTO, Dec. 12 (CP)—The immediate plans of Windsor's new mayor are "to get the Christmas exams over—without a recount, I hope."

Tom Brophey, 43-year-old former newspaperman who quit his job with he Windsor Star two years ago to study law, was referring in an interview to the closeness of the Dec. 6 Windsor civic election.

There, in a see-saw struggle, he defeated civic veteran Mayor Arthur Reaume by 38 votes. Now, in a quick change of pace, he's here to face another test—the Christmas law examinations at Osgoode Hall.

He isn't too worried about the results of the exams, which he'll finish Dec. 30, though he won't know how he made out for another two months. He passed with honors in his first year.

But the Windsor results are another matter, though the stocky, greying mayor-elect doesn't think any recount would unseat him. He is scheduled to take office Jan. 2. Mayor Reaume hasn't formally requested a recount but is expected to make an announcement next week.

Needs Another Year

Mr. Brophey needs another year at Osgoode before becoming a lawyer. He said he eventually hopes to be called to the bar and to practice law in earnest "if and when I retire from politics."

"After all, a man with a family (he has four children) must get something steady."

He'll be seeing his family at Christmas as he has on successive weekends, travelling to Windsor by train.

He skirted questions about his plans as chief magistrate of Ontario's fourth largest city (population 105,000), but he didn't think a mayor "should be a professional politician. It's an honor which everybody should have a chance at and which should be passed around."

That was one of the reasons why "I planned a couple of weeks ago to smash the Reaume machine—and did it, I hope."

In his "poor man's" campaign (he had sold his car) he travelled to meetings by bus.

"Our headquarters was my living room and my brother's, next door. The sign we used for the headquarters was one salvaged from my campaign of two years ago."

Engineers Chart Niagara Rapids

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Dec. 12—(AP)—For the first time in history, the swirling rapids above Niagara Falls have been beaten by the chartmakers.

The district office of the United States corps of engineers said Monday the problem was solved with a 2,000-foot wire line, a couple of weights and a heli copter.

Col. Herman W. Schull, Jr., district engineer, said it was the first time to his knowledge that such rapids had been sounded, surveyed and charged accurately.

The problem arose in connection with the army's full-scale survey of the Niagara River from Lake Erie to the Falls. The survey was undertaken to get data for a model to be used in planning river development under a recent treaty between the United States and Canada.

PCVS Key Club held its first dance of the '50-'51 season in the Collegiate gymnasium Saturday evening.

The Crystal Ball, from which the dance received its name, was the novelty and main attraction of the evening. Suspended from the centre of the ceiling was the revolving mirrored ball about three feet in diameter, colored lights played on the ball from four sides and reflected moving stars all over the walls and floor throughout the dance.

About 250 enjoyed the evening with dance music supplied by a Toronto trio of musicians regularly featured as the Casa Loma. Part of the gym was arranged in cabaret style for refreshments and the boys and girls took turns serving.

Door prizes for the girls were donated by Mr. and Mrs. Al. Plaskett and the winners were Doona Munro and Jean DeNure. Mr. Plaskett is president of the Kiwanis Club which sponsors the Key Clubs of the city.

Spot dance prizes were won by Marlene Wright and Bob Jamieson, Lorraine Derry and Bob Gandy, Marlene O'Brien and Vic O'Connor.

LONDON (CP).—A long-term contract for permanent waves, a new idea by a leading London hair stylist, is a welcome innovation for tight purse-strings.

Instead of a separate charge for every permanent wave needed, an initial payment assures as many as required in a year.

This type of service will end the old unhappy cry: "don't cut my perm."

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Vegetables Worthily Cooked Will Retain their Colors

George Rector said that no painter worthy of his name ever fails to dash off, at least once in his career, a still life consisting of a bunch of limpleeks, ditto of carrots, a big red tomato and a pile of Brussels sprouts—to emphasize the intimate connection between high art and a boiled dinner.

Of course, we are artists too, and know that vegetable colors (unless they are boiled to death) are second only to flowers for beauty.

On Christmas day all eyes will be on his lordship the turkey—but like the chorus surrounding the baritone in a musical comedy—he must have his beautiful bevy of vegetables to strut his stuff effectively.

Girls, keep your vegetables beautiful by almost undercooking them. It is the only way vegetables can look and taste beautiful. This is so true of those expensive green beauties, Brussels sprouts and broccoli. It hurts to think how they will be massacred to an olive green pulp on Christmas day by numberless careless cooks.

Brussels Sprouts

To shorten cooking time, with point of sharp knife remove the middle of the core at bottom of sprouts—but not enough to let leaves fall. Cook, covered, in unsalted water to barely cover, for 10 minutes. A very large sprout may require 12 minutes. If they are cooked longer or in salted water, or uncovered they will inevitably turn that sickly olive shade. Serve with:

Never-Fail Hollandaise (use this for both broccoli and Brussels sprouts)

Beat 2 egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored with hand or electric beater. Add ½ teaspoon salt and shake of cayenne. Have ready ½ cup melted butter, and add 3 tablespoons of it to the beaten egg, slowly, while you beat. Slowly add the remainder of the melted butter alternately with 1 tablespoon of lemon juice a little of both at a time. If this is not used at once, keep it cold, and reheat over warm, not hot, water.

Broccoli

Trim off some of the tough skin on the sides of the stalk, cut off about one-quarter inch of the base, and soak the broccoli in warm water about 2 minutes, to float out dirt or possible worms. Place stem end in 3 inches boiling water, cover, and cook 15 minutes and test. Do not cook one moment longer after it feels fairly, but still crisply tender. Sprinkle with salt just before serving. Best with Hollandaise (see above).

Favorite Vegetable Combination

Cook separately before they are needed, 2 cups each cauliflower flowerets about one inch big; strips of green beans 2 inches long and ¼ inch wide; carrots cubed in ½ or ⅜ inch cubes. Do not overcook any of these vegetables. About 15 minutes before serving time put these in top of double boiler in which you have a sauce made thus: Melt 4 tablespoons butter, add 2 tablespoons cornstarch and when blended stir in 1½ cups boiling water and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Add ½ teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley, and stir until thick. After the vegetables are added cover and heat through, stirring about twice before they are heated through.

90 Years Old, Drives Jeep Over Rough Roads

GALIANO ISLAND, B. C., — (CP)—Mrs. Edith Jackson, now 90 years old, is one of the most active women in these parts.

She enjoys driving around in a jeep and makes a weekly trip of five miles over rough roads to the store. Three years ago she motored around the 400-foot cliffs overlooking Active Pass entrance —the first time an auto had been driven over that section.

When friends called on her birthday, they found her upholstering a chair without the aid of glasses.

DOROTHY DIX

Wise Girl Considers Man's Drawbacks Before Marriage

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think it possible for a girl to be in love with a man and yet question her chances of being happy with him if she marries him? Would she wonder if she would be able to get along amicably with a man when she had to manage on insufficient funds? And would she be able to maintain diplomatic relations with her in-laws, who have already announced their intention of coming to live with her if she marries their son and to let her and John support them, although they are young and amply able to work themselves?

Dorothy Dix

I am a school teacher nearing 30 and am obsessed with these doubts, particularly as the young man is one of the kind who is totally lacking in thrift and far-sightedness. I would have to give up my job as a teacher if I married him. But does the fact that I consider these material thinks indicate that I am not in love?

DOUBTING THOMASINA

ANSWER: Your stopping to look before you leap into matrimony simply indicates that you are taking cousel of your head as well as your heart. If more girls would do that, we should have fewer divorces and millions less of unhappy and discontented wives.

Is It Worth The Price?

Any girl who has a grain of sense in her head should do exactly what you are doing before marriage. She should sit down, as you are doing, and calmly and dispassionately consider the pros and cons of the marriage she is contemplating making and see what she is going to get out of it, and whether it is worth the price.

In your case there is love and romance and being able to write "Mrs." before your name, if that is any satisfaction. On the other hand, there is a man who has shown that he has little ambition and no money saved up. If you marry him, you will have to give up your salary as a teacher and be poorer than you have been and do harder work than you have ever done. And, in addition, you will have the affliction of living with your in-laws and having to support them.

Nothing but the greatest and most overwhelming passion for the man could justify you in making such a marriage. So, if you have a single doubt about the state of your affections, you had better stay on the safe side of the altar.

DEAR MISS DIX: What should a man do when he falls in love with his best friend's wife? The husband thinks the sun rises and sets in his wife, and, of course, knows nothing of this affair. The wife appears to be happy with her husband and does not show her feelings to the other man, but anyone can see that they are eating their hearts out for each other. The only reason they are hiding their love is because they don't want to hurt the husband. What do you advise? E. S.

ANSWER: That they should go on hiding their love and acting like the honorable people they seem to be. I have never been able to see why the rules of common honesty do not apply just as much to matters of sentiment as they do to material things.

We all want things that other people have. But that does not give up the right to steal them. Those who cannot have love honestly should not take it by theft.

It is an axim in police circles that thieves seldom profit much from their loot. The same holds good of stolen love. You can't build a house of happiness that will last on the home you have wrecked.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am engaged to be married to a man whom I have deceived about my age. I am four years older than he is, but I have made him believe that I was only one year older, and now I feel that I ought to tell him my actual age. I am the small dark type and look young for my age. He is settled and looks old for his, and I believe the difference in age would make no difference in our happiness. How do you think a man feels about such a situation? Shall I tell or not?

TWENTY-NINE

ANSWER: If he is a reasonable man, I don't think he will give it a second thought, but if you are ever going to tell him, do it before you marry. Nobody takes a woman's lying about her age seriously. We all do it.

Women's Suits Main Feature In English Salon

By MURIEL NARRAWAY.

LONDON — (CP).— Lachasse, a fashion house which moved into London's "Big Ten" of Couture when Molyneux moved out, specializes in suit fashions for every hour.

In contrast to Edward Molyneux, who designed many magnificent court ball gowns for the members of the Royal Family before closing his London salon for reasons of health, Lachasse puts the stress on day and cocktail wear.

Lachasse designer, Michael, says his present line is neat waists, cutaway fronts and very slim skirts.

"Customers grumble," says Michael, who refuses to be known by any other name, "but skirts must be slim.

"For every Englishwoman the danger lies in wearing too many bits and pieces. Good clean lines, almost stark, will create effect."

A typical example is a town suit in fine black wool with slim skirt and neatly-waisted jacket. "Exit appeal" is given by black velvet applique running from shoulders to hips of the jacket, in a herring-bone effect. Worn with plain high-heeled pumps and a tiny, unadorned velvet skull-cap, the suit is right for any occasion.

Accessories Vital

Accessories and hats must be simple. "So many women expect their dressmaker to do everything for them," Michael told the Canadian Press. "True elegance is a matter of co-operation between the designer and wearer."

This means accessories that play up the design of the suit, that compliment by simplicity instead of confusing by over-elaborated detail. Hats should be either extremely large or extremely small.

Suits are made in everything from silks to velvets to meet all necessities, but dresses with matching jackets are also part of the collection. These too have slim skirts, but many of the jackets are loose and swinging with wide sleeves and big revers.

Lachasse, who has been in business 20 years, has many Canadian customers, individuals who come to him for stark simplicity of design.

6—In Memoriams

TURNBULL—In loving memory of a loving father and mother who passed away December 12 and December 27, 1949.
You went without farewell,
And said goodbye to none,
But heaven's gate was open wide
And a loving voice said "Come."
We often sit and think of you,
When we are all alone,
No one on earth can take your place,
The grief is all our own.
Days of sadness still come over us,
Tears of sadness often flow,
Memory keeps you ever near us,
Since you've gone one year ago.
—Sadly missd by family.

WEESE—In proud and loving memory of Capt. Donald E. Weese, who died in action in Italy, December 12, 1944.
Just when your life was brightest,
Just when your years were best,
You were called from this world of sorrow,
To a home of eternal rest.
—Ever remembeed by his mother, dad, sisters and brother.

WHETUNG—In loving memory of dad, who passed away Dec. 12, 1949.
We cannot clasp your hand, father dear,
Your face we cannot see,
But let this little token
Tell that we still remember thee.
—Ever remembered by daughter Iona and husband.

WHETUNG—In loving memory of my grandfather, E. R. Whetung, who passed away Dec. 12, 1949.
Beautiful memories are all I have left,
I loved him so dearly, he was one of the best,
Gone and forgotten by some he might be,
But always remembered, dear grandpa, by me.
—Ever remembered by his only grandson, Wallace Montgomery.

WHETUNG—In loving memory of Roy Whetung, Sr., who passed away one year ago today, December 12, 1949.
One year today our father was called,
To his eternal rest;
Gone where the angels sing so sweet,
And taken when God knew best.
We miss him here so very much,
His presence oft seems nigh,
But we all hope in heaven to meet,
Where no one says good-bye.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife, family and grandson.

Toronto Economist Made Steel Boss

OTTAWA, Dec. 12 (CP)—Kenneth Harris, an economist of Toronto and Winnipeg, will be placed in charge of the government's controls on steel, it was learned today. An announcement is expected Friday.

Mr. Harris, 37, was a research director in the Munitions Department and an economist in the Prices Board during the Second World War.

Immediately after the war, he was associated with the Harvard School of Business and as assistant dean.

Mr. Harris will take over the steel job held temporarily by Denis Harvey, the trade department's commodities director.

Steel controls, banning the sale of steel for non-essential construction, go into effect Jan. 1.

Eskimo Diet Causes Concern

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP).—Family allowances are changing the Eskimo's eating habits, says Dr. J. R. Moody, and the change is for the worse.

Everywhere the white man's food is eagerly sought by the natives, Dr. Moody told a service club luncheon meeting.

But the native food of the far north is unbeatable for the Arctic life—fish in July and August; caribou in fall and winter; seal meat in the spring. Natives who eat a lot of raw meat are well supplied with all the requirements of a healthful diet, the doctor said.

Authtorities were reluctant to discourage the natives from eating the white man's food, in view of widespread contamination of native meat that came to light in surveys made after outbreaks of disease several years ago.

But the natives have had to be warned against excessive use of flour and sugar, and their method of cooking which involves loss of vitamins.

Dr. Moody, now on the staff of the Indian hospital in North Battleford, spent 3½ years as a field medical officer in the eastern Arctic, based at Chesterfield Inlet. He travelled 20,000 miles through the far north by airplane, dog team and canoe.

Cut Down Estimate Of Marine Casualties

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP).—Marine headquarters today scaled down its estimates of the casualties suffered by the 1st Marine Division in breaking out of the Chinese Communist trap in the Changjin reservoir area of Korea.

The Marines put the figure at 3,000 to 3,300 and said the number includes those disabled by sickness and exposure to winter weather. Actual battle losses—in killed, wounded and missing — were esimated at about half the total. Earlier casualty estimates ranged up to 6,500.

London Factories Operate Boxing Day

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 12 (CP)—Majority of factories in London will operate on Boxing Day this year, while a majority of retail stores will close, it was shown today in a preliminary survey made by the London Chamber of Commerce.

Hugh E. Smith, secretary manager, said factory workers for the most part would have a Christmas season stretching from Friday at closing time through Saturday, Sunday and Monday until work begins again Tuesday morning, Dec. 26.

Retail employees on the other hand, will work on Saturday and will be off from closing time that day until stores open again Wednesday morning, Dec. 27.

Farm Forum Meets

LILY LAKE, Dec. 12 (ENS) — The Lily Lake Farm Forum was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Finley with a good attendance. The subject of discussion was security for farm labor. It was decided that owing to the quality of farm labor available, mechanized farming had taken its place, and also that most farmers could not afford to hire help on a year-round basis.

Lily Lake WA

LILY LAKE, Dec. 12 (ENS) — The Christmas meeting of the Lily Lake W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Ken Darling with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. Evans McConkey, was in charge and read the Christmas story. Mrs. Wm. Steinkrauss led in prayer. At the close of the meeting gifts were received from a prettily decorated Christmas tree and a Christmas dinner was served by the hostess.

NORTH KOREAN CIVILIANS fleeing Pyongyang ahead of the advancing Chinese Reds jam river boats as other refugees await their turns on their flight southward. The mass exodus of civilians complicated matters for the retreating United Nations troops by jamming highways along the route of retreat. Pyongyang, former North Korean capital, was abandoned as UN troops withdrew to new defence positions to the south.

143 Cargoes Iron Ore Left Head Of Lakes

FORT WILLIAM, Dec. 12 (CP)—Lifting of insurance coverage on lake ships at midnight tonight signals a halt to the 1950 navigation season.

Eight ships still are loading but it is expected they will clear for the east before the midnight insurance deadline. One grain carrier is expected tomorrow and likely will be loaded before the end of the week.

The shipping season started late this year—April 29—but the number of grain cargoes clearing the lakehead ports of Fort William and Port Arthur will top the 1,000 mark.

In addition, 143 cargoes of iron ore from the Steep Rock iron mines at Atikokan, midway between Lakehead and Fort Frances, were loaded at the Port Arthur ore dock. An ore-shipping record of 1,215,000 tons was established.

Ask Reporters Be More Careful

TOKYO, Dec. 12 — (AP). — War correspondents today were given a new list of "suggestions" on how to protect military security.

Col. M. P. Echols, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's press officer, explained this was necessary because the "new war" against the Chinese Reds in Korea made secrecy more important.

He said there would be no formal censorship, however.

He listed these suggestions which he said would protect Allied security if closely observed:

1—"No information concerning planned activities should be given out, or moves in progress."

2—"No enemy movements with respect to our boundaries, weakness in our positions or undefended portions of our lines."

3—"No information concerning the effectiveness of specific items in enemy or United Nations material."

4—"No report of activities or locations of friendly troops except in terms of divisional units or separate United Nations forces and then only when the unit is in firm contact with the enemy."

The new outline of what headquarters considers of security importance parallels but expands previous suggestions to correspondents.

Inflation Force Will Grow Bank Predicts

TORONTO Dec. 12 — (CP) — Stanley M. Wedd, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, today summed up the Canadian situation as follows:

"Two distinct trends have emerged within the past year—the hesitation in business activity which was beginning to appear during the first half of the year and which was arrested by the outbreak of war in Korea; and the upturn which followed".

Addressing the bank's annual meeting, he added:

"The latter phase directs our attention to the significant fact that an expanding economy such as ours responds quickly to outside influences.

"At present we are by no means on a war basis, yet we are not all employed in peaceful pursuits. The degree to which we may alter this existing division in the economy depends upon forces beyond our control".

Conditions Different

Of the outlook, however, he stated:

'We enter into a preparedness program under conditions far different from those of the early days of the Second World War. We know that manpower and resources are being fully utilized and consequently the diversion of men and material for military production is bound to cause strains.

"The expansion of our economy during the past year makes it possible to meet the requirements immediately in sight without distorting the pattern of civilian production; should we find it necessary to expand military commitments beyond those recently established, then inflationary stresses will become still more insistent.

"Events of recent weeks have served to emphasize the uncertainties that lie ahead. Undoubtedly three major tasks face us: To ensure a continuation of economic stability under conditions of military preparedness; full co-operation and assistance towards the mitigation of the basic causes of unrest; and war and also the expansion of trade which is basic to the maintenance of our well-being."

The collision took place just east of the railway tracks which run up the centre of Bethune Street.

Country Doctor Saves Many At Train Wreck

EDMONTON, Dec. 12 (CP) — The dramatic story of how a country doctor teamed up with a group of soldiers in a battle with death after a train wreck on a bleak mountainside was unfolded here today as the board of transport commissioners opened a hearing into the Canoe River train wreck.

Twenty-one persons were fatally injured in the disaster, a head-on collision of a troop train and a passenger train, 312 miles west of here on Nov. 21.

The details of how the survivors labored to aid the injured in heatless train coaches were related in matter-of-fact medical terms by young Dr. P. J. Kimmitt of Edson, Alta.

A passenger on the eastbound flyer, he was the only doctor on the scene for three hours and directed the care of more than 50 men—10 critically injured— with limited medical equipment and little trained aid.

The injured were accommodated in berths and on makeshift beds, sheets were torn to supplement the limited supply of dressings, and sedatives were given to those in greatest pain until the train could be moved back down the mountain slope to hospital centres.

Had No Plasma

Dr. Kimmitt said there was no blood plasma on the troop train and none on a relief train which arrived at the wreck from Jasper about three hours after the crash.

The inquiry opened in the Edmonton courthouse before Mr. Justice M. B. Marchibald, chief commissioner; Armand Sylvestre, deputy chief commissioner; and F. M. McPherson, commissioner.

Other witnesses gave particulars of an overlapping train order that led to the crash, the tpye of terrain at the spot and restricted visibility on the sharp curve where the trains met.

A. E. Tisdale, train dispatcher at Kamloops, B.C., told of relaying the train order by telephone to Blue River, B.C., 49 miles west of Canoe River, and to Red Pass Junction, 40 miles east of Canoe River.

It instructed the troop train to meet the passenger (No. 2) at Cedarside, near Canoe River, and another passenger train (No. 4) at Gosnel, 20 miles further west.

Order Corrrect

Tisdale said he transmitted the order by telephone simultaneously to Blue River and Red Pass Junction, that it was properly repeated back to him as required by regulations, and he received confirmation that it had been passed to both trains.

Other testimony showed the passenger train received the order correctly, but the order to the trooper omitted the words "at Cedarside," giving the impression that it would meet both passengers at Gosnell. The trooper steamed past Cedarside and met the passenger train as it came downgrade for the expected rendezvous at Cedarside.

Dr. Kimmitt said the work of the army was "very commendable." There was no undue excitement as the work of caring for the injured went swiftly ahead.

Eighty-five per cent suffered burns, apparently due to immersion in hot water or being enveloped by steam. A civilian nurse and a civilian qualified in first aid volunteered help as he went from one patient to the next, prescribing treatment and bandages.

Soldiers were detailed to bandage their comrades. Others ripped up sheets. First-aid kits contained some dressings and tubes of ointment labelled "for burns" which was the only medication used.

Splints were placed on suspected arm and leg fractures. Those with injured backs were told to lie face down pending a check of their backs.

Ten dead soldiers and one dead railwayman were taken to separate cars. Those in the greatest pain were given sedatives and a soldier was detailed to watch each.

Men Tagged

After the first check of the injured, Dr. Kimmitt said he immediately began the rounds again having cards attached to each man stating his injuries and the care given. This was intended to aid doctors when the men reached hospital.

He said the men remained warm although heat to the cars had been cut off by the wreck. (Some was supplied later by an emergency locomotive from Red Pass Junction.)

About three hours after the wreck, sandwiches and coffee was provided for those whose condition permitted them to eat.

Dr. Kimmitt was relieved by two Jasper doctors until the train reached the mountain resort. At Jasper, a supply of plasma was obtained.

He said there were six bottles of pencillin on the train when he started to work, but he had no syringe to administer it. When he finally got one, only one bottle could be found. The original supply would have been enough for 60 men for 24 hours.

The available supply was given to those most needing it.

As the train left Jasper, Dr. Kimmitt again took over from the two Jasper doctors and attempted to administer plasma as the train rolled eastward. He said it was very difficult."

"I saw two more men die between Jasper and Edson," he said. A relief train from Edmonton with army doctors and nurses met the hospital train at Edson.

Under questioning by Mr. Kerr, Dr. Kimmitt said that nothing was left undone that could have been done under the circumstances at the wreck scene.

Canadian Political Ranks Greatly Thinned By Deaths During 1950

OTTAWA, Dec. 12— (CP) — Death removed many notable Canadian political figures during 1950.

Former prime minister Mackenzie King died at 75 on July 22. The great Liberal leader, whose 21-year tenure of office set a Commonwealth record, died quietly at his summer home in nearby Kingsmere after a period of semi-invalidism. With him died an era that stretched back over three decades of Canadian political history.

The former prime minister had retired from the political scene before the 1948 general election. He was honored with a state funeral in the capital and was buried beside his father and mother in Toronto's Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Colleagues Die

Two of Mr. King's cabinet colleagues also died during the year.

One was big, jovial Humphrey Mitchell, Labor Minister, who died 10 days after Mr. King in an Ottawa hospital where he had gone for a routine check-up. He had been associated with Mr. King in the Cabinet since 1941. He was buried in Ottawa after a state funeral.

Hon. James Allison Glen one-time speaker of the Commons who was Resources Minister from 1945 to 1948, died in June from a heart ailment from which he had suffered for several years. Before his death, he was Canadian Chairman of the International Joint Commission.

Five senators and four members of the House of Commons or former members, died during the year.

The senators were Charles Ballantyne, Progressive Conservative from Quebec; George Burpee Jones, Progressive Conservative from New Brunswick; J. Arthur Lesage, Liberal from Quebec; Antoine J. Leger, Progressive Conservative from New Brunswick, and Edouard St. Pere, Liberal from Quebec.

The Commoners were Gleason Belzile, Liberal member for Rimouski, and parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott; T. L. Church, veteran Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Broadview, and Maurice Hartt, Liberal member for Montreal Cartier.

John R. MacNicol the globe-trotting former Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Davenport, who was defeated in the 1949 federal election, died in in June.

Death also struck at the capital's diplomatic ranks. Laurence Steinhardt, United States Ambassador to Canada, was killed March 28 when a U. S. Embassy plane crashed near Ottawa while flying Mr. Steinhardt to New York.

One man prominent in government circles far from Canada's shores. He was Alex Skelton, 44, assistant deputy minister of Trade and Commerce and one of the country's foremost economists, who was drowned in a yachting accident at Lagos, Nigeria. He had been on loan to a British Royal Commission studying Nigeria's revenue system.

MIDDLE EAST MASTER KEY—Since 1945, when Britain was prepared to renounce her Treaty rights to keep a garrison in the Suez Canal zone in Egypt, world events have vastly increased the importance of that zone, which is the master key in a key area.

Through the Suez Canal run the routes between the Middle Eastern States and their sources of supply, as well as the world traffic between Europe and the Far East.

The three "roof-level" defence areas of Greece, Turkey, and Russia now receiving military aid and equipment from the West depend upon the Canal as their supply line.

The Canal is, therefore, not only the last line of defence in the Middle East, but is vital also for the defence of the first and second lines.

Marmora CWL Show Film On Pope's Life

MARMORA, Dec. 12—(ENS)—A large audience was present in the new Sacred Heart parish hall on Friday evening for the showing of the film, "The Story of the Pope," sponsored by the Catholic Women's League and their director, Rev J. A. O'Neill. The introduction in the film was given by His Eminence Cardinal Spellman of New York, and the story was narrated by Rev. Monsignor Fulton J. Sheen.

Those present who were not privileged to attend the Holy Year ceremonies in Rome this year, were able to visualize on the screen the setting of the Vatican and grounds, the great basilica of St. Peter's with its beautiful works of art.

Also depicted were the great numbers who come daily for an audience with the Pope.

Bull Fight Fans Cause Argument In Africa

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Sport fans in the Transvaal are deserting football for bullfights with the same enthusiasm that Spaniards are deserting bullfights for football.

Johannesburg, Pretoria and other towns provide a cavalcade of hundreds of motorcars for every "corrida" held across the border in Lourenco Marques, capital of Portuguese East Africa, a round trip of 700 miles.

The Afrikanders are said to be even more enthusiastic than the Portuguese "afficionados" and the bullring resounds with Dutch ejaculations.

When the South African fan conducts his sporting post-mortems the talk is as likely to be about a favorite caballero and his dart work as the last heavyweight fight.

The vogue has aroused considerable controversy, with resounding sniffs from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The afficianados fight a battle royal against the disapprovers in the sporting columns of the newspapers.

Some Transvaalers dashed off angry letters of denunciation the day the first modest bullfight report crept into the sports pages, somewhere near the bottom. Typical was one letter which asked "why has this disgraceful abuse of animals been brought here? I suppose for lucre and to pander to depraved tastes."

One of the fans replied: "If an animal must die in its prime let it die in glorious passion. The writer (of the earlier letter) shows a craven lack of self-control when he is contronted with the thought of blood. He will eat meat, but others must kill it."

The controversy spread across the border and brought the Portuguese afficionados leaping into the ring.

One of the more diplomatic thrusts was a letter from J. B. Perreira of Lourenco Marques who said "we Portuguese consider it a breach of friendship and a want of gratitude on the part of certain South Africans to criticize publicly our habits and ways of thinking."

In Portuguese bullfighting the matador does not kill the bull. "It is a sport, an art, and it is not cruel," said Perreira. "The darts that are thrust on the bulls' necks give them the sensation of an injection which they hardly feel because they are wild animals. Besides, the bull has its horns for defence, and many a bullfighter has died in such sport."

Another Portuguese fan wrote: "The bull stands every chance and holds every advantage, inasmuch as the matador cannot kill him, whereas the bull is authorized to kill his opponent if he is not uick enough on his feet."

The Case of the Unbidden Guest

THIS WAS ALWAYS the worst time for Mrs. Walker, this moment when she actually began a visit. It didn't help to remember that she had had this experience countless times before . . . that her life was an endless round of such "visits" to her relatives. It didn't help to think that she would be welcomed with joyous cries of "Nana," and an affectionate kiss from her daughter. For much as they tried to make her feel at home she was always a visitor—a feeble old woman without money, without independence.

She felt unwanted—unbidden. And no amount of love and affection could change her feeling. A few gifts tucked away in her suitcase for the children would have helped—gifts like she used to bring when John was alive—but John's estate hadn't provided even that small measure of comfort.

For a fleeting moment she held on to the past—it was all she had as she looked forward to the future.

Think. Could this happen to your wife?

Cut Marshall Aid To Britain Effective January 1

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—(AP)—The United States today cut off all Marshall Plan aid to Britain, effective January 1. William C. Foster, the Marshall Plan administrator, said Britain's economic comeback in the last year is the reason. Since the recovery program started in April of 1948, Britain has been allotted a total of $2,694,300,000. The program, named for Gen. George C. Marshall who proposed it while he was U.S. Secretary of State, has had a dual purpose: to help Europe recover from damages of the Second World War and to strengthen friendly countries against the threat of Communism.

The move to stop all Marshall Plan aid to Britain comes five weeks after conversations between Marshall Plan officials and the British government. Britain is the first country to step out of the program.

In an announcement issued at the same time that Hugh Gaitskell, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was breaking the news to the British House of Commons, Foster said:

Not Complete

"The suspension of aid under the European Recovery Plan does not mean that the recovery of the British economy is complete or that financial resources of the sterling area are adequate."

The United States action, Foster said, does not mean a permanent end of Marshall Plan aid. If Britain's economic position worsens, there can be "reconsideration, if necessary," of the cut-off order, he added.

Britain will be permitted to use the $175,000,000 granted her by the economic co-operation administration as its Marshall Plan allotment for the last six months of this year.

The joint American-British announcement also stressed that the end of Marshall Plan aid to Britain "will in no way affect the arrangements which are now being worked out by the North Atlantic Treaty organization for the assessment and distribution of the defence programs of its members."

U.S. Pleased

Foster said the United States government is "especially pleased to see so prominent an example of the success of the European Recovery Program at this early date." Generally, the Marshall Plan effort was to have continued until 1952.

Termination of Marshall Plan Aid for Britain will not materially affect purchases in Canada, an official of the United Kingdom High Commissioner's office said today.

Prime Minister Optimistic, War Not Near

OTTAWA, Dec. 13 (CP). — Prime Minister St. Laurent today expressed high optimism that the world will not be plunged into a general war at this time.

He also announced at a press conference:

1. Appointment of George Prudham, 46, Liberal Member of Parliament for Edmonton West, as Minister of Mines and Technical Surveys.

2. He will leave Dec. 31 or Jan. 1 by air for the Commonwealth Prime Minister's Conference in London.

3. He hopes that any wage or price controls system implemented by the Americans will be effective enough to make a similar system for Canada unnecessary.

4. He expects cabinet will approve pay increases for Canadian civil servants and members of the armed forces today. They will be announced tomorrow.

Satisfied With Defence

A reporter asked Mr. St. Laurent if he was satisfied with Canada's defence progress.

He smiled and said:

"I think the progress is satisfactory."

Then he added:

"I am just optimistic as Lloyds."

He noted that that London insurance firm had quoted odds of 50-1 against a world war outbreak before September, 1951. He concluded:

"I am just as optimistic as they are."

Mr. Prudham, 46, will succeed James A. MacKinnon, 69, who has been acting as minister without portfolio. Senator MacKinnon now in hospital at Montreal for a checkup, is a former Minister of Trade and Commerce. He will drop out of the cabinet.

In business life, Mr. Prudham is president of Prudham Construction Co., Ltd., and Prudham Building Supplies, Ltd., and was president of the National House Builders Association of Canada for 1948-49.

Mr. St. Laurent was asked if he would have any more cabinet shuffles to announce before parliament meets in January or February.

He said: "I hope not."

Teachers Ask $650 Increase

KITCHENER, Dec. 13 (CP) — The Kitchener-Waterloo Collegiate Board Tuesday night received a request for salary increases for each of its 57 teachers which would require $37,000 more from the taxpayers. It would mean an increase of one mill on the tax rate.

The request was for a $650 raise for each member of the teaching staff. The regular annual increment of $200 would bring next year's increases—if granted—to more than $40,000 in all. The matter was referred to the teachers' committee.

Uncover Ammunition Hidden In Mosque

SINGAPORE, Dec. 13 (AP)—Police made a surprise raid on Singapore's imposing Sultan Mosque today and uncovered a stock of ammunition, crowbars and clubs apparently used by Moslems in Singapore's three-day reign of bloody rioting over custody of a Moslem-reared Dutch girl.

British authorities believed the raid on the Mosque had delivered the heaviest blow to fanatics who had used the Mosque as a headquarters for the riots which by today had taken a toll of 16 known dead and at least 180 injured.

Authorities ordered the Mosque closed except for prayers on Friday—the Moslem Sabbath.

Although the city itself gradually returned to normal, Moslem sources not involved in the riots estimated that a force of 1,000 was still carrying on acts of violence in predominantly-Moslem areas of the island.

Canadian Battalion Ordered Move To Korea Immediately

Chinese Pincers Threaten As UN Speeds 'Dunkerque'

TOKYO, Dec. 13—(AP)—More than 60,000 Allied troops were streaming aboard ships at Hungnam today on a fighting evacuation from northeast Korea.

Chinese Communists wearing American uniforms made a three-hour attack on the escape beachhead Wednesday morning.

The attack was repulsed, but Allied officers feared the Chinese would try massive assaults before the last United Nations troops get away by sea.

The disguised attackers were the vanguards of 64,000 to 80,000 Chinese troops massed around the escape port on the Sea of Japan.

The Allies at Hungnam were abandoning the last big United Nations outpost in North Korea.

In the face of the Chinese menace, the surrounded UN force, pouring aboard ships with field gear and many of their heavy weapons stepped up the evacuation pace. American officers expected heavier blows, possibly Wednesday night, since Communist troops usually attack in darkness.

The defence force was prepared to defend the withdrawal with artillery, mortars and long naval guns.

In Company Strength

Field dispatches said the Chinese Reds, wearing full American parka uniforms, struck in company strength or less.

A US 3rd Division infantry company counter-attacked and drove off the Chinese.

A spokesman identified them as part of a newly-reported division, the 81st. That brought the number of Red Chinese divisions pressing against the beachhead to eight.

The Chinese were trying to smash through the rearguard shield to make a kill before the last of the Allies could escape. The loading of troops and material began two days ago and is expected to continue some time.

Among the 60,000 or more men moving at an orderly but fast pace across Hingnam's docks into the evacuation fleet were the long-unreported infantrymen of the United States 7th Division 17th Regimental Combat Team, and South Korean Army regiments.

Safe At Last

They were safe at last on the Hungnam coastal plain after retreating for nearly two weeks from extreme North Korea— as far up as the Yalu River boundary of Manchuria — under a security blackout.

The destination of the forces embarked on the Sea of Japan was a top secret for security reasons.

Russia Opposes UN Cease-Fire Proposal

Malik Charges Allies Just Want Breathing Spell For New Attack

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 13—(AP).—Russia's Jakob A. Malik charged today the United States and Britain were supporting a cease-fire in Korea only to give their forces a breathing spell to prepare for a new attack.

Malik spoke before the political committee of the United Nations Assembly which is considering an Asian-Arab proposal for a three-man group to work out a cease-fire arrangement.

He told the committee he did not question the motives of the sponsoring countries, but that it was clear the United States and Britain were interested only in stopping the fighting and not in solving outstanding Asian problems.

Chance To Regroup

Malik then asked:

"Isn't the proposal for a cease-fire a hypocritical attempt to get a breathing spell so they can get their broken ranks together and continue their intervention in Korea?"

The Soviet delegate's declaration was taken as an indication that Communist China probably would not agree to a cease-fire unless it it tied with a solution of other demands, including admission to the U.N.

"My delegation objects to and will vote against the draft resolution before the committee," Malik said. "We will object to the adoption of any resolution which has implicit in it the maintenance of foreign troops in Korea."

Find Ruest Guilty of Murder

QUEBEC, Dec. 13—(CP)—A Criminal Assizes jury today declared guilty of murder Genereux Ruest, 54-year-old crippled watchmaker, for his part in the time-bomb airlines disaster at Sault Au Cochon in September 1949 in which 23 men, women and children were killed. The jury returned its guilty verdict exactly 20 minutes after it retired to consider a verdict at 12:40 p.m. EST. Judge Fernand Choquette then sentenced the grey-haired cripple to be hanged March 16. The single word "coupable" (guilty) was pronounced by Yvan Vallee, foreman of the jury which heard the case.

No Comment

Before Judge Choquette passed sentence Ruest was asked if he had anything to say.

He answered: "non, monsieur" (no, sir).

The long trial of the crippled watchmaker came to a close as Judge Fernand Choquette concluded his charge to the jury today.

Since Nov. 27 when the trial started, the five-foot watchmaker has listened while 87 witnesses told their stories in his criminal assizes court case resulting from the time-bombing of an airplane.

The crash of the Canadian Pacific Airlines plane occurred Sept. 9, 1949, and 23 persons died in the wreck at Sault Au Cochon, 40 miles from Quebec.

J. Albert Guay, jewelry salesman who employed Ruest to do watch-repairing, has been convicted of wrecking the plane to kill Rita Guay, his wife, and awaits hanging Jan. 12.

Lay Final Military Plans For Using German Troops

LONDON, Dec. 13—(AP)—Atlantic Pact experts laid down final political and military plans today for using German troops in defence of western Europe. A Communique said a joint meeting of the Pact Council's Deputy Foreign Ministers and its military chieftains "reached complete agreement on political and military recommendations for German participation" in western defences.

The plan is expected to call for rearming enough West Germans to form as much as one-fifth of the troops defending Western Europe from any Eastern aggression.

The German units would be limited to brigade size — about 4,000 to 6,000 men—and scattered throughout other Atlantic Pact armies in Europe.

The recommendations of today's meeting will go before the Pact's foreign ministers at Brussels next Monday and Tuesday for final approval.

Germans Not Consulted

German officials have not been consulted on the plan. They will learn its complete details only after it is finally approved in Brrussels.

But from West German Prime Minister Konrad Adenauer on down they have been outspoken against going back into uniform except on a basis of equality.

Some diplomatic officials here believe part of thi opposition is aimed at building a political case for virtually ending the occupation of Germany.

These officials feel that as the price for furnishing troops, West Germany will attempt to substitute for the occupation a security treaty with the United States, Britain and France.

The officials suggest that such a security treaty would give Atlantic powers the right to station troops in Germany for purely defensive purposes and keep controls on war potential industry.

Howe Asks U.S. For More Steel, Offers Aluminum

OTTAWA, Dec. 13 (CP). — Trade Minister Howe will fly to Washington today on a twin metal mission.

He will seek to increase the flow of American steel into Canada at the same time convey Canada's offer to supply the American stockpile with a big chunk of aluminum.

The steel issue is by far the more important. The U.S. supply of steel to Canada has almost been choked off in the last few months by U.S. export restrictions.

Feeling Pinch

Some Canadian companies producing civilian goods now are feeling the pinch and if Mr. Howe is successful in his mission some of them may have to close shop.

Normal annual imports of about 1,000,000 tons of ingots from the U.S. have been cut to about 650,000 tons this year. Conferring with Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer, Mr. Howe will point out the urgency of increasing this output at the earliest possible moment.

If the Canadian offer is taken up, the increased production which will be necessary to supply this tonnage likely will be undertaken in British Columbia.

Rain Threatens More NB Floods

FREDERICTON. Dec. 13 (CP) —For the fourth successive day rain is pelting down on soggy New Brunswick, as railway repair crews work round the clock to mend washed-out roadbeds and Moncton residents wonder if the swollen Petitcodiac river will pierce more dikes and isolate additional city homes.

A temporary embargo on railroad express shipments from Maritime points to Boston via McAdam Junction was announced Tuesday night, and New England-bound passengers were rerouted by way of Montreal.

At Lambert Lake, across the United States border from McAdam, N.B., Canadian Pacific Railway repairmen are mending a 1,000-foot stretch of railroad which was washed out Tuesday, causing a train wreck. Killed when a two-locomotive freight train left the track were Engineer Joseph Doiron, 54, and Fireman C. McKay both of Brownville, Me.

The dike-breaking Petitcodiac river has driven 70 persons from their homes at Moncton, and the main highway between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick is under water in several places.

Ship Runs Out Of Fuel 500 Miles From Port

KODIAK, Alaska, Dec. 13 (AP) —Ever run out of gas while driving your car?

Then you have a small idea of how the skipped of the 10,000-ton steamship Atlantic Star feels. His ship ran out of fuel at sea some 500 miles south of here.

The steamship was brought to port here Tuesday after a six-day tow by two navy tugs.

The Atlantic Star, of Panamanian registry, was en route empty from Yokohama to Vancouver. George Samothkakis, a British subject with 28 years maritime experience, is the skipper.

On refueling here the Atlantic Star will continue to Vancouver.

Used As Evidence

TORONTO, Dec. 13 —(CP)— The results of blood tests made on suspected drunken drivers, with or without their consent, can be admitted as evidence at their trials, the Ontario Court of Appeal ruled today. Chief Justice R. S. Robertson said in a verbal judgment that there is no analogy between taking a blood test and taking a verbal statement from an accused person.

Thick London Fog Paralyzes Air Service

LONDON, Dec. 13 (Reuters)— Air services to New York, Australia and Africa were delayed today as thick fog settled over London.

Snow and icy roads slowed down ground traffic, and many Londoners had cold breakfasts because of widespread cuts in electricity supplies.

At Liverpool, the Cunard liner Franconia had to anchor in the river Mersey after taking on passengers for Canada. She was expected to be delayed several hours. Ships used radar crossing the Irish sea.

On Way To Holland

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Dec. 13 (AP).—The Royal Dutch Airlines disclosed today that Maria Bertha Hertogh is enroute by air to The Netherlands with her mother who waged a two-year court fight in Singapore for custody of the 13-year-old "jungle girl."

Princess Patricias Get Word On Arrival At Yokohama In Japan

Canadian Soldiers Now Under Command Of United Nations Generals, Expect Force To Be Landed At Pusan Base

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Dec. 13—(CP)—The Patricias—2nd Battalion of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry—arrived here today aboard a trooper and were told they will continue their voyage to the Korean war theatre Thursday. The Canadians, the Dominion's first contribution to ground forces fighting in Korea, stood at attention on the deck of the transport as she slid into her berth here. Cheers rang out from the dockside and an American Army band struck up "O Canada."

The infantrymen, members of a regiment famous in both First and Second World Wars, were preceded by an advance party of 350 men and arrived here Nov. 5. The advance party, made up of specialists such as cooks, clerks, drivers and tradesmen, now is near Pusan in Korea preparing quarters for the battalion.

The arrival of the Pats completed the representation of Canadian services in this area. Three Canadian destroyers have been operating off Korea since midsummer, and an RCAF transport squadron has been shuttling warbound troops and supplies between the United States and Japan.

The Canadians, originally recruited as part of a special force of more than 10,000 men to be placed at the disposal of the United Nations for duty in Korea or elsewhere, now have been divorced from Canada's special brigade and put under UN command.

The trooper, the United States naval transport Pvt. Joe P. Martinez, arrived here after a 19-day crossing from Seattle.

It first landed 400 US reinforcementss, then the Pats debarked for a route march through Yokohama.

The vessel picked up land this morning by radar and docked this afternoon. It will leave again Thursday and probably will land the Canadians at Pusan in Southern Korea, nearly 300 miles from present fighting fronts.

Brig. F. J. Fleury, Canadian military liaison officer in Tokyo, boarded the transport in midharbor with orders from the battalion's commanding officer, Lt.-Col. J. M. (Big Jim) Stone of Salmon Arm, BC, to take the battalion to Korea.

Until then the men did not know whether Korean developments would affect their movement. The Canadians generally welcome the news that they are heading for Korea, assuming that the Canadian Government is satisfied with the position there.

FLY TO CONFERENCE

OTTAWA, Dec. 13 (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said today he will travel by air to and from the conference of Commonwealth Prime Ministers opening in London Jan. 4. He will leave Canada either Dec. 31 or Jan. 1. Date for the return journey is as yet unknown.

Republicans Back Truman To Boost Forces

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 (AP) —President Truman told Congressional leaders today of plans for "a very rapid increase" in military strength and won backing from Republicans present. They agreed the country is confronted with "a dangerous emergency."

The White House issued a statement summarizing the two-hour conference and also announced that Truman will make a world-wide radio broadcast at 10:30 p.m. EST Friday night.

It was indicated the address will be primarily a statement to the American people of the necessity for sacrifices on the home front to support increased armed forces and supply the arms they need.

The address likely will be supplemented by a proclamation declaring a national emergency, although the Congress members said after their talk with Truman that this was a matter still undecided.

Favor Emergency

The White House statement said there appeared to be "strong sentiment" among the Republican and Democratic leaders "in favor of declaring a national emergency," but that some withheld approval pending further study of the "legal effects."

Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, acting as spokesman for Republicans who attended the conference, dictated this statement to reporters:

"We agreed fully that a dangerous emergency exists for the people of the United States. We agreed with the President's general program for building up the armed services as rapidly as possible."

Need More Space For Yule Cheer

TORONTO, Dec. 13. — With larger stocks on hand than at any other time of the year, the Ontario Liquor Control Board has been facing its usual pre-Christmas problem—shortage of warehouse space.

Size of the board's problem is indicated by the fact that the last boat in with holiday-season goods alone will bring 18,000 cases of Scotland's best-known export. The board will not get it all at once, but it will be shipped from Halifax several railway carloads at a time.

For the duration of the Christmas rush, the board has been required to find extra storage space.

15 Hurt In Wreck Home For Christmas

EDMONTON, Dec. 13 (CP) — Fifteen of the soldiers injured in the Canoe river train wreck last month will spend Christmas near home, although they still are under hospital care.

Officials of Northwest Air Command announced today that a Dakota from 435 Transport Squadron will leave Dec. 15 carrying the men to eastern points near their homes.

The plane will stop at Toronto, Montreal, Halifax and St. John's, Nfld.

Dying Baby Has Party

EXETER, N.H., Dec. 13 — (AP)—A railroad crew staged a Christmas party Tuesday for their favorite passenger, 18-month-old Karen Morrisette, who rides with them to Boston and return once each week for medical check-up. Karen is seriously ill of leukemia. Her doctor fears she may not live a year. Tuesday when Karen and her mother boarded the train they found a glittering Christmas tree, a doll, a teddy bear, and a gift of money.

Latest Truman Sizzler Raps Low State of Politics

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 (AP). —President Truman, the trigger-tempered letter writerr, has dashed off another one—deploring the "low" state of politics in the recent election campaign.

It was addressed to Representative F. Edward Hebert (Dem. La.), a States' righter and critic of the administration, who promptly replied that this display of 'political distemperr" was regrettable.

It all started December 5 when Hebert wrote asking the President to appoint a day of prayer that Providence would endow officials with the wisdom and courage to make the right decisions in the present world crisis.

In a two-paragraph reply December 7, Truman called attention to his US Thanksgiving proclamation urging prayers for peace, and said he believed that "effectively answers your suggestion."

The President then added:

"I am extremely sorry that the sentiments expressed in your letter were not thought of before November seventh, when the campaign in your state, Utah, North Carolina, Illinois, and Indiana was carried on in a manner that was as low as I've ever seen, and I've been in this game since 1906."

In a rejoinder December 8, Hebert wrote:

"I am stunned by the contents of your letter of December 7th in reply to my letter of December 5th.

"It is indeed exceedingly regrettable that you failed to grasp the real purpose and intent of my suggestion, but it is even more regrettable that you saw fit to gratuitously inject political distemper in your reply."

Truman's letter was written one day after he threatened to beat up a Washington Post music critic.

Police Fire Five Bullets At Alleged Kidnappers

TORONTO, Dec. 13—(CP) — Two youthful gunmen held up and kidnapped a Toronto couple and were arrested Tuesday night after a wild, 85-mile-an-hour chase along slippery suburban roads.

Investigators said Elmer McComb, 20, and Ted Matuszak, 16, were found hiding in a field fater five police bullets sent the stolen getaway car plowing into a ditch.

During the nine-mile chase through Etobicoke and Toronto townships, the gunmen smashed through one road block and eluded another. Two police cruisers were damaged when the youths tore through the road block at high speeds; two others collided when the lead cruiser spotted the abandoned getaway car and stopped suddenly.

Police said the youths held up William Robinson, 32, and Jean Archer as the couple sat in their parked car at west-end Sunnyside. The youths ordered Robinson to drive to a point near Malton airport, where he and Miss Archer were ordered out.

Robinson said they took his and Miss Archer's money during the ride but returned it. After being let out of the car, Robinson notified police and the chase started.

Police flushed the youths from long grass near where the car ployed into the ditch. They gave up without a struggle. Police said the youths surrendered a sawed-off .38 automatic and a .44 revolver holding filed-down rifle bullets that one officer said "would break every bone in the body if they hit."

Robinson told police that during the drive to Malton one bandit kept a gun stuck in the back of his neck and gave him careful directions.

Swiss Plane Crashes Near Sydney

31 On Board Escape After Aircraft Dives In N.S. Bog

SYDNEY, N.S., Dec. 13 — (CP)—A big Swiss airliner sheared off a guide light pole at the nearby reserve airport today, then skipped half a mile into a bog with only minor injuries to several passengers.

Coming in for refuelling on a flight from Switzerland to New York four-engined DC-4 struck the pole, bounded into the marsh and burst into flames 15 minutes after passengers and crew members had been taken to safety.

There were 20 passengers and a crew of 11 aboard as the plane came in for a landing on the fog-shrouded field.

There was no immediate explanation of the cause of the crash. Earlier reports that a power disruption had caused the airport's ground control approach radar equipment to fail were denied.

The crash sent one of the plane's engines flying 600 feet away.

Rescue parties feared there would be casualties, but found all aboard safe when they reached the wreck 45 minutes later.

A two-year-old boy was laughing with glee as he was taken off.

Blame Icy Streets Campbellford Crash

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 13 — (ENS)—Slippery streets and poor visibility were blamed for an accident about midnight on Monday, when a car and a truck collided at the corner of Center and Bridge Streets, at the top of a steep hill, in the eastern part of town.

Mrs. M. T. Bruce, Bracebridge, driving a 1950 model automobile east on Bridge Street, and proceeding up a steep hill, collided with a one-ton truck driven by Thomas O'Halloran of Campbellford. Mrs. Bruce had her sister with her in the car at the time, and Albert Stephens was riding with Mr. O'Halloran. No one was injured.

About $300 damage was done to the front of the car, but the truck escaped with only about $50 damage. Constable W. E. Cargin investigated.

Drew Urges Atlantic Unity

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Dec. 13—(CP)—Solidarity in the "North Atlantic triangle" of Canada, Britain and the United States was urged by George Drew, Canadian opposition leader, in an address here today. In a speech prepared for the Rochester Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Drew, head of Canada's Progressive Conservative party, reviewed the turn of international events in recent weeks and deprecated suggestions of differences between the three powers of the "triangle" as something which could be fatal to the Allied cause, and which is being encouraged by Soviet interests.

"It is my firm conviction," he said, "that the measure of understanding and unity of purpose which can be achieved between these three North Atlantic nations will, to a considerable extent, measure the ultimate of those wider associations of free people which now are taking solid form through the discussions and contacts of the various meetings and committees of the United Nations."

The three powers "have it within their power, and are confronted by the urgent challenge to integrate their efforts and establish a firm foundation of understanding and goodwill, which may yet offer an example to free nations everywhere and to those which are not yet free."

Not Total Approval

Because of his position as opposition leader in Canada, he did not approve of all being done by the present Canadian government and "I certainly do not approve of the political opinions or of many of the things that have been done by the government of the United Kingdom."

However, he called for unity of the three powers.

"While there is still time we should make every effort within our power to build a strong foundation of understanding between those who have such unusual opportunities to understand each other. . ."

Man Confesses Slaying Co-Ed

DETROIT, Dec. 13 (AP)—Detroit police today said a former Kalamazoo man, arrested here in connection with a burglary, has confessed the sex slaying of Carolyn Drown, 18 - year - old freshman co-ed at Western Michigan College.

But police said there are reasons to doubt the man's story.

Police said the confession was made by Robertr Hunkins, 23, a former resident of the Kalamazoo area, while he was being questioned following his arrest early today for investigation of a hardware store break-in.

Police still are trying to clear up discrepancies in the man's story. Carolyn disappeared in a snowstorm the night of Dec. 3 near the Western Michigan College campus in Kalamazoo. A week later her ravished body was found in a melting snowbank in a cornfield not far from the city.

Newspaper clippings on the girl's slaying were found in Hunkins' possession, but officers were not convinced he was telling the truth.

Field dispatches said thousands of Chinese were massing nearby for a final blow.

Troops from five Allied divisions manned a stout defence line stretching for a 14-mile radium around Hungnam and the inland twin city of Hamhung.

AP correspondent Tom Stone, with the evacuating 10th Corps, said the withdrawal was being carried on rapidly but quietly. It was pushed under protection of the long guns and the carrier planes of the UN Fleet.

Warships At Hand

While transports swallowed a steady stream of men and equipment, warships cruised slowly off Hungnam.

Corsairs, Hellcats and Panther jets circled overhead, alert for any sign that the Chinese Red air force might attempt an annihilating climax to the military coup launched in late November by Chinese ground forces.

Warships shelled the coast and planes hit enemy positions, slowing up the build-up of Chinese forces for any attack on Hungnam.

Tanks crowded bumper to bumper against tiny jeeps and all varieties of Allied vehicles along the docks, heading into the big transports warped against Hungnam's wharves.

Much of the Allies' arsenal in northeast Korea was slated for sea movement.

Two Big Questions

There were two big questions arising out of the evacuation:

Could the Allied force get out before the Chinese swept in from the frozen mountains in sight of the harbor?

What was the destination of the still-strong 10th Corps? Would it go to the Seoul area where the Eighth Army still is massed on defence lines; to Pusan port in the old southeast Korea beach-head, or to Japan?

The Chinese, who have failed to follow through quickly on their several smashing attacks in North Korea, held the answer to the fate of the evacuation.

Princess' Friends Sure She'll Wed Dalkeith

LONDON, Dec. 13 (AP). —A London Evening Star columnist said tonight that Princess Margaret's friends are "more than ever convinced" she will become engaged to the youthful Earl of Dalkeith in the new year.

The columnist added that the King opposes a definite agreement until Margaret becomes 21 Aug. 21.

The King thinks his daughter still too young to make an important decision, the paper said.

The Earl, young heir to the Duke of Buccleugh, may some day inherit an estimated 500,000 acres in eight counties. The Duke is believed to have one of the biggest fortunes in Britain.

Industrials Mixed In Quiet Dealings

TORONTO, Dec. 13 (CP)—Industrials were mixed in quiet dealings as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Steels, utilities, constructions, foods, banks and manufacturing companies showed a majority of gains in the groupings. Agricultures and textiles were lower and the rest of the board was mixed.

Base metals tended lower in fairly mixed dealings. Falconbridge, Golden Manitou, International Nickel, Sherritt Gordon and Steep Rock were leading issues that declined. Consolidated Smelters jumped 75 cents to lead a few key issues, including United Keno Hill and Waite Amulet, higher.

Senior golds dipped fractions and junior producers drifted lower with penny losses. Western oils declined with losses ranging to 25 cents.

Evaluator To Decide Payment To Farmers

TORONTO, Dec. 13 (CP)—The task of deciding how much a number of western Ontario farmers should be paid for letting power lines be strung across their property is to be turned over to an official evaluator.

For some time, the Ontario Hydro Commission has been trying to reach an agreement on the price with farmers in the Seaforth, St. Marys and Devizes districts. It has succeeded with only about 41 per cent of the landowners.

Those holding out—and delaying completion of the lines—say the commission has not offered them enough money.

May Delay Cables

LONDON, Dec. 13 (Reuters).—Many cables to and from Britain will be delayed starting next Monday if cable and wireless operating and maintenance employees of Cable and Wireless Limited in London carry out a threatened "go slow" strike. A meeting of 700 men resolved last night to "work to rule" from next Monday unless they receive a promise from the British Postmaster-General to allow them to send future disputes to arbitration.

Attlee In Collision

LONDON, Dec. 13 (Reuters) — Prime Minister Attlee was involved in a minor automobile collision Tuesday night. The fender of his car and another car touched, but there was no serious damage.

Court Fines Man $36, Left Accident

Pleading guilty to charges of leaving the scene of an accident and careless driving, Celestin Godin, 292 Townsend St., was fined $25 and $11.50 costs on the first and $25 and $5.50 costs on the second in police court today.

"There is no possible excuse of any variety for leaving the scene of an accident," Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, told Godin.

Constabl Andre Dalton told the court that at 12:45 a.m. Sunday morning he answered a call from 101 Rubidge St. Opposite that address he found hydro wires across the street about five feet from the ground.

Pole Snapped

A hydro pole on the east side of the street had been snapped off at the ground. Most of the pole was 21 feet north of the original position of the post and another smaller piece was 56 feet from the broken butt.

There was no car there, but he found a hub cap, a broken spot light, a bumper and some of the trim of a car.

The constable was given the license number of the car by a man who had heard the crash and came to the door of his house to see the car backing into the street away from the hydro pole.

Godin was arrested in his home two hours later. Police had checked his home earlier but Godin was still out. An hour later they found Godin's car behind the Beaver Lumber Co. on George St. It was damaged and the right front hub cap was missing.

Had Been Drinking

Godin had been drinking and denied knowing about the accident.

While the officer was first at the scene of the accident, a Mr. Huggins told him a car going north on Park St., apparently going to continue along Park St., suddenly swung into Rubidge St.

In doing so it nearly knocked Huggins down, then hit a patch of ice and skidded up over the curb and hit the pole.

Godin's only comment about the evidence was that Huggins was "half drunk" and couldn't have seen the accident.

Outrageous Federal-Provincial Agreement

At last the provinces and Ottawa seem to be reaching an agreement. The Dominion-Provincial conference in the capital last week resulted in proposals with which Ontario is concurring and the other provinces are likely to follow suit. Such harmony is most unusual. How was it achieved? How does it happen that even Premier Duplessis may be drawn into agreement? What happened is that the premiers and the Prime Minister got together and did a dicker—and the people are going to have to pay for it. It was agreement bought at the expense of the taxpayers.

The federal plan for Canada-wide old-age pension plans will be prepared for by a constitutional amendment, to which the provinces have been bribed to agree. The bribe is this: Ottawa has promised to consider favourably another constitutional amendment. By that amendment the provinces will be given the right to impose an indirect sales tax. It is a barefaced deal.

• • •

People up and down the country have been crying for taxation agreement, and constitutional reform to permit of uniform social measures applicable to all, whatever the province. They have got more than they bargained for. They wanted taxation agreement so as to do away with all the overlapping and double or triple taxes from which they have been suffering. What happens as a result of this conference? The provinces are likely to be given power to duplicate a Federal tax, and a tax of the worst kind, from the taxpayer's point of view: an indirect tax. Indirect taxes are the worst because they give the governing body the easiest way of milking the public with the least outcry. Because they are easiest to manipulate, governments can play around with them almost at will, and extort more than they would dare to do if the tax were direct, like income tax, where each taxpayer knows how much he is paying. But a sales tax is buried, after the first imposition. People forget that they are paying an extra cent or two for sugar, an extra dollar or two for a bicycle, because of a sales tax. And so year after year, without any annual or open pinch such as municipal or income taxes cause when they fall due, the money rolls in. This is the kind of tax which the provinces are likely to get the right to impose. And once they get the right, they will keep it and suck the taxpayers thereby from now to the end of time.

• • •

Provincial-Federal agreement reached at such a cost is a national outrage, if not a calamity.

Responsible Realism of Nehru

The Montreal Gazette takes a poor view of Prime Minister Nehru's stand on China, Russia and Korea. India has not thrown in her lot with other United Nations and rushed into Korea. The Gazette has sympathy for Nehru's abhorrence of war, but "the abhorrence of war, and the longing for peace, do not, in themselves, diminish the honourable obligations of a responsible realism."

When we see rolling generalizations like "the honourable obligations of a responsible realism" we suspect the phrase-maker of either woolly thinking or pulling the wool over people's eyes. Which is more realistic—to try to negotiate a settlement in Korea or to have one forced by adverse circumstances after a campaign has been lost. Which is more realistic—to take as firm a stand as possible against aggression (that word itself should be realistically defined), or to go out to meet it with numerically inferior troops, to send them right up to the Manchurian border in a campaign to hold a peninsula which was considered militarily untenable if a major power intervened, and to have these troops pushed back the moment that intervention happens? Which is more realistic— to recognize the existence of various Communist nations and their spheres of interest and influence, or to underestimate them and brandish the weapons of western pride and run headlong into another world war?

The matter of honour does not enter into an attitude of responsible realism or any kind of realism. Facing reality is neither honourable nor dishonourable. Nor is it a matter of obligation. The phrase "honourable obligations of a responsible realism" is cant. People and nations face facts—reality—out of necessity. It seems to us that Nehru and his India are facing the facts of Asia and world power politics pretty squarely.

We think that Prime Minister Nehru is eminently showing a "responsible realism" when he says as he did last Thursday: "The question of blocs is out of date . . Those who think of world politics as revolving around communism and anti-communism have gone astray . . . They are last year's persons". Mao's China has not intervened in Korea because it is Communist. It has intervened because it is China and tens of thousands of white foreigners backed by American power were about to sit, fully armed, on China's mainland border. And the facts of the world situation now are that humanity cannot turn itself into two camps, for and against Communism, without dooming itself.

The world and its people are imperfect. Even if the United States and the other western nations were always pure and holy and their rights were right, there must be compromise with the wicked and wayward, like China and Russia. For the reality is that Russia and China, together or separately, are too horribly strong to be booted into the paths of Western righteousness without the West exhausting itself in the process. We have got to put up with Russia and China, or bust. That is why it is out-of-date to think of power politics in terms of Communist or anti-Communist blocs.

As a matter of fact, when nations get right down to the realities of war they disregard ideological blocs and get support wherever they can in their own interests. Thus Braitain and the U.S.A. made a gallant ally of Russia in the last war, and Russia did not oppose Chiang Kai-shek or support the Chinese Communists.

We have learnt in these last weeks that, righteous as may be our cause in Korea, it is unrealistic to pursue it with quixotic deterimnation.

Gilbert And Sullivan In The Public Realm

The copyright protection of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas has at last run out, and they are now in the public realm; anyone who wishes to perform them may do so without obtaining permission, and without payment of a fee. The operas enriched Sir William Gilbert and Sir Arthur Sullivan, and they have enriched three generations of the O'Oyley Carte family. They will continue to delight generations of playgoers, but their days as private property are over.

In a way, this is a pity. These operas —we call them that, though in strict truth they are operettas, or musical comedies—do not respond well to alteration, modernizing and tinkering in general. They have a certain perfection as they stand; attempts to improve upon them invariably end by spoiling them.

This perfection was the result of the extreme care which Gilbert gave to the writing of each libretto; he wrote, polished, and wrote again. He was his own director, and when he had laid down the plan upon which one of his works was to be produced, he permitted no alterations. Sullivan was also a very careful worker, a musician with high standards which he expected those who performed his music to observe. Both men were perfectionists.

It was their good luck that their man of business, Richard D'Oyley Carte, was a perfectionist too, in his own way. He and his son Rupert made it their business to insist that the operas be performed precisely as Gilbert and Sullivan intended; they maintained a comic opera company of their own which set the style and carried on the tradition. Anyone who has seen that company perform one or more of the operas knows how ably that work was done, and how stimulating the performances were. To see, let us say, The Mikado performed by the D'Oyley Carte Company was to be granted a backward glance into one of the happiest corners of Victorian England.

We hope the tradition will be maintained, even though the monopoly has expired. Only innovators of a genius equal to that possessed by Gilbert and Sullivan themselves would be capable of improving upon their delightful works, and geniuses of that stamp are rare.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Two dozen snakes, including some rare ones, have been stolen from the Philadelphia Zoo. Somebody's going to find a surprise in her stocking.

A Scots reporter writes that he has seen a hump-backed, cow-faced seaserpent. Hmm! Either he's been eating haggis, or it is not true that they are exporting all the whisky.

The English novelist Evelyn Waugh is so fond of his latest book Helena that he has re-read it 25 times. A novelist who reads his own works as keenly as that may only be compared with an engine which consumes its own smoke.

ON THE MARGIN

A Christmas Selection

AT this time of year it is thought desirable that book reviewers should present some sort of conspectus of what they have read during the past twelve months, and that they should, in a delicate and whimsical manner, suggest the names of a few books which they think would make pleasant Christmas gifts. Far be it from me to break with a custom which has been hallowed by time, though I deplore the delicacy and whimsicality. And as I have at my elbow a pile of books which have not yet been reviewed, I must confine myself to them, and forget several excellent volumes which have been mentioned in this column during the past year.

THE best book now offering, for those readers who really like books and are not mere timid sippers at the literary cup, is "Noble Essences", the fifth and last volume of the autobiography of Sir Osbert Sitwell (Macmillan). This work, taken as a whole, is probably the most important literary production since 1945—a splendidly conceived, finely executed and richly ornamented work of art. It makes unusual demands on the reader, and it offers unusual rewards. Some time in 1951 I hope to give a column to a consideration of the whole of this great work. But at present there is only space in which to say that "Noble Essences" contains ten wonderful essays on ten great men and women whom Sitwell has known and about whom he is particularly qualified by friendship, sensibility and native capacity to write with authority and understanding. This is not a book for trivial people, but the intelligent reader should not miss it.

A BOOK which is admirably suited to the requirements of a Christmas gift is "Canadian Art", by Graham McInnes (Macmillan). This is an expansion of an earlier book, and an improvement in every way. It is well-produced and bound (unusual in Canada), adequately illustrated, and particularly well written. Mr. McInnes, unlike many an art critic, never wallows in words. He keeps to matters of fact, as a usual thing, and when he has an opinion to express, he sets it down crisply. He avoids over-praise and Canadian chauvinism, and gives us a book of which we may be proud, and which we can consult with confidence. A first-rate job, upon which the author and his publishers deserve congratulations.

ANOTHER Canadian book of lasting value to appear during the past month is "A History of Canada", by Jean Bruchesi, which has been translated from the French by R. W. W. Robertson (Clarke, Irwin). This is an important piece of publishing, for it gives every English speaking Canadian a chance to make himself acquainted with the viewpoint of a moderate and independent French-Canadian scholar. I found this book of the deepest interest and strongly stimulating; with Professor Lower's history of a year or two ago, it makes Canadian history vastly more interesting than works of more apparently orthodox opinion. The translation is in good, brisk, clean, literate English; indeed, it does not read like a translation at all, which is high praise.

WHILE writing of French Canada, let me recommend "The Plouffe Family", by Roger Lemelin (McClelland & Stewart), translated by Mary Finch. You ought to read this, not because it is about Canada, but because it is an excellent novel, written by a man who can create real people, instead of the sawdust dummies who people most novels. It provides, in passing, material upon which you can base an understanding of the French-Canadian political attitude. To understand it is not necessarily to admire or embrace it, but what we understand can never be so fearful as what is unknown. One novel like "The Plouffe Family" is worth a dozen interprovincial conferences; in the end it will be Canada's artists, and not her politicians, who will unite her.

ANOTHER novel which I can recommend whole-heartedly is "Bicycle Thieves", by Luigi Bartolini (Macmillan). Although the famous film of the same name was founded on the book, they are alike only in that both are unusually good. This is a sophisticated, beautifully written story of Rome during the degradation of the Allied Occupation—a city of thieves, beggars, shysters and broken-down Fascist officials. Bartolini, by the way, was a noted anti-Fascist. I found this book fascinating in the true sense of the word. It is also short—149 pages. If only some of our North American writers would learn the English and European trick of saying their say in a small compass!

ANOTHER European book which is having a great success almost everywhere in the Western World except the U.S.A. is "The 25th Hour" by Virgil Gheorgiu (British Book Service). It is another tale of escape—Europeans attempting to escape the horror of postwar Europe. The American critics have in some cases disliked it because it harps on the notion that the Americans are barbarians, and that they cannot hope to understand Europe. Americans cannot bear to be called barbarians, and they usually retort with criticism of European plumbing. But although what Gheorghiu says about them is probably half-true, his claims for European civilization are half-truths, also. Not all Europeans are philosophers, art-lovers and masters of the art of living; many of them are pigs, capable of greed and double-dealing which would make an American gangster blush. The best of Europe and the best of the U.S.A. are not so far apart that there can be no understanding, and if Mr. Gheorghiu judges the U.S. by its Occupation troops, he must not squeal if the U.S. judges Europe by the kind of people Bartolini writes about in "Bicycle Thieves". I recommend this book as good reading, not as gospel truth.

LOVERS of the theatre will appreciate Daniel Blum's "Theatre World" (Ambassador books) which gives a complete account of the 1949-50 season on Broadway, with numerous and excellent pictures. Records of this sort gain in interest with the passing of time. Representative of what is happening in the Canadian theatre a new play "At My Heart's Core" by Robertson Davies has been published (Clarke, Irwin) with a preface in which the playwright offers a few suggestions to readers of plays. The play is about the fate of the pioneer women of Canada, and suggests that they were more heroic, if less muscular, than is commonly supposed, and that they suffered frustrations which have not been banished even in the Canada of today.

NOTHING would please me more than to be able to say something nice about John Steinbeck's latest book "Burning Bright" (Macmillan). Unfortunately, however, I cannot appreciate Mr. Steinbeck's work at his best, and critics everywhere have agreed that this is far below his best. All his faults,—muddy sentimentalism, sophomore philosophizing, and Little Joeism—are in full flower in this tale of an impotent man whose wife seeks to please him by bearing another man's son. Mr. Steinbeck has striven to achieve what a perceptive female reader calls "the life-workical and master-pieceical" and the effect is embarrassing. Bartolini does this sort of thing much better. ALARUM!

Three Notable Books of Verse

(Reviews of two poetry anthologies and a new book by a Canadian poet)

TWO poetry anthologies of special distinction have appeared in time for Christmas, and I recommend them both without reserve as gifts for anyone known to you whose interests include a fondness for fine verse. The first is a short anthology compiled by Dr. Edith Sitwell, called "A Book of the Winter" (Macmillan). The other comprises five volumes of the Viking Portable Library, and is called "Poets of the English Language" (Macmillan).

Let us consider the Sitwell book first. It resembles in form the anthology called "Planet and Glow Worm" which Dr. Sitwell brought out two or three years ago. That is to say, the editor has chosen a theme—in this case Winter in all its manifestations—and has collected a variety of fine passages of verse and prose which is in effect poetry; these she has arranged in an effective sequence. Comparatively few of these passages will be new to a well-read person; but the arrangement of them and the significance which they gain in this context will be new and illuminating. Dr. Sitwell is herself one of the greatest living English poets, and she has all the qualities of a fine anthologist—taste, a sense of form and the ability to exclude anything but the best. Canadians, whose enforced acquaintance with Winter makes them sceptical of Winter's beauty, may learn to know that season anew from this admirable little book.

THE Viking anthology of poetry obviously makes a bid for comparison with the Oxford anthologies, Palgrave and other inclusive collections. It stands the test splendidly, although I would not quite echo the enthusiasm of an American critic who calls it "Beyond question the best and most useful anthology of English poetry ever made"; I do not know how to weigh the "usefulness" of such a work, and as for "best" — is it not enough to be very good, in a field where final decisions are impossible?

The books have first-rate introductions, written by W. H. Auden; working with him in matters of selection and editing was Norman Holmes Pearson; notes on the language difficulties of the first volume (Langland to Spenser) are supplied by E. Talbot Donaldson. In each volume appears a helpful and carefully arranged Calendar, which helps the reader to fit the poets and their work into a general pattern of history; so far as I know, this is a novelty in an anthology which is not a college text, and it is a good and welcome one. The books are in the familiar "Portable" format, very pleasant to handle, easy to carry, nicely printed and—dare we whisper it?—a bit flabby in the binding.

The contents of these volumes reflect the best in modern taste and scholarship. Instead of beginning arbitrarily with Chaucer it starts us off with a good chunk of Langland's "Piers Ploughman". This volume also contains a discriminating selection from John Skelton's work, which has an oddly modern ring about it.

In the second volume it is good to see justice done to Ben Jonson, so often represented in anthologies by work which presents only one aspect—though a fine one—of his genius. We may wish, by the way, that the editors had told us why the Epitaph which is always printed as that of Salathiel Pavy, the boy actor, is here for Salomon Pavy? They have their reasons of course, but we should like to be told. Each volume contains a number of pleasant surprises. It is good to see a piece from "Hudibras", and a full twenty pages of Christopher Smart. John Clare and William Barnes are not neglected, and this anthology, let us hope, marks the end of the Tennyson slump, which has been long and overdone. As an anthology has to end somewhere, this one ends with Yeats.

It is a fine thing to see the dramatic poets given their due, and scenes printed from their best plays. "Everyman" is given in full, Jonson is shown as the writer of "The Alchemist" and the masques, as well as his sensitive lyrics. Marlowe is represented by passages from "Tamburlaine" and "Faustus". It may be questioned, however, whether it was necessary to print all of Shakespeare's "Anthony and Cleopatra", when this work is available to anyone who is likely to use this anthology.

Fault-finding, however, cannot engage much of our time when we have to consider this comprehensive, finely-edited and catholic piece of work. The five prefaces alone are a notable contribution to the understanding of poetry; the selection of matter for inclusion has aimed at richness and at the unfamiliar without recourse to the merely eccentric. It is with gratitude that we welcome an anthology on this high level, and with pleasure that we recommend it to our readers. R.D.

OF TIME AND THE LOVER by James Wreford (McClelland & Stewart).

THIS book of poems is prefaced by four lines "Of Time" which indicate the writer's compulsion:

> Time is the enemy.
> To win, the lover must > make the high moment timeless > before it falls to dust.

Although most of the book is given to love songs and treatises in verse about what a lover feels, my impression is that Mr. Wreford is a better interpreter of Time than of Love.

The collection, unlike others, has a pattern. It begins with philosophic and artistic musings on time. Quite soon (in a sequence entitled "Time Upon An Apex") it relates time to love, using a Christian Easter image, and love as a personal passion:

> Yet, surely in this hour, love, > time past shall mount the stream;
> and this amazing moment will > for times to come still seem > the height of time, the apex . . .

Thence Mr. Wreford dwells mostly on love, and therein on personal love.

Some of these love songs glow, have memorable lines and fancies. For instance, his 'Stars Fall Through the Skies' and 'To Part, It Is To Die' in which when the beloved is going away he asks:

> What will it mean
> when we have said that last goodbye > that tears us from the other's heart?
> If death should part as wide as this,
> to part, it is to die in part.

But the poet indulges his ear for sounds, his fancy for conceits with a strain which suggests that he is not writing of love remembered in tranquility, but out of concocted stuff never experienced by flesh or blood. Thus he pitches out this nonsense not intended to be comic:

> Her eyes are nests of telephones > speaking such O incredible messages.
> And they are always ringing.

Would that Mr. Wreford believed love to be blind! And he says, this time in philosophic, not rapturous vein, that distance is "the termite of indifferences in the house of passion".

When he is less carried away by his verbiage or by souped-up passion, he gets off such fine things as:

> Love makes its own cosmogony, > climate and chrysalis; is free > of season and all other laws > being itself its own First Cause.

The writer does not capitalize the first words of his lines. This tends to deter anybody who does not profess to be avant-garde (A.D. 1920), but there is justification for the practice. Whether his mixture is blank verse with internal assonance or conventional end-of-line rhyme, his poetic stream is logical rather than romantic. Despite the astounding metaphors it is rational, the rationality of the metaphysical poets like Donne. It is clarifying to have only the beginnings of sentences capitalized.

This reviewer is genuinely impressed and moved by the poet's interpretation of Time (despite the repetitive, parodic use of that word in the sequence 'Time Upon An Apex'—the word itself has little music or magic). He interprets the Gatineau hills, part of the aged backbone of Canada, as none other has done:

> Look out and see,
> Above the heave and wrack of all that frets
> the temporary heart, the changeless scene,
> And in this huge and venerable land —
> the dark begetter of the continent, > strike down your days, and let your hours be veined > with the original granite of content.

Such lines stamp Mr. Wreford as a poet of Canada worthy of this land, and worthy of note. "The original granite of content"—a wonderful phrase. He was born in China.

The slender (92-page) volume is one in the post-war series "Indian File". May the publishers continue it. T.J.A.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And God said, Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters. And God made the firmament, and divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were above the firmament: and it was so. (Gen. 1: 6, 7.)

The Lord reigneth, he is clothed with majesty: the Lord is clothed with strength wherewith he hath girded himself: the world also is stablished, that it cannot be moved. Thy throne is established of old: thou art from everlasting. The floods have lifted up, O Lord, the floods have lifted up their voice; the floods lift up their waves.

The Lord on high is mightier than the noise of many waters, yea, than the mighty waves of the sea. Thy testimonies are very sure: holiness becometh thine house, O Lord, for ever. (Ps. 93: 1-5.)

The Prize Boob Of The Kremlin

Sir Maurice Peterson, the British diplomat who still remembers with keen pleasure his small-boy activities on the McGill campus where his father reigned as Principal, has written a book on his foreign missions. He describes Molotov, with whom for his sins he had many dealings, as "the little buttoned-up man whose smile seldom extended to his eyes." He remarked that his chief characteristic was "a tenacious obstinacy" and that, as Russian Foreign Minister, he "committed nearly every stupidity under the sun."

This is something useful to remember, for the myth of Soviet infallibility dies hard. But, since the object of foreign policy must surely be to win friends and influence people, it is a legitimate inference that Sir Maurice Peterson is dead right. Consider the consequences of post-war Soviet policies. Where have they won a single friend? Where have they influenced anyone without the use of chicanery backed up by force? Their satellites, apart from the tiny ruling cliques operating under the shield of their secret police, are seething with hatred. In Europe they have already lost one, and more will in due course follow, as soon as they can do so with reasonable safety.

As to the nations of the world not their satellites, Mr. Molotov has succeeded only in stimulating one of the biggest re-armament programs in the history of a world "at peace." If there is risk to the peace of the world today it flows solely from the aggressive, rudely-designed operations of the Politburo among whose members Molotov is touted as a possible successor to Stalin.

What a prospect for Russia, and what a prospect for the world!

Institue Buys Fire Ladder

BETHANY, Dec. 13—(ENS)—The December meeting of the Bethany Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. William Cavano on Monday night, with Mrs. H. L. Challice presiding and 26 members answering the roll call with a "Proverb". Mrs. T. Jennings gave her report of an executive meeting attended in Port Hope at which plans were made to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Institute branches to be held in Millbrook in the month of March. A letter of thanks was received from a former member, Mrs. Ralph Mulligan who had recently moved from the village, for the customary parting gift of a cup and saucer. Mrs. Challice reported that an extension ladder had been ordered to add to the fire fighting equipment for the village. Mrs. Hope Rayson, Mrs. R. Palmer and Mrs. H. Bristow were appointed to represent the Institute at the annual school meeting. Plans were completed to cater for the banquet to be given to the Bethany baseball team, winners of the North Durham League which will be held on Thursday night. Christmas cards were signed by all present to be sent to shut-in members.

Mrs. William Cavano gave a poem "Bethlehem". Mrs. Leonard Driver gave a reading "The Custom of Kissing".

Mrs. T. J. Jackson told of the life of Dr. Ralph Bunche, winner of the Nobel peace prize. 'Dr. Bunche, a negro, who had his office at Lake Success believes firmly that the UN is the only hope for world peace; and to a world critically short of peace making talent, he offers a deep understanding of the causes of peace and exemplifies qualities needed to help win it. When a man overcomes the handicap of color to gain world prestige, he becomes a source of inspiration to members of his own race as well as others. As top director of the department of trusteeship, Dr. Bunche supervises the spadework for this great project. The department checks on conditions in 64 colonial lands and 10 trust territories and transmits its findings through a committee to the General Assembly. Thus, his work furthers one of his most cherished personal desires; equality of treatment for all races and all peoples everywhere. He feels this is basic to lasting peace. It was inequalities, bad attitudes among the peoples, which caused restiveness in many parts of the world, the cumulative effect of which was responsible to a considerable extent for past wars."

Mrs. W. L. Rowan won a contest on pictured proverbs.

Christmas gifts were exchanged among the members.

Assisting the hostess to serve lunch were Mrs. Charles Stevenson, Mrs. L. Challice, Mrs. H. Ryley, Mrs. L. Driver and Mrs. Jackson.

Mrs. T. S. Gault moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Cavano for the use of her home.

30 Assessment Appeals Fail At Cobourg

COBOURG, Dec. 13 —(ENS)—Thirty west end residents appealed their assessments at a court of revision held here Monday. The appeals were based on the fact that odors from the nearby sewage disposal plant were a nuisance and depreciated property values. The court of revision in confirming all the assessments in question, drew attention to the fact that equipment was being installed which was designed to eliminate the objectionable odors and that in view of this a revision of the assessment was not in order.

Mayor Bucks Request For Land

COBOURG, Dec. 13 —(ENS)—Mayor Jack Burnet told council at its regular meeting here that the town already owned part of the land which the public school board was seeking to buy from W. J. Carey, chief of police. Some weeks ago the school board asked the town council to pass the necessary bylaw for the purchase of the Carey property at a figure of $10,000. At that time, Mayor Jack Burnet said he thought the cost was excessive and also declared he intended having a survey made.

Latest word from the mayor is that the survey revealed that Fraser Street, which is not used, runs right to D'Arcy Street, one of the boundaries of the Carey property. A fraction of the Carey property already belonged to the town, the mayor said.

It was the contention of the mayor that since the town owned part of the property in the agreement for sale between the school board and Mr. Carey, the agreement was therefore nullified.

Hubert Cooey, chairman of the 1950 school board, told The Examiner last night that the mayor's survey didn't alter the attitude of the board and it had been known that Fraser Street had been situated there. In the acquisition of the property, use of any land owned by the town could be transferred to the school board. The board had taken the necessary steps in accordance with the Dept. of Education regulation, Mr. Cooey said, and the agreement still stood.

Atkins Tosses Both Outside But Still Loses Mat Tussle

The "hard rock from down under"—Fred Atkins of Australia—had his brief moment of triumph at the finish of the main mat bout in the Brock Arena last night, but he still lost out. Though he strode about like a victorious bull ape in the ring "whence all but he had fled" (the hard way, at that), he was still disqualified and Yukon Eric's hand was raised by a groggy referee while a big crowd cheered.

This final fall came in six minutes with 281-pound Yukon Eric flat on his back out of the ring and Referee Sammy Getter out there, too, and even flatter—both being thrown there by the rough and hot-tempered Australian champion, who scales 256. Atkins defied either or both to return, or anyone or number of the crowd, as he stepped around angrily waving his arm, but no one took him up. Police finally escorted him through an antagonistic crowd. Earlier Eric had flipped him about with headlocks and had pinned him and the ref in the corner with chest slams, but Atkins came back fiercely with flying fists to subdue Eric on the ropes and then fling him out, tossing the ref out for good measure when the latter objected.

Body Slams

Eric won the second fall in slightly more than seven minutes with three rousing body slams after headlocks which dazed the Aussie. He stood off a flying tackle by Atkins off the ropes, and that started Fred down Punchy Lane. Eric also, in retaliation to the rough tactics used by the scrappy Fred, threw a few wicked punches with his beam-like arms and he proved too strong. Atkins worked a leglock for a space but could not get in enough pressure on his powerful opponent. He was faster, trickier and rougher than Eric, but brute strength paid off and the fans were happy.

The first fall came in 14 minutes when Atkins applied a hard leglock with pressure on the knee three times in a row to make Eric concede. He was not as strong or popular as the big, clean Alaskan—who wore blue jeans and grappled in his bare feet—but he was full of drive, and refused to slow down. Eric threw off his best holds earlier by a show of power, but the tricky Australian changed his tactics to meet and offset that strength with continuous and rough action that drew the ire of the fans and had the 180-lb. referee on the jump. It was a good bout all the way.

Dave a Dandy

Two Hamilton huskies, Dave Simms, 220, and the 234-pound Abe Zvonkin, transferred their preliminaries to the semi-final—when Morgan had to leave early—and dished up a dandy duel. It was ruled a draw in 30 minutes, but actually went 32 minutes as they refused to heed the bell. Simms was highly popular with his fast, clean mat work and his amazing acrobatics (reminding one of Frankie Hart) while Zvonkin was a downright villain all the way. And the referee was useless but noisy. After a hot, open bout with everything seen, Abe was tosed hard out on the ring apron and he came back plenty sore to throw fists. They both forgot wrestling and were boxing hard at the bell and for two minutes afterward, with no punches pulled, as the crowd yelled.

Wee Willie Davis, bumping the beam at 275, took the first bout in 18 minutes over 236-pound Toar Morgan with a series of back rolls and a spread. For good measure, he booted Toar a few after the gong to earn some more boos. Davis played it rough throughout, but some spots of good grappling were seen and the fans went for the action. An armlock finished Toar for a time, but he got in one of his own to bother the big Hollywood villain. Davis finally sloved up Morgan with a flock of hard smashes to set him up for the back-rolling business preceding the fall.

Three Teams Entered By St. Peter's

After the 1949-50 basketball season which saw St. Peter's High School's first bid for COSSA basketball honors pounded into the hardwood floors, the school has decided to enter not two but three teams in lakeshore district competition this year.

Coach Fred Allore said today that at last week's meeting in Oshawa the separate high school entered senior, junior and bantam teams in the division with the PCVS seconds and Lindsay Collegiate. The schedule includes home and home games with the semi-finals to be played with the winner of the PCVS first—OCVI—Oshawa Central group on February 16 and 23.

The senior SPS team will also enter the newly-formed Ontario Catholic Athletic Conference basketball league this year. This district includes DeLaSalle of Toronto, St. Michael's of Toronto, St. Jerome's of Kitchener and SPS. This is the first time that the conference has branched into basketball.

Drill Problems

Practice space is SPS' largest handicap. Without a gym in the school the cagers are using every little bit of space available. On Monday and Wednesday nights the teams are working out after eight p.m. Saturday mornings offer them several hours more.

Last year lack of practice by the junior and bantam teams in the lakeshore league was evident, although they did show signs of life near the end of the season. They also lacked height.

Coach Allore reported that the squads again this year will be "very short" but added "will be speedy." They open the lakeshore league in Lindsay on January 5 and return here for three games on January 12.

Coach Allore will be handling all the teams. Two years ago he led the DeLaSalle of London juniors to the district championship of the WOSSA group.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Eagles play Petes at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena, and lo, a large throng will take in this OHA senior "B" tidbit. A win for the Magee men would put them in a first-place tie with the Petes, while a victory for the Jopling squad would shoot them out two games in front. Eagles have been playing up-and-down hockey lately, losing twice to Belleville and twice to Nylons, yet they haven't dropped a decision this season to the Petes. Latter have been romping through all opposition except Eagles, and they think they'll crack that jinx tonight. Well, you pay your money and you take your choice. Ought to be a swell scrap in any case.

* * * * * *

Fast-stepping Bill Crowley is still top scorer for the Eagles. In a dozen games he has scored 12 goals and aided on 11 more for an average of almost two points a game. Yes, 23 points, and he looks in for a hefty season. His line-mates are clicking well, too. Both Dootch Vitarelli and Joe Rochetta have 15 points to date. Bert Hill is right up there with 14, while Freddy Mortimer and Bob Paranall have 13 apiece. Sixty Coombs and Andy Milne have 11 each. Every one has been doing some scoring, except Johnny Godfrey and Al Burns—two fine defencemen—and they've done some assisting on the attack.

* * * * * *

Leading Lamp Lighter

Arn Dugan leads the lamp-lighters on the Petes' squad with a fine mark of 25 points, made up of 13 goals and 12 assists in 12 games, a bit better than two points a tussle. He got the habit from leading the OLA snipers last summer. Honey Tompkins and Chum Fryia are other potent puck picklers with 20 points apiece, while Gus Leonard and Jake Wade are tied with 17 each. Freddy Garvey has 13 and Junior West 12, none of the others being too well up as yet. All have scored but Drake Joplin and Earl Leonard, but each of these defencemen has aided on goals. That's how it is up to now.

* * * * * *

Sorry to hear of the death yesterday of Jimmy Drummond here, at the age of 32. He moved here early last summer and was mentioned this fall as a possible coach for the Eagles, but he wasn't at all well. Jimmy played for Oshawa Generals on defence when that team won the Memorial Cup in 1938-39 and also starred there and in Toronto (his home city) in softball. Was good enough at the latter game to hold his own with Danforths, Varcoe's and People. And in hockey, he was with Goodyear and Marlboro seniors (and Cornwall while an army officers) before going pro with New York Rangers. Played for several clubs and was injured while performing for Philadelphia. Never recovered his health. It's tough to see a capable young athlete like that die.

A Guy With A Temper

If we had to do it, we'd sooner meet Yukon Eric in the ring than Fred Atkins. While Eric would only half-kill you handily, he'd do it in a clean manner, but that hot-headed Aussie would pull you apart bit by bit. He's a terrific fighter and even the big Alaskan admitted that he was "about done out" at the end of last night's main mat bout here. Eric won it but he did it outside the ring, he and the ref being tossed there by the fighting Fred, who was disqualified. He isn't as strong as Eric but isn't a bit afraid of the huge lumberjack at any time. We liked the athletic ability of Dave Simms against Abe Zvonkin, and Dave could easily become a mat hero here if he is available again. It went to a fist-fighting draw. Wee Willie Davis downed Toar Morgan in the other go.

Annual meeting of the new Ontario Football Association, taking over from the Ontario Soccer Commission, will be held in Toronto on Feb. 24. Some $3,500 will be turned over to the new ruling body, and a board of control set up for 1951. One representative from each member association will vote at the annual, these being from Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor, Chatham, London, Sudbury, Peterborough, Belleville and Kingston. The commission started two years ago with a $50 loan from the D.F.A. and has since then built up a solvent organization which will be known in the future as the OFA.

Select New Man

Major league club owners unanimously voted Tuesday to select and elect a new commissioner as soon as possible in place of A. B. Chandler.

The announcement of the club owners followed a lengthy session which was attended by Chandler in person during part of the session.

The action followed by less than 24 hours the owners' refusal on three ballots to give Chandler a new term as high commissioner beginning May 1, 1952.

St. Mikes Strong Offensive Topples Barrie Flyers 6-0

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Marlboros today are three points in front of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A field and some of the credit is due Toronto St. Michael's, up till Tuesday night a pretty weak brother of the Marlies.

In the first game of a Toronto doubleheader Tuesday night, St. Mikes uncorked a surprisingly-strong offensive that set the powerful Barrie Flyers—the 10-team loop's second-place team—down for a 6-0 lacing.

It was only the sixth victory for St. Mikes in 21 games this season. It gave the Marlies a chance to put some distance between themselves and the runner-up Barrie squad.

And Marlies took advantage, boosting their point-total to 30 against 27 for Flyers, by defeating third place Oshawa Generals 6-3 in the second half of the twin bill. A victory for the Oshawa team, which has 26 points, would have meant a tie for first place.

Drop Another Game

In the other Tuesday night contest, Waterloo Hurricanes dropped another game as expected but the game, with Galt Black Hawks also provided an interlude not according to the book. At the end of the second period the teams indulged in the biggest free for all seen on Galt ice in years. Hurricanes lost 6-4, their 20th defeat this season. The last place Waterloo sextet's best effort has been a tie game two months ago.

The Black Hawks' win moved them up from a three-way tie for sixth place with Windsor and Guelph, past St. Catharines and into a tie for fourth place with Stratford, three points back of Oshawa.

Big gun for the giant-killing St. Mikes was Dan MacDonald who scored twice, Bill Dineen, Jack Weldarake, Mike Ratchford and Willie Marshall scored singletons.

Top Scorers

Parker MacDonald and Bill MacFarland were the top scorers for the league leaders, each netting two goals. John Lumley and Eric Nesterenko scored Marlies other goals. Alex Delvecchio, Stan Mills and Rene Leroux were the Oshawa marksmen. Lou Jankowski collected two assists to give him the league lead in the point-scoring race, one better than Delvecchio.

At Galt Pete Conacher and Tony Poeta were the Black Hawks' big goal-getters with Len Cooke and Jack Price each adding singletons. Waterloo's counters went to Don Campbell, who scored two. Don MacIntosh and Rene Dinnette.

Lindsay Muskies Upset Port Hope Team 4-3

PORT HOPE, Dec. 13—Lindsay Muskies upset Port Hope Redmen in an OHA Intermediate A fame here, 4-3 in overtime, and dropped the Redmen from first place. They had held this position since the league got under way a month ago. It was Lindsay's first win in five games.

George Sinclair was the hero for Lindsay as he rapped in the winning counter at 7:10 of the overtime session.

Port Hope scored three goals in the first period and held that margin throughout a goalless second. In the third Lindsay banged in four quick counters to take the lead. The Redmen tied the score with less than a minute left in regulation time and so set the stage for Lindsay's overtime win.

The Casey-Legrow-Crichton line accounted for Port Hope's goals.

Sawchuk Fills Adams' Hunch He's Star Goalie

By MEL SUFRIN,

Terrence Gordon Sawchuk, a young man who won't reach his 21st birthday until late this month is making Jack Adams look good in the role of judge of hockey talent.

With the National League season about one-third finished, the young Detroit Red Wings' goaltender is displaying the stuff that manager Adams gambled on when he sent brilliant Harry Lumley to Chicago and brought Terry up from the minors this year.

There was considerable criticism of the Adams move at the time, because Lumley had been one of the best netminders in the league for five years. Those critics are probably eating their words now, particularly if they are up on statistics which show Sawchuk with a 1.92 goals-against average for 24 games, best in the league with the exception of Toronto's Al Rollins, who has appeared in only nine games.

Years of Preparation

The shift which sent Sawchuk to the big time this year was the culmination of years of preparation which began when the Winnipeg-born kid came to play for Windsor Spitfires, a Detroit farm club in the Ontario Junior A series.

Adams knew he had a future NHL star right then, and his prediction was borne out after stepping-stone seasons with Omaha and Indianapolis, two other Red Wings farm clubs.

Sawchuk will put his goaltending record up for a stiff test tonight when the Red Wings visit Toronto to take on the league-leading Maple Leafs. Rollins will probably be in the net for Toronto, although the choice between him and Turk Broda hasn't been definitely announced this morning.

To Join Saints

St. Paul of the United States Hockey League announced Tuesday that Bob Manson, wingman on the recently disbanded New Haven Eagles of the American Hockey League, will join the Saints Wednesday.

Manson, property of New York Rangers, will make his first appearance with the Saints at St. Paul Sunday against Omaha.

To make room for Manson, the Saints are sending Val Deloyrh, Toronto born wingman, to Kansas City, which will send Hub Anslow, winger from Pembroke, Ont., to Tacoma, Wash., in the Pacific International League.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Montreal Wanderers were one of Canada's great hockey teams. It was 46 years ago today that several veteran stars, including Jack Marshall and Dickie Bonn signed contracts and turned out to practice for the 1904-05 season, but Wanderers didn't cop the Stanley Cup until 1905-06, ending a three-year run by Ottawa.

Toronto Teams Steal Show In OHA Race

By The Canadian Press.

A peek at the Ontario Hockey Association standings shows why the old cry of "Hogtown Toronto" is being revived in hockey circles.

Toronto teams head the standings in both the major and junior A series in games up to Tuesday night and another Toronto squad is providing most of the opposition in the major loop. About the only place the other teams get a look-in is in individual junior statistics.

A strong drive in recent weeks has pulled the Allan Cup champion Marlboros to within two points of the leading Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs in the major series. Marlboros have won nine, one more than Monarchs, but St. Mike's have taken the verdict in both four-point games between the clubs so far. Hamilton Tigers and Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen remain well behind the leaders.

Marlboro juniors round out the picture by heading the 10-team junior A league, one point ahead of Barrie Flyers who in turn are but only a point ahead of Oshawa Generals. Stratford, St. Catharines, Guelph, Windsor, and Galt are tightly-packed behind the leaders with St. Michael's and Waterloo trailing.

Bobbie Hassard, brilliant young centre for the senior Marlboros, supplied most of the scoring punch for his team's recent climb and pulled within two points of the league's leading sniper, Johnny Ubriaco of St. Mike's. Ubriaco has 22 points, Hassard 20, and St. Mike's Gord Hannigan and Marlboros' Billy Johnson are tied for third with 17.

Even in the goalkeepers' records, Toronto dominates. St. Mike's Phil Hughes maintained his least-scored-on record with only 32 goals against him in 12 games, an average of 2.67 a game. Ed Rafferty of Marlboros is second with a 3.15 average, Boat Hurley of Kitchener third with 3.94, and Hamilton's Art Childs fourth with 4.12.

Oshawa's high-scoring forwards Alex Delvecchio and Lou Jankowski are far ahead in the junior league's scoring race, Delvecchio leading his teammate by one point, 47 to 46. Three players are tied for third. St. Catharines hotshot goalie, Don Simmons, has a goals-against average of 2.55 a game to lead the netminders. Don Lockhart of Marlboros is second with 2.93.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

Ran across an old curling schedule book the other evening—it was dated 1911. We read it from cover to cover and found that there are only four present day members who were members of the club at that time: C. G. Graham, Ray Best, J. W. McDermid and H. R. Martin.

There were 32 schedule rinks and the schedule was run on the points system. If you won your game with all of your own rink, you got 10 points. You were deducted two points for each sub. The games were 14 ends, the Tankard and district cup games were 22 ends. All schedule games were set to start at 7:45 p.m.; if not underway by 8:10 p.m. it was marked as a default.

We had an all-week open bonspiel and get this—no fee—our committee hired the Brock St. rink for three days and many tons of granite were drawn back and forth from one rink to another. No matter how late you played the night before you had to be at the rink the next morning by 8:30 o'clock sharp. Those were the good old days, when men were men and there was a big billboard on each street corner. Chris. Graham played as an unattached member. Some of the rinks were:

Rink No. 7—F. Cressman, J. W. Kelly, R. P. Best, T. E. Butler-Yeotes, Skip.

Rink No. 18—Dr Amys, H. R. Martin, J. W. Brightman, T. F. Lockhart, skip.

Rink No. 32—H. H. Elliott, W. P. Adamson, W. H. Dunsford, J. W. McDermid, skip.

Many of the old timers will well remember this rink: Rev. H. J. Keith, (Knox Church); Rev J. R. Webb, (Murray St. Baptist); Rev. R. Pogue, (St. Paul's); Rev. G. W. Henderson (Charlotte St. Methodist), skip.

And we could go on and on with some more old time records but it will have to wait for another day.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Max Bentley, centre star with Toronto Maple Leafs, practised with the team Tuesday after being sidelined for the last three games with an infected ankle. The veteran, who leads the National Hockey League in scoring, likely will play in tonight's game in Toronto against Detroit Red Wings.

Two other Leafs, Sid Smith and Johnny McCormack, injured Sunday night at Detroit, sat out Tuesday's drill.

Welterweight champion Ray Robinson, considered by many expert observers the greatest fighter of the generation, has been named winner of the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque by the New York Boxing Writers' Association.

This is the award that Sugar Ray probably will prize above all others. It is given to the man who has done the most for boxing during the year and is named in honor of Neil, the former Associated Press boxing writer who was killed in 1937 while serving as a war correspondent in Spain.

A superb boxer, with a magnificent fight record, the 30-year-old New Yorker joins a select company of ring standouts and succeeds Ezzard Charles, the heavyweight champion who was picked last year.

One of the key reasons for Robinson's selection in a vote by the writers was his contribution to the Damon Runyon cancer fund. Sugar Ray put his title on the line and donated his purse to the fund in a 15-round bout with Charlie Fusari in Jersey City last Aug. 9. Robinson easily won the decision.

Robinson's record shows 117 victories, one loss and two draws in 10 years of professional boxing. The lone defeat was to Jake La Motta, now middleweight champion of the world, and Robinson more than made up for that by defeating La Motta four times.

Tommy Yarosz, light heavyweight contender from Pittsburgh was disqualified for holding after 2:15 of the eighth round of his 10-rounder with Randolph Turpin, British Empire middleweight champion, in London last night. Yarosz weighed 168¾, Turpin 163.

Referee Ben Green warned the American in almost every round about his clinging tactics. Turpin, meanwhile gave Yarosz a steady going over with both hands that brought blood from Yarosz' nose and from cuts under and over his left eye.

London honored the University of Western Ontario Mustangs, senior intercollegiate football champions Tuesday night, with a civic dinner and the presentation to players of book-ends marked with civic crest, their names and achievements.

Following dinner Mayor George A. Wenige told players that they were ambassadors, bringing to the city more publicity than any other group.

Cleveland Indians Buy Tebbetts From Boston

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 13 (AP).—Cleveland Indians have purchased catcher George (Birdie) Tebbetts from Boston Red Sox, general manager Hank Greenberg of Cleveland announced early today.

The 36-year-old Tebbetts, who came up to the big leagues in 1936 with Detroit, batted .310 in 79 games last year.

Greenberg revealed that it was a straight cash deal with no players involved. He declined to announce the sum.

Tebbetts came to the Red Sox in 1947, and in 1948 and 1949 was voted on the American League all-star team. His 79 games last year was his lowest since 1938.

Tebbetts, a noisy little receiver known for his squeaky voice, is regarded as one of the smartest backstops in the game.

This gives the Indians three catchers with big-league experience. The others are Jim Hegan and Ray Murray.

The sale of Tebbetts leaves the Red Sox with only two catchers—Matt Batts and Warren (Buddy) Rosar. It is expected that the Red Sox will deal for another catcher to take Tebbett's place.

Catching was one of Boston's weak spots last year.

Combines Outscore Belleville Redmen 8-4

KINGSTON, Dec. 13—Queen's University Combines outscored the wavering Belleville Redmen 5-1 in the opening period of Monday night's OHA Senior game in the Harty Arent, and chalked up three more counters before the visitors staged a three-goal rally in the final session in an 8-4 losing battle.

It was the Combines' second triumph of the season and it prevented the Bells from remaining on even terms with the Nylons.

Don Murray, who performed the three-goal hat trick was the star of the game, but Ron Murray, with three assists, and Carr-Harris and Keenleyside, each two goals, were also effective. Ross McKelvey got a goal and an assist.

Green and Mulvihill did the shining for the visitors, the former getting two goals and an assist, and the latter one goal and two assists. Bastedo, with a goal, and Jack Wardhaugh, with an assist, were the other point-getters

Two Horses Divide Honors At Dufferin

TORONTO, Dec. 13 (CP). — Tony Macgrattan, owned by T. Lennox of Spencerville, Ont., and driven by Russell Caldwell, and Nancy Patch, owned by R. Walker of Allenford, Ont., and driven by H. McLean, divided honors in the featured fifth race on Tuesday's harness racing card at Dufferin Park. Each won one heat and finished fourth in the other.

In the first heat Tony Macgrattan followed the leaders for the first quarter-mile, then went to the front and kept that position.

Nancy Patch assumed an early lead in the second heat and, despite repeated bids by Jocose, won handily. Jocose, owned by Parker Locke of Williamsburg, Ont., finished second in both heats.

The fourth event, a classified trot, was a split affair with Peter B. Harvester, owned by the Armstrong brothers of Brampton, Ont., and driven by Jack Bannerman, and Pablo Hanover, owned and driven by Eddie Jones of Oswego, N. Y. Each won a heat.

Dazzling Prices For Wool Pleases Breeders

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Dec. 13—(Reuters)—While sheep raisers are jubilant over the dazzling prices paid for their wool at the first two sales of the season, many other New Zealanders are perturbed by the rising cost of living.

Prices paid at the sales have averaged almost three times those paid last season.

Probably the most elated group at the Auckland sales are veterans of the Second World War who started sheep raising with the help of public or private loans. They will be able to bank large cheques, reducing loans and mortgages on their farms and ranches.

Not Fair

But citizens living on fixed incomes feel they are being left behind. They see increasing signs of inflation and deplore the ease with which retailers mark up the prices of essential commodities.

In less than 20 years wool prices have ranged from depressing depths to dazzling heights; New Zealand has been lifted from poverty to wealth. In the early 1930s many sheep farmers faced bankruptcy. Today, they have bulging bank balances.

New Zealand's National Party government, in its first year of office, has been steadily reducing controls imposed by its Laor predecesor. Government subsidies to stabilize industry and prices now have been reduced by two-thirds.

It would therefore seem that, however fantastic prices for export commodities such as wool may be, the governing economic factor in New Zealand is most likely to be the well-tried law of supply and demand.

Telegraph Operator Takes Blame For Canoe River Train Wreck Which Brought Death To 21 People

EDMONTON, Dec. 13 (CP).—Albert John Atherton, 22-year-old railway telegraph operator, Tuesday shouldered the blame for the Nov. 21 Canoe River train wreck which caused the death of 21 persons and injured scores of others.

The tall, bespectacled young man, who first learned operating technique as a boy when his father was a railway station agent, said his failure to comply with railway regulations in transmission of train orders resulted in the wreck.

The admission came at the second day of the Board of Transport Commissioners' inquiry into the head-on collision between a troop train and a passenger train. The crash occurred on a mountain curve on the Canadian National Railways main line through the Rocky Mountains in northern British Columbia, 312 miles west of here.

The inquiry is expected to end today.

Atherton, who has been "suspended" by the company, was the operator at Red Pass Junction, B. C., who relayed a telephoned train order to the conductor of the westbound troop train.

He said Tuesday that the wreck would not have happened if he had listened to a "repeat" of the train despatcher's order.

Two vital words—"at Cedarside"—were omitted by Atherton, and resulted in the troop and passenger trains operating on "overlapping orders."

Order No. 248, governing movement of the two trains, was passed by despatcher A. E. Tisdale of Kamloops, B. C., to Atherton at Red Pass Junction and F. E. Parsons, operator at Blue River, B. C.

Conductor J. A. Mainprize of the troop train received the following order from Atherton:

"Passenger extra 3538 (the troop train) meet No. 2 engine 6004 and No. 4, 6057 Gosnell."

Conductor M. W. Graham of passenger No. 2 received this order, the correct version, from Parsons:

"Passenger extra 3538 meet No. 2 engine 6004 at Cedarside and No. 4 engine 6057 at Gosnell."

Tisdale and Parsons both testified they heard Atherton repeat the correct version to Tisdale.

Atherton said he heard Parsons start his repeat but then went on with his work and did not listen to it being completed. He admited he would have caught his error if he had listened.

The young operator said there was no noise on the telephone line for about 25 seconds after Tisdale gave the words "engine 6004" and the next words he received were "and No. 4, 6057 Gosnell." He denied repeating the words "at Cedarside" to Tisdale and said he got a "clear" after repeating the order to the despatcher.

Telegraph and telephone personnel of the railway testified they had no record of any disturbance on the lines the day of the wreck.

U.S. Car Production Faces 50% Cut

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 13 (AP). —Henry Ford II said Tuesday that United States automobile production next year may be cut back as much as 50 per cent from record-breaking 1950 levels.

"The guiding factor will be the materials situation," the 33-year-old president of Ford Motor Company said at a press conference.

Ford admitted that he and his planners already had been forced to revise their estimates of 1951 production programs since their guess at a 25 per cent reduction last September.

Something to remember

This is one of a series of words and expressions whose origins and meanings are published in the interest of a better understanding, use and knowledge of the English language.

"SANDWICH"

The "sandwich" is named after John Montague, the fourth Earl of Sandwich and was originally used to describe a piece of meat served between two slices of bread.

The Earl of Sandwich (1718-1792) was a noted gambler of his day and often spent whole days at his favorite pastime. On one of these occasions he bid the waiter bring him refreshment, specifying a piece of meat between two pieces of bread. Thus, from 1762 on, this contrivance has been called "sandwich" even though the Romans, many years before, employed a similar form of food, although calling it by a different name.

16 Charges Following Hunt Bring $700 In Fines

On 16 charges under the Game and Fisheries Act, $700 was paid in fines in police court Tuesday.

The charges ranged from having a rifle that was not plugged to having shot a deer on the Peterborough Crown Game Preserve.

Top fines of $100 each were paid by Robert Trenear, RR 2, Colborne, and George Bird, Brighton, who pleaded guilty to a joint charge of having killed an elk in Methuen township Nov. 6.

Each Fined $100

Roy Mitchell, and Albert Whitehouse, both of Brighton were each fined $100 on two charges each. They pleaded guilty to having a rifle on the Game Preserve and having a deer on the Game Preserve.

Game Overseer Robert H. Trotter, Apsley, testified that Nov. 13 while he was chasing Mitchell and Whitehouse, Mitchell fired a rifle. He said he did not know whether the rifle was fired at him or just to scare him.

He said while paddling in their canoe down Eel's Creek which is the west boundary of the preserve with Game Overseer D. L. McEachern, Haliburton, he saw tracks of men having crossed the creek at a shallow spot. The tracks led into the preserve. He followed the tracks while McEachern stayed with the canoe.

About a mile and a half inside the preserve, he lost the tracks. He circled and started back. About a mile from the boundary, he saw Mitchell and Whitehouse.

They saw him at the same instant and started to run. Warden Trotter gave chase. After he had run about 25 yards, he heard a shot directly in front of him where he could also hear the two men crashing through the underbrush.

He caught up to them and saw Mitchell pumping shells from his rifle, a .3030 Savage. Among the shells was an empty cartridge case. Mitchell said someone had shot at them.

The two men said something about chasing lost dogs and on the way out said they had followed a wounded deer into the park. They asked him if he was going to bring out the deer.

The two men were released at Eel's Creek and the two game wardens went back into the preserve where Officer Trotter showed his colleague the shells.

Found the Deer

They then back-tracked and found the deer. It had been wounded back of the shoulder and Officer Trotter said in his opinion the deer could not have run more than 50 yards after being shot. In fact he thought it dropped in its tracks when shot. He said the deer had been dead some time because it was starting to stiffen out.

Mitchell said he had wounded the deer with two shots and followed it across the creek. He said he knew he had crossed the boundary into the preserve, but he thought it was within the law to do so. He learned later he had to get permission to go into the preserve after the deer and leave his gun behind.

He said he and Whitehouse were not out to break the law.

"We go hunting every year lawfully," he said.

Jacklighting Deer

Two Americans, Joseph Fantelli and Floyd P. Fantelli of Cleveland, were charged with carrying loaded rifles after dark, an offence known as jacklighting deer and paid fines of $50 each to Game Overseer McEachern.

Through a mistake on a summons sent to Gerald F. O'Brien, 204 Wolsley St., he was told he could enter a written plea of guilty and pay a fine of $20 on a charge of having a rifle on the Game Preserve. The mimimum for such a charge is $50.

Acting Crown Attorney Walter Howell said the court could legally set a higher fine and O'Brien had no option but to pay it. Magistrate W. R. Philp KC said he thought the court and the crown should lean over backwards to be reasonable in such cases.

But the mimimum stated in the Game and Fisheries Act was $50, Mr. Howell argued.

"Then let the crown appeal it," said the magistrate.

O'Brien was also charged jointly with having a deer in the preserve together with his companion, Clifford McInroy, 24 Cricket Place. These charges and a charge against McInroy of having a rifle on the reserve was also adjourned to Dec. 19.

Harold Minifie, Plainsville, PO, pleaded guilty to not having his repeating shot gun plugged so that it could not be loaded with more than three shells, Nov. 8. He was fined $10 and costs.

Two other men charged with the same offence pleaded not guilty and their cases were adjourned to Dec. 19. They were Roy Vincent, Havelock, and Eric A. Emery, 92 Princess St.

Reduced Fine

Albert Holland, Havelock, pleaded guilty to having a loaded rifle in a car Nov. 11 and was fined $20. Alex Emery, 68, Norwood, also paid a fine of $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying a loaded rifle in a car. The mimimum fine for the charge is $20, but Magistrate Philp told Emery he was reducing the fine "because of your age."

In a mood of defiance, Howard Simmons, Trenton, pleaded guilty to being on the game preserve with a rifle, but said rather than pay his $50 fine, he would go to jail for a month.

"There should have been a sign there," he said. Finally after much discussion, his father paid the fine.

Bob Baynes, Toronto, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of having a loaded rifle in his car and was fined $20 and costs. Francis Freeburn, Young's Point, pleaded guilty to carrying a rifle in the closed season, Nov. 3, and paid a $20 fine.

C. N. Sage, Whitby, was fined $50 for shooting a buck under one year. Wilfred Stevenson paid a $50 fine for illegally shooting a female deer.

Urge Senate Okay Seaway

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—Senator George D. Aiken (Rep. Vt.) Monday urged the Senate to approve the proposed St. Lawrence seaway and power project at once as a defence measure.

"In the Niagara and St. Lawrence Rivers there is today 9,000,000 horsepower of electricity going to waste," he said. This is the equivalent of the human labor of 135,000,000 Chinese coolies.

"If our boys are to fight in the Far East or anywhere else in the world, they are going to need those God-given horsepower behind them at home."

He said that of the 9,000,000, 2,000,000 belongs to the United States and 7,000,000 to Canada.

A strong Canada was "essential to the safety of our own country."

Full-Time Coyote Hunters Operating In Saskatchewan

REGINA, Dec. 13 —(CP)— The mournful howl of the coyote—No. 1 enemy of farmers, ranchers and poultry raisers in Alberta and Saskatchewan—rings with seemingly undiminished defiance over the prairies despite costly and elaborate measures aimed at extinction.

The cunning coyote, whose description and characteristics lie somewhere between those of wild dog and a wolf, also takes its toll in Manitoba although it is regarded there as "small fry" compared with the wolf. Some roam through British Columbia but elsewhere in Canada they are virtually unknown.

Alberta game officials say the coyote population is comparable with Saskatchewan's estimated 100,000. The predators are increasing rapidly in these provinces and declining in Manitoba where they roam in considerably less numbers.

Coyotes are most troublesome when they run short of their natural food, mostly rabbits.

Losses $100,000

Saskatchewan game officials estimate losses to coyotes in that province exceed $100,000 this year. Officials in the other provinces are unable to make an estimate. But depradations of coyotes is given as one of the main reasons for the decline of Alberta's sheep population from 975,000 in 1945 to 114,000 this year.

Alberta will ask the federal government to establish some form of coyote-control in national parks and Indian reserves or to give provincial authorities permission to enter these areas and kill them.

Aerial hunts — conducted in winter when snow - covered ground makes the coyote good targets to low-flying marksmen—have met with considerable success in Alberta. In a two-month period this year, 2,497 coyotes were bagged.

The Alberta campaign is done mostly by contract with municipalities or registered associations. The latter provide the hunters and the province pays 75 per cent of the cost. A $5 bounty is paid only in contract hunts.

In Saskatchewan, full-time coyote hunters employed by the provincial game branch operate in more than half of the settled area of the province. For each group of 10 municipalities, there is a full-time hunter assisted by the district game warden.

HAMILTON, Dec. 13—(CP)—City council Tuesday night approved a bylaw to curb the smoke nuisance in this industrial city of 167,000 population. Under the bylaw, no one will be permitted to allow smoke of greater density than 40 per cent to escape for periods totalling more than 10 minutes an hour.

Wins Acquittal

TORONTO, Dec. 13—(CP) — Leo Washington, 20, convicted in Windsor recently of trying to rape a 16 year old girl, won acquittal Tuesday from the Ontario Appeal Court. It said Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel misdirected the jury. The jurors had asked whether "it was incumbent upon an arresting officer to tell the accused person what charges he faces." Mr. Justice LeBel had replied that in this instance it was not.

Workers At Chalk River Atomic Plant Take Keen Precautions, Strip Twice A Day To Avoid Possible Radio-Activity

By DOUGLAS HOW.

CHALK RIVER, Dec. 13 (CP). —Canadian universities, industry and medicine are getting quantities of revolutionary research tools called radio-isotopes now, but it takes a nudist show twice a day to do it.

Every morning when they go to work in the isotopes building the workers have to strip off their clothes, pass along a corridor and put on others. Every night when they come out they have to strip again, take a shower, monitor or check their hands and feet in special apparatus, then put on their own clothes and call it a day.

The reason is the danger of radio-activity, the emission of potentially lethal rays or particles turned loose in the atomic process.

This danger leads to numerous other precautions in the isotopes building, one of 100 on this atomic energy project and the core of its one production line so far having practical applications in the outside world.

Great Research Aid

The isotopes are radio-active tracer atoms that emerge as a by-product from the energy-releasing processes of the reactor, or radioactive pile. Their rays allow them to be traced in the human body, in industrial processes, in insects and grubs burrowing under the earth, even in mosquitoes in flight. They have been called the greatest research tool discovered since the microscope.

In three years Chalk River has made 650 shipments to Canadian universities, research groups, hospitals, and industry, and 70 to users abroad. They now go out at an average of one a day, the isotopes shielded in containers, mostly going by rail but occasionally by air because they've got to have that radio-active spark to be useful, and some can lose it fast.

Chalk River has produced 32 different types of radio-isotopes, ranging from cobalt to iodine. They look just like Cobalt or iodine or whatever they are, except that they are radio-active—they have that spark.

Their clinical use against cancer and other diseases has been scouted but scientists say "it will probably be found their greatest medical benefit will be as a sensitive tool with which to discover biological processes rather than clinical applications." In other words, to learn what causes cancer, rather than trying to attack it.

The research uses are numerous and increasing. One example is assessing the wear of piston rings in engines. One clinical use has been found for them combatting leukemia, dreaded blood disease. They can locate internal faults in castings.

But they're rough to handle. The entire isotopes building is a monument to caution. Its work of chemical separation, testing, measuring and preparing for shipment is done inside glass cases called dry boxes, the hands working through special gloves attached to openings. Some of it proceeds by remote control behind heavy lead shielding.

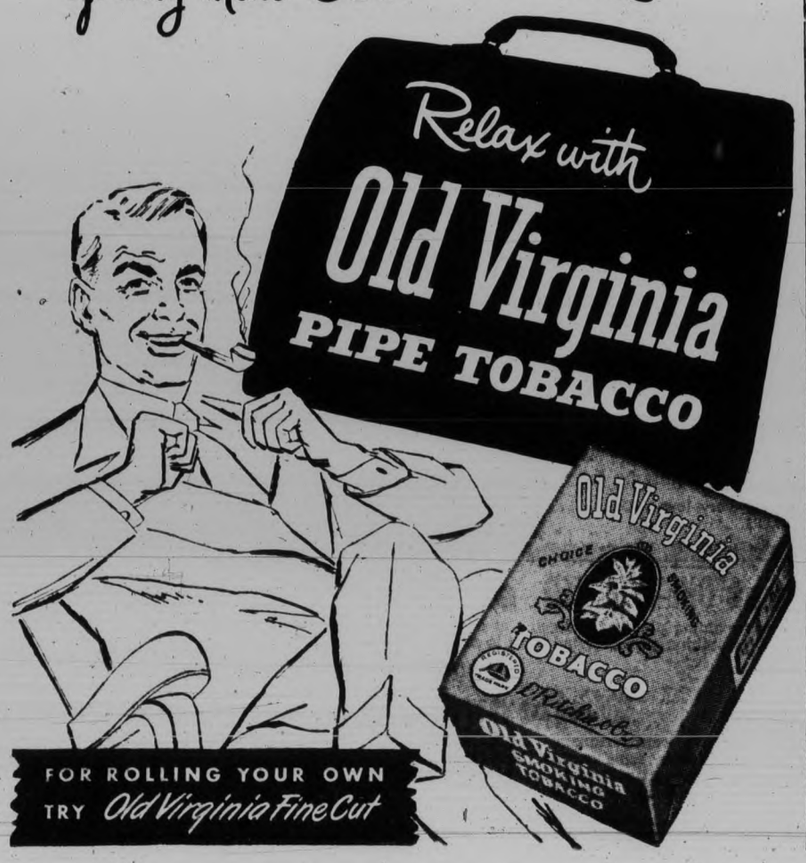
Young Men GOING PLACES



Better hurry to Tamblyns

Ask Jamblyn's

TRAVELLING MOTHER: "My husband has been transferred to Saint John, N.B. That means I will have to take my two children, Danny, 7, and Diane, 4, down by train. How long will this trip take? What should the children wear? What should I tip the porter? Will I have any trouble on board train? What will our meals cost?"

Here's the opinion of most travellers. Your children will thoroughly enjoy the train trip which will take 17 hours. Your children will be most comfortable in sweaters and a skirt or overalls. That means they can play up and down the aisles and in the club car. Children's meals are a specialty on the diner and with a special price. Meals for the three of you shouldn't cost more than $12 to $15. Your porter should be tipped at least a dollar for carrying for the three of you, and on each leg of your journey—e.g. from Toronto to Montreal and from Montreal to Saint John. You will have no trouble whatever. Will lend both passengers and porter helpful.

CHRISTMAS SALAD: "Please give me a recipe for an easy to make jellied Christmas salad."

Here's one of the best we've had this season. Put one cup raw cranberries and two oranges through the food chopper. Dissolve two red jelly powders in four cups of boiling hot liquid (this includes the orange juice and cranberry juice in the mix). When the mixture begins to set, add chopped cranberries and oranges (rind and all), plus a finely diced apple. Pour into an oiled pan, chill till set, cut in squares, serve with cooked salad dressing.

Transportation Problems Remain To Forefront In Canada In 1950

By JOHN LEBLANC

OTTAWA, Dec. 13 (CP) — Transportation problems remained to the forefront in Canada during 1950.

Rail freight rates continued as a dominant issue, and as the year closed one more in the post-war series of freight-rate battles was shaping up between the railways and the provinces.

In the spotlight much of the year was the Royal Commission on Transportation, which the federal government set up two years ago to find the answers to many of the puzzles complicating the transportation picture.

The three-man commission under Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon completed its investigation during the year and now is in the final stages of writing a report that may touch off many changes in the transport field, particularly in railway operations.

The report is expected to be filed with the government fairly early in the year—possibly before March—and in time for action at the 1951 session of parliament.

The freight-rate issue in many of its aspects was under study by the commission, and its bulky report is expected to deal exhaustively with this subject that has been a matter of contention since the close of the war. The commission has received proposals from the railways, seven provincial governments, shippers and others.

Highway Transport

An issue which the commission also will deal with is the thorny question of highway transport in relation to rail operations. The railways have claimed that highway competition has endangered their financial position, and there have been demands for various additional regulatory measures to be imposed on trucking.

Some proposals called for central regulation of trucking, now under provincial jurisdiction. The commission's findings on this point likely will have a big bearing on the future of the rail-vs.-trucks controversy.

Meanwhile, the Board of Transport commissioners, the federal government's agency for regulating the railways, is proceeding with a government-ordered general freight-rate inquiry with a view to the equalization of rates in the different regions of the country.

The commissioners have been conducting this investigation privately for more than two years, and in January they are scheduled to begin public hearings here. These may be followed by sessions throughout the country.

The railways have been asked to provide the Jan. 15 meeting with proposals for rate equalization.

Rates Battle

On still another freight-rate front—that of increases for the railways—battling between the railways and seven provinces continued off and on during the year and is still in progress.

The year saw the completion of the second general rate increase since the war, with the railways finally getting the full amount of a 20-per-cent hoist sought originally in 1948. The hard-fought case went eventually to cabinet, which confirmed the increase granted by the Board of Transport Commissioners.

In two other cases, the board granted the railways rate increases on livestock and farm implements, both after long contests.

New Rate Case

By mid-December, a new general rate case appeared in the offing as the railways prepared to seek another increase based on wage boosts obtained by their employees. Amount of the requested increase hinged on the decision of an arbitrator named to write a final settlement in the dispute that precipitated a nine-day general rail strike in August.

Finally, there is still hanging fire one more rate case—an application by the Newfoundland government for the same freight-rate scale enjoyed by the Maritimes. The Board of Transport Commissioners in December reserved decision on Newfoundland's claim that its rate set-up did not follow the 1949 terms of confederation.

Patricia Area Seen As Great Gold Producer

RED LAKE, Ont. —(CP)— Red Lake mining camp, in northwestern Ontario near the Manitoba border, is preparing to celebrate its 25th anniversary. Some mining men say the 1926 Red Lake gold rush was the biggest since the Klondike in 1898.

At that time, Jack Hammell of Howey Red Lake mine said: "Red Lake is going to be the biggest gold camp Canada has ever seen."

His words were echoed recently by Horace G. Young of the McKenzie Red Lake gold mines and director of several others.

Mr. Young says he is convinced that the Patricia area, which includes Red Lake, the new developments at Sioux Lookout and Pickle Lake will in five years produce more gold than Kirkland Lake, Ontario's best gold-producing centre.

Mr. Young estimated that by the end of the current year dividends paid by Red Lake mining enterprises will total $10,000,000.

He said production by the end of 1950 will total $72,000,000 and this year's production will be around $10,000,000.

Most hopeful sign here is the steady improvement in grade of ore. In 1944 the average grade for the camp was $9 a ton. This year it will be about $11 and Mr. Young says it may soon go as high as $15.

Growing Population

Red Lake has a population of 1,500 and another 4,000 mine employees and their families live in communities that have sprung up around the mines.

There are five public schools in the area with an enrolment of 500 and a high school in Red Lake where 90 children are attending. Each mine employee is assessed $1 a month for the schools.

During the war years, Red Lake just about held its own. In 1944 came the biggest of all its booms and with it greatly increased financial support.

Seven Mines

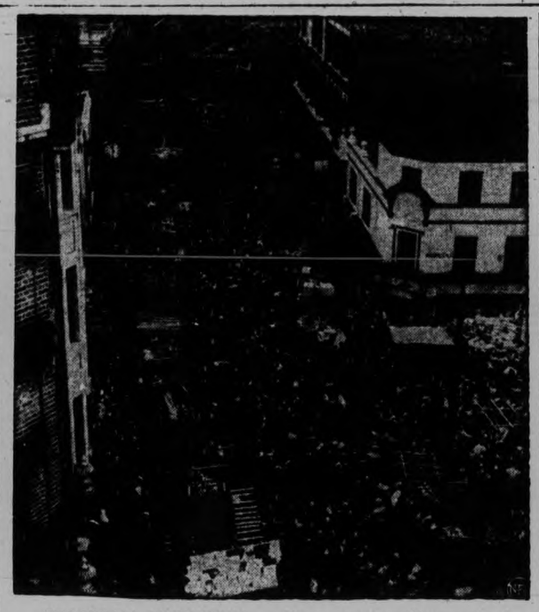
Now there are seven prosperous mines with ore that persists to depth. There are also eight other outstanding prospects with more or less proven ore bodies. A great many others have good surface showing and are in the early stages of development.

The only worry of the mining industry in the area seems to be a shortage of labor and the prospect of an insufficient power supply to look after the seven or eight mines in late stages of development which are expected to be producing soon.

With regard to power, D. L. Natress, regional manager of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, says that actually there is little to worry about.

While there is not a surplus of power in the Patricia system, which serves the mines of Red Lake and Pickle Lake areas, there is ample in the Thunder Bay system and the two now are being linked.

Mr. Natress says it is expected the linking job will be completed by May, 1951, permitting transfer of from 5,000 to 10,000 horsepower to the Red Lake area.



SEASONAL TURNOUT — Even as your downtown department stores, London's famed "Petticoat Lane" market on Middlesex Street is jammed with Christmas shoppers. Yuletide shopping along the bargain row this year is expected to break all postwar records.

Youngster Drowned?

TORONTO, Dec. 13 — (CP) — Police said Tuesday there is "little doubt" that Michael Tomaselli, 3, missing for a week from his home at Centre Island, was drowned.

The boy was last seen on a roadway near the shore of the island, one of a group lying across the entrance to Toronto harbor.

One theory is that a young playmate pushed the boy, son of a taxicab driver, into the water.

Elected officers are Donald Delong, president; James Cameron, vice-president; Norman Brown, recording secretary; and Jack Hennessey, financial secretary. The executive officers are Fred Forsythe, Edward McIlwain, and Bill Leahy.

George Paxman Dies Aged 81, Baseball Star

Director for years of the poultry [illegible] of Peterborough Exhibition, and first baseman of the local ball team of 50 years ago, George Paxman, 81(of RR 11, Otonabee, died in hospital Tuesday following two weeks' illness from a heart attack.

Mr. Paxman had become the last of the old poultry committee of the Exhibition. He had charge of that department, assisted by Mr. Frank McCarthy, to whom most of the supervision devolved during the last two years.

To the elders of the community George Paxman is remembered as first baseman of the Peterborough baseball team around the turn of the century, featured by their star battery of Dan McCabe, one-armed pitcher, and Chris G. Graham behind the bat. That team used to pack the old Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association (P.A.A.A.) grounds in Ashburnham, an expansive field at the rear of Sunshine Dairy and the other stores on the north side of Hunter St.

Other members of the team were Arthur Thompson, who usually played left field, occasionally sharing first base with Paxman, Jack Sheridan, Andy Scott, Wally Parnell, Jack Conners, and others.

Art Thompson died several years ago, but some others of the old guard are left with Mr. C. G. Graham.

Printer By Trade

Mr. Paxman learned the printing business and was employed as a typograph operator with the Examiner when its plant was situated on George St. With the incoming of the Mengenthaler linotype machine Mr. Paxman set his last line of type and resigned. He had been in retirement for many years, living on the south side of the Otonabee river, near the city.

Born in Park Hill, Ont., son of Adam Paxman and Annie Jane Fyke, Mr. Paxman came to Peterborough 60 years ago.

Later he worked in the pattern department of the William Hamilton Co. until it closed about 25 years ago. He was a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters.

His wife, the former Sarah Jane Wesley, predeceased him in 1936. He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Milburn Johnson (Thelma) of Plymouth, Michigan, and one sister, Miss Elza Paxman of Park Hill.

The funeral will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Comstock Funeral Home. The Rev. A. A. Mathews of George St. United church, will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Who Are Suckers?

For the extra holiday at Christmas which has become known as Boxing Day, Peterborough Clearing House representing the local banks require an official proclamation by the Mayor. Their letter to the finance committee Monday requested that the day after Christmas be announced as customarily a civic holiday.

Ald E. C. Braund enquired: "Who pays for the 'ad'?"

Mayor Swanston: "We always do."

Ald. Braund "I think we're suckers."

Ask Architects To Pay Cost City Hall Sinks

A housekeeping detail of several slop sinks was omitted by the mechanical engineer from the mechanical drawings of the new city hall, as reported to the finance committee of the council Monday by Marani and Morris architects.

"Although shown on the architects' drawings, we have ascertained that the plumbing subcontractor did not include them in his tender, and we feel that in the circumstances we cannot force him to instal these fixtures without compensation," the architects wrote.

"We have received a letter from the general contractor (Eastwood Construction Co.) in which his plumbing subcontractor has agreed to instal the fixtures at cost; also the general contractor will forego his commission."

The cost is set down at $283.60. It is understood that these sinks were placed in certain recesses or cupboards on two floors for the convenience of the caretaker in washing out mops and so on. They were suggested by Mr. Ronald Winter, the city's consulting engineer.

A motion by Aldermen Burrows and Sands instructed Mr. Outram to write Marani and Morris that as this was an architectural oversight they should pay the cost.

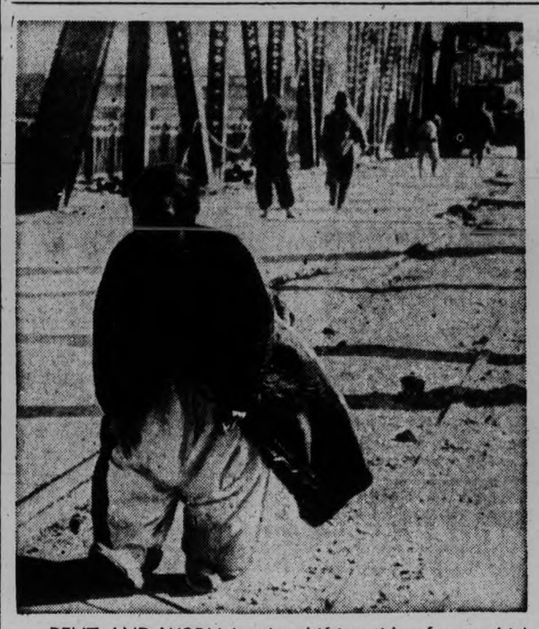
Ald. Dewart remarked that if the item had been included in the contract "it would have been that much higher".

Responsibility of Architect

Ald. Adam Sands said he considered it a responsibility of the architects. "In a contract of this size we are likely to run into something else."

Ald. Dewart: "I think we should keep our relations with the architects as harmonious as possible."

"I don't think we are being inharmonious with them," said Ald. Burrows.



BENT AND WORN by the shifting tide of war which twice has swept over Pyongyang, an elderly North Korean plods wearily over the undestroyed span of a Taedong River bridge as she flees south from the North Korean capital ahead of the advancing Chinese Communists.

Says Canadians Suffer From Cultural Constipation

TORONTO, Dec. 13—(CP)—Canadians suffer from cultural constipation, Robertson Davies, playwright and editor of the Peterborough Examiner, said Tuesday night. Mr. Davies' observation on the state of the arts in Canada was made during a University of Toronto debate. As guest speaker he supported the resolution—that Canadians suffer from cultural constipation—but he added that he took a mild view of the issue.

"When I say Canadians suffer from cultural constipation, I do not mean they have no culture," he said. "I mean that it's a little slower, more gentle and considered in its action than that of other countries. It is both progressive and conservative."

Canada's culture suffers because of this slowness, Mr. Davies said. Canada does not really appreciate the work of its artists, drives them to greener fields where they achieve financial recognition.

The trouble with Canada was that it is too concerned with money.

"We have made money a sort of cultural surrogate," he said. "We retain it so we can attract attention. Our stress on money is a sort of toying and dandling and wantoning with it."

The result was the artist often went elsewhere in search of his money. This was painful both for the artist and his original community.

Incidentally, the debate was won by the affirmative side by a vote of 46 to 10.

$2,000 Minimum For Ministers

A minimum salary of $2,000, plus free house and car allowance was approved by Peterborough Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church meeting in St. Paul's on Tuesday. This minimum was established by the General Assembly at its regular meeting.

The presbytery will take steps for more adequate instructions of the Presbyterians through the use of pamphlets on doctrine and history. The Rev. A. M. Reid, Colborne, reported that the religious movie, The Second Chance, was well received in this area and further use of audio-visual educational aids will be made.

The presbytery instructed all congregations to have an expert appraisal of property made by a fire evaluator.

Overtures are being made to have the name of Rev. Walter Patterson, Millbrook, added to the presbytery roll. He recently retired from preaching duties at Millbrook and Centreville.

H. McComb, catechist, has been appointed in charge of Janetville, Nestleton and Ballyduff under the direction of the Rev. Horace Kaye of Lakefield. Rev. L. H. Fowler, Port Hope, interim moderator of Millbrook and Centreville reported that a call may be issued shortly.

Asks For Permission Operate Chip Wagon

Charles McDonald of Huntsville, a veteran of World War 1, enquired by letter to the finance committee Monday whether he could get a license to operate a potato chips wagon in Peterborough. He had first considered North Bay, but found there were three of these trucks there.

It was reported to the committee that a Peterborough man is considering going into the chips business early in the spring.

"If Mr. McDonald comes here to live, he could make application to the committee in the regular way," said Mayor Swanston, implying consideration in that case.

"There is a difference between a man living in the city and one living out of it," said Ald. Gillespie.

Ald. Braund: "If he lives up to the bylaw we have no reason to keep him out."

A letter to Mr. McDonald rejects his proposal as a remote applicant.

Saving Of $180 Made In Closing Up Hospital

Harold Ephgrave, contractor, is reporting to the council a saving of $180 for the city in the work of boarding up the three buildings at the old Nicholls Hospital.

For obvious reason City Clerk Outram passed the information on to the Examiner today instead of holding for the routine of passing through council.

Mr. Ephgrave had the contract for closing up the hospital building, nurses' residence and laundry. In his tender for the job "we were of the opinion that the power was cut off those buildings".

The economy was "effected by use of our power saws". Any reader will note that there was no padding of accounts to absorb the $180.

CARS COLLIDE

Two cars collided when one stopped on Parkhill Rd. to allow a truck to back out of a lane. Clifford H. Nowell, Canal Rd., driving east on Parkhill Rd. stopped for the truck. While stopped he was struck in the rear by a car driven by Mrs. Reneth McGregor, 213 London St. She said she was unable to stop because of the icy road surface. Damage was done to the front of her car, but none to the Nowell car. Constable Donald Jones investigated.

Mayor To Name Committee On Civil Defense

Appointment of a planning and co-ordinating committee for civil defence action became the sole responsibility of Mayor Swanston as directed by the finance committee of the city council.

The committee received the report on civil defence which was prepared by Ald. J. A. Dewart at the request of the council.

Approval was moved by Ald. Adam Sands and Ald. J. E. Gillespie, and opinion was expressed that "there is more in that report than has come out of Ottawa and Toronto so far; it is very complete."

A subsequent motion by Ald. Young and Ald. Dodds proposes that nomination of the general committee be left to Mayor Swanston and Ald. Dewart.

"I think we ought to leave it to the mayor entirely," Ald. Dewart said, and Ald. Young and Ald. Dodds agreed.

Special Report

The text of Ald. Dewart's report follows:

"A few weeks ago this council instructed me to make a study of the matter of civil defence and bring in recommendations as to the necessary steps to be taken. At that time, and for some time after, it appeared that the war in Korea would be brought to a successful conclusion by the United Nations without any threat of this struggle developing into a world war. In that event there would have been no immediate necessity of proceeding with civil defence measures. Recently, as we all know, the entry of Communist China into the Korean war, employing a huge land army against U.N. forces, has entirely changed the picture and it appears necessary that we should take steps to ensure that the safety of the citizens of this city is safeguarded in every way possible, and that in conjunction with the civil defence authorities of this province, we should prepare to aid the citizens of more vulnerable areas with every facility at our disposal.

"From the time you gave me instructions to study this matter until the present, I have endeavored to obtain all available information pertaining to civil defence in so far as it related to the situation of the city of Peterborough. In particular, I endeavored to obtain opinions from competent authorities as to what might be expected so far as this city was concerned in the event of the outbreak of a third world war, and also the over all picture of what might occur in Canada, and especially in the province of Ontario. I discussed the problem with General Simmonds, the Commandant of the Canadian Defence College, and very recently with Major Ken Smith, who is in charge of the Civil Defence Organization for Ontario.

Nuisance Raids

"These discussions lead to conclusions which would indicate that there is very little likelihood of any air attack on cities of the size and geographic location of Peterborough. It might be that nuisance raids would take place with the object of creating panic, confusion, and fear in Canada, with large centres of population and areas with great industrial concentration, as the most likely targets. In that event, these cities and communities would depend on the smaller cities, towns and rural districts to provide areas of evacuation to which casualties and certain categories of the population would be moved. The provincial authorites are now makng a complete survey of the province to ascertain the accommodation available for the purpose of making a master plan to cope with any conceivable disaster which might occur. The whole problem is being discussed on a federal and provincial level to set up a co-ordinated scheme, dominion wide in extent.

"To safeguard the interest of the citizens of Peterborough, and to co-ordinate our eforts with the general plan, both provincial and federal, I would recommend that this council take the following Committee to be responsible for steps:

"1. Appoint a Civil Defence planning the course of action, necessary for the city to pursue, and co-ordinate the activities of all organizations involved. This committee should have at least five and not more than seven members.

"2. Appoint, with the advice of the central committee, an operating committee consisting of a director and heads of municipal departments and civilian organizations which are directly related to the practical work involved in civil defence.

"3. Arrange to send representatives to a civil defence course at Camp Borden, which is expected to commence early in the new year. The MOH should be one of these representatives.

"4. Proceed immediately to make a survey of all accommodations available in our city which would be of use in the event of the city being required as an evacuation area.

"5. Make provision in the 1951 budget for the expense necessary.

"6. Encourage and support organizations which train personnel in the work which would be vital to civil defence.

"I would recommend that this council take initial steps at the earliest date, and direct the Civil Defence Committee to proceed to work out details."

Traffic Police Take Their Lives In Their Hands At Five O'Clock Corners These Early Nights

Police officers are taking their lives in their hands when they direct traffic at busy corners during the five o'clock rush hour these dark early winter evenings, Chief Constable John Thompson said today.

He warned that drivers who do not obey the signals of the officers will be charged. Many of his officers have been nearly knocked down by motorists who failed to stop at officers' signals.

These officers wear white belts around their waists and crossed over their chcests, as well as white gloves. There is no reason why they cannot be seen by drivers who are watching, the chief said.

Tuesday night Constable Donald Mackay narrowly escaped being hit by a jammed bus. Often cars, their windows and windshields steamed up driving in the darkness after five p.m. brush past startled officers.

The traffic officers have little chance to see these cars coming because after signalling one line of traffic to stop they turn to face another lineup of cars.

"Never Noticed"

One driver, who had been driving through the same intersection twice a day during the rush hours where a policemen have directed traffic for years, claimed he had never noticed an officer there before when he was checked after nearly knocking the constable down.

A section of the Highway Traffic Act requires that motorists keep their windshields free of rain, snow and "other moisture."

That means, said Chief Thompson, that drivers had better carry a rag to clean off steamed-up windshields and watch for the signals of traffic officers, or they are going to find themselves in court.

Present For Mr. Houde

MONTREAL, Dec. 13 (CP)—Mayor J. Ernie Ayrhart, the "mining mayor" of Campbellford Tuesday presented Mayor Camillien Houde with six cock pheasants, all dead, for a victory dinner so Mr. Houde could celebrate his triumph in Montreal's mayoralty election Monday in fitting fashion. Mr. Houde who takes these things in stride had a signet ring, engraved with the city hall crest, already to hand back to the mayor of Campbellford.

Suggest Making Jackson Park Bird Sanctuary

Fred C. Marshall original president of the Kawartha Conservation Association was elected president of the Association for 1951 at the annual meeting held Tuesday night in the library. Other officers are Arthur Parker, vice pres., Kenneth Mills, sec'y-treas., and Lewis H. Bird, Milt Clysdale, Edward Grose and Percy Edwards, directors.

Milt Clysdale retiring president told the members the charter for the Cedar Lake playground could be expected soon, and that the road had been completed into the property. He introduced Hugh Plowman president of zone 5, Federation of Anglers and Hunters who gave an interesting outline of the aims, purposes and workings of the Federation, and then answered questions from the audience.

On a motion by Percy Edwards and J. Newton, the Kawartha group decided unanimously to affiliate with the parent organization.

J. Newton, who had been working with J. L. McKeever on a proposal to have Jackson Park and the three farms adjacent to it set aside as a song bird sanctuary, tendered a report which was endorsed. On motion by Pete McGillen and Peter Moore the president was empowered to name a committee of three from the Association and to request the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association and the Peterborough Nature Club to cooperate in the project, each organization to appoint two members to serve on the committee. It is proposed to have the park and the farms posted, making it illegal for the carrying or discharging of firearms or air rifles in that area. The three farmers concerned and the Nicholls Trust will be approached to enlist their support and aid. The C.N.R. police will also be asked to curb carrying of firearms and indiscriminate shooting of song birds on the track within the area outlined.

Secretary Sid Pammett said the Association had purchased ten copies of the book "Adventures of Peter in the Out of Doors", and the the ten copies were sold before the meeting ended. Ten more copies will be ordered at once for the members or anyone else who wishes to obtain them as Christmas gifts. The retail price is $1, with the Association making a small profit on each book.

Harold Rehill, newly-elected to the City Council spoke in tribute to the members for their work on the Cedar Lake project, and said he was wholeheartedly behind the proposal to protect the song birds in the area described.

Salesman Injured In Crash Awarded $5,000 Damages From Ontario's Special Fund

James Allen, Bonaccord St., has been awarded damages of $5,000 and costs by Justice R. I. Ferguson at the current non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court. Damages will be paid out of the province's unsatisfied judgments fund. Allen, a Peterborough salesman, was seriously injured on April 27, 1949, after a collision with an unidentified motor vehicle, a mile north of Burleigh Falls on Highway 28. He was in St. Joseph's hospital for 48 days with head, chest, and back injuries that included three fractured lumbar vertebrae. He claimed that he is still unable to do any work that involves bending or lifting.

Allen said he was driving his 1949-model car south along the highway and as he came to the brow of a hill he saw a northbound vehicle bearing down on him on the wrong side of the highway. According to his testimony the vehicle was going at a high speed. He swung to the right to avoid a collision but it hit the rear end of his car, overturning it on the gravelly west shoulder.

The impact threw Allen's head against the windshield and he was knocked unconscious. And he was later taken to hospital where he remained for 48 days, his back in a cast.

The driver of the northbound vehicle that struck him was unknown. Suit was brought against the Registrar of Motor Vehicles in charge of the unsatisfied judgments fund which was set up several years ago for such a purpose.

T. J. Carley, KC, was counsel for Allen, and E. H. Silk, KC, for the Registrar.

Police charge that Collins bought a bottle of liquor Tuesday night from Frank Thompson, Douglas Ave., who is a local taxi operator.

Thompson was charged with bootlegging and his case was adjourned to Dec. 20.

Canadian Eggs In Big Demand By U.S. Buyers

Heavy buying of Canadian eggs by US dealers is believed to be the reason for the recent increases in egg prices in Peterborough and other Ontario centres, a Canada Packers official said Tuesday.

A drop in price is expected in the next week or two, he said, as US production becomes normal once more after dropping sharply due to heavy storms in the northern states.

City grocers reported prices ranging from 65 to 79 cents a dozen for Grade A large eggs. Price for A medium eggs ranged from 59 to 75. Pullets eggs are scarce, as is usual at this time of year.

One man said that the Americans in the past two or three days have been buying heavily in the open markets at Toronto and Montreal, but said he knew no reason for it.

The Canada Packers official said that it was a common thing —"one good export order runs the price of eggs right up." He mentioned the fact that a recent large export order to Sweden had forced egg prices up in a similar manner.

Highest increase recorded was at one store where A large increased from 59 to 75 a dozen in a week and A medium from 56 to 73.

Pills Held Poison, Child Dies

COBOURG, Dec. 13—(ENS)—Several tonic pills containing strychnine caused the death of 15-months-old Elva Herman of Hamilton township Tuesday. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Herman.

The child is believed to have been attracted to the pills by their red color, and ate enough of them to absorb a fatal amount of strychnine. She was seized with convulsions and rushed to Cobourg General Hospital, where she died soon after arrival.

The pills had been prescribed for her father.

MECHANICAL HEART — This heart pump mechanism, designed by engineer Campbell Cowan of the Banting Institute of Toronto, takes over the work of pumping blood during operations on the heart. Blue or "dirty" blood, (dotted line) from the patient's veins is pumped into the round bulb, top left, containing a lung or part of a lung taken from a "donor", where it is purified. The resultant pure blood (solid line) is then pumped back into the patient's arteries. Mechanical purification systems were tried, but it was found that a real lung did the job more satisfactorily.

DR. W. T. MUSTARD of Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children has been instrumental in developing a new heart mechanism which relieves the heart of the chore of pumping blood during operations. The 36-year-old surgeon, well known for his "blue baby" operations, says that he will be prepared to use the device in human operations within a few months. The mechanism, which permits more extensive heart surgery, is believed to be a great improvement on existing artificial hearts and lungs.

Decades of Heavy Taxes Make Tibet Welcome Reds

By HAROLD K. MILKS

NEW DEHLI, Dec. 13—(AP)—Decades of heavy taxation in Tibet may cause many of its people to lay out the welcome mats for the invading Chinese Communists.

Travellers from that remote little country, arriving in the north of India, report little patriotism among the common people of Tibet. Much of it, they say, has been killed by the excessive zeal of Lhasa's tax collectors.

"Taxation is heavy and at times becomes unbearable because of the extra unpaid services both the Tibetan government officials and the monasteries demand from the people," said one such observer, a foreigner who studied life in Tibet for many months.

Most of the tribal people who make up the bulk of Tibet's population look on the government of the Dalai Lama with fear rather than reverence as a result, this source said.

People Sucked Dry

"Many of the people have been sucked dry by government officials on one side and monks and monasteries on the other. Demands for free service cause great bitterness."

The Lhasa regime did little to organize or control any form of government in rural areas of their country. Tribesmen were permitted to carry arms—which they used frequently in attacks on unarmed travellers—and were called upon only occasionally to support the central government.

A special officer or judge—called a shipjo—made trips to western Tibet as infrequently as once every 20 or 30 years. His job was to settle all affairs of the state and arbitrate in village disputes.

The government tax collectors levied not only amounts specified from Lhasa but additional sums for their own support and that of their superiors.

In many areas this tax burden—without appeal or representation—has cost the Dalai Lama support. As in China, some Tibetans have indicated any change would be welcome.

Will Ask Oliver Continue Leader

TORONTO, Dec. 13 (CP). — Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader, said Tuesday he will recommend to Liberal members of the Legislature that Farquhar Oliver be asked to continue as party leader in the House.

Mr. Thomson was elected at a recent Liberal convention arranged when Mr. Oliver resigned as the party's provincial chief.

"I have had assurances from both Mr. Oliver and Harry Nixon, another past leader of our party, that they will co-operate with me" Mr. Thomson told the Toronto Liberal Business Men's Association.

He said he has not yet discussed with Prime Minister St. Laurent the question of whether he will resign his House of Commons seat and seek election to the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. Thomson, Member of Parliament for Ontario riding, said there is precedent for him remaining in the Commons while provincial leader of a political party. Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan, he said, retained his federal seat for three years after being chosen Saskatchewan CCF leader in 1941.

RESIDENTS OF THE VILLAGE OF MILO, built on the slopes of Mt. Etna, Sicily, pray before a statue of the Madonna to save their homes from the flow of lava from the erupting volcano. They carried the statue from the village church right up to the edge of the advancing lava (background). Their prayers appeared to be answered, Dec. 10, when the flow of lava changed its course and lessened the threat.

13,000 Workers Get 6-Cent Raise

PORT COLBORNE, Dec. 13 — (CP).—Some 13,000 employees of International Nickel Co., of Canada Ltd., at Port Colborne, Sudbury and Copper Cliff, Ont., have been granted six-cent hourly wage boosts.

The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) said Tuesday it brings to as high as 19½ cents an hour the increases negotiated this year for INCO employees.

Boosts of from 10 to 13½ cents were included in a contract which took effect last June 1.

The interim six-cent boost announced Tuesday means basic rates in the Port Colborne plant now range from $1.30 to $1.67½. Rates at Sudbury and Copper Cliff are about the same.

In addition to the six-cent increase, employees whose hours were cut 48 to 44 weekly under June agreement receive from six to 8½ cents an hour to make up for any loss in take-home pay suffered at that time.

The union had sought an interim boost of 15 cents.

StressesCommunities Make Good Citizens

HAMILTON, Dec. 13 (CP). — Reforms Minister Foote of Ontario Tuesday night stressed the importance communities can play along with the home, schools and churches in the development of good citizens.

The minister spoke at the opening of the new $45,000 Barton Township Community Centre at nearby Ryckman's Corners.

He said that such centres can be happy investments because they provide social outlets for young men and women. They also served in the development of character and a sense of responsibility by interesting youth in worthwhile projects.

Strike Settled

FORT ERIE, Dec. 13 (CP). — The 12-weeks strike of some 80-odd workers in the Hart and Cooley Register plant here was settled Tuesday. The men are members of the United Steel Workers (CIO). A compromise in wage demands was reached with the headquarters of the firm in Holland, Mich. The men returned to work today.

Gets 10 Days In Jail

WINDSOR, Dec. 13 (CP). — Henry Baker, 50, whose car struck a seven-year-old boy and broke his leg, was sentenced Tuesday to 10 days in jail for leaving the scene of the accident last Saturday. Baker said he became frightened after his car struck Kenneth Mansell.

Police Assoc. Gives Support To Mayor-Elect

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 13 (CP)—London Police Association on Tuesday night voiced its opinion on the conduct and capabilities of Mayor-elect Allan J. Rush when the former detective was a member of the association and the London Police Department.

In a motion addressed to the press and the London Police Commission, the association declared:

"Ex-Detective Rush, prior to his dismissal on July 14 1950, was regarded by the membersof the London Police Association as the one man who could bring about the dissolution of the dissension and poor working conditions existing at this time."

(Shortly after Mr. Rush was elected Mayor, Mayor George Wenige was quoted as saying: "After considerable discussion the Police Commission decided he (Rush) was not a fit and proper person to be on the force.")

"The London Police Association wish it to be made clear that we still do not know why ex-Detective Rush was fired, but we will not remain quiet and see our former member criticized by those who never worked with him or knew him as he was—a man of gigantic energy, who devoted his full time to the progress of this Police Department and the improvement of the working conditions there," the statement said.

"Ex-Detective Rush was, in our estimation, a gentlman and a police officer of potential brilliance. His attitude toward his brother officers and co-operation with them will long be remembered."

Vein In Sask. Said Richest Uranium Source

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

Gilbert A. LaBine, the man who discovered Canada's first great source of uranium, thinks he has found a richer source.

LaBine, a semi-legendary person at 60 years of age, said that Tuesday night at a press conference which he held to observe the formation of a company to mine it.

He has found it—or, rather, others have found it and he has joined with them—north of Goldfields, Sask., on Lake Athabaska. Said he:

"At the present stage of development, I don't think there is anything on this hemisphere to compare with it."

In front of him was a 44-pound piece of pitchblende, the blackish rock which is the most common source of uranium in Canada. It had been dug out of the property with a pick-ax. He said it contains about 3 per cent U-308, for which the Canadian government pays $6 a pound.

The new company is the Nesbitt LaBine Uranium Mines, Ltd., which recently received an Ontario charter, with still some requirements to be fulfilled before it can get down to development work.

Combination of Two

It is a combination of two companies, Nesbitt Uranium Mines, Ltd., and Eagle Ace Uranium Mines, Ltd.

The Nesbitt claims were discovered by John Nesbitt, who, as a pilot for the government-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining, Ltd., went prospecting when he wasn't flying.

LaBine described Nesbitt's activities as "one of the most intelligent pieces of prospecting I have ever seen."

In any event, Nesbitt stated that he and his partner turned down $25,000 for their claims before entering upon the present company, of which Nesbitt is a director.

The second company, Eagle Ace, was a property of Robert Denman of Hamilton, also a director of the new company.

The company is capitalized at 4,000,000 shares of $1 par value, of which 750,000 shares goes to each of the original companies for development work and other expenses incurred. That leaves 2,500,000 shares for future financing and there may be a public offering about next spring. LaBine said it will take $1,000,000 to put the properties into production.

Likes Prospecting

The claims of the two original companies are close together and near the operations in that area of the government-owned Eldorado.

LaBine early in life decided to hunt for the mineral which yielded radium. After 17 years of prospecting he found it at Great Bear Lake in 1930, broke a Belgian monopoly in the Congo, and made himself wealthy.

When the atom bomb was being developed, his radium-producing mine, Eldorado, was taken over by the government for its strategic uranium. He remained a director of the government-owned company until about a year ago.

BOTH VICTORIOUS—Two women graduates of Queen's University tossed their hats into the municipal election ring for the first time this year and both won. Dr. Charlotte Whitton, right, nationally-known welfare worker, not only was elected to Ottawa's board of control, but headed the polls as well. Her friend, Dr. Faustina Kelly Cook, Sudbury, Ont., physician, became one of that city's two women aldermen.

America's Best-Dressed Men Chosen by Loretta Young

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 13 (AP)—This seems to be the season for 10-best lists, so let's have Loretta Young choose Hollywood's best-dressed men.

Miss Young seems well qualified to make the selection. She is considered by many to be Hollywood's best-dressed gal. Being a pillar of filmtown society, she sees the movie men in their best (and worst) finery at parties and dinners. What's more, she seemed entirely willing to go out on a limb.

Round Dozen

It turned out that she named a round dozen. Here they are, not in order of preference:

1. William Boyd. "When he is out at private affairs, he is smart and conservative, with nary a high heel or Hoppy button."

2. Ray Milland. "He is elegant . . . if I saw him in densest Africa, I would expect to see him wearing a mess jacket."

3. Ezio Pinza. "Because he made my step-father sit up and take notice, and now he is one of the best-dressed men in our family."

4. Robert Taylor. "He is the only man I know who can wear a smoking jacket at home and not seem embarrassed."

5. Joseph Cotten. "The Princetonian type—conservative but smart. He looks as though he smells good."

6. Ricardo Montalban. "He is always spic-and-span and looks graceful."

7. Robert Mitchum. "He always dominates his clothes. He wears them; they don't wear him."

8. Barry Sullivan. "He has a fine physique and he doesn't ruin it by padding his shoulders."

9. Fred Astaire. "He is precise, neat and truly natty."

10. Clark Gable. "He wears casual clothes casually. And don't forget what he did for the turtleneck sweater."

11. Van Johnson. "I pick him because the way he dresses is not only fun for him, but for all those who see him. Nothing ever matches on him and he thinks nothing of wearing red socks with a dinner jacket."

12. Tyrone Power. "He has the fresh look of a man of the country. He never looks as though he dressed for the occasion."

BOXER SHORTS in denim are worn with a midriff top made with an elasticized band and a bias-bound neckline.

For Bad Winter Coughs, Mix This Syrup at Home

This well known recipe is used by thousands of housewives, because they have found that it gives them an effective, dependable medicine for distressing winter coughs.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for effect on throat irritations.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water until dissolved. It's no trouble at all and takes but a moment. No cooking needed. (Or use corn syrup or liquid honey instead of sugar syrup.)

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle and fill up with your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of cough syrup, unusually quick-acting and dependable, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be surprised by the way it takes hold of severe coughs, giving quick, satisfying relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please in every way.

FOR EXTRA CONVENIENCE GET NEW, READY-TO-USE, PREPARED PINEX.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Special Wednesday Menu Economy Comes First

Visions of sugar plums, coupled with delusions of grandeur keep me broke all during December.

If you are weak-minded in a happy sort of way maybe you too have to economize on these eternal meals we have to provide.

This week we are taking apples in our carried lunches instead of bananas, and are having egg sandwiches and pink (very pale) salmon sandwiches instead of roast pork sandwiches and red salmon.

What is more our morning fresh orange juice is from a can of grapefruit juice, as of this week, and we are going to sashay between meat balls one night and omelette the next, and so on until Christmas comes or the budget shows a feeble flicker of balance.

Chili con Carne (see notes)
Quick-Cooked Shredded Savory Cabbage (see notes)
Tomato Jelly Salads on Endive (see notes)
Hot Applesauce Cake Coffee

Directions

For quick Chili con Carne saute 1 large chopped onion in 2 tablespoons bacon fat for 5 minutes then add one pound chopped beef or hamburg and saute until golden. Add 1 No. 2 can tomatoes, 1 can kidney beans, 1 teaspoon salt, about 2 cups hot water, 1 tablespoon chili powder and if desired a speck of cayenne, and ½ teaspoon paprika. Cover and simmer over very low heat for 2 hours.

I have mentioned before that Savoy cabbage cooks down more quickly than hard cabbage. Shred it rather finely and to one small head, when shredded, add 2 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup boiling water. Cover tightly and boil hard for 5 minutes, stirring it once. It retains its color and a little of its crispness and is delicious.

To make tomato jelly boil together for 10 minutes 2½ cups canned tomatoes, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cut-up stalk celery, and shake of cayenne pepper. Soak 1 tablespoon gelatine in ¼ cup cold water 5 minutes. Add this to the hot mixture with 1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Strain. Add 1 tablespoon mixed onion if desired and a little chopped celery, parsley and some drained peas. (This is also very good for a luncheon dish if shrimps are jellied in it.) Pour into 6 small wet moulds and chill. Turn out on bed of endive or shredded lettuce.

Applesauce Cake

Cream one-half cup shortening and cream into it ¾ cup sugar and 1 beaten egg. Sift together 2 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon each salt, baking soda, ½ teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg. Add 1 cup each chopped raisins and nuts to the flour mixture. Add it alternately with 1 cup sweetened applesauce to the creamed mixture a little of each at a time. Pour into buttered rather deep pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 75 minutes. Best served hot. Wonderful with whipped cream, but you can't save money doing that sort of thing.

Levinson's and nobody but Levinson's brings Prices Down!

Wholesale stocks have piled up, because women have not been buying in expected volume. That's only natural, because we can't buy if women don't shop. Whatever the reasons are, and there must be some good ones, the fact remains – the manufacturers are loaded, they are anxious to do business, and we believe that lower than usual mark-ups will stimulate buying.

Candlelight Service Held By Mark Street Choirs

Two choirs and two guest soloists in the presentation Carols by Candlelight delighted a capacity audience at Mark St. United Church Tuesday night.

The Christmas theme predominated both in music and decorations with candlelight and lighted Christmas trees complementing the mood of the Yuletide music by the choirs under the direction of Mrs. Olive Searles, organist and choir director of Mark St. United Church.

The two guest soloists, William Perry, tenor soloist of Lindsay and Gabriel Tatrallyay, cellist of Peterborough brought added enjoyment to the evening's entertainment. Mr. Perry's rendition of Ora Pro Nobis by Picclomini was the outstanding of his four solos. He also sang The Virgin's Slumber Song by Reiger, Lo How a Rose E'er Blooming by Praetorius and The Star of Bethlehem by Adams.

Mr. Tatrallyay beautifully interpreted Schubert's Ave Maria and Devotion by Popper on the cello. Both soloists were accompanied by Mrs. Searles.

The choral numbers sung by both the senior and junior choirs of Mark St. Church revealed good preparation and a splendid appreciation of the type of musical effects required in the presentation of Christmas music.

Fine directing by Mrs. Searles characterized both the numbers by the senior choir alone and the combined senior and junior choirs. Particularly effective were the two numbers O Holy Night by Adam and the selection from Handel's Messiah and the Glory.

Mabel McLarnon and Bobby Ritchie took the solo parts in the 12th century carol, The Friendly Beasts.

The audience was welcomed by the Rev. B. S. Morwood.

Golden Milers Special Guests At Grand Party

Sufficient reward to local Soroptimist Club members for work in preparing a grand-scale Christmas party was the evidence of complete enjoyment on the faces of their special guests, the Golden Mile Club members.

Hostess Miss A. L. Thompson made available Tuesday evening several large rooms in the new nurses' residence at Civic Hospital to accommodate the 50 women. Basement kitchen facilities were used to prepare the dinner and tables were set in the rumpus room, made gay with unique table decorations, wall festooning of evergreens and a glittering tree laden with gifts.

Program arrangements were made by Mrs. May Thompson who was especially thanked by Golden Mile Club president Mrs. E. Chatten.

Mrs. Dorothy Sullivan selected recordings to play during the dinner hour. The tree was stripped of its pretty parcels afterward by one of Santa's jolliest impersonator's, Miss Grace Sargent, with president Miss Florence Scott acting as secretary.

Miss Ruth Kingan's colored movies of scenery in Colorado, Utah, Mexico and California were found most interesting and Miss Kingan's commentary included much ancient history she had learned while travelling.

Soroptomist Mrs. Agnes Logan Green gave a recital of short piano selections which are among her favorite numbers. She then accompanied for Christmas carol singing.

As the 20 ladies of "more than 60 years" were being driven to their homes late in the evening, several commented "It was a one-in-a-lifetime event."

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Mother-Daughter Animosity Pattern in Many Homes

DEAR MISS DIX: Recenty I was at a gathering of young married women and the conversation turned to mothers. Nearly every one of them said that their mothers loved their sons much better than they did their daughters. I thought of my own mother. We were like a couple of strange bulldogs. We fought at sight. She was likeable and I am well liked, but we could not get along together. No matter what I did, it was always wrong. But now that she is dead I grieve that we were not better friends, and I would like to get up on the highest building and shout to every mother and daughter to try to understand each other a little better. MRS. E. I.

ANSWER: The idea that there is a peculiarly tender tie between mothers and daughters and that no one understands a girl as well as her mother does is a beautiful old sentimental tradition that is generally accepted because we like to think that life is like that. Sometimes it is true, but not always. Perhaps not even in the great majority of cases.

Dorothy Dix

Sons Favored

As a rule, the sons are mother's favorite fair-haired children and she makes a great difference between them and her daughters. They get the best of everything. Mother takes their part in childish quarrels. Mother puts away the biggest hunk of pie for them. They are given more pocket money than the girls, more freedom than the girls, a better education than the girls. They are preferred in every way to the girls.

Many mothers are jealous of their daughters' youth and good looks. They hate growing old and homely and ceasing to attract the attention of men, and that is what makes many mothers force babyhood on their daughters as long as they can, and tell Jenny that her nose is too big, or her hair is stringy when Jenny happens to be thinking that she is looking her prettiest.

Mothers and daughters clash because they are feminine, with the same feminine desires. And many mothers and daughters are at odds with each other because they are temperamentally antagonistic and have absolutely nothing in common.

Of course, this is not always the case. There are millions of mothers who adore their daughters and spoil them and sacrifice themselves for them, but virtually every mother is glad when her daughter gets married and out of the house, and she grieves when her son marries and leaves her. Figure that out if you can,

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: We hear a lot about mothers-in-law and how they break up homes. Why do fathers-in-law escape? I have a perfectly lovely mother-in-law, but my fatherin-law is the trial of my life. My husband and I are a young couple who married on a shoestring and we have to economize severely. That would be all right except that Father-in-law boasts about how successful his son is until he makes everybody think that we must be the stingiest people in the world. Should be move to a community where he is not known or grin and bear it?

BRIDE OF A YEAR

ANSWER: Perhaps less is said about fathers-in-law as home wreckers than mothers-in-law because they are not so common. Statistics show that there are far more widows than widowers. Besides, widowers nearly always remarry, so it leaves Mother softer than Father to be taken into her children's homes.

Certainly the in-law problem is not softened by going male. It is an even greater headache than it was with Mother, but nobody knows any way to solve it. You can't even run away from it because the in-laws would follow.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: At the time of my wife's death our 11-year-old daughter was in a tubercular sanatorium where she has remained ever since and where she has entirely regained her health. I am devoted to her and visit her regularly and her well-being is my chief object in life, so I have contemplated leaving her in this institution until she is 16 years old, but my relatives think this is a dreadful thing for me to do and that I am not treating the child right. I am thinking of marrying again. In case I do shall I bring the girl home, or leave her where she is?

A LOVING FATHER

ANSWER: It depends upon what kind of a woman you are marrying. If she is a middle-aged, kindly, broad-minded woman who will be a second mother to your child, bring her home. An institutions is not an ideal environment for a gift to be reared in.

6—In Memoriams

FALLIS—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Cora Reynolds Fallis, who passed away one year ago, December 13, 1949.
You can only have one mother,
Patient, kind and true,
No other friend in all the world
Will be as true to you.
For all her loving kindness
She asked nothing in return,
If all the world deserts you
To your mother you can turn,
So all we can do dear mother,
Is to go and tend your grave
And leave behind a token of love,
To the best mother God ever made.
So you who have a mother,
Cherish her with care,
For you'll never know the heartache
'Til you see her vacant chair.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by her daughters, Mrs. Dells Pringle, and Mrs. Hazel Barnes.

NICHOLS—In loving memory of our father, Steve Nichols, who passed away Dec. 13, 1943.
Gone, dear father, gone to rest,
Away from sorrow, care and pain.
May you rest in peace, dear father,
Until we meet again.
—Ever remembered by Mae Orr, husband and family; Reta Calvert, husband and family.

Salesmen Are Said Basis Canada Economic Structure

Salesmen are the basis of Canada's economic structure, and in "these trying times" they should do everything in their power to make the country stronger, William Wren, merchandising manager of Canadian Breweries, Ltd., told members of the Sales and Ad Club at their annual Christmas stag dinner at the Empress Hotel Tuesday night.

Through their work of bringing produce to the buyer and creating new demands and new markets, salesmen were responsible for the high standard of living and the high level of wage rates in Canada, Mr. Wren stated.

"You are members of a proud profession," he said. If there were any who doubted that salesmen held such a key position in the country's economy, they had only to consider the struggle the men who started the industrial revolution to have their inventions accepted.

Nothing had ever been accepted because of its value. It must be sold to the public, he said. Inventors of the spinning jenny, the steam engine and the other key machines which sparked industrial development all had to struggle before they got their chance.

But 20 per cent. of the salesmen were producing 80 per cent. of the results, Mr. Wren said. One of the big reasons why salesmen fail was because they underestimated the public. They thought their customers were stupid and dull. Instead they are brilliant and intelligent. Selling was the art of persuasion, and in order to do it successfully a salesman has to know his public.

Two Fields of Selling

Selling was divided into two fields, service and creative. It would be impossible to build a country's economy merely on the first of these fields. The service salesman gives satisfaction to the buyer. He meets the buyer with skill and knowledge, guides his needs and satisfies them.

The creative salesman creates markets, demands and customers. He is able to find people who have needs of which they are not conscious. He converts neutral and adverse attitudes into favorable attitudes. Industry is looking for creative salesmen. It is they who make it possible for the industry and economy—to expand by creating new markets for new goods.

In a few years every salesmen will have lost his present customers through death, retirement and because they move away. For that reason a salesman must every day be looking for new customers.

The successful creative salesman must have certain basic characteristics: he must be willing to acquire a knowledge of his product; he must have a knowledge of his company; he must have confidence in his product, his company and himself; he must have determination to be a successful salesman; he must be observant; and he must have the ability to express himself.

If there is one secret to successful selling it was hard work. If a man develops his normal talents and exercises by working, he will be successful, Mr. Wren said.

Hard work will bring executive position to a salesman. Companies were always on the lookout for leadership in their employees.

Mr. Wren was introduced by Gerald Grady and thanked by J. W. Fortner.

The club's Christmas party was started off by several Christmas songs sung by six boy choristers of St. John's Anglican Church Choir, under the direction of F. G. Mann.

A card table cover was presented to each person present as a Christmas present to the wife of club members and their guests.

Campbellford Rotary Plans Parade Float

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 13 — (ENS)—Guest speaker at the monthly luncheon of Campbellford Rotary Club was Harry Eller of the sales division of the Ford Motor Company of Canada. Mr. Eller showed two films to the club, one on the Ford tractor, and one on Ford automobiles.

The speaker was introduced by Lynd Bradley and thanked by Walter Wiggins.

A committee was formed, headed by Rotarian Lou Glover, to decorate a Rotary float for the Santa Claus parade Saturday. The club is sponsoring the parade this year, and more than thirty floats are expected to be included in it, from various organizations and business men of the town, who are working with the club to make this year's parade the best yet. The parade last year was judged by outside observers, to be the best between Toronto and Montreal.

Checking Anti-Freeze Pt. Hope Man Burned

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 13 — William H. Carr of Port Hope, formerly of Campbellford, was severely burned about the face late Sunday night, when alcohol fumes from the radiator of his automobile caused a flash fire and explosion.

Mr. Carr was visiting his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dainard on the Grand Road in Campbellford. He noticed on the trip from Port Hope that his car had been running a little hot and decided to check the level of the anti-freeze in the radiator.

He lit a cigarette and opened the hood of the car and removed the radiator cap. As he leaned forward to see the height of the contents of the radiator, there was a flash and an explosion heard by neighbors in a house nearby. Mr. Carr was temporarily blinded, and badly burned about the face. Doctors are not sure the injured man will regain the sight of one eye.

Dollar Stationary

MONTREAL, Dec. 13 (CP) — The American dollar today opened at 5 1/32 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Tuesday's close. That is, it took $1.05 1/32 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.94-1/16, also unchanged.

Fight At Dance Brings $10 Fine

One of two youths charged with causing a disturbance at a dance hall, Ronald Reynolds, 664 Leahy's Lane, was found guilty, and the other found innocent by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in Police Court Tuesday. Reynolds was fined $10, and $11.15 costs.

Provincial Constable Jack McKendry testified that about 11 p.m. December 7, he looked into the dance hall on Highway 7, east of Peterborough, and saw a fight taking place. Engaged in the fight were Reynolds and Earl Howson, ticket taker at the dance hall.

He stopped the fight, led the parties involved out to the anteroom. There he asked Reynolds and his friend Donald Schweir, 63 Leahy's Lane, to leave.

Schweir asked for his money back. However, the manager, Earl Tully, said he did not return money to people asked to leave under those circumstances. But Schweir refused to leave until he had his money returned and argued in a loud voice with the manager and the constable.

Constable McKendry said he warned Schweir three times and then arrested him when the warnings had no effect. He said Schweir had not used any profanity, but had been very belligerent and refused to quieten down.

Howson testified Schweir did not buy a ticket to enter the dance hall.

"I went over and told him to buy a ticket," Howson said. They argued briefly and Reynolds came over and told Howson to get over to the door where he belonged. He grabbed Howson by the necktie and took a swing at him. Howson swung back and the constable arrived.

Reynolds testified it had been Howson who had grabbed him by the shirt front and he had merely knocked down Howson's hand.

Schweir said he had used little more than his normal voice in asking for his money back. Magistrate Philp said he would give Schweir the benefit of the doubt.

Turkey Dinner Served Blind At Christmas Entertainment

With an abundant supply of turkey, trimmings and with musical entertainment, the blind of the city and county celebrated the Yuletide season Tuesday night in the Legion Hall. More than 100 blind persons and their friends attended the annual Christmas dinner of the Louis Braille Society, which was served by the women of the Order of the Eastern Star.

A description by Mrs. W. H. Wheeler, who convened the dinner, of the gaily decorated tables and the brightly lit Christmas tree was given the people, some who have never seen these and others who have memories of Christmas when they had their eyesight. At each place was a colored pirate's hat, candies and cigarettes.

Guest speaker, the Rev. Joseph O'Sullivan of Immaculate Conception church, said that all human life is centred in God. One of the greatest menaces to Christian and Canadian life is the failure of the human to centre his life in God. This heresy, he explained, is in all walks of life. To combat it, one must get a full vision of the Christian truth. A portion of the truth is of little value because it means so little. When the truth is grasped by the individual a new interest in life is taken. Selfishness is predominant in the world today but when one obtains the truth the selfish attitude is lost.

Take No Action

The sorry part of the situation, said Father O'Sullivan, is that the Christian people discuss it but never do anything about it.

Every Christian must realize, he said, that they have an obligation and should ask each day, "What can I do as an individual to make this a better Christian world."

Too Muc to See

Speaking especially to the blind, Father O'Sullivan said that although many look upon the loss of sight as a heavy cross, it is in many ways good. He added that people with sight have so much to see and to do that they do not have time to think. This is one of the great problems of the world.

Other speakers were: Mayor M. J. Swanston, Ald. Hurrell Dodds, representing the Lions Club; Patrick J. Burke, president of Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion; W. R. Philp, chairman of the local advisory board; Miss Dorothy Powell, recreation director of the Canadian National Institute of the Blind, Toronto.

A toast to the king was proposed by Gordon K. Fraser, M.P.

Mrs. Albert Mason, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion, presented a monetary gift to president Earl Schwanz. She also conducted a draw amongst the blind and theier friends for prizes which were won by: James Meagher, Mrs. Elizabeth Hicks, Miss Shirley Butcher, Miss Geneva Sedgwick, Mrs. Emma Forsey, Miss Noreen Fraser, Miss Mary Calladine, Miss Christine Dawson and Thomas McQuaig.

Musical entertainment, which included accordion players, soloists, a barber shop quartet and an orchestra concluded the evening's program.

Doctor Halts Suicide Try

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 13 — (ENS)—A 24-year-old Morganston man was thwarted in a suicide attempt about 2:30 on Tuesday afternoon, when he was discovered near death in a car parked on Highway 30 about a mile outside the town limits.

Dr. John Hall of Campbellford was driving to Hastings to call on some patients when he noticed an old model car by the side of the highway, with both doors open, and a young man, apparently in a spasm in the front seat. He stopped and went to the car to find the man in apparent agony. It took Dr. Hall ten minutes to get the man into his car, after which he turned around and raced for the Campbellford Hospital. There Dr. W. W. Baker took over and treated the man, after finding he had taken strychnine. After working on the man for some time, Dr. Baker said he believed the man to be out of danger.

Provincial Constable Donald Erskine, who investigated the case, found a note in the man's car, which read, "This is it—no one is to blame". The man had been keeping company with a Campbellford girl, and whether the suicide attempt was the result of a lover's quarrel has not yet been determined. Police, until a late hour last night, had not been able to determine where the man obtained the poison.

AWARDED NOBEL PRIZE—Dr. Ralph Bunche (right) receives the 1950 Nobel Peace Prize from Gunnar Jahn, president of the Nobel Committee of the Norwegian Parliament, Dec. 10, in the great hall of Oslo University. The grandson of an American Negro slave, Dr. Bunche said, "May there be in our time a world of peace in which we, the people, make full use of the possibilities which are in us, a world of freedom and equality among all men." Holy Year Jubilee Extended Through 1951

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 12 (AP) —The Holy Year jubilee which ends here Christmas eve will be extended through all of 1951 to the entire world.

Millions of Roman Catholics who were unable to make a pilgrimage to Rome in the 1950 Holy Year will thereby be given the opportunity to make a pilgrimage to gain the spiritual benefits in their own cities.

Vatican sources said today that the intentions in the extension of the Holy Year—which will apply to the whole world except Rome —will be the same as for the Holy Year now ending, the 25th in the nearly 2,000 years of the church. Intentions are the church's prescriptions for the form and spirit of administering sacraments.

A Papal bull proclaiming the extension officially, as was done at the end of the 1925 Holy Year, is expected to be published Christmas day. If the same procedure is adopted as 25 years ago the extension of Holy Year will begin Jan. 1, 1951 and end a year later.

Roman Catholics acquiring the jubilee indulgence—pardon of temporal punishment due to sin —will pray for: a general and universal return to Christ; unshakable faith in Christ and the church; allegiance to the Catholic church of all those who are outside it, including "those who deny or hate God; peace, especially in the Holy places of Palestine; defence of the church against renewed attacks of her enemies, and social justice and aid for the needy.

The observance may vary slightly from one country to another, Vatican sources said, but in general it is expected to follow that of the 1950 Holy Year—visits to churches, prayer, confession and communion.

Gov't. Doesn't Want Price Controls Report from Abbott

TORONTO, Dec. 14—(CP)—Finance Minister Abbott said today that the Federal government does not wish to use over-all controls on prices, wages, distribution and production unless they are necessary and will be effective. In a speech prepared for delivery at an Empire Club luncheon, Mr. Abbott summed up the government's position in this way: "The Canadian government is determined to fight inflation by the only method that can ultimately succeed, namely, by vigorous fiscal and monetary measures. It is prepared to use direct controls on a selective basis and now is doing so. It will use such controls on comprehensive basis should that become necessary.

"The government, however, does not wish to use over-all direct controls unless they are necessary and will be effective, nor does it believe that such direct controls can, by themselves, stop inflation."

Mr. Abbott also made these points:

1. Within a few days an announcement will be made of stricter terms of lending under the Farm Improvement Loans Act.

2. He hopes that all 10 provinces will sign taxation agreements with the federal government.

3. He expects to end the current fiscal year with a "healthy surplus."

4. While higher salary scales have been approved to bring civil service salaries into line with those in private business, this will be accompanied by an increase in working hours, thus making possible a reducation in the total number of employees in civilian departments.

Mr. Abbott referred to newspaper reports that President Truman is expected to announce soon the imposition of controls on prices and wages in the United States.

"What is done by the United States government in the field of economic policy cannot help but affect our position in Canada to some degree at least," said Mr. Abbott.

"It cannot, however, alter the necessity of proceeding as we in Canada have been doing to strike at the roots of the inflationary problem by appropriate fiscal and monetary policy, supplemented by such direct controls as become necessary and feasible . . .

"The time may come when comprehensive direct controls are necessary but . . . they should be reserved for periods of great crisis.

"Under less-severe conditions, comprehensive direct controls of prices, wages, production and distribution—and they are inseparable—are incompatible with a free society and a free economy."

Atomic Plant Explosion Kills Worker

CHALK RIVER, Dec. 14 (CP). —One man was killed and four others slightly injured Wednesday when the atomic energy project 120 miles northwest of Ottawa suffered its first explosion.

Concern was felt as early reports gave the locale of the mishap—one of the most important atomic centres in the world. However, the explosion did not disturb the reactor pile at this research centre, and was not atomic in character.

Despite the fact that it was apparently a minor explosion—it happened some distance from the main atomic pile—the constant security measures which shroud Chalk River were immediately clamped down.

Four Points

Reporters were not permitted in the area, which is constantly and cautiously guarded. In an official "communique" Dr. D. A. Keys, director of the project, said the explosion occurred during the process of evaporating a liquid.

Some Radiation

He did not say what liquid, but he did say that some radiation resulted from the explosion. This, he added, was confined to the chemical storage area, some distance from the atomic pile, in a small pilot plant.

He added that "no significant" radiation hazard resulted from the explosion.

Although Dr. Keys stressed that the mishap was not due to sabotage, he said an inquiry will

Boy 5 Beaten Parents Held

SUDBURY, Dec. 14 (CP)—Police said today a five-year-old Sudbury boy was brutally beaten by his parents several days ago and left at home without medical attention. He is in hospital in a semi-conscious condition.

His parents, Florence Wood, 25, and Victor Wood, 27, were arrested Wednesday night when the beating was reported. They are charged with assault occasioning grievous bodily harm.

The boy, Richard Wood, is suffering from a badly swollen face and eyes, frost-bitten swollen feet and bruises about the body.

On a complaint from unidentified neighbors that the child was neglected and required medical attention, Mrs. Grace Wigg, superintendent of the Sudbury District Children's Aid Society, and Mrs. E. O'Brien, social worker, visited the family Wednesday.

"We found the child dressed and standing behind the door. He should have been in bed," Mrs. Wigg declared. "His face was badly swollen and his eyes were almost closed. His feet were so swollen that we couldn't get his shoes on."

New Russ Army Post 30 Miles From US Zone

BERLIN, Dec. 14 —(AP)—The Soviet army has set up a new command post in the Thuringian mountains 30 miles from the American zone, the West Berlin Telegraf reported today.

Thirty hotels and boarding houses were requisitioned for Russian staff officers in Oberhof, a mountain resort, the newspaper said.

The Russian forces in East Germany are estimated by Allied intelligence at 33 divisions. They are distributed among six separate army commands, two of which have been regularly located only a few miles from the west German frontier.

The six army commanders recently put their troops into winter quarters after finishing six months of manoeuvres in which they concentrated on crossing water barriers similar to the Rhine.

UN Assembly Approves Cease-Fire Proposal

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP).—The United Nations Assembly today approved an Asian-Arab plan for a Korean cease-fire despite Soviet-bloc warnings that this would not end the fighting.

The vote was 52 to 5 with Nationalist China abstaining. The Soviet-bloc countries cast the negative votes.

The proposal creates a three-man committee, headed by assembly president Nasrollah Entezam of Iran, and directs it to seek a basis for a truce. Entezam deferred naming the committee.

Russia's Jakob A. Malik vigorously opposed it as a move to give the United States and Britain a chance to prepare a new attack.

Civil Servants Get Raise Of $80-$480

Plan To Discharge 6,000 Employees In Aid Of Economy

OTTAWA, Dec. 14—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today salary increases ranging from $80 to $480 a year for many of Canada's 125,000 Federal civil servants. The increases will be retroactive to Dec. 1.

However, the increases will not show on the cheques of the civil servants until parliament votes money to cover the salary boosts. Parliament is not due to meet until February.

Mr. St. Laurent also announced plans to cut the strength of the civil service by 6,000 and to lengthen the hours of those civil servants now working less than a 39-hour week.

Mr. St. Laurent did not indicate where the staff cuts would be made, but said they would not be in the defence departments or the RCMP. The cuts, to be made by April, will be in addition to the "large reductions already well under way" in the staffs of the income tax division and the prices board.

Lists Exceptions

The prime minister said the salary increases will cover all classes of employees with the following exceptions:

1. Civil servants whose salaries exceed $7,500 a year will not be included in the general revision. Most of these salaries have been reviewed during the last year or two.

2. Where it is clear that salary rates are already closely in line with rates being paid by good private employers, the civil service commission will consider whether and to what extent it will be warranted in recommending specific increases.

3. Where the salaries paid in any class have been adjusted since October, 1948, a lesser increase than that applied generally will be authorized, again having regard to rates being paid by good private employers.

4. The proposed increases will apply only to classified employees. The pay of prevailing-rate employees is governed by the rates prevailing in the localities where the civil servants are employed.

The increased salary rates will amount to approximately 10 per cent in the ranges below $1,200 a year; they will reach approximately 12½ per cent at the $1,800 level; they will hold at that rate to the $3,000 level, and then gradually decline to a four-per-cent increase at $7,500.

Examples were given to show how the increases will work in different salary categories. For instance, an employee making $1,200 a year will receive an increase of $120. A man making $1,500 a year will get an increase of $168.

Railway Strike Spreads Despite Order

CHICAGO, Dec. 14 (AP). —A sudden, crippling strike by railroad yard-workers spread today from Chicago to Washington and St. Louis despite a federal court order to end the walkout.

Freight traffic was disrupted in St. Louis and Chicago. Passenger, mail and express service were affected in Washington.

The yardworkers' work stoppage curtailed passenger service on eight rail lines serving the United States capital. A similar walkout has tied up considerable freight and hit some passenger traffic in Chicago, rail crossroads of the U. S.

There had been a hint from chiefs of the railroad brotherhoods that the strike might spread. The first walkout, in Chicago, took 10,000 men out of the yards yesterday.

A federal judge Wednesday night ordered the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen to end the strike, which began Wednesday. The government, which seized U.S. carriers last August after a strike threat stemming from a wage-hour dispute, said the stoppage was "seriously interfering with the war effort."

A railroad spokesman said the strike appeared to be an attempt to force settlement of the wage-

Angry Senator Hits Columnist

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) —Republican Senator Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin hauled off at columnist Drew Pearson in the plush Sulgrave Club Tuesday night and slapped, punched or kicked him, depending on whose version you accept.

The Senator and the columnist-commentator do not fancy each other. Pearson has been critical of McCarthy, who has been conducting a campaign for months against persons he calls Reds in high government posts.

The Senator, taking note of Pearson's writings, has been circulating the word that any day now he will arise in the Senate and take the hide off Pearson.

Tuesday night they met at a party in the club, which is frequented by many well known Washingtonians.

McCarthy's version—"I slapped him hard."

Pearson's version—"He kicked me below the belt."

Radio commentator Fulton Lewis's version — McCarthy punched Pearson and lifted him about three feet off the floor.

Armed Forces Get Raise Costs Ottawa 18 Million

OTTAWA, Dec. 14—(CP)—The government today announced an $18,000,000 pay boost for the armed forces in a drive to help servicemen fight living costs and to encourage recruiting. For the estimated 63,000 men now in the regular forces and the part-time pay for thousands of reservists and cadets, it will boost the pay bill from roughly $133,000,000 to $151,000,000 a year.

The raises touch every rank from private to major-general and their equivalents in the R.C.A.F. and navy. They range from an $11-a-month hoist in the basic pay of a private to a $120 hoist for a major-general.

For married personnel they range from $14 a month upward. They average $19 for other ranks and $33 for officers.

At the same time, the Goverment launched a new system of granting foreign allowances "to be paid to sailors, soldiers and airmen with Canadian units abroad." However, the allowances will not go to officers. They range from $9 to $16.50 a month.

Retroactive To July

They are retroactive to July 5, 1950, and this will mean a small bonanza for the Canadian sailors and airmen serving the U.N. effort in Korea.

The increases, authorized Wednesday by cabinet, affect basic rates of pay, subsistence allowances and separated family allowances. They apply to reserve force personnel, too.

The marriage allowance of $3 for other ranks and $40 for officers remains unchanged.

Here are some examples of old and new rates.

A trained army private or an ordinary seaman or aircraftman first class used to get $72 a month if single. Now that rank will get $83. If married, that rank used to get $156 and now will get $170.

A single sergeant in the army or RCAF or a petty officer second class used to get $101 and now will get $119. If married, that rank got $191 and now will get $216.

An army captain, air force flight lieutenant or navy lieutenant used to get $213 if single. That rank now draws $234. If married, the rank was worth $326 compared to the new figure of $353.

Married men separated from their families and having one or more children will receive an increase of $15.

Princess Margaret Will Visit Malta

LONDON, Dec. 14 (Reuters)—Princess Margaret will fly from London Airport today to join her sister, Princess Elizabeth, for a short vacation in Malta. She will return to Britain before Christmas.

Princess Elizabeth, who has just ended a short visit to Greece with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, will stay in Malta over Christmas. The duke is in command of the frigate Magpie, based at Malta.

Drivers Under 25 Pay Higher Insurance

TORONTO, Dec. 14—(CP)—Two groups of Ontario drivers will get a cut in automobile insurance rates and two others will pay more in 1951, it was announced Wednesday by the Canadian Underwriters' Association and the Independent Automobile and Casualty Insurance Conference.

Truck operators also will get the reduced rates.

Families owning private cars where there is no driver under 25 will pay less next year. Cars driven by persons under 25 will cost more to insure and the rate on cars used in business has been increased.

The announcement said the new rates are based on insurance loss statistics and reflect the driving behavior of the motoring public.

Savings in insurance rates range from $2.50 to $8.50 for the select group.

Increase of rates where the private cars is driven by youths range from 50 cents to $18.50. Increases in rates for cars used in business range from 50 cents to $20.50.

Mrs. Pitre Third Charged With Murder In Crash

QUEBEC, Dec. 14—(CP)—Solicitor-General Antoine Rivard announced today that Quebec Crown authorities have decided to charge Mrs. Arthur Pitre with murder as an accomplice in the Sault Au Cochon airliner disaster of Sept. 9, 1949.

Mr. Rivard made the announcement as he went into a conference with Crown prosecutor Noel Dorion during which it will be decided just when Mrs. Pitre, who now is in jail on another accusation, will be accused of murder.

The murder charge will be the third arising from the crash of a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane which took 3 lives and was caused by secret shipment of a time-bomb in its baggage compartment.

J. Albert Guay was convicted last February as the master-mind of the plot devised to murder his 28-year-old wife for $10,000 insurance money. Guay is due to be hanged Jan. 1.

Genereux Auest, 54-year-old crippled watchmaker and brother of Mrs. Pitre, was convicted Wednesday of complicity in the murder of Mrs. Guay who died in the crash, and will be hanged March 16.

Announcement of the murder accusation against Mrs. Pitre, who has admitted shipping the time-bomb in the guise of an ordinary parcel, followed a morning conference between Premier Duplessis and Solicitor-General Antoine Rivard. The premier is also attorney-general of Quebec.

The official government informant said murder proceedings against Mrs. Pitre will be carried out under a preferred indictment.

This will carry the case directly to criminal assizes court for Mrs. Pitre's trial by jury and avoid a preliminary hearing in a lower court.

Daring Rescue of 8,400 In 15-Below-Zero Weather

TOKYO, Dec. 14 (AP). — A United Nations naval task force rescued a total of 8,400 military personnel and allied civilians in last week's evacuation of Chinnampo, the navy said today in disclosing additional details of the action.

Three Canadian destroyers—the Cayuga, Athabaskan and Sioux—and the Australian destroyers Warramunga and Bataan screened the evacuation. The British aircraft carrier Thesus afforded fighter-plane cover.

The Canadian and Australian destroyers remained in the Chinnampo area overnight and shelled oil storage tanks, docks, harbor installations and supply dumps the next day.

Amphibious units under the command of American Capt. Samuel George Kelly raced through the mouth of the Taedong river on the night of Dec. 4. They ran 30 miles up Daidko estuary through heavy snows, while Chinese guns pointed down at them from the surrounding hills. Capt J. V. Brock of the RCN was second in command.

Vice-Admiral C. Turney Joy, commander of United Nations naval forces in Korea, said rescued personnel included U. S. Army soldiers, doctors and nurses as well as Korean political figures, wounded South Korean soldiers, Korean Boy Scouts, refugees and Chinese prisoners-of-war.

Capt. Kelly led his units into the port area. They were loaded from the pier, off the mud flats, beaches or wherever they could, in temperatures as low as 15 degrees below zero.

The evacuation was taking place while Red Chinese troops were driving U.N. rearguard forces from the outskirts of Pyongyang.

Two Light Ground Attacks Against Perimeter As Evacuation Speeded

Report Growing Show of Russian Jet Planes Raising New Danger; Revived North Korean Troops In Action

TOKYO, Dec. 14—(AP)—Allied forces pulled deeper into their northeast Korea beachhead today before the menace of an estimated 100,000 Chinese Reds massed on an arc around them. Across the peninsula in the northwest near Manchuria the biggest jet-against-jet air battles ever fought were waged during the day. The jet dogfights rendered no clear-cut decisions. (In Washington, an Air Force spokesman said the growing Red jet fighter activities indicated the Communist Air Force is starting to wage an all-out air war in Korea.)

On the northeast beachhead the U.S. 3rd Division abandoned the town of Oro, six miles north of Hamhung, and withdrew into the slender perimeter strip extending another six miles to the east coast port of Hungnam.

Last Toehold

It is the United Nations' last toehold in the northeast.

Puerto Rican troops dynamited three spans of a 500-foot concrete bridge over the Songchon river after Oro was abandoned. A railroad bridge and two other spans on the outer defence perimeter also were blasted.

These were the first reported large demolitions on the outskirts of the beachhead. Oro was in flames from pre-dawn fighting. This was believed to be the scene of a light Chinese probing attack reported earlier but not pinpoint-

Frost Announces Civil Service Boost

TORONTO, Dec. 14 — (CP).—Ontario civil servants received a welcome Christmas present today when Premier Frost announced that the present cost-of-living bonus of $180 a year would be increased by 33⅓ per cent and placed on the basis of $20 a month.

With the new rate made retroactive to the commencement of the fiscal year on April 1, the service is to receive immediately an extra $45 covering the last nine months. In future the new amount will be incorporated in the regular pay cheque.

"Last April it was then felt that the cost of living had reached a point of stability," the Premier said. "As a result it was then thought that salary increases rather than a cost of living bonus was more desirable. In the meantime, however, the Korea situation has intervened with its impact on our economy. The picture of April has changed very considerably and the government is mindful of the impact on the living costs of those in the service."

Churchill Says Atom Bomb Must Be Lever

LONDON, Dec. 14 (CP). — Winston Churchill today told the House of Commons the atomic bomb "is the only level by which we can hope to obtain a reasonable consideration in our attempt to make a peaceful settlement with Soviet Russia."

He did not suggest that the bomb be used against Russia. But apparently he was arguing against any pledge by the west never to use it first.

Today, Churchill chided Attlee for not meeting with Truman earlier—perhaps right after the Inchon landings. He added: "it would have been wise to have a well-fortified line, to leave a broad no-man's land which we could have reconnoitered." This was a criticism of the decision to push up to the Manchurian border.

Silly Saying

Turning to the atom bomb, he said it would be a "silly thing" to say that "we must never use the atomic bomb unless and until it has been used against us."

"That," he said, "means that you must never fire until you have been shot dead. The deterrent effect of the atomic bomb is, at the present time, almost our sole defence."

Attlee told the Commons on Tuesday there were no differences between himself and Truman on the subject. A Washington communique at the end of his talks with Truman last week said Truman hoped world conditions never would call for use of the bomb and "it was also his desire to keep the Prime Minister at all

Kelly Concedes Governorship

DETROIT, Dec. 14 (AP)—Former Governor Harry F. Kelly, a Republican, the apparent winner for three days after Michigan's Nov. 7 governorship election, Wednesday night finally conceded re-election to Democratic Governor G. Mennen Williams.

Kelly tossed in the sponge after 12 days of recount during which weary workers had rechecked more than three-fourths of the nearly 1,900,000 votes cast.

For three days after the election the two-time wartime governor had led Williams by margins up to more than 4,000 votes.

Ontario Legislature Opens February 1

TORONTO, Dec. 14 (CP). — Premier Frost announced today the next Ontario legislature session will open Feb. 1, 18 days earlier than this year.

He said no attempt will be made to bring about adjournment by Good Friday, as has been the custom. Good Friday falls next year on March 23.

"Easter comes this year before the close of the fiscal year of the province, and we will sit until public business is completed in the proper way," the Premier said.

6-Foot Board Pierces Worker's Scalp

MEAFORD, Dec. 14.—His scalp pierced by a razor-edged six-foot strip of hardwood Wednesday afternoon, an employee of F. Stanley Knight Hardwood Flooring Ltd. walked calmly to the plant's first aid room holding the projecting board, then sat quietly while it was sawed off at his temple.

Keith Bumstead, 36, was then rushed to Owen Sound hospital where he underwent an emergency operation to remove the rest of the board. His condition Wednesday night was satisfactory.

A well-known Meaford guide, Bumstead was feeding boards into a finishing machine when the accident occurred. A stoppage in the machine caused the board to shoot out like an arrow. It entered Bumstead's scalp at the left temple and came out at the back of his head.

Fellow-workers marvelled as Bumstead reached up to steady the five feet of projecting board, and then, holding it firmly, walked some distance to the first aid room. Dr. J. C. Finley and plant superintendent Ivan Knight sawed the projecting part off.

Dr. Finley said X-rays would be taken tomorrow to determine whether Bumstead's skull was fractured. He said if the board had entered a fraction of an inch differently Bumstead would certainly have been killed.

Bumstead's wife, Marjorie, is also employed by the company, and was working nearby when the accident occurred, although she did not see it.

Veering Car Crashes Hits Hydro Pole

Swerving to avoid crashing into a truck at Rogers and Hazlitt Sts., John R. Sutton, 161 Dufferin St., banged into a hydro pole at the northwest corner of the intersection Wednesday evening. Sutton was not hurt, but his car was damaged.

Sutton told police he was driving north on Rogers St. when he saw a truck driven by Fred Daniels, 16 Argyle St., coming out of Hazlitt St. into the intersection. He swerved to miss the truck, but could not bring his car back before he ran into the post.

The radiator was pushed back, the right half of the grill broken and the hood twisted.

Constable Stewart Fife who investigated reported the road surface was icy and very slippery at the intersection.

times informed about developments" which might change the situation.

There have been widespread demands here that Britain be consulted before any atom bomb is dropped.

Attlee said today that a ceasefire in Korea must be the first step toward settlement of the West's difficulties with China.

No Middle Course

But he warned the House of Commons there could be "no middle course" in reaching a settlement.

"Either we must try to negotiate a settlement based on the acceptance of the normal standards of international practice, or ....we shall find ourselves drifting inevitably towards war," he said.

Attlee listed Formosa as one of the most difficult problems to be settled in the Far East.

He said that during recent talks in Washington with President Truman they agreed that consideration of Formosa and other Far Eastern problems by the United Nations would be "helpful."

RCMP Pay Plan To Be Revised

OTTAWA, Dec. 14 —(CP)—A complete revision of the entire pay system for the RCMP, including increases ranging from $140 to $651.50 a year, was announced today by Justice Minister Garson.

The minister, whose department administrates the RCMP, said the major factor in the revision is replacement of the old system of pay plus allowances with a straight monthly salary schedule. In addition no distinction will be made under the new system between the pay for married and single members of the 4,000-man federal police force.

The new system, including the pay increases, is effective from Dec. 1 last.

Salaries of commissioned officers below the rank of commissioner also are increased.

Mr. Garson said it is hoped that the revisions will have the "effect of attracting a large, additional number of recruits to the force and that it will also encourage experienced members of the force to remain with it, notwithstanding the attractive openings now available to good men outside the force."

Dollar Shows Drop

MONTREAL, Dec. 14 (CP) — The American dollar today opened at 5 1/32 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, 1/32 lower than Wednesday's close. That is it took $1.05 1/32 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.94-1/16, down 3/16.

Duplessis Opens Hydro Project

TRENCHE, Que., Dec. 14 (CP) —The sixth hydro-electric development on the St. Maurice river was inaugurated today when Premier Duplessis, speaking from his Quebec offices, gave the signal to start the first of five big generators of the Trenche dam.

Construction of the 66,000 horsepower generator, originally scheduled for completion in July, was started late in 1948 after roads had been built to reach the site deep in the forest, 130 miles up the St. Maurice from Three Rivers.

Slated now for completion next year, the Trenche will produce 325,000 horsepower, the greater part of which is intended for development of the titanium industry in northeastern Quebec and its great smelter at Sorel, on the St. Lawrence river.

The new ore development is expected to cost $200,000,000 with $30,000,000 already invested in a railway from the Labrador-Quebec border to Sept Isles, and in the smelter.

The Shawinigan Water and Power Company's 15th power development, the Trenche has employed more than 2,000 workers since its construction was started. A model, though temporary, community for 2,700 was built for the construction workers near the dam, 200 miles northeast of Montreal.

Report Prices Mixed On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Dec. 14 (CP). — Prices were mixed as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Trading continued its dull activity of the last three sessions and slowed to the quietest it has been since the end of last August.

Like Wednesday industrials failed to develop a trend. Gains and losses were about evenly balanced. Papers and manufacturing companies showed a majority of gains and foods and refining oils tended lower.

Base metals were mixed. Falconbridge, International Nickel and Steep Rock advanced up to 25 cents while Consolidated Smelters, Noranda and United Keno Hill lost about the same.

Golds were also mixed after opening firm. In the senior group Hollinger and Kerr Addison were ahead. Junior producers traded narrowly and quiet.

CouncilWouldReplace Roy Film Called In

Peterborough's technicolor film of the tourist attractions of its area entitled "The Call of the Kawarthas," originally photographed by the late Fred L. Roy, is still in circulation, but is being called in for replacement.

National Film Board wrote the city council this week that the film has been repaired so often it was no longer fit for showing and should be scrapped. Its last assignment was to Chicago.

National Film Board wrote: "If you supply us with a new print we'll be glad to continue its use."

Someone suggested at the finance committee meeting that it be left to the 1951 council.

When Ald. J. E. Gillespie was informed that a new print from the master film would cost $150, he said: "Let's get it at once; the winter is when it is used most for all kinds of meetings."

Fred Roy's greatest contribution to the Kawarthas has travelled far since he unreeled it for the first time in his studio.

Ald. Doug Miller seconded the Gillespie "crack-down" motion for quick action.

hour dispute before any wage freeze or presidential declaration of a war emergency. The union seeks a 40-hour work week at 48 hours pay for its yard workers. The dispute has been before Steelman and the National (Railway) Mediation Board for more than four months.

Halts Freight

The walkout, which the union termed unauthorized, virtually halted freight movement. It caused some passenger-train cancellations and disrupted other industries. Continuation of the stoppage threatened a major delay in the Christmas mails in Chicago, a major transfer point for transcontinental mails.

The steel industry was hit almost immediately. There were shutdowns and curtailment of operations throughout the Chicago industrial area.

At the same time, presidents of four operating rail unions, including the BRT, said in Washington that the strike may spread unless government mediation efforts are stepped up to settle the wage-hour dispute.

They blamed the delay in reaching an agreement on John R. Steelman, President Truman's assistant, who has been conducting the negotiations. They said the White House had been told of the "unrest" among the rail workers.

House Of Lords Rules Adultery

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP). — The House of Lords ruled today that a man whose wife had a baby 360 days after the last time he saw her is entitled to a divorce on grounds of adultery.

The plaintiff was Charles P. Jones, a veteran of the RAF. His wife, Bertha, had the baby on August 13, 1946. Although Jones proved he had not visited her since Aug. 18, 1945, she insisted the baby was his.

A lower court upheld Mrs. Jones and refused her husband's plea for a divorce.

Granting Jones' appeal, the Lords legal panel noted various courts have held in the past that births after periods of 331, 346 and even 349 days "were not impossible," but added:

"It would appear a fantastic suggestion to any ordinary man or woman that a normal child could be born 360 days after the last intercourse."

Ground Attacks

ed. Enemy reconnaisance planes scouted the beachhead Wednesday night.

In the far northwest, another threat appeared in the growing strength of Red jet fighter planes streaking into action from Manchuria.

Twenty - four Russian - made MIG-15s tangled with four American F-80 Shooting Stars in the biggest aerial dog-fight of the war thus far.

The flashing battle was waged for nearly half an hour over the Sinuiju area on the Korean side of the Manchurian border. Pilots reported one hit on a MIG and no damage to their own planes.

Earlier in the day 14 to 16 MIGs —the largest number to appear fighting in a single formation up to then—engaged U.S. jets in a brief clash in the same area. That fight was broken off without damage to the eight American jets involved.

Farther south, the U.N. northwest front was generally quiet.

Security Blackout

A security blackout settled over the general picture in the critical Hamhung-Hungnam area of northeast Korea. But a U.S. 10th corps spokesman there estimated that 10 Chinese divisions were putting pressure on the slender beachhead from three directions.

AP correspondent Stan Swinton reported two light ground attacks on the perimeter, which embraces Hamhung and its Hungnam port on the Sea of Japan coast.

Both attacks were repulsed. Chinese in company strength wore captured American uniforms in the first probing attack.

The perimeter is manned by elements of three American and two South Korean divisions, plus British and Puerto Rico units. They are from among the 60,000 or more allied troops drawn to the beachhead from all northeast Korea.

Bomb Chinese

Chinese menacing the perimeter were hammered by carrier-based Marine and naval fighter-bombers. Also protecting the beachhead were the long range guns of American warships.

Field officers expected a sharp fight within the near future.

Correspondent Swinton reported Chinese forces seeping down from the north on foot. West of the Hamhung-Koto road other Chinese elements moved toward the beachhead. A third force swung down from the northeastern coastal road, still well to the north of the right flank of the defence perimeter.

It was down the Hamhung-Koto road that the U.S. 1st Marine and 7th Infantry Divisions retreated through a series of Red traps from the Changjin reservoir last week.

Previous estimates had placed the Red force at around eight divisions. Chinese divisions number between 8,000 and 10,000 men.

Small Engagements

On the Eighth Army's northwest front, there was relatively-small engagements. The largest of these was a fight between South Korean 5th division and Red forces near Chunchon, about 45 miles northeast of Seoul.

Those Red forces evidently were part of eight to 12 new or revived North Korean divisions Gen. MacArthur in his daily war summary reported the divisions were "raised or rehabilitated" since the allies crushed the North Korean army.

MacArthur said "it is entirely possible" that many of the Korean Reds thrown back into the campaign were trained in Manchuria —safe from U.N. air attacks.

Fifth Air Force planes blasted the Reds in the Chunchon area with jellied gasoline fire-bombs and rockets. Victims of the assault were among more than 2,500 Reds killed or wounded Wednesday in strikes against troops and supply lines throughout northwest Korea.

LONG CAMPAIGN

Exactly 90 years before Lincoln was assassinated, a society to abolish slavery was formed in Philadelphia in 1775.

Canadian Troops Aching To Get Into Korean Fight

YOKOHAMA, Dec. 14—(CP)—Men of the Korea-bound 2nd Battalion of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry crossed their fingers today for luck. With two months between them and operational fitness they learned on arrival at Yokohama Wednesday that they still are bound for United Nations' shrunken peninsula.

The consensus today: "Grand—if we get the time."

The men stretched their legs in the dock area, route-marching to the canteen to stock up on cigarettes, chocolate bars and letter paper before resumption of the last leg of the voyage once the transport Pvt. Joe P. Martinez is refuelled.

Marching along the waterside area, the men didn't see much of Yokohama, but drew applause from Japanese onlookers.

They were undaunted by the news that new rigors are already facing them in Korea.

Quarters Requisitioned

Wednesday their Korean quarters—two requisitioned schoolhouses cleaned up by the advance party and fitted with bunks and kitchens—were requisitioned by a higher United States formation.

Members of the 350-man advance party were told to find a spot for a tent camp for the battalion, due at the weekend.

The troops' reaction to the onto-Korea orders was summed up by Pte. James Ramsay, 19, of Edmonton.

"I think we should be there. Canada wants to be represented there, and that's why we joined up.

"It was worse there when we enlisted than it is now.

"I wouldn't like us to be committed right away, but once we are trained we should be used wherever we're needed."

Pte. Karl Anderson of Vancouver, a member of the pioneer platoon, said the pioneers are ready for action right away.

"Most riflemen I know are ready too. They can put us in any time."

Their officers agree that the riflemen are well-trained individually, but that the regiment needs unit training.

Turn Down Proposal

LONDON Dec. 14.—(Reuters). —The 1951 Festival of Britain Exhibition will boost the British way of life—but not necessarily British drinks. In the House of Commons Herbert Morrison, lord president of the council, Wednesday night turned down a Conservative proposal that only British and Empire wines, spirits, meads, beers and ciders should be displayed and sold at the exhibition.

SANTA AT K. OF C.

A Christmas party for the children of the members was held at the Knights of Columbus club, Simcoe St., Wednesday night. The program was under the direction of Deputy Grand Knight W. J. Cunningham. Ted Bradshaw mystified the boys and girls with sleight of hand tricks, and Rev. John Coughlan showed films obtained from the Peterborough Film Board. Santa Claus delighted the youngsters with his distribution of gifts.

Bomb In Restaurant

BARTOW, Fla., Dec. 14.—(CP). —A home-made bomb blasted a $72,000 restaurant owned by a city commissioner and his brother before dawn Wednesday. Commissioner John Pittas said anger over his support of a controversial hospital project for Negroes "is about the only reason I know for the explosion." No one was in the restaurant at the time of the explosion, which caused damage estimated at $5,000.

Dangerous Situation

LYNCHBURG, Va., Dec. 14. — (AP).—Gasoline is pouring into a Lynchburg sewer at the rate of 75 gallons a day, but nobody knows where it's coming from. Public works officials are worried. So's the Fire Prevention Bureau, whose investigations so far have come to naught. Meantime a part of downtown Lynchburg is perched squarely atop a gas chamber which could explode any time with disastrous damage.

Youths Steal $25

HAMILTON, Dec. 14 —(CP)— Two youths stole $25 from a service station on Highway 20 near here last night after beating 68-year-old Joseph Penrose, the proprietor. Police said it was believed they then drove off in the direction of Grimsby in an automobile which had been parked nearby. Provincial Police set up road blocks in several areas.

Three Ships In Difficulty

BREST, France, Dec. 14 (AP)— At least three ships — British, Dutch and Greek—are in difficulty in a tempest off the coast of northwestern France, the French naval station said today.

The 3,658-ton Greek ship, Agios Spyridon, is in the worst shape, and can probably be considered lost, the station said, adding that it has reports that rescue ships have approached the vessel and taken off at least two men and a woman.

The station said it also had picked up signals of distress from the 5,083 ton British ship, Blaircleve, and the Dutch coaster Koningshave, 493 tons, which was drifting out of control.

The storm is so bad it has disrupted the radio signals, the station said.

Urgent calls for help came later from the Swedish motorship Scandinavia. Messages received at Rotterdam, the Netherlands, said the 3,506-ton vessel is facing serious trouble in the Bay of Biscay.

Fails To Remember Whether Speeding

A magistrate, a crown attorney a police officer, a court clerk, a reporter and a large number of spectators all gathered in police court at 10 o'clock this morning to deal with the city's and county's crime, but nothing happened.

A number of written pleas of guilty were put through in routin feashion. Three people came in to say that they really didn't speed or go through a red light. These contested cases were adjourned a week in order that the police officer involved could be brought to court to give evidence.

A. Eason, charged with speeding on Lansdowne St., said he couldn't plead guilty or not guilty because he didn't know whether he had been speeding on that street on that day because it was week before he received the summons and he couldn't remember.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, suggested he plead not guilty, the case would be adjourned and the officer would be brought to give evidence.

"If I plead guilty, will it be finished with today? Eason asked.

"Yes," the magistrate answered.

'Then I plead guilty.'

'Five dollars and $2.50 costs."

At each stop the band plays two or three Christmas carols.

UNITED NATIONS' SHIPPING lies at dockside in the northeastern Korean port of Hungnam as preparation was being made for the sea evacuation of some 60,000 Allied troops, where loading of the retreating forces is being speeded up today as officers fear a mass assault by 80,000 Chinese approaching the area. This withdrawal means the abandonment of the last big U.N. port in North Korea.

Start School In 9 Weeks Architect Roberts Informs Board

HAVELOCK, Dec. 14 (ENS).—H. H. Roberts of Westport, architect for the new area high school, met with the Norwood District High School Board at their December meeting. He informed the board that the plans were not fully completed, but sufficiently advanced to give them a complete idea of the style of the building. He said the final details of the plans were most important and the draughtsmen should not be rushed.

He expected that the plans would be completed in two or three weeks. He described in detail six classrooms, five vocational rooms, one gymnasium, one science and agricultural room, a general waiting room and a principal's room. The school will be L-shaped and will accommodate 310 pupils.

Need Eight Acres

Land required for the building and for recreational and agricultural purposes will be eight acres located at King and Elm streets, Norwood. The lighting, heating ventilation will be the latest improved type. The disposal system will be septic tanks with syphon and a four-inch water main. The hydro inlet will be underground. The science room will have two-pupil tables and instructor's desk with A.C. and D.C. system. The shop lathes will be arranged so that they can be moved and contact hydro any place in the room with hydro safety devices. The shop overhead door to be 10 x 10 feet.

Approves Plans

The board approved the plans as explained by Mr. Roberts.

Mr. Roberts gave the following estimate in connection with the time before the board could start with the building: three weeks for the architect to finish the plan, one week for the department approval, three weeks for tenders, two weeks for approval of the department and municipal board of Ontario.

The school site has not been purchased yet as it is still indefinite regarding the ownership of Elm street which the board requires, and the secretary was instructed to contact G. L. Duffin, executive assistant secondary schools, Department of Education, Toronto, for his advice as to the advisability of the board purchasing the school site.

$1,100 Increase

The transportation committee informed the board that a revised statement had been received from the department showing an increase of $1,100. The department approves a certain amount the first of the term on which they will pay a grant. In October the amount originally approved for grant purposes was $10.080. The increase means that there will be approximately $900 more coming to the board in the grant on transportation.

The property committee reported that repairs had been made to the furnace pipes and the ashes removed from the grounds at Norwood school.

A communication was read from the clerk of Percy township advising the board that SS No. 9 of Percy township, Northumberland county, had accepted a liability for their portion of the debentures to be issued for the new area high school.

Trustee H. Michaelson requested that Charles Carter be allowed the use of one high school room at Havelock for the Choral Society. The request was granted.

There was a full attendance of the members of the board. Accounts for November amounting to approximately $4,500 were passed.

Chairman Buck before closing the meeting expressed to the board his appreciation for the loyal and kindly support the members had given him throughout the year as chairman and felt in the face of increased cost and adverse conditions much had been accomplished.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffith replied graciously. Lunch was served by the ladies.

Bingo Profits For Hospital

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 14—(ENS)—All profits of turkey bingo to be held at Edgewater Park pavilion on Thursday night by the Campbellford Kinsmen Club will be turned over to the Campbellford Memorial Hospital building fund. This was decided at the Monday meeting of the Kinsmen Club, after hearing a talk by A. J. Meyers, chairman of the building committee. The club has already donated more than $225 to the fund.

About $36,000 are still needed to complete the $230,000 structure. Mr. Meyers quoted statements made by the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Public Welfare for Ontario, and of Rev. Father Collins, former parish priest in Campbellford regarding the great need for a new hospital here.

W. J. Callaghan asked president Ron Hazell to extend the thanks of the club to Mr. Meyers for his talk.

Plans are under way for an outdoor skating rink for children of the town, and a committee was formed, consisting of Forrest Dennis, who proposed the idea, as chairman, and Douglas Gibson, Bruce Grills and Borden Robertson.

Peterborough's Good Health

The report of the city's Medical Officer of Health for last year has now been published. In this excellent document, Dr. Kelly's statistics and comments thereon point to a very satisfactory state of health and cleanliness in the city, and a notable advance in the last several years. Without making a thorough analysis of this report, we mention here a few of the more striking facts.

The live birth rate in 1949 in Peterborough increased slightly to make it the highest in years, with the exception of 1947. There were 1,053 births, a rate of 29.52 for each thousand of the population. There were 351 deaths (including two in sanitorium), a rate of 9.808. The natural increase during the year was therefore 704. The most frequent cause of death continues to be diseases of the heart (120 cases); next in order were intracranial vascular lesions (strokes)—51 cases, and, third, cancer (38). There were no deaths in the city due to tuberculosis, except of the two patients in sanitorium.

A heartening state of affairs is the record of no maternal deaths at childbirth. Although there were 1053 live births—the largest number yet in Peterborough's history—not one mother died as a result of childbirth. In 1948 three mothers died at childbirth This 1949 record is a reflection of the general improvement in conditions, care and technical skill on the continent. (In the United States last year there was a record low of less than one maternal death per thousand live births; in 1933 before the use of sulfas and antibiotics the rate was 6.2 per thousand). It also shows that Peterborough doctors and clinical care are in the van of this trend towards safer motherhood. The infant mortality rate has also lowered. Only 29 infants died under one year of age. It is the lowest rate ever recorded in the city's history, with the exception of 1946. The number of still-births has decreased, to the lowest on record. There were 18 still-births, a rate of 17.09 per thousand of population.

• • •

And so the satisfactory report goes: a low incidence of communicable disease; active and effective control of tuberculosis; improvement of environmental hygiene, and a decrease in the incidence of venereal disease. There were only 16 cases of gonnorrhoea and seven of syphilis. The department carried out only 18 investigations of contacts or delinquents as compared with 33 in 1948 and 40 in 1947.

Shaven Soldiers

A few days ago we and other Canadian papers published a photograph of a group of soldiers. They were all fearfully bald-headed, like prisoners, Oriental soldiers or Russian denizens of slave-labour camps. After a first glance at this picture, we felt how awful it was that fine Canadian and American soldiers had to fight horrible men like these Chinese or North Korean soldiers. But the second glance, and a look at the words under the photograph, showed that we were mistaken in both our sympathy and notion. They were Canadian soldiers on their way to Korea.

We presume that the Army authorities did not order the head-shaving. Sergeant-majors and adjutants do demand short hair though with not too much reason in these days of D.D.T., mobile military baths and cold wintry campaigns. But no sergeant-major would be so lacking in human decency to require head-shaving. It must have been a few men themselves who shaved their hair off for notoriety or whim's sake. We think the practice should be stopped by regimental order. It may be well and good to (though a bit unfair) frighten the enemy with raked heads or fierce handle-bar moustaches, but it is not right to frighten the folk back home. Furthermore, Canadians are not supposed to look like monsters. This shaving does their faces and the fair name of Canada no good, at home or abroad. Let the P.P.C.L.I. soldiers be properly covered with the hair of their birthright. Even General MacArthur, who has lost most of his hair (through natural causes) carefully preserves the proprieties by keeping it long and thick at the neck, and wearing a cap when his photograph is taken.

Teachers Turn The Screws

In Sudbury 62 secondary school teachers have handed in their resignations to be effective at the end of this month. Tney had demanded an increase in salary of $800, with a minimum of $3,000 and a maximum of $5,400. The Sudbury Board of Education rejected this demand, refused to accept the resignations and then offered a revised salary schedule with a starting minimum of $2,500, a maximum of $4,300, and an increase across the board of $300. The teachers have not accepted this offer and their original demands still stand, together with their resignations should the demands not be met.

We note that the Sudbury Board's offer, if accepted, would put the Sudbury teachers on a par with Peterborough secondary school teachers, and even be an advance on their salaries. Peterboraugh teachers' salaries are the second highest in the province, in the city group bracket (Group C) in which it is listed for statistical purposes.

The Sudbury Board, responsible to ratepayers as well as parents is put in a difficult position. An $800 increase to each secondary school teacher would be a pretty heavy additional levy on the taxes. This year Peterborough teachers are getting—both public and secondary ones—a general increase of $200. This amounts to more than $35,000 and puts about one mill extra on the tax rate. By how many mills would the Sudbury rates have to rise to provide such a whopping increase as $800, even though it would go only to the secondary school teachers?

The screw is being turned down on the Sudbury Board and citizens in another way. The Secondary School Teachers' Federation has advised the Sudbury teachers that any who accept the present Board offer will be denied the support of the Federation. In other words, any teacher who keeps his job on those terms, or any other from outside who applies for a position left vacant by the resignations, would be ousted from the Federation. That means, practically, that he could not take a job as a teacher in any Ontario schools. Thus unless the Sudbury Board comes to terms with the Federation and its teachers, it will be unable to get any teachers.

It is to be hoped that conciliation now proposed between the Federation representatives, the Sudbury Board and probably the Department of Education, will bring some sense into this issue, and particularly some sense into the Sudbury teacher's demands.

British Financial Independence

Britain will no longer accept or require Marshall Aid. That shows a remarkable recovery in the U.K. from the financial pit which in 1946 to 1948 threatened to close over the Kingdom. It is also a measure of the success Marshall Aid dollars have had in oiling the wheels of European commerce. Now Britain has, through her own trading and industrial efforts, through borrowed American dollars, and through manipulation of her colonial and pound markets, come to stand firmly on her own financial basis. There is also, of course, the influence of the American dollar, given through E.R.P. and as an aid to rearming Europe, on western continental countries from whom Britain in her trade has been able to receive dollar benefits in payment for the gold she expended on them during the war.

It is sad to relate that at this time, five years after the war when Britain is at last achieving international financial equilibruim, which should have resulted in better standards of living for the hard-pressed Britons, that re-armament expenses are likely to keep the people in straitened circumstances, and the belt tightened.

Calcium In Butter

A correspondent whose letter appeared Monday on this page claimed that a patient whom she was nursing suffered from a lack of calcium in her diet due to her preference for margarine over butter. When the patient started to use butter her health improved because of the calcium in the butter, so the letter-writer said. We wish to correct the erroneous impression which this letter may have left. The correspondent was writing nonsense. There is so little calcium in butter that it can be said that for dietary purposes there is none. There would be more calcium in a glass of ordinary water than in a gob of butter. There is, of course, calcium in milk. Margarine contains as small an amount of calcium as butter, unless skimmed milk is used in the margarine-making process. Thus it is that various brands of margarine in the Canadian market have more calcium than butter. In any case, neither butter nor margarine is considered to be a food source of calcium. Most nurses, through their training and study, would know this.

By O. M. GREEN

(Ed. Note: Mr. Green is a well-known authority on Far Eastern affairs, and was formerly editor for 20 years of the North China Daily News.)

DURING the past few days the Peking Daily News, which is second to none in its anti-American violence, has published a chronological list of American "acts of aggression" against China. It ranges from accusations that in 1839 America imported opium into China (as at that time every nation that traded in China did) down to the alleged bombing of Manchuria by U.S. planes a month ago.

In the intervening list of charges one notes that in March 1946 General George C. Marshall "instigated" Chiang Kai-shek to launch his great attack on the Communists, whereas in fact General Marshall did his utmost to dissuade Chiang from this fatal undertaking; and, that, when Japan and Russia went to war in 1904, America secretly gave the Japanese 450 million dollars "in order that through the Japanese, she might gain possession of Manchuria". The childish absurdity of this last charge is a striking sample of the depths to which propaganda can descend.

Against this vicious mendacity it is timely to show something of the immense debt China owes to the American people.

POLITICALLY it is to be noted that America has never owned a Concession in China since the very early days of Shanghai when the ground allotted for foreign residence was roughly parcelled out into French, British and American Concessions, the two latter being subsequently amalgamated into the International Settlement in which all nations shared.

In the 1850's when other Great Powers were staking out Concessions at Tientsin, a piece of ground was marked out for America but she never took it up nor developed it in any way and eventually got rid of it.

IN 1898 came the famous enunciation of the "open door in China" by Secretary of State John Hay. At that time Russia and Germany, taking advantage of China's weakness revealed by her defeat by Japan, were extorting large concessions in Manchuria and Shantung and Great Britain had proclaimed her special interest in the Yangtze Valley; and Mr. Hay did not wish America to be shut out of trade in these regions. But his insistence on the "open door" was always cited by the Chinese, until recent times, as proof of America's friendship for them.

IT was in pursuance of the "open door" policy that, in 1909, Secretary of State Knox made his ill-starred attempt to neutralize, under international control, the railways of Manchuria where Russia and Japan were using their control very much to destroy China's sovereignty; and that in 1914 President Wilson coerced the American bankers to withdraw from the Anglo-French-Russian-German Consortium formed to control loans made to China. This, in President Wilson's view, was contrary both to China's rights and the "open door" policy.

BUT while the political side of America's friendship for China was apparent only to a few, its material benefits were felt all over China in hospitals, schools, and colleges. Most European nations have partaken in this work and Great Britain certainly has no cause to be ashamed of her share. But America's great wealth, and the sentimental enthusiasm for China as a special protege of America meant that she exceeded them all.

THE China Year Book for 1939 (the last to be published) gives a list of 57 American missionary societies (not counting Roman Catholics) through which 5,780,000 dollars had been subscribed for mission work in China. For many years previously America's gifts to China had averaged well over 4,000,000 dollars a year.

The Peking Union Medical College, founded by the London Missionary Society, was later taken over by the Rockefeller Foundation and munificently endowed as a teaching centre and hospital.

The great Cheloo University at Tsinanfu, the Ginling Women's College at Nanking, the Linguan University at Canton (where two American doctors started the first foreign hospital for Chinese nearly 100 years ago) are predominantly American though there is some British assistance. Yenching University at Peking is Anglo-American. Jessfield University at Shanghai is American, and has trained many notable Chinese.

THE magnificent buildings of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. in Shanghai, Hankow, Tientsin and elsewhere are entirely due to American generosity, and it would be almost imposible to enumerate the numbers of American-endowed schools and hospitals (in which probably millions of Chinese have been educated and treated) scattered all over China.

In addition, the warm kindliness with which in the past 50 years hundreds of lonely Chinese boys and girl students in America have been received into American homes and treated as members of the family is surely not to be forgotten.

These records stand to prove that, whatever the political discords of recent years, America has been, and wishes sincerely to be, the friend of the Chinese people.

IN THE LAW OFFICE

Mr. Black was seething with indignation when shown into the lawyer's office.

"Look here," he burst out, "you've charged me for two consultations on the third, and I was only here once."

"The third of the month," said the lawyer smoothly. "That was on a Wednesday, and if I remember rightly it was a very wet day, wasn't it?"

"Yes," answered Black shortly.

"Well, after you left you came back to ask if you'd left your umbrella here."

THE RUHR OF ASIA—Manchuria, the only fully industrialized province of China, is the Ruhr of Asia. Without its industries, China cannot attain prosperity. Without its raw materials Japanese industries cannot flourish. Without its manpower, the Russian Far East is weak and undermanned. The importance of Manchuria is the key to the present crisis. It has been the cause of many Asiatic crises in this century, and it may cause many more.

A Choice of Two Evils

(CALGARY HERALD)

UNTIL 1938, the word "appeasement" had no particularly derogatory meaning by its association with Munich, with Neville Chamberlain's unhappy attempt to buy off the Nazi jackal by feeding him chunks of Czechoslovakia. And when the word is used, today, in connection with possible bargaining with the Chinese Communists, it is being used in its post-Munich sense, i.e., as a shooting word.

But it is incorrect to treat the Korean crisis and the Czech crisis as exactly parallel. In 1938, Hitler was indubitably the chief danger to civilization, the enemy against whom the resources of the free world had to be concentrated. Twelve months' time was gained by the Munich deal, but the democratic nations neglected to put it to good use. Furthermore, at Munich, they threw away at least 50 Czech divisions, with the result that they were weaker in September, 1939, by comparison with the Germans, than they had been in September, 1938.

Today, Russia is the principal enemy. In deciding what to do about Korea and the Chinese Communists, the free world must first decide whether it will make itself comparatively weaker, or comparatively stronger, in relation to Russia by the action it takes. In other words, which is going to cost us most, in resources, manpower, strategic position and prestige—continuing the fight against China, or making some sort of bargain with China in order to conserve our strength for any future struggle with Russia herself?

Where the ground is not absolutely essential, as, for example, in Korea, the only reason for holding it is as a matter of prestige. But the only virtue of prestige lies in the extent to which it increases military power, an ambiguous proposition at the best of times. If the process of maintaining prestige costs you more in pyhsical power than the assumed power that prestige is supposed to bring, then it is clearly a bad bargain.

It seems to us that this stage has been reached in Korea. The peninsula cannot be held except by tying down immense forces. Every combat soldier employed in Korea means one less combat soldier available for duty elsewhere—against the threat to Western Europe, or the southern Balkans, or Turkey, or Persia or Arabia. Every battalion tied down by the Chinese means one less battalion which the Russians have to reckon with; and Russia's superiority in land forces is already overwhelming.

Letter To The Editor

BAD AUBURN STREET

Sir: Possibly you could admit this to your column of letters in your very good paper. If so it may do us folk on Auburn St. some good.

I wonder if any of our city aldermen or our very esteemed Mayor has ever travelled along this street? If not we would like to see this happen and their comments on it. Only a few days ago one milk route salesman refused to bring his truck down this way at all. Do our city representatives think that this is something to be proud of?

Is it possible that the city has to have a street that even the milk route salesman refused to drive on? A delivery truck called here a few days ago and asked if it was possible that we were paying taxes down in this corner. When told we were, he wondered what we were paying them for. Sometimes I wonder myself.

We have nothing on this street that would suggest we were a part of a thriving city. We boast no street, or no sewage in this part of town. I will admit to city water and electricity, but couldn't we at least have a street as well?

Sincerely,
ROBERT A. MACMURRAY.

LOST RACE

"My husband has the strangest hobby," said Mrs. Smith to a friend, "and I never knew anything about it until yesterday. I found in his desk a queer looking ticket inscribed Mudhorse 10 to 1. I asked him what it was and he told me it was a relic of a lost race. Isn't it interesting."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Woe unto him that striveth with his Maker! Let the potsherd strive with the potsherds of the earth. Shall the clay say to him that fashioneth it, What makest thou? or thy work, He hath no hands? I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, even my hands, have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded

For thus saith the Lord that created the heavens; God himself that formed the earth and made it; he hath established it, he created it not in vain, he formed it to be inhabited: I am the Lord; and there is none else. I have not spoken in secret, in a dark place of the earth: I said not unto the seed of Jacob, Seek ye me in vain: I the Lord speak righteousness. I declare things that are right . . .

In the Lord shall all the seed of Israel be justified, and shall glory. (Isa. 45: 9, 12, 18, 19, 25.)

GILES ...REPORTS THE MANŒUVRES FROM NOUGHT FEET

CHECK-REIN ON MOSCOW—America's atomic bomb, shown here in the midst of its awesome under-water test at Bikini, is what is keeping Russia's 175 divisions from an invasion of Western Europe, according to diplomats from Iron Curtain nations.

A-Bomb Defers Russian War Against Western Europe

BI LEON DENNEN.

PARIS (NEA.—Despite 175 Soviet divisions which could strike without warning against a defenceless Western Europe, satellite diplomatic circles in France see little likelihood of open aggression by Mascow before next spring.

They base their reasoning on these major points:

1. A growing belief that the United States is determined to save its atomic weapons for use only if Soviet Russia launches an invasion of the West.

2. An increased suspicion that the Russians—despite their own and President Truman's reports—have hot yet succeeded in producing an effective atomic bomb. By having skillfully maneuvred the United States into a full-scale conflict with Communist China, my informants feel that the Kremlin has won the first diplomatic round in a "hot war" it has not yet exploited fully. The process of softening up and dividing Europe has not yet been completed.

Stalin would welcome an "Asiatic Munich," of course. He would welcome even more America's use of the atomic bomb against China. This might temporarily reverse the course of military events in the Far East. But it would give the Russians an enormous propaganda advantage in Europe.

It might also broaden the wedge now dividing the badly-frightened Atlantic community. And it is in Europe—rather than in the Far East or elsewhere—that the battle against Soviet imperialism will either be won or lost.

The consensus here is that Washington has decided against the use of the atomic bomb in China.

While war-jittery Europeans are thus facing a dismal holiday season, the potential battlefields remain ominously calm. But Communist political activity is again at full blast.

Another Red Purge

The Cominform has recently been subjected to another purge and has now emerged as a better-organized and better-disciplined military organization.

Particularly severe was the purge in Western Germany, where 200 agents are said to have been recalled to the Eastern zone. Most of those recalled have either been imprisoned, deported to Russia or sent to the special school in Neu-Ruppin which trains agents for sabotage activities.

Moscow apparently does not trust its German agents, even though when they are sent for sabotage work in the Western zones they must leave their families behind as security. The new Cominform agents now operating in Western Germany, according to U.S. intelligence sources, are Russians who speak German fluently and have a thorough knowledge of the country.

They come to the Western zones either as members of various satellite missions as as respectable representatives of Italian and Austrian commercial firms, liberally supplied with funds and false passports. It is estimated there are now about 3,000 such Russian agents operating in the Bonn Republic.

According to Henri Lafond., one of the best-informed anti-Communist French trade union leaders, the Cominform is also mobilizing its followers for a winter of strikes and sabotage activities in France.

A new wave of Communist-sponsored political strikes is expected soon in the steel, coal, railroad and shipping industries. The Communists, I am informed, are especially active in the ports where they hope to prevent the discharge of U.S. military equipment for France.

The Russians, in Lafond's view, which also coincides with the views of other close students of Soviet strategy, will not strike in Western Europe until they have succeeded in completely breaking the spirit of the middle-of-the-road man and woman.

He was particularly critical of the growing group of French newspaper editors, politicians and "parliamentarians" who advocate French neutrality in the coming war "between the United States and Soviet Russia."

"These are the people who betrayed Europe in 1939," he said. "They will betray it again in 1951."

Okay Sunday Sport

TIMMINS, Dec. 14 (CP) — Commercialized Sunday sports won the approval of voters here in municipal elections Wednesday. Electors voted almost two-to-one in favor of the question. The vote was 2,159 for and 1,262 against. A by-law authorizing the borrowing of $225,000 for construction of a new public school was approved by a small margin.

30 Inches Snow In Buffalo Area

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 14 (AP) Snow squalls blew off Lakes Erie and Ontario Wednesday, dropping up to 30 inches of snow.

The heaviest fall was reported in Jefferson county, traditionally the snowiest region in the United States east of the Rockies. It was there that 30 inches was reported.

Lesser amounts fell through parts of Lewis, Oswego and St. Lawrence counties.

The snow squall was a relatively-local disturbance, caused by an eastward flow of cold air which picked up moisture from Lake Ontario and dumped it on the lee shore in the form of snow.

Get 6-Cent Raise

BRANTFORD, Dec. 14 (CP)—Wage increase of six cents an hour, retroactive to Nov 20, has been granted to about 1,800 employees of the Cockshutt Plow Company here. Employees, members of local 458 United Auto Workers (CIO), have also approved an escalator clause to be added to their contract tying in the cost-of-living. For every 1.3 points rise in the cost-of-living index each worker will get a one-cent-an-hour increase.

All A Mistake

TORONTO, Dec. 14 (CP) — Principal Norman Benham said Wednesday that it was all a mistake that five grade five lads at Oakridge Public School were spanked for participating in a smoking spree. Mr. Benham said he had told some older pupils to give the youngsters a dressing down. "They apparently misunderstood my request and during morning recess went out and spanked the boys."

Legrow Rolls A 935 For Tops At Playfair

Buck Legrow, who goes in for a number of sports and does well at them, hit high three for the season this week in the Major Bowling League at Playfair, according to W. R. Flint. He rolled a nifty triple of 935, as well as having the night's high single of 355. Top pinnage went to Plazas with 3,346 as Bickell's led in games with 1,184. Blanks were hung up by Caccavella, McWilliams and E & B over Wonder, Modern and McLeod, while 4-2 wins were marked by Wood, Bickell's, Mongraw, Crowley, Bassell, Hunt's, Parkway Cherney's and Edgewater against Post Office Plazas, Campbell, Odeon, Kingmen, Calvert, Selkirk's, Kaw. Deaf and Wade's in that order.

Other good individual trundling marks were as follows: Basciano 770, George Niles 757, Doug Abraham 739 (331), Fred Willison 715, Jack Wade 704, Toots Collins a single of 331 and Buck Legrow with another neat single effort of 320.

George (Red) Sullivan, Peterborough puckist performing for Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League, leads his squad in scoring to date with nine goals and 24 assists for 33 points in 26 games. And he has served but 13 minutes in penalties. Red is tied for fourth in league sniping and we rather expect he'll be sporting a Boston Bruin sweater in the NHL another season. Don Ashbee of Buffalo—who played lacrosse here last summer for the Petes—is fifth top scorer for his team and is behaving pretty good with only 18 minutes in penalties so far. Buffalo leads the eastern division of the AHL while playing coach Johnny Crawford has helped Hershey up to second place in the standing.

Next OHA game here is a junior "B" one betwixt Port Hope Panthers and the local Oddfellows. It's Friday eve at 8.30 in Civic Arena and promises to be another streamlined junior joust. Bun Kingdon's hustlers had to give it all they had last time these clubs clashed to eke out a win by one goal. And the Port Hopers felt that they had much more of the play. However, the verdict goes to the team putting more burnt biscuits in the oven, and Oddfellows did it that time. With lots of keen action assured and a close score likely, we look for a hefty Friday night crowd on deck.

* * * * * *

IOOF-ers Lose Close One

A couple of former Oddfellows helped turn the tables on the IOOF-ers on Quinte ice last night, as the Rockets squeezed out a 3-2 junior "B" victory to take over first place. Jerry Desjardins and Ross Mason are the two ex-Links we mean, though the whole home team travelled at a hot clip. They had to, because Bun Kingdon's crew were hustling, too. Referee Reason was rather rough on Wasson and Armstrong, but the game was a bit rugged at times as these big juniors don't fool in a close contest. Oddfellows had an edge the first half, while Rockets finished stronger in the third, with penalties hurting the visitors. West got the last Peterborough goal from Clapper, as the Robinson brothers combined for the first one. Belleville now has 10 points, IOOF nine, Lindsay seven, Oshawa six and Port Hope four.

Certain clubs in the NHL and big league ball have what is called the Indian sign on others. It means that they can beat those clubs regularly, even though often losing to poorer teams. Such seems to apply to the Eagles and Petes. The men of Magee seem to have the sign on the Jopling squad, having tied 'em once and beaten them three times in four starts this season. Yet the Petes led up till last night—the local teams are now tied atop the senior "B" heap—and the Eagles lost four games recently, two to Nylons and two to Belleville. But they really turn it on when they face the Petes, and they earned their 7-4 win here last e'en before a good gallery. They drove hard at the start to rack up a 4-0 lead and the Petes couldn't overcome it later in pretty even going.

* * * * * *

Good When Short A Man

While the Eagles were good in all departments from the goal out—and especially good at checking when a man short—the Petes didn't look their best. At times, they were certainly tramping, but some of the puckists let the others down in spots. You couldn't blame Ray Harding as he and Ross Nicholls were generally good in goal. And Arn Dugan certainly carried his share with four goals. Ron Turner aided on a pair. But Eagles were better over most of the route, everyone of them hustling from start to finish, led by Bill Crowley with four markers. Andy Milne also shone, and several more were nearly as good. It was a fast, clean fray, and now the clubs are deadlocked in top spot.

* * * * * *

Bob Peirson was elected president of the senior lacrosse club here last eve, with Ernie Braund vice-prexy, Mick Magee secretary and Howard McLean treasurer. Manager and coach will be named later. Others on the executive are: Paul Irwin, Dr. Herb Young, Pete King, Ken Kingston, Harry Yudin, Doug Miller, Walt Murphy, Red Creighton and Pup Curtin. Sorry to see the capable Paul Irwin retire from the presidential chair but he is succeeded by an experienced lacrosse official. A strong all-around executive which is making plans to field a much stronger OLA squad next season. The club has no debts, and it enjoys a hefty following here. But more again on it.

Dunsford Rink Gets Walker Trophy

The veteran, Mel Thurston from Dunsford skipped his rink to win all the games with the greatest number of points and came first to win the Walker Trophy in yesterday's open bonspiel. Another veteran, Dave Charlton, came second and A. W. Smith was the third three game winner.

President Fred Stenson came in for high two wins while Harry Baptie's rink took the prize for one win.

This is the bonspiel that we set for two weeks ago but had to be postponed until yesterday, on account of the accident to the power system; and it was gratifying to the committee that the boys returned with the entry list 100 per cent.

Bangup Curling

The Dunsford boys richly deserved the honor of winning the trophy. They staked bang-up curling all day.

There was some good curling but the two that caught the eye were the Braund-Charlton affair and the finish of the Smith-Everson game.

Charlie Lawrence was in charge of the bonspiel and secretary Ira Moore looked after the draw. They did a fine job. The prizes were bought by Jack Allen and Rufus Payne, and the curlers were more than pleased with the selections. The games were all over and the prizes presented just short of midnight.

Winners

Dunsford, first and Hiram Walker Trophy—L. Cunningham, W. Thurston, T. Doughty, M. Thurston, skip.

Peterborough, second—J. Huddard, H. Hamblin, E. Northey, D. Charlton, skip.

Peterborough, third—M. Fowler, J. Fanning, G. Gable, A. W. Smith, skip.

Peterborough, fourth—D. Ford, E. Bickle, R. Payne, F. Stenson skip.

Peterborough, fifth—H. Williamson, J. Hall, R. Williamson, H. Baptie, skip.

TURNED HERMIT

Richard Rolle, English poet, who died in 1349, became a hermit after studying theology at Oxford.

BOTH GET FOUR — Arn Dugan, left, and Bill Crowley, right, each scored four goals for their teams in a fine effort by the rival forwards here last night, as Eagles defeated the Petes 7-4 to tie the latter for first place in their OHA senior "B" group standing. Both players lead their squads in scoring to date.

Eagles Tie For First Place With 7-4 Win Over Petes

Downing the Petes 7-4 here last night, the Eagles climbed into a first-place group OHA senior "B" tie with the other Peterborough squad in a speedy, exciting and clean contest before another hefty crowd at Civic Arena. It was their fourth meeting of the schedule, the first being a draw and Eagles having the Indian sign on their city rivals to take the next three in a row. Again they did it all in one period, scoring four goals without a return in the first frame.

That initial drive by the Magee men spelled the difference, as it was pretty even the rest of the distance. The Petes had a 3-2 scoring edge in the second chukker and each team tallied once in the lively third heat. Eagles hit their oldtime driving and checking form, while the Petes this time played spotty hockey, looking weak on defence and at times in the back-checking department. Both goalies turned aside a raft of rubber as play swept from end to end rapidly in every stanza as the crowd kept yelling. Eagles drew six of the eight penalties but none proved costly.

Crowley Stars

Bill Crowley again sparked the victors with four goals in a starry showing, while Andy Milne had a goal and three assists in another stellar performance. Freddy Mortimer and Joe Rochetta were each in on two goals, as Bert Hill, Keith Montgomery and Dootch Vitarelli were other solid citizens to figure in the scoring. Doug Mortimer went well defensively. Arn Dugan was brilliant for the Jopling bunch, scoring all their goals, twice aided by Ron Turner and once by Ron Horton. Jake Wade and Chum Fryia were other hard workers but the team didn't click up to top form.

Crowley wasted no time in scoring the first goal as Eagles struck fast, Rochetta and Montgomery aiding him in close. They kept the pressure up and Freddy Mortimer beat Harding with a slap shot on Milne's corner passout later. Milne then checked and recovered at the opposing defence and went in smartly to pick a corner. Crowley made it 4-0 later from Rochetta, going in fast on the goal. Some rugged checking was seen late in the heat and Lalonde drew a boarding penalty but no damage was done in his absence.

Even In Second

Play was pretty even in the fast second frame, and Dugan scored a nice stick-handling solo goal early. Crowley got it back with a slap shot at point-blank range on Milne's neat pass. Earl Leonard and Vitarelli were gated for slashing and Dugan scored on Turner's passout in close just before they returned. Play swept up and down with both goalies diving to save. Doug Mortimer was waved over for charging but was back when Dugan counted on Turner's nice passout at close range. Again, Crowley got it back from Vitarelli on some indiferent clearing on the Petes' part in front of the cage.

The city rivals maintained a hot clip in the even third period. Greenlaw drew a tripping penalty and five Petes' forwards tried hard but were checked up so closely that they got but one shot on goal in his absence. Later, Dugan got in fast to cuff home Horton's rebound on a long angle shot. Freddy Mortimer went off next for interference—as the referee handled the game well—but the Petes couldn't crack the Eagles' defence. Crowley was robbed on a breakaway. In the final few minutes of play, the Petes put five forwards out again but Eagles got the last goal, Hill slapping it home on a three-way piece of in-close combination with Freddy Mortimer and Milne. Just before the gong, Doug Mortimer and Dugan were penalized for some high-sticking. Teams:

Eagles Goal, Nicholls; defence, Montgomery and Munroe; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, Parnall, Greenlaw, Lalonde, Hill, F. Mortimer, Milne, Burns and D. Mortimer.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Davison and E. Leonard; centre, Wade; wings, Turner and Dugan; alternates, G. Leonard, Tompkins, Fryia, West, Collins, Garvey, Horton and Mason.

Belleville Edges The Links In Keen Junior "B" Fray

Belleville Rockets snapped Oddfellows' victory string last night at Memorial Arena as they edged Bun Kingdon's boys 3-2 in a fast and hard-fought junior "B" hockey struggle before 1,000 Quinte fans.

The victory gives Rockets the league leadership of the group for at least one day, though a victory Friday here will enable the Links to regain the lead. At present Belleville have 10 points and Oddfellows nine.

Duke Doran fired the winning marker at 10:24 in the third frame on a fast breakaway after the teams had battled fairly evenly over the route. Wasson had no chance as Doran broke in alone and fired from close in.

An Early Lead

Oddfellows took the lead in the first as the Robinson brothers combined for a neat counter, the only one of the period as Brian clicked for his seventh goal of the season. They increased their margin early in the second as Dean West found the open side from Clapper on a smart passing play close in. A penalty to Armstrong, who played a fine game, helped Jerry Desjardins break the goose egg in the dying seconds of the stanza as he broke with Ross Mason to drill a hard 20-footer past Wasson.

It was touch and go all the way in the furious third as both teams opened full steam and play roughened up considerably with seven penalties meted out by Referee Reason, including majors to Tripp and Gary Robinson, for fighting. There were 17 in all, for the game.

Tied It Up

Ross Mason, who starred for Rockets, scored the equalizer in the final from a scramble to beat Wasson who made many sensational saves particularly in that final frame but Oddfellows were unable to add to their total to drop their first in five starts.

Starring for the winners were Doran, Mason, Strahan, Houle, Trumble, Gandon, Turland and Desjardins with Tripp strong in the net. For Oddfellows, Red Wasson gave another outstanding display with the Robinsons, Dean West, Armstrong, Morrow, Doris, Clapper and Dean Wasson best, with every man trying.

IOOF Goal, Wasson; defence, Armstrong, Clapper; centre, West; wings, Morrow, Wyatt; alts., B. Robinson, G. Robinson, Buckton, Douglas, D. Wasson, Bigford, Doris, Stewart.

Belleville Goal, Tripp; defence, Turland, Mantle; centre, Houle; wings, Carey, Brown; alts., Desjardins, Strahan, Gandon, R. Mason, Doran, Gilmour, Green, Trumble.

Referee: Bill Reason, linesman, Bill Holway.

Second Period

Peirson President Lacrosse Club

Bob Peirson was elected president of the Peterborough Senior Lacrosse Club last night at the annual meeting held in the Public Library. An active member of the executive in recent years, he succeeds Paul Irwin, who decided to step down but will remain on the executive. Ernie Braund was chosen vice-president, with Mick Magee the secretary, and Howard McLean again treasurer.

With these officials the executive includes, Paul Irwin, Dr. Herb Young, Peter King, Ken Kingston, Harry Yudin, Doug Miller, Walt Murphy, Red Creighton, and Pup Curtin. The manager and coach will be appointed by the committee before the next meeting which will be held about Jan. 15.

A Good Report

Paul Irwin presented a most comprehensive report dealing with attendance, weather encountered, the good showing of the PMLA, and other interesting angles in describing a successful seen under all the circumstances. He expressed thanks to the press members, also. The treasurer's report was given and showed that, due to certain economies effected due to a shorter schedule than the previous year and inclement weather—besides a rough break in the playoff draw—the club did well.

Ambitious plans are in the making, as the officials feel that the large fan attendance in senior "A" lacrosse in Peterborough warrants a winning team, possibly a Mann Cup contender. Future meetings will be held with this in view during the winter months.

Detroit Holds Upper Hand Humbles Maple Leafs 4-3

By PIERRE DUBOIS,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Detroit Red Wings today hold the upper hand—temporarily, at least—over Toronto Maple Leafs in the ding-dong battle the two clubs have been staging this season to determine which is boss of the National Hockey League.

The Wings, thanks to a sparkling performance by Leonard Patrick (Red) Kelly, made it two in a row over the Leafs, 4-3, at Toronto Wednesday night. Kelly, an all-round good utility man scored two goals and assisted on a third.

Coming on top of their 3-2 triumph over the Leafs at Detroit last Sunday, the victory gave the Wings a 3-2 edge on their victims in games played this season. One game was tied.

It also narrowed the gap between the bitter rivals in the league race to four points and left Detroit still with three games in hand over the Leafs. Toronto have 38 points, Detroit 34.

Humble Canadiens

Veteran Tony Leswick also came through with a two-goal performance at New York as the Rangers snapped out of the doldrums long enough to tack a fifth straight defeat on Montreal Canadiens, 3-2.

The Rangers, in scoring their fourth victory in 27 starts, crawled to within three points of the idle fifth place Bruins. But the smallest New York crowd since the depression days—5,806 fans—saw the game.

The 23-year-old Kelly, currently playing defence but also a great performer at right wing, put the Wings in front after four minutes of play at Toronto, and they were never headed.

He also scored the second goal, after Harry Watson had tallied to knot the count in the middle frame. Then he fed Metro Prystai a pass for the third.

Finally Came Through

Ted Lindsay ran the count to 4-1 in the third period before Max Bentley and Ted Kennedy managed to come through for the Leafs.

A crowd of 13,234 fans saw the Leafs outplayed throughout the first two sessions as the homesters absorbed their first defeat with rookie Al Rollins playing in the nets. The Leafs either won or tied all nine previous games in which Rollins started.

At New York, the Rangers showed more pep and drive than they had displayed in a long time as Leswick, a diminutive winger from Saskatoon, started them on the road to victory with his first goal after 17 seconds of play.

Zellio Toppazzini made it 2-0 less than three minutes later. Montreal knotted the count on second period goals by Normie Dussault and Calum MacKay but were unable to break through again in the finale while Leswick bagged the winner for New York.

The Canadiens used defenceman Tommy Monastersky sparingly, but the former amateur showed up well during his few appearances. The Montrealer was signed to a contract just before the club left for New York.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Marlies Score 4-3 Victory Over Hamilton

By The Canadian Press.

There are only two places — first and last—in the four-team Ontario Hockey Association major series today as a result of games Wednesday night.

Toronto Marlboros scored a 4-3 skin of their teeth victory in Hamilton over the Tigers to go into a tie with the Toronto St. Michael's for the league lead. St Mike's were set back 5-2 by the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen at Waterloo. The Dutchies victory boosted them into a tie with the Tigers, seven points back of the league leaders.

Don Rope scored the Marlies winning goal with only 14 seconds of play left. Tigers twice enjoyed a two-goal edge during the game but couldn't hold the margin.

Rope scored twice for Dukes and Bob Robertson and Bob Hassard got singles. Tom Smelle, with two, and Ab Conick were Tiger marksmen.

For the Dutchies' third victory this season over St. Mike's, most of their punch came in the first period when they fired 21 shots at Bob Decourcey and scored four times.

Bill Flick and Mickey Roth got a goal and two assists apiece and singles fell to Art Hurst, Bob Wrightsell and Bill Mitchell. John Arundel and Dusty Blair were the Monarch goal-getters.

Have Full Team

Dutchies iced a full team for the first time in two weeks but wound up with three men hurt as defenceman Dick Behling and forwards Harvey Jacklin and Jim Pernfuss quit early.

The Saints also were below strength with goalie Phil Hughes out with an injured leg muscle that may sideline him a couple of weeks.

As a result of games in the junior division, the 10-team circuit has four clubs jammed into fourth place.

Windsor Spitfires blanked St. Catharines Teepees 4-0 in Windsor and Guelph Biltmores invaded Stratford and with a 5-4 decision ended the Kroehlers six-game unbeaten string.

So Windsor and Guelph moved up to share the fourth spot with Stratford and Galt. St. Catharines dropped from sixth to eighth place.

Solid Protection

Goalie Glen Hall kicked out 32 shots to give the Spits solid protection for their second win in their last six starts. Don Simmons in the St. Kitts goal made 21 saves.

Spits goal-getters were John Offidani, Jim Anderson, Chester Koneczy and Earl Johnston.

At Stratford the Kroehlers used six forwards in the last 45 seconds in a try to knot the score Ron Murphy paced Guelph marksmen with two goals while singles went to Ken Laufman, Herby Dickenson and Ed. Kulik. Bob Armstrong, Doug Williams, Larry Lemenchick and Bob Bailey were Stratford scorers.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

A spectacular six-horse spill at West Virginia's Charles Town Race Track Wednesday resulted in cancellation of remaining races of the day's card. The spill occurred in the first race, and five jockeys were hurt. The other riders decided to quit for the day

The five were taken to Charles Town General Hospital, where doctors said preliminary examination disclosed no serious injuries.

Track secretary H. K. Riley said the spill occurred at the far turn of the three quarter mile oval when a "smooth-shod horse" lost his footing. The other five thoroughbreds piled up over the fallen animal and its rider.

Before the post-time for the second race, the remaining jockeys held a meeting at which they decided to quit for the day. Riley said today's program will go on as scheduled.

The track was officially labelled as "muddy" but temperatures for the last week or so have been low enough to freeze the ground. Riley said it had thawed and there was "water all over the track."

As usual, Pauline Betz took care of the tennis while Gussie Moran handled the tennis-togs department Wednesday night as Bobby Riggs' touring professional troupe wound up a twoday stand at Toronto's Mutual Arena.

A crowd of about 2,000 saw Pauline Betz score an easy 6-1 victory over gorgeous Gussie, the 27th time Miss Betz has beaten her rival in 36 sets thus far on the trip.

In the men's singles Jack Kramer again demonstrated his mastery of Pancho Segura, winning 6-3 and 6-4 to bring the tour tally to 25 victories for Kramer and 11 for Segura.

Segura and Miss Betz teamed up to beat Kramer and Miss Moran 6-3, 7-5 in the doubles.

Oh yes, Miss Moran's costumes: a white, one-piece dressmaker style suit for her first appearance; orange gabardine shorts and a law-cut orange-trimmed white blouse for the second.

Milwaukee Seagulls of the United States Hockey League, who suspended leftwinger Gord Fashoway for "indifferent play" want $10,000 for him.

Kenny MacKenzie, co-owner of New Westminster Royals of the Pacific Coast League, said Wednesday he had tried to buy Fashoway's contract from Chicago Black Hawks, the National Hockey League club which operates Milwaukee as a farm club.

He said Chicago president Bill Tobin quoted him a price of $10,000. MacKenzie said he couldn't stand that kind of price.

Assumption College Purple Raiders of Windsor lost their fourth straight basketball game Wednesday night. Tri-State College from Angola, Indiana defeated them 58-47.

Bob Simpson Assumption's husky forward paced all the forwards with eight field goals and two foul shots for 18 points. Skyler Hall tallied 17 points for Tri-State.

Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League have signed three Negro players who played last season with the Baltimore Elite Giants, Negro professional club.

They are James Gillian, an infielder, and Leroy Ferrell and Joe Black, two righthand pitchers.

ohn Mize, first baseman who will be 38 Jan. 7, signed a one-year contract with the New York Yankees Wednesday. It was estimated his salary would be $25,000.

Pick Committee To Choose Commissioner

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 14 (AP) — Major-league club owners today appointed a four-man committee to search for a new baseball commissioner to replace A. B. (Happy) Chandler who again vowed that he would not resign.

The committee, composed of two men from the National and two from the American League, was instructed to begin screening candidates immediately and endeavour to bring back a report to the magnates at their meeting next February.

The committee has also been empowered to offer a $75,000 a year salary to Chandler's successor, which amounts to a $10,000 increase over the salary paid chandler.

A club president who insisted his name not be used, said the majority of the owners voiced their preference for a man having no connection with baseball. That man also must be "universally-respected person possessing a judicial mind," he added.

This would tend to eliminate—for the baseball connection—such heretofore oustanding candidates as Ford Frick, president of the National League; George Trautman, head of the minors, and Warren Giles, president of Cincinnati Reds.

Believed Committee

Although neither league has made public its committee, it is believed that Del Webb, vice-president of New York Yankees, and Billy Evans, general manager of Detroit Tigers, are the American League pair while Lou Perini, Boston Braves president, and Giles represent the National.

"The owners do not want a baseball man for commissioner," the informant said. "They fear that a man inside the baseball family might be more friendly to some than others and therefore might tend to be prejudiced. They want a man with a judicial mind who is not directly connected with politics."

In the meantime, Chandler steadfastly sticks to his vow to keep his job "until the final second of my tenure."

It was learned Chandler was offered a cash payment of $100,000 at Tuesday's joint session if he would resign. That represents $15,000 more than the amount he would make at his $65,000 a year salary if he stayed on the remaining 16½ months of his contract. But Chandler refused.

Introduce Campaign Cut Yule Accidents

TORONTO, Dec. 14 (CP)—The Ontario Department of Education and the provincial police have joined in a campaign to reduce Christmas season highway accidents.

Commissioner W. H. Stringer in a talk over the Ontario Provincial Police radio network Wednesday, asked officers in all parts of the province to see that roads are adequately patrolled at all times to assure "that no one who endangers the life of others is left at large."

At the same time a bulletin from F. S. Rutherford, deputy education minister, was sent to Ontario schools, directing inspectors, teachers and principals to institute a campaign for safe walking by children during the Yule season.

Bears Whip Buffalo At Mohawks Triumph

By The Canadian Press.

The struggle between Hershey Bears and Buffalo Bisons for leadership in the American Hockey League's eastern division got hot again Wednesday night. Buffalo hadn't been defeated in eight games until the Bears whipped them 6-3 and thus moved to within a point of the Bisons.

Cincinnati Mohawks, second-place team in the western division, beat Providence Reds 6-4 to cut the leading—and idle—Cleveland Barons lead to three points. Pittsburgh Hornets, in third place, behind Cincinnati, gave goalie Gil Mayer his third straight shutout with a 4-0 victory over St. Louis Flyers.

Team Spirit Irked Juniors

BOSTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Blazing team spirit, which was misconstrued by several young pitchers, probably played an important part in the Boston Red Sox sale of catcher George (Birdie) Tebbetts to Cleveland Indians.

It is no secret that while the Red Sox were making their belated and futile pennant drive last September, several of the club's hurlers had advised manager Steve O'Neill they were unwilling to pitch to Tebbetts, the team's top-ranking receiver.

A veteran who played strictly to win, Tebbetts aroused the ire of a few youngsters by his tactics while trying to teach them to correct their mistakes and eliminate their flaws. They objected to his impatience.

Experienced hurlers complained that Tebbetts, in tight places, generally called for a fast ball. And they were in tight spots most of the time.

The night before the season ended, with the Red Sox missing another pennant by an eyelash, Tebbetts described some of the club's pitchers as "juvenile delinquents and moronic malcontents."

That crack, uttered in O'Neill's presence, was Tebbetts' Red Sox valedictory.

Sunday Sport Brings Out Vancouver Votes

VANCOUVER, Dec. 14—(CP)—Sundays with hockey, baseball, movies, horse racing and open-door taverns got thumbs down from Vancouver voters in a plebiscite Wednesday—but not by much.

The scrap over commercialized Sunday sports completely overshadowed the mayoralty election in which sportsman Fred Hume ousted Charles Thompson, chief executive for the last two years.

With the results from all but three of the 51 polls, Mr. Hume, co-owner of New Westminster Royals of the Pacific Coast Hockey League, has received 31,741 votes, almost 12,000 more than Mr. Thompson, wealthy motor dealer. Mr. Thompson showed a total of 19,897.

The mayoralty campaign was quiet—Mr. Hume held only one meeting—but the wide-open Sunday campaign wasn't. Church leaders led the opposition with the aid of some labor leaders, saying "an American Sunday" would mean more work for many persons—such as ushers and bartenders.

With 41 of 51 polls heard from, 22,926 had voted against wide-open Sundays while 18,836 were in favor. The vote was favorable in early returns.

50% Voted

City Clerk Ron Thompson estimated that about 50 per cent of the 133,947 eligible voters cast ballots. The percentage two years ago was 48.5. Highest in the city's history was the 55 per cent who turned out in 1934.

Fred (Cyclone) Taylor, Canadian hockey great, won a parks board seat in his first try for public office.

In a second plebiscite, electors overwhelmingly favored permitting wives of tenants and property owners to vote. Under the present election act, only women who own property have the franchise.

Badly defeated in their bid for the mayor's post were Jack Price, a trade unionist, and Elgin Ruddell, provincial treasurer of the Communist Labor Progressive party. Mr. Price received 3,128 votes, Mr. Ruddell 2,527.

First Of 700 Horses Tattooed In Ontario

TORONTO, Dec. 14 (CP).—The first 12 of more than 700 thoroughbred racehorses in Ontario were tattooed Wednesday. Identification numbers are being imprinted on the upper lips of the horses as a means of safeguarding against "ringers," intentional or accidental.

John J. Mooney, paddock and patrol judge on Ontario tracks, is in charge of tattooing for about 500 horses three years and older and about 200 yearlings.

The numbers are in accordance with the thoroughbred's registration papers and are released by the New York Jockey Club. No horse will be permitted to start in a race in Ontario unless tattooed.

Car Plants Refuse To Cut Back Prices

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—General Motors and Ford held firm Wednesday, for the time being at least, against a virtual government "ultimatum" to roll back their 1951 car price boosts or risk a federal crackdown.

An official announcement said economic stabilizer Alan Valentine told the companies that unless they complied with his plea for voluntary hold-the-line action, it would be difficult to avoid "mandatory controls on the nation's economy."

Industry spokesmen told Valentine they were willing to cooperate as far as possible, but they insisted that rising costs made "some price increases inevitable."

WEST BERLIN RIOT POLICE have a demonstrator down on the cobblestones outside the city-owned Kurfuerstendamm theatre, ruring a riot protesting the appearance of ex-Nazi actor Werner Krauss who once starred in the Naiz film, "Jew Seuss." Krauss, a member of the Vienna Burg Theatre Company, appeared for a guest performance under the auspices of the West Berlin city government. Some 2,000 demonstrators clashed with 200 police, and 40 were injured.

Bantam Coach Withdraws PMHA Charge

George W. Heron, coach of the bantam Otonabee Wolves of the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association, recently wrote a letter to The Examiner's sports editor, complaining of practice hours for his team at the arena here. It was published several days ago. Following is another letter from Mr. Heron on the matter:

"Dear Sir—After writing my letter of complaint re PMHA bantam hockey practises, a new light has developed and certain facts are clear to me now that I was not aware of at the time.

The individual that the criticism was directed at, I now can see, was quite blameless. — Sincerely, George W. Heron.

Mountain Guides Say Most Deaths From Negligence And Ignorance

By JOHN MYERS

COURMAYER, Italian Alps (Reuters).—Alpine guides of France, Switzerland and Italy — one of the world's toughest brotherhoods — are worried about the number of lives needlessly lost in the high mountains.

The Mont Blanc Guides Association, men who make their living by their knowledge of the remote peaks and glaciers, met recently in the shadow of Europe highest mountains. Discussions inevitably turned to disasters in the high Alps.

Every year the Alps take their toll of dead and injured from an increasing number of climbing enthusiasts. There are about 100 fatal accidents in these mountains every year. Some are inevitable strokes of fate, but many others are due to carelessness, ignorance or foolhardiness.

The guides estimate, for instance, that about 15 people died this summer trying to gather mountain flowers from tantalizing niches just out of reach.

Other accidents may be due to misplaced gallantry. One party this summer was roped together to cross a glacier. A woman dropped her sun glasses and a male companion unroped himself to recover them. He slipped on the ice and fell 500 feet to his death.

Dislike "Sunday Climber"

All the guides deplore the number of headstrong "Sunday climbers," who scorn professional advice and rush straight into ascents far beyond their ability and experience. Many a good guide has lost his life trying to rescue these enthusiasts.

Cable cars and funicular railways enable many people to reach heights of more than 10,000 feet without effort. Failing to realize the dangers lurking in the primeval world of high snows, many tourists plunge unthinkingly into the wilderness, perhaps never to return.

Tony Gobbi, a local Alpinist, put forward some ideas which could save the lives of many of these people. He suggested that mountain-top arrival stations of cable cars be plastered with notices similar to the "horror" posters which warn motorists to drive carefully. The warning might ask the visitor if he knew that the beautiful peak on which he stood had killed 10 persons that summer; or a skull and crossbones might illustrate possible consequences of crossing a crevasse-strewn glacier which looked so attractive from the windows of the cable car.

One of the greatest Italian guides, Alberto Rich, lost his life last September on the Matterhorn by a quirk of fate. He unroped himself from an Italian student for greater freedom of movement on part of the descent feared for the danger of falling rocks. A boulder thawed from the ice-bound slopes came out of the mist and struck the guide like a cannonball.

It was Rich's 88th ascent of the Matterhorn.

Cobourg Man, 76 Dies In Florida

COBOURG, Dec. 14 —(ENS)— Word was received here yesterday of the sudden death in St. Petersburg, Fla., of Alfrey Leroy Jex, 76, retired Cobourg contractor. Since his retirement many years ago, Mr. Jex has spent the winters in Florida and on Tuesday he suffered a fatal heart attack.

The remains will be brought to Cobourg for interment here next week. He was a charter member of the Rotary club of Cobourg and was also a member of St. John's Masonic Lodge. Mr. Jex was born in Grand Rapids Michigan and came to Cobourg while young. He was a member of St. Peter's Anglican church.

Spots Phony Ten

COBOURG, Dev. 14 —(ENS)— A phony ten dollar bill was spotted by an alert bank teller Wednesday. It was a cleverly done specimen but the sharp eye of the teller caught the bogus bill. It was turned in by a local merchant with his bank deposit and had fooled him. Police are endeavouring to trace it.

MARIA BERTHA HERTOGH, 13-year-old Dutch bride of a Moslem School teacher, weeps in Singapore court, as she is turned over to Sister Maria of the Catholic convent after court invalidated her marriage and ordered her returned to her Dutch Catholic mother. Fanatical mobs, stirred to a frenzy by the ruling, battled British troops in the streets and attacked civilians. Maria was turned over to a Malayan nurse by her mother for safe-keeping when the Hertoghs were taken to a Japanese prison camp in 1942. Maria was raised as a Moslem by the nurse.

Former Farmer Made New Anglican Bishop

VANCOUVER, Dec. 14—(CP) —The Rev. Godfrey Gower, a mechanical engineer and farmer in Alberta at one time, is the new bishop of the Anglican diocese of New Westminster.

Bishop Gower, 51-year-old rector of St. Paul's church here since 1944, was elected Tuesday to succeed the Rt. Rev. Sir Francis Heathcote, who retired two months ago after 10 years as bishop.

Bishop Gower came to Canada in 1925 from England and was ordained in 1931 upon graduation form St. John's College in Winnipeg.

Britain Proud On Feet Again

LONDON, Dec. 14—(AP) — British newspaper proudly predicted today that Britain once again will be able to stand on her own feet after Marshall-plan aid is suspended Jan. 1.

"On our own feet at last," banner-lined the Conservative Daily Mail. "It's up to us again," headlined the independent Daily Express. "On our own," flared the Conservative Daily Graphic.

The papers, however, were loud in their praise of the Marshall plan. Britain has been allotted $2,694,300,000 since the program began in April, 1948. This aid provided work, food and clothing for Britons during the hungry post-war years.

It was announced in Washington and London Wednesday that the United States had decided to suspend virtually all Marshall-aid to Britain effective Jan. 1 because of marked improvement in Britain's economic health. The announcement emphasized, however, that the flow of Marshall plan dollars may be resumed later, if Britain's condition worsens.

Accounts totalling about $4,200 were ordered paid, largest item being the 1950 levy of the United Counties, which was $3,155.

Top, south of Pyongyang, crowds of frightened Koreans—including women and children—wade with bare feet in the freezing-cold Taedong River fleeing the Red Army. They were among the tens of thousands forced to wade across when the military bridges were closed to them. Ontario Inventor Conducts Coal Experiment

WINDSOR, Dec. 14 — (CP).—High-grade fuel from low-grade coal is the aim of a 66-year-old Windsor inventor, W. A. Caunt, who has developed a method of coking poor quality coal at less than normal temperatures used in present- coke-making methods.

His method carries the hopeful blessing of coal-conscious Nova Scotia. A. H. MacKinnon, Nova Scotia Mines Minister, will visit Windsor Friday to examine the experiments which Mr. Caunt has carried out on Nova Scotia coal for the last two months.

Mr. Caunt's method does not embody a new idea. Low temperature coking experiments have been carried out for 50 years and several plants are in operation in Germany and the United States.

It remains to be seen, however, whether his method is economically sound in utilizing much of Cape Breton Island's lower grade coal.

Sponsored by Government

The tests here, sponsored by the Nova Scotia Government, have been made on five types of the province's coal. Twenty-three tons have been put through Mr. Caunt's coking oven—a sloping cylinder which turns coal to coke and takes off valuable tar oils and gas.

Chief differences between this and high-temperature coking processes are in the type of coke and the amounts and quality of gas and tar oils. Temperatures are from 1,100 to 1,200, as compared with 2,300 and 2,500.

Another economical advantage is a fast continuous process, in place of the "batch" methods of hightemperature ovens where coal is left up to 12 hours before it is completely reduced to coke.

Mr. Caunt says his method provides more and richer tar oils — 20 gallons from one ton of coal — and a richer, though smaller, amount of gas.

Coke Soft

The coke is soft and can be crumbled by hand, as compared to the harder coke from high temperature ovens.

"This stuff lights like charcoal" Mr. Caunt said. "You can do things with it that you can't do with other coke."

A test of powdered coke from his oven, in a Windsor industrial plant several years ago, raised the steaming capacity of its boilers 25 to 30 per cent, Mr. Caunt claimed.

"I found my oven would coke any type of coal—even northern Ontario lignite," Mr. Caunt said. In a test, he said he coked several tons of lignite from the large deposits at Onakawana, north of Cochrane, Ont.

He indicated that further surveys would have to be made to determine whether his pilot plant could be adapted on a large scale to process low-grade coal.

Peterborough's ill - starred Memorial Community Centre goes back into the mothballs—for another "duration."

Latest reference to it was a letter from the local business men's association requesting of the council a definite decision as to site "without any further delay."

Ald. Adam Sands commented that times had taken another grave turn, steel was scarce and more or less rationed, and altogether there was little prospect of a recreation centre getting any consideration in a steel queue.

"It will have to be shelved," said Ald. Sands, but he did not tack on the word "again."

Said Ald. Doug Miller: "It should be built immediately after the next war," a recommendation of opportunism.

"Even that would hardly concern us, if as I have heard it spoken of this may be another 100 years war," said Ald. Dewart.

And Ald. A. B. Burrows: "This may be the war to end municipal centres."

7 Laborers Killed

6th Anniversary Of Suicide Of Lupe Velez

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14 (AP)—Only a few people in Hollywood will remember that today marks the sixth anniversary of the suicide of Lupe Velez.

But the annals of Hollywood will reserve a lengthy chapter for the little Latin who added so much gayety and legend to the movie town scene. In many ways she typified the Hollywood that once was. She was wild, impulsive and beguiling. And, like many others of her era, she came to a tragic end.

She came to Hollywood when it still had the aspects of a boom town.

Always In Limelight

Lupe became a star. But her personal life received more notice than her acting talent. She was the delight of press agents and columnists alike. Whenever they were stuck for a story, they called her and got one. And usually it was true.

Her romantic career was stormy. One of her earliest boy friends was Gary Cooper. They presented a comic picture, he towering above her when they appeared in public.

She married only once—to another big man, Johnny Weissmuller. Their five years of wedded life was one battle after another.

Larrupin' Lupe

Lupe remained a lively part of the Hollywood scene. Early in her career, she resolved to offset her lack of beauty by making as much noise and wearing as loud clothes as possible. She was as much a fixture at the ringside of Hollywood Legion Stadium with her shouts of "keel the

On Dec. 14, 1944, Hollywood was shocked to learn that the tempestuous Lupe had taken her own life, and with her died an unborn child. She was found in bed at her lavish Beverly Hills home. Nearby was a partly-filled bottle of sleeping tablets.

Tucked into the satin pillow case was a note addressed to a French actor, Harold Ramond, who had been reported engaged to Lupe.

Lupe, who had lived a great deal in 34 years, was given a quiet funeral, attended by a few of her oldtime, fun-loving friends.

Liberal Rebels Against Thomson Views

TERRACE BAY, Dec. 14 (CP).—Hugh M. Chesley, president of the Terrace Bay Liberal Association, said Wednesday "it is time we northern Liberals spoke out" against the timber policy of Ontario's Liberal leader, Walter Thomson.

Mr. Chesley issued a statement commenting on an address by the Liberal leader before the Welland County Liberal Association last week.

Mr. Thomson said the Conservative government had "sold out to the pulp and paper interests, a group of greedy industrialists who are plundering our forests in order to make a quick killing."

Mr. Chesley's statement said: "It is a fact that I have taken issue with Mr. Thomson's Welland speech as reported Dec. 9, especially as it pertains to American interests ravaging our forests for their greedy gain.

"I held great hopes upon Mr. Thomson's election to leadership that he would lead the Ontario Liberal party out of the wilderness. But when he preaches the doctrine of the CCF and the Communist parties, and more especially when he attacks the company which I know is doing everything humanly possible to perpetuate our forest output, and has given us a community second to none, I do believe it is time we northern Liberals spoke out.

Poor Policy

"It ill befits the leader of the great party of which we are so proud to berate a hand that feeds so many Canadians before he has gone over the ground personally."

Terrace Bay is the site of a cellulose mill of the Longlac Pulp and Paper Co. Ltd.

At Toronto, Mr. Thomson said Mr. Chesley "is out of line with the view of the labor union to which he belongs; he is out of line with the Kennedy forestry) report and he is out of line with the general prosecution of the Kennedy report."

Mr. Thomson said the Ontario Federation of Labor at a meeting in Toronto last January condemned the forestry policy of the Ontario government.

"When he (Mr. Chesley) can show me I am wrong I'll admit it," he said. "But I am only following what was said by his own union and the Kennedy report.

"I am more free of the rich interests than he is. Nobody is declaring my campaign. I am conducting it on the basis of reports."

He said Mr. Chesley is living in a house owned by the company that employs him, and he "couldn't very well speak out against it.

Hunting Ruling Annoys Germans

By ROBERT PETTY

FRANKFURT (Reuters).—The Western occupying powers are restoring many rights to Germany—but not in the fields of hunting and fishing.

There the Germans are still strongly reminded that they lost the war, and they do not like it.

The American High Commission recently circulated new regulations signed by High Commissioner John McCloy, himself a keen shot and angler. These began by stating flatly: "Any person within the category of occupation personnel may hunt and fish on any land and waters in the American zone without regard to ownership, lease, or other property rights in respect of the land, waters, animals, birds or fish."

Do As They Please

Such sportsmen, when duly licensed by the Americans, may hunt or fish as they please provided that they do not shoot within about 500 yards of any building controlled by the American administration or within half a mile of the zonal boundary; do not trap; confine themselves to hand-operated rifles or shot guns "excluding full-jacketed, armor-piercing and tracer ammunition"; and do not take fish "by using any explosive, net, snare or poison or by means of any electric device."

The last two conditions revive memories of German protests soon after the war that troops employed fair means and foul when hunting and fishing.

Parties Watched

When a huntilng party is arranged, the local German official must provide a guide. The guide himself may not shoot unless it is to kill a wounded animal or bird and prevent its escape. These hunters, when on private land, may keep half of the bag.

Non-occupational personnel, mainly meaning other foreigners in Germany and excluding the Germans themselves, are allotted 20 per cent of the hunting quota on publicly owned land and 60 per cent on private land. These people must apply for a permit 15 days ahead, but must cancel their trip if occupation personnel want to hunt in the same area at the same time.

Up To Visitors

So the large German landowner, Baron von So-and-So, cannot even shoot his own game or catch his own fish unless visitors on his land invite him to join their party. They often do.

Life is a little easier for the baron's brother in the British zone. There, occupation personnel are restricted to shooting and fishing in 40 per cent of suitable land and the Germans may use the other 60 per cent if they do not infringe Allied security laws defining possession of arms. The British pay compensation for this requisitioning. But it comes out of occupation costs, paid by the West German Government.

In the Soviet zone, occupational personnel are supposed under East German law to apply for hunting and fishing licences, but officials say that "they never do this." A Fisheries Ministry official said the Russians seemed amused at the idea that anybody might ever seek German authority.

Drop In Immigrants In 1950 Worrying Government Officials

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, Dec. 14 (CP) — While Canada's population nears the 14,000,000 mark towards the end of 1950, immigration authorities are deeply concerned about the decline in the flow of immigrants from Europe.

The number from the United Kingdom declined 46 per cent in the first nine months of 1950—the last period for which figures were available. The number of emigrants from all countries during the period dropped 28 per cent.

The decreases led the government to ease immigration restrictions, to subsidize the air passage of emigrants from Europe and to send top officials from the immigration department to Europe to study what could be done to increase the movement of new citizens to this country.

Immigration Minister Harris announced early in December that through arrangements with the government-operated Trans-Canada Air Lines, prospective emigrants from Europe could book an air passage from the United Kingdom to Canada at a cost to themselves of not more than $160—the equivalent of a tourist-class passage by sea.

The regular air fare from Britain to Montreal is $383.25. Under the new plan the government will reimburse TCA to make up the difference on all bookings.

Mr. Harris said it was hoped the move would stimulate immigration. It had been taken in view of the scarcity of North Atlantic shipping, a factor which had prevented many prospective immigrants coming to Canada.

Study Ship Fares

At the same time, the department canvassed shipping companies on the possibility of getting immigrants lower passage rates during the winter months. In previous years the movement of immigrants during the winter months was small. But because of the increased demand for workers in Canada, the government decided to try to keep the movement rolling during the winter months.

In September, the government lifted an 11-year-old immigration ban against German Nationals. From 1939 the German Nationals were considered enemy aliens and were barred under immigration regulations.

On lifting the ban, Mr. Harris said care would be taken to see that Nazi party members and Communists are kept out of Canada. He could not estimate how many Germans might come to Canada as a result of the government's action.

Late in the year, Mr. Harris sent his director of immigration, C. E. S. Smith, to Europe to see what could be done to interest more Europeans to move to this country. The report on his trip was not made public.

The need for more immigrations was underlined in November when Premier Frost of Ontario announced that his province planned to bring in 17,400 skilled workers. They are needed on hydro projects, in mines and for other work.

In the nine months ended Sept. 30 there were 9,804 who emigrated from the United Kingdom to Canada. This compared with 18,285 in the corresponding period of 1949.

The number coming from all countries was 54,250 compared with 76,149 in the first nine months of 1949. Of the total 22,210 were adult males, 17,808 adult females and 14,232 were children under 18.

The immigrants and the new births pushed the population up to 13,921,000 at Sept. 1. It is expected to pass the 14,000,000 mark before the end of the year. The September figure represented a population increase of 285,000 in a 12-month period.

Ontario Sends Message To King On Birthday

TORONTO, Dec. 14 — (CP).— Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson sent the following message to the King on his 55th birthday today:

"Will Your Majesty please accept from the people of Ontario their most sincere greetings for the happiest of birthdays and their assurances of continued loyalty from this province to the Crown and to the Motherland. May the happiness of your birthday be enhanced by good news of progress in the establishment of world peace."

Cheap Atom Power Is Dream Of Canadian Scientists For Travel And Other Projects

By DOUGLAS HOW

CHALK RIVER, Dec. 14 (CP)— Some scientists here say Canada is one reactor away from a start on production of atomic power, the key to revolutionary industrial, transportation and other developments.

Some simply say five or 10 years may see the practical beginning of it and let it go at that. They think it may be a century before the world sees anything like nuclear or atomic furances in the average home.

The scientists at this atomic project explain that Canada could actually have atomic power now but it would be so expensive it would be ludicrous to try. It would be hundreds of times more expensive than existing forms of electrical power.

Canada Differs

The Americans are trying now to make use of it for submarines and other warcraft. They are willing to accept the exorbitant cost to meet a situation. Canada isn't. She's keeping on hammering at the problems that keep atomic power costly.

Atomic energy that could be turned into power is steadily being released here in the heavy water reactor of radioactive pile that pivots the whole project. But they don't know how to handle it adequately yet so it runs away into the Ottawa River in the form of hot water.

Another Reactor

In the next year or so they'll probably build another reactor here but, that, scientists say, won't be a power-producing reactor either. But it will help lick the problems barring power.

The reactor after that, some scientists feel, should be a power-producer. It wouldn't mean that power would be available for the public on a wide scale. It wouldn't necessarily mean that the cost still wouldn't be great. It would mean that the problems had been licked to the point where it was possible to consider the application of atomic power to certain situations.

One of the major barriers being tackled now is the lack of a metal or alloy that could stand the heat at which the energy must be released for power purposes that could resist the neutrons or nuclear bullets that could make it useless, and that would be physically strong enough to contain the power.

That metal is being sought on varied fronts here, in universities, in government laboratories, in big US plants. Some scientists feel it it won't be too long before it's found. When it is, one of the really tough obstacles will be past.

"MAKE OUR COUNTRY SAFE"

Self Discipline and Respect for Needs of Others Will Control Inflation . . . Says Dominion Bank President

80th Annual Meeting of Shareholders THE DOMINION BANK

Records in Assets, Loans, Deposits Reported by A. C. Ashforth, General Manager

Bank's Report Analyzed

It is my privilege to present the Eighteenth Annual Statement of the Bank. You will observe from the balance sheet now before you that total assets reached $471 millions, a new high point and an increase of $44 millions for the year.

Earnings

Reflecting the increased volume of business, profits for the year, after making full provision for all bad and doubtful debts, amounted to $2,595,761.—an increase of $364,091. Government taxes were up $65,000., while depreciation on premises was increased from $395,475. to $450,083. In addition it was considered advisable to make a special appropriation of $250,000. from profits, after taxes, to further write down Bank Premises Account.

The usual dividend of $1. per share was paid and provision made for an Extra Distribution of twenty cents per share, which will be paid on December 15th. This leaves a net of $155,678. carried forward to Profit and Loss Account for the year. From the Profit and Loss balance of $1,511,383. your Board of Directors decided to transfer $1,000,000. to Reserve Fund which now stands at $11,000,000 in relation to Paid-Up Capital of $7,000,000.

Strong Liquid Position

Cash Assets at the year-end amounted to $90 millions and were equivalent to 20.63% of the liabilities to the public. Quick, or readily realizable, assets including Government, Municipal and other high-grade bonds, together with Call loans fully secured by first-class marketable stocks and bonds, totalled $185 millions and, along with cash assets, equalled 62.77% of liabilities to the public—indicating a very healthy liquid position.

Call and Short loans in Canada at $6 millions compares with $4 millions as of 31st October, 1949. This is the result of slightly more activity and higher prices in the security markets. Call and Short loans elsewhere than in Canada amounted to $8 millions

Current Loans

Current Loans and Discounts in Canada totalled $169 millions as compared with $157 millions a year ago—an increase of $12 millions. This not only reflects a larger number of borrowing customers, but the higher general level of prices and the increased tempo of business activity. On the other hand, our loans on the security of grain were down substantially at the end of October. Early in September severe frosts over an extensive area caused considerable damage to what had every promise of being a bountiful harvest this year in Western Canada. Along with this, harvesting of the crop was delayed by unfavourable weather conditions which caused further deterioration. While it is estimated that the number of bushels of wheat grown in the Western Provinces is close to 100 millions more than the preceding year, a very large percentage of the crop is below milling standards. A favourable trend developing from this situation, however, has been the increase in the number of live stock being fed for market in Canada. By doing so, many of our farmers consider they will realize more for their low-grade grain than they would by selling it.

Deposits

Total deposits by the public at $412 millions were up $46 millions from a year ago. Of the increase, $38 millions were in non-interest bearing deposits and $8 millions in deposits bearing interest. During the past twelve months Savings deposits in Canada have not increased as rapidly as in any year since the termination of World War 2, a trend we regret to observe. Balances due to the Government of Canada decreased $8 millions. We continue to experience a very satisfactory increase in the number of customers. Many of our customers have dealt with us for periods exceeding fifty years.

New Branches

It has been, and will continue to be, our policy to expand the operations of your Bank to keep abreast of the economic development of Canada and the growth of her population. During the year, nine Branches were established:

ALBERTA, Calgary (new main office), Edmonton, Jasper Ave. and 103rd St.; BRITISH COLUMBIA, Quesnel; MANITOBA, Winnipeg, Broadway Ave. and Donald St.; NEW BRUNSWICK, Moncton; NOVA SCOTIA, Halifax; ONTARIO, London, Dundas and Dorinda Sts., Newtonbrook, Wilson Heights.

The substantial increase in our Bank Premises Account reflects heavy expenditures made in acquiring new properties and in enlarging and modernizing premises at many points where the expanding business demands it. As already mentioned, we considered it advisable to write down land values of certain of our properties by the special appropriation of $250,000.

Staff

It is my happy privilege to again offer to the Staff our tribute of praise for the efficiency and untiring energy displayed in the performance of their duties. I am very proud of our Staff and wish to express to them my grateful appreciation for the splendid service they have rendered so willingly and unstintingly.

Young men with matriculation or university standing might well consider the field of banking as a career. In these progressive days young men of initiative and talent will find that promotion will not be long delayed and their efforts will receive adequate financial recognition.

General Business

Business in Canada has continued at an exceedingly high level of activity and is experiencing a further uplift from defence spending, but the future is very unpredictable, as each day brings its new problems. When I spoke to you a year ago little did I think we would see within so short a time some of our splendid young men again actively participating in a war against aggressors. For some time the international situation has been deteriorating and the grave events now facing us have made most Canadians more and more conscious of the need of defences for our own country. The Government of Canada is committed to very substantial expenditures for this purpose. This will mean higher taxes and, in accepting this additional burden, the Canadian people are justified in expecting effective curtailment of all non-essential expenditures.

Mr. Rae, President, speaks vigorously on inflation and immigration

Canadians will recall, as the most striking events of 1950, the Communist aggression in Korea and the announcement that our dollar would be permitted, in free dealings, to discover its own true value.

We are committed to preparation for defence which may next year absorb one-fifteenth, or more, of the national income.

Our freed dollar, instead of declining, has increased in value, relative to the currencies of other countries, and is now moving within quite narrow limits.

Business has been active. Prices of the principal raw materials have been rising on world markets—in many cases, very fast. Thus the dollar shortage, world-wide for years, has been eased in many quarters.

Meeting Inflationary Trend

Unfortunately, the cost of living in Canada tends also to rise under such conditions. The vast programme of rearmament menaces all of us with further inflation during the next five or ten years. It is vital that all of us, government and citizens alike, should mobilize against this.

Our Government conceivably might borrow most of the money needed for rearmament. But it has wisely declared against this policy. I hope, therefore, we need no longer make a fetish of keeping down artificially the rate of bond interest. Ultra-cheap money never did anyone any good.

During the past five years there has been an almost continuous per capita increase in Canadian dollars, partly due to the practice of creating new credit from time to time to sustain the market for government bonds.

The long run consequences of such a practice are inflationary, and we should welcome its discontinuance.

Self-Discipline Called For

What of our own conduct, as citizens? Each of us might press for increased salaries and wages; might insist on spending for luxury needs. But this would be to bring on a second round of inflation. It would simply be "letting our own team down." My belief is that we will act otherwise.

Some Canadians call for Government controls. We know that direct control of wages and prices can postpone inflation for awhile, but that, ultimately, we cannot prevent inflation by means of these controls. We must use other means, which require of us the same self-discipline and respect for the needs of others as is asked of troops in war.

We live in a grim world. Even in Canada's vigorous economy there are limits, to the capacity for increasing production. To produce enough rockets and armour, carriers and planes, we must put up for awhile with less than we would like of the good things used in peace.

We shall make our country safe, we shall experience a minimum of shortages, if each of us during this period of crisis works harder and more efficiently than before.

Canadians fortunately, do not lack confidence in themselves. But in a vast half continent, we still are all too few for the needs of Canada. Quite apart from defence requirements, there is urgent present need, as well, to create and use new sources of energy for ordinary peace-time purposes from coal, petroleum, rivers or any source whatever.

We are in the process of doing that now in the Western oil fields, at Steep Rock Lake and in Labrador. But we still possess only four-fifths as much mechanical power in all its forms, per head of population, as is possessed by our neighbors in the United States. Until we can match, on this basis of comparison, their equipment of energy, the Canadian dream of raising our standards of living and of comfort, to the level of theirs, will not be realized.

Canada Needs More People

To realize our dreams for this Dominion—to create this equipment, and by means of it, achieve better living standards—we need more and more people.

In other lands there are millions of good and energetic folk, disillusioned by the recent course of events in their own countries, eager to start life again elsewhere, enthusiastic at the mere thought that they might be permitted entry to this Dominion; the thought that they might in course of time—and upon proof of merit—become citizens of Canada. These are potential immigrants. We need the best of them—and in substantial numbers.

In order to secure the net increase per annum in our immigrant population that we did during the decade of our most rapid growth (1901 to 1911) we should in all probability need now to receive something like two hundred and fifty thousand persons from abroad per annum. But our annual average during recent years was less than one hundred thousand—and, the stream is diminishing.

There is a sharp contrast between our Canadian experience of immigration, and Australia's, during the same years.

In 1948, Australia received slightly fewer than forty-nine thousand immigrants. But in 1949, she received one hundred and forty-nine thousand.

It is estimated that during 1950 Australia will have received no less than two hundred thousand immigrants.

There is no doubt in my mind that Australia's eagerness to receive immigrants, and success in attracting them, will in the long run greatly benefit out sister Nation.

Our own country's population is nearly twice that of Australia. Proportionately therefore, our own intake of newcomers from abroad still is quite small.

Two principal objections have been raised in Canada against the proposal that we should follow the same bold course as Australia. These are: first, the coming of large numbers of immigrants into Canada might deprive Canadians of jobs; second, it would intensify the present shortage of housing.

Perhaps five years ago these might have been good grounds for caution. Not so to-day, when our most urgent problems are due to the shortage of manpower.

Strength for Tomorrow

From the standpoint of the Canadian people—all the fourteen millions of us—there are not enough of us to do the work that needs to be done. We lack sufficient skills of all kinds. There will be more jobs for Canadians everywhere when, in the key spots of industry, the key skills are made more plentiful.

If, during this crisis in the life of mankind, we can manage to bring over new Canadians on twice or three times the present scale, we shall be strengthening ourselves to do to-morrow's tasks; and by sharing our abundance with others, formerly less fortunate than ourselves, we shall be practising the Golden Rule.

Shaw's Tribute To Village Being Published

By SYDNEY MIRKIN.

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP). — George Bernard Shaw's tribute to the country village he loved as a home was published Wednesday.

"Bernard Shaw's rhyming picture guide to Ayott St. Lawrence" provides a pictorial tour of the tiny hamlet, with verse descriptions by the old playwright who died there six weeks ago.

Although he dealt gently and lovingly with the village and its simple folk, Shaw took the opportunity to twit historic figures, pretentiousness and other familiar targets of his Irish wit.

The book is illustrated with 59 snapshots taken by Shaw himself last summer. He wrote the rhymes shortly before his last illness. The thin, paper-backed booklet is Shaw's last completed work. It will sell for one shilling.

"Now let me take you for a walk
"And shew you with a rhyming talk
"What our dear village has to shew
"And tell you all you need to know."

Shaw's starting point was the gate of his house, and then:

"A cottage next displays no good work
"Daubed as it is with bogus woodwork."

A stark contrast was his treatment of the abbey church, which he and his tourists "with delight behold," and a Grecian-type church with which a 17th-century Lord of the Manor replaced it.

Shaw mourned that the demolition of the Abbey had not been stopped "until the desecration was patent to all observation."

The aged bard managed to get in gibes at the private life of Henry VIII, using the house of the king's widow, Catherine Parr as a starting point.

"Wise Catherine herself contrived
"To wed the five-times-widowed Harry;
"Yet kept her head on and survived
"The bluebeard she had dared to marry."

Returning to his home and garden, Shaw says:

"This is my dell and this my dwelling
"Their charm so far beyond my telling
"That though in Ireland is my birthplace
"This home shall be my final earthplace."

Red-Controlled Tax-Free Firms Hamper Austrian Government

VIENNA, Nov. (Reuters)—Tax-free Russian-controlled enterprises seized from Austria on the claim that they are "former German assets" are hamstringing the Austrian economy.

Known as "Usia," these enterprises are part of the normal Austrian economy; yet they pay only such taxes as they choose and often refuse to pay even such charges as freight on the state railways.

They are manned by Austrian workers. They use either Austrian raw materials imported under the Marshall plan or paid for by ill-spared dollars; they use Austrian-produced electric power and fuels from the country's scanty stocks.

These "Usia" concerns number about 285 and vary from a one-man cafe on the Danube bathing beach to heavy industry factories employing many thousands of workers. They have been variously described by Austrian economists as "a cancer on the body of economic Austria," "a spanner which the Russians have thrust into the wheels of Austrian industry," and "a vacuum cleaner with which the Russians are sucking immense profits from Austria."

These are in fact merely three aspects of the ways in which the "Usia" organization harms Austrian economy.

Biggest Slice

Through "Usia," Soviet Russia has become the greatest industrial and commercial concern in Austria—except for the state itself.

The Russians have extended the principle that the Austrian people must pay the costs of "occupation" to mean that many of the costs of their industrial and commercial enterprises, which normally would have to be paid by those concerns themselves, must also be borne by the Austrian people.

The cancer-like activities of Usia take away the substance which would maintain Austrian economic development. Usia retail stores, for instance, sell foodstuffs, consumer goods and above all drinks and tobacco at much lower prices than Austrian shops can possibly afford to do. They can do it—and still make a very good profit—because they pay no licence tax, no turnover tax, no income tax, no import duties on goods which they bring in from Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria.

The vacuum cleaner angle is typified by purchases by Usia concerns, at prices above those set by the Austrian government, of which, rye and other grain.
